Fuel assistance program faces shortfall this winter

Hallock - "Kathy Johnson, director of Kittson County Social Services, told Kittson County commissioners at their meeting Dec. 18 that the Kittson County Fuel Assistance Program could experience a shortfall this winter."

"It's a statewide problem attributed to extremely high fuel costs, high gas prices to get to work, raises not keeping pace with the increases in health care premiums, among many other staples at higher prices due to transportation costs. To make matters worse, the federal guidelines for poverty have gone up. The guidelines presented for the Fuel Assistance Program for this year are lower than last year. An almost 200 percent increase in fuel costs, and lower guidelines that qualify less families, lower the dollar awards. Of course, a fairly cold start to this winter just compounds the problem."

"Northwest Community Action Director Randy Nordin said that he expects the 2008 funding to be expended by this month." - Kittson County Enterprise, Jan. 2, 2008, by Louise Money

Local donors help kids one shoebox at a time

Grygla - "Grace Lutheran Sunday School and Women and Liberty Chapel of Grygla were part of 11 Marshall County groups that packed 484 shoeboxes in the 2007 Operation Christmas Child shoebox campaign. Combined with 14 others that were dropped off by individuals, it made a grand total of 498 shoeboxes from Marshall County alone.

"After processing in Minneapolis, the shoeboxes were sent to orphaned and needy children in the Ukraine, Abkhazia, Georgia, Kazakhstan, Macedonia, China, Albania, Estonia, Latvia and Mongolia. The shoeboxes were filled with toys, small 'climate-neutral' clothing items, toiletries, candy, school supplies and 'whatever tickles a child.'

"Other organizations packing shoeboxes in Marshall County were the New Hope Church, Alvarado; Bethesda Lutheran Church, Middle River; Teien Covenant Church, Stephen; St. Joseph's Catholic Church and Zion Lutheran Church, both of Oslo; First Lutheran Church Women, Warren Junior Auxiliary and Evangelical Covenant Church, all of Warren; and the Newfolden Evangelical Free Church." - The Grygla Eagle, Jan. 2, 2008

Their Christmas gifts arrived a day early

Roseau - "At LifeCare Medical Center in Roseau on Christmas Day, Elizabeth Gross, 38, smiled as she talked about the birth of her sixth baby on the day before Christmas."

"Troy Emmanuel Gross, born at 6:17 a.m. on Christmas Eve, came into this world weighing 8 pounds, 9-1/2 ounces."

"Over in room 25, first-time mother Kristi Thompson, 29, Warroad, was being doted on by first-time father Ben Ullman, an extraordinary outdoorsman who knew a good find when he found one."

"Evi Marie Ullman, whose delivery required a C-section, was born at 11:38 a.m. on Christmas Eve." - Roseau Times-Region, Dec. 29, 2007, by Jeff Olsen

Blended Pumps installed in TRF

Farmer's Union Cenex in Thief River Falls, located at Third and Atlantic in downtown Thief River Falls, has installed blended pumps, which offer ethanol-blended fuels higher than E-10. It is the fourth station in Minnesota and the first station north of Interstate 94 to install a blended fuel pump. The pumps offer consumers the option of selecting E-20, E-30 or E-85. 1,500 herds test negative for bovine TB

The Board of Animal Health announced Wednesday that 1,500 Minnesota cattle herds have tested negative for bovine tuberculosis as part of the statewide bovine TB surveillance. This completes the testing campaign aimed at locating and eliminating any infection that might remain in the state and bringing Minnesota closer to regaining TB-free status.

"The successful completion of this testing campaign is a direct result of the tireless efforts of Minnesota's cattle producers and veterinarians," said Minnesota Board of Animal Health Senior Veterinarian Dr. Linda Glaser. "For producers, completing a TB herd test is a complicated and time consuming task, but 1,500 producers rose to the occasion. These individuals went above and beyond for their industry and we thank them for that."

The statewide surveillance, which began in September 2006, is part of a comprehensive plan authored by the board with state and federal partners to eliminate bovine TB from Minnesota's livestock and wildlife populations. In addition to the 1,500 statewide surveillance herds, 326 herds have been tested as part of the state's disease investigation and area testing efforts. Testing continues in northwestern Minnesota where the disease has been found.

More information on bovine TB in Minnesota and the testing campaign can be found at www.bah.state.mn.us by clicking Bovine Tuberculosis under the Hot Topics menu or by calling the Minnesota TB Hotline at 1-877-MN TB FREE (668-2373).

Hunters harvest deer in TB zone

Hunters harvested 48 deer during the first weekend of a special hunt in northwestern Minnesota that aims to reduce deer density and stop the potential spread of bovine tuberculosis (TB), according to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

The hunt began Dec. 29 and continues through Jan. 13 in Permit Area 101, which is considered the bovine TB zone in far northwestern Minnesota. It is open to hunters who have a valid, unused permit to harvest deer regardless of the zone in which a hunter was licensed.

"The hunt has gone very smoothly so far," said Lou Cornicelli, DNR big game program coordinator. "Hunters have two more weekends to take advantage of this opportunity."

To date, four deer harvested in the TB zone during the regular firearms season in November have tested presumptive positive for bovine TB. Three tested positive prior to the DNR's Dec. 5 announcement of the late-season hunt. Since then, lab results have indicated that an additional deer taken during the regular firearms season has tested positive.

"Finding one additional deer with the disease is a concern," said Michael DonCarlos, DNR wildlife research and policy manager. "But the prevalence of the disease remains low and is confined to a small geographic region." All four of the infected deer from the fall

Cenex Station in TRF offers blended fuels

by David Hill
Editor

Minnesotans are familiar with gasoline blended with 10 percent ethanol. Since 1997, the state has required a 10 percent ethanol blend with all unleaded fuel. Minnesotans are also familiar with, and a little less accepting of E85, which is a 15 percent blend of unleaded gasoline and 85 percent ethanol; but, a new jargon has entered our vocabulary at the pumps - blended pumps.

At blended pumps, gasoline sold through metered pumps is blended with ethanol and where consumers can get various percentages of ethanol-blended fuel. The Farmer's Union Oil Cenex Station at Third Street and Atlantic Avenue in Thief River Falls is the first station north of Interstate 94, and the fourth station in Minnesota to provide consumers a blended pump. A blended pump allows consumers to choose from E10, E20, E30 and E85 fuel.

Scott Bergland, station manager, said they've only had the blended fuel pumps working for a few weeks. During the first week the station began offering blended fuel, the response was rather cautious - it was about 10 percent of their business. As word of mouth spread, business increased. It's now pushing 50 percent of their business, he said.

Why

Bergland said the co-op was in the process of replacing its fuel pumps when a supplier asked if the co-op was interested in purchasing a blended fuel pump. Bergland said the board of directors at Cenex had talked about it before. In addition, he said, Corporate Cenex has been pushing it.

Estimates put the cost of a standard fuel pump at $13,000. Installing a pump that can blend fuels costs an additional $4,200.

To Bergland, the biggest benefit of using ethanol-blended fuel is that it helps the farmer and weans us (the country) from foreign oil." It probably isn't the answer, he added, but it helps.

At the pump

Consumers will see some financial benefits of using higher ethanol blends of fuel. As of Wednesday, Dec. 26, fuel costs at the pump were: $2.899 per gallon for E10; $2.839 per gallon for E20, $2.779 for E30; and $2.359 for E85. *(Prices may have changed since this story was written.)

Ethanol

E10 (also called "gasohol"), is a blend of 10 percent ethanol and 90 percent gasoline. According to the U.S. Department of Energy, all auto manufacturers approve the use of blends of 10 percent ethanol or less in their gasoline vehicles. According to the DOE, auto manufacturers, however, suggest vehicle owners consult their owner's manual or check the inside of their automobile's fuel filler door for an identification sticker that indicates whether it can run on E85.

Ethanol blended fuel has been controversial. Critics argue that

Fire departments awarded funds

The U.S. Department of Homeland Security has announced the award of $33.7 million to fund equipment and training for first responders across the nation as a part of the fiscal year 2007 Commercial Equipment Direct Assistance Program. The Karlstad Volunteer Fire Department has been awarded $21,000 for a PEAC Incident Command Kit, and the Roseau Volunteer Fire Department has been awarded $24,175 for a Wolf Pack Remote Viewing System.

"Local police and emergency personnel are the first on the scene of any incident, and often the cause is not immediately known," said Homeland Security Secretary Michael Chertoff. "This direct funding equips first responders with technology and training to complement local resources, and helps communities develop tools and capabilities that they may not otherwise be able to afford."

Eligibility for CEDAP is limited to law enforcement and other emergency responder agencies with specific financial and capability needs in five categories: personal protective equipment; thermal imaging, night vision and video surveillance tools; chemical and biological detection tools; information technology and risk management tools; and interoperable communications equipment.

CEDAP equipment awards are integrated with state planning processes for regional response and asset distribution. Each state's administrative agency has the opportunity to review applications submitted by first responder organizations within their state to ensure that equipment requests are consistent with their state homeland security strategy.

Since the program's inception in 2005, DHS has provided roughly 5,800 direct assistance awards worth more than $103 million for all hazards in smaller jurisdictions nationwide.

Blood drives save lives

Warroad woman's story is proof that blood drives save lives

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Tammy Peterson may have saved her own life, before it was even threatened. Her blood type is O-positive and as a universal blood donor, she donated often.

On Nov. 11, 2005, Peterson nearly lost her life, when her ex-boyfriend Terry John Weinard chased her to a neighbor's house and shot her 11 times. She received five blood transfusions over the course of that night, as she was airlifted to Fargo, N.D.

Blood transfusions kept Peterson alive until life-saving surgery could be performed. For Terri Olson, Peterson's sister, the thought of donating blood began to take on a different meaning.

"The thing that really hit me was I had never donated before," Olson said. "After her ordeal, it was like 'there's no more excuses.' People don't know how important it is. You never know when you are going to need blood yourself, or when someone you love very much will need it."

For the past two years, Olson has been a regular blood donor. She has also helped to organize the Thief River Falls Women of Today's annual blood drive.

This year's blood drive will be Jan. 16 and 17 at the Armory in Thief River Falls. It will benefit the United Blood Services' blood supply, and all blood collected will be banked in Fargo and used in eastern North Dakota and northwest Minnesota.

Peterson has received more than 20 blood transfusions since being shot 11 times on Nov. 11, 2005. Had it not been for the generosity of others like herself, Peterson would have died.

"If they didn't have blood to give, I wouldn't be here," Peterson said. "I would have been gone."

After being shot, Peterson was lying on her neighbor's doorstep. An ambulance was called and she was taken to the LifeCare Medical Center in Roseau (then known as Roseau Area Hospital), before being

Minnesota traffic deaths top 500 in 2007

Preliminary traffic death figures for 2007 reflect the first increase in fatalities since 2002, according to the Minnesota Department of Public Safety Office of Traffic Safety. The 2007 preliminary death total is 503, compared to the 2006 preliminary count of 475 and the final 2006 total of 494 – the lowest death total since 1945. The 2007 death count will rise as the state receives more fatal reports.

The preliminary 2007 total reflects vehicle occupants (396), motorcyclist (57), pedestrians (31), snowmobilers (five), farm tractor occupants (four), bicyclist (three), motor scooter/moped operators (three), all-terrain vehicle operators (two) and school passenger van occupants (two). The count includes 12 of the 13 Interstate 35W bridge collapse victims and six motorists killed on roads during the southeastern floods. Specific crash data regarding alcohol-related deaths and seat belt use will be reported later this year.

Distraction, impaired driving, speeding and not wearing seat belts are expected to be primary contributing factors of the 2007 fatal crashes, according to Cheri Marti, OTS director. Marti said many crash victims will be young motorists. "Young males are most likely to engage in unsafe driving behaviors, and as a result, they are most often killed," she said. "Every motorist has a role in preventing traffic deaths by being responsible for their behavior behind the wheel."

Several statewide enforcement efforts in 2007 yielded dramatic results. Seat belt enforcement campaigns in May and October resulted in more than 13,800 seat belt citations. A statewide July enforcement campaign against speeding generated 34,000 speed citations. A three-week August enforcement campaign against driving-while-intoxicated resulted in 2,247 DWI arrests. NightCAP (Concentrated Alcohol Patrol), which targets the 13 deadliest counties for impaired driving, netted more than 2,500 DWIs. A statewide, yearlong speed patrol campaign resulted in an anticipated 16,000 speed citations.

Minnesota's seat belt use rate increased from 83 percent to a record-high 87 percent in 2007. Researchers suspect the increase may have been influenced by media coverage of the I-35W bridge collapse in which survivors credited seat belts for saving their lives.

The state's traffic safety efforts are anchored by the Toward Zero Deaths program. TZD combines the resources of state and local agencies, county engineers and community organizations to address traffic safety issues through enforcement, engineering, education and emergency trauma care. TZD's goal is 400 or fewer fatalities by 2010.

Lazy winter days are setting in. Do you have time for a leisurely brunch this weekend?

I love this sandwich ring. Somebody always brings one or two to our potlucks at work and it is delicious. You might not think it could be, but it is good hot or cold, too:

BROCCOLI HAM RING

6 slices of bacon or 1/2 cup cooked ham, diced
2 tubes (8 ounces each) refrigerated crescent roll dough
1/2 cup chive and onion cream cheese spread (from 8 ounce container)
2 cups frozen broccoli florets, thawed, patted dry and chopped finely or 2 1/4 cups chopped fresh broccoli
1/3 cup diced red or green (or both) bell pepper
1/4 cup minced fresh parsley
2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 egg, beaten

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Cook bacon just until crisp and drain. Crumble and set aside. Or, in the alternative, dice ham and set aside.

Unroll both cans of dough and separate into triangles. On large cookie sheet, arrange triangles with short sides toward center, overlapping into wreath shape and leaving a 5 inch round circle open in center. Dough points may overlap edge of cookie sheet because they will be turned over filling. Gently press overlapping dough to form a 4 inch center circle, and just leave points out.

Spread cream cheese spread on dough to within 1 inch of points. In small bowl, mix bacon or ham, broccoli, bell pepper, parsley, mustard and lemon juice. Spoon onto widest part of dough. Pull end points of triangles over mixture and tuck under into the center to form a ring. The filling will show through the points that have been turned in. Brush dough with beaten egg.

Bake 25 to 30 minutes until deep golden brown. Cool 5 minutes. With broad spatula, carefully loosen wreath from cookie sheet and place on serving platter. Garnish with parsley and tomatoes as desired. Serve warm and store leftovers in fridge.

If you have some of that fresh broccoli left over and other goodies from the post-Christmas wreath, here's how to use it:

CHRISTMAS CRUNCH SALAD

4 cups fresh broccoli
4 cups fresh cauliflower
1 medium red onion, chopped
2 cups cherry tomatoes, halved
Dressing:
1 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup sour cream
1 to 2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar
Salt and pepper to taste

In large salad bowl, combine vegetables. Whisk dressing ingredients and pour over vegetables and toss. Cover and chill at least 2 hours. Serves 16-18 people.

Here's another dish I love. This one has all of my favorites in it:

FARMER STRATA

1 pound sliced bacon, cut into 1/2 inch pieces
2 cups chopped ham
1 small onion, chopped
10 slices white bread, cubed
1 cup cubed cooked potatoes
3 cups shredded Cheddar cheese
8 eggs
3 cups milk
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon dry mustard
Pinch salt and pepper

In skillet, cook bacon until crisp. Add ham and onion and cook and stir until onion is tender. Drain.

In greased 9x13 inch pan, layer half of the bread cubes, potatoes and cheese. Top with all of bacon mixture. Repeat layers of bread, potatoes and cheese.

In bowl, beat eggs. Add milk, Worcestershire, mustard, salt and pepper. Pour over all.

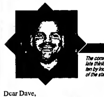
Cover and chill overnight. Remove from fridge 30 minutes before baking. Bake, uncovered, at 325 degrees for 65 to 70 minutes or until a knife inserted near center comes out clean. Serves 12-16 people.

I think this fresh relish would be wonderful with the strata dish. And it will keep Christmas near to you a little longer. It is just a fresh, tasty complement to whatever dish you have. Double or triple the recipe for a bunch:

TANGY CRANBERRY RELISH

2 cups fresh or frozen cranberries
1 medium orange, peeled
1/4 cup sugar

In blender or food processor, process all ingredients until coarsely chopped. Cover and chill 30 minutes until serving.



Rural Reflections

Grant Nelson

The comments published in this column are intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. They are written by independent columnists and do not represent the opinion of the staff or management of The Times/Northern Watch.

Dear Dave,

I needed a little inspiration for this month's letter, so I took a look at the calendar you and Mary made for our family this Christmas. The calendar is very professionally made and brought back a lot of good memories. The pictures of our parents, pictures from our weddings and family gatherings made me feel sentimental until I saw THE picture that snapped me back into reality. The picture was of all four brothers gathered around our sister at a time when long hair and beards were popular. Apparently, mugging for the camera also is as timeless as southern rock 'n' roll bands, which is exactly what we looked like. Honestly, it was a great picture, and it brought back memories, but I wouldn't want anything to do with that bunch in a dark alley.

Speaking of Christmas gifts, I think we came up with a good one for the parents. Most of us kids like to e-mail letters and pictures to one another, but Mom and Dad neither own nor desire a computer, so they're left out. This year, we gave them a Presto (www.presto.com) message center. This little machine looks like a simple printer, but it uses their regular phone line to call into a message center to download e-mail messages from a select group of family and friends. It then prints out the messages for them to read. I hope this catches on with people, or maybe even works its way into the retirement homes. I asked our sister, (sweet, insane) Deb, to exercise a little control over the voracity of her e-mails, as they are the sort of multi-media, multi-paragraph epics that challenge even the most stout printer cartridge.

Last time I was out to visit you in Carrington, N.D., I remembered seeing lots of pheasants along the highway. Next time you visit, I want to introduce you to the group of wild turkeys that live in our neighborhood. They spend most of their time scratching out in the field, but they will occasionally take a run through our yard. Last fall, I pondered why they were moving through the woods with such speed and purpose until our cat, Twitch, came into the picture. He thought he was stalking a banquet when in reality he had chosen a poor battle in which to engage. Fortunately, turkeys don't look into mirrors any more often than cats do, and in this case, both hunter and prey believed they were as such.

I wrote this letter on Wednesday evening. Tonight, I will have to go to bed early, as I plan to leave early Thursday for a trip to Sisseton, S.D. I need to simplify my life a bit, so I sold a couple of extra John Deere snowmobiles two weeks ago. I promised to deliver them before either my better judgment or Lisa could intervene; after this task is completed, I will then pick up a Cushman Truckster in Lisbon, N.D., on the way home. The Truckster is very similar to the cart that Velma Taggart, our parking ticket officer, drives around town. I don't know how exchanging two old sleds for one old, glorified golf cart makes life more simple, but maybe I just needed a little adventure. I'll comfort myself with that thought when I'm drinking coffee at the truck stop in Fargo, N.D., instead of peacefully sleeping in my own bed.

Two people injured after accident Dec. 28

Two people suffered injuries after a three-vehicle accident about one-fourth of a mile east of Roseau on Dec. 28.

Dwayne G. Meier, 51, Champlin, suffered cuts from glass. He also suffered bruises and a sore neck, according to the Minnesota State Patrol report. Another driver, Erick J. Wojciechowski, 30, Warroad, was treated and released from LifeCare Medical Center in Roseau. A third driver, Nicole J. Grad, 35, Warroad, wasn't injured in the crash.

At the time of the accident, Wojciechowski was driving a 1997 Ford pickup truck eastbound on Highway 11. According to the report, a tire became flat on his pickup truck. Wojciechowski then lost control of the vehicle, striking a westbound 2003 Chevy Impala driven by Meier and a westbound 1996 Buick Regal driven by Grad. It was unknown whether Wojciechowski was wearing a seat belt. Both Meier and Grad were wearing seat belts. All three vehicles sustained severe damage.

The State Patrol was dispatched to the scene at 12:50 p.m. Dec. 28. The Greenbush Police Department, Roseau County Sheriff's Office and Roseau Police Department assisted.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Opinions in items from other publications may not coincide with the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

Broaden discussions about regional airport

Thief River Falls is expected to approve its master plan for the Thief River Falls Regional Airport. The plan proposes a 20-year time frame of potential development at the airport. If all of the projects for a 10-year period are approved, it could cost in the neighborhood of almost $34 million, most of which would come from the federal government. The airport is an important asset to Thief River Falls and northwest Minnesota. It has great potential for supporting and improving business opportunities in the region and community.

The plan includes many things, including a desire, but not a clear plan to promote passenger service at the airport. Thief River Falls has been struggling with that issue for many years. Current yearly estimates place the number of passengers using the airport at about 4,000. Thief River Falls would stand to benefit if the number of passengers using the service in Thief River Falls increased to between 6,000 and 10,000. At one time, the actual number was 10,000 and even higher. Opinions vary on what would encourage passengers to fly out of Thief River Falls, but results from at least two airports - Fargo, N.D., and Rapid City, S.D. - indicate that passenger use increases with more service opportunities.

Another issue that fails to be mentioned is the future of the Northland Community and Technical College aviation program and its campus. We suspect discussions between individual members of the city council and staff have taken place, but nothing has been said publicully. We find that curious in light of a recent announcement that the economic impact of the college on the community is over $30 million. One would hope that if a business in our community had that kind of impact our local leaders would be interested in finding a way for that business to continue, if not thrive in our community. At the very least, the city should begin open discussions with the college about the aviation program, and the use and future of the campus facility itself.

Heating homes gets more expensive

According to the Energy Information Administration, the average household in the United States can expect their heating bills to increase by 10 percent this winter. While that's a significant percentage increase, for most homes, that 10 percent bump equates to roughly $88 over the course of the winter season, which is designated as Oct. 1 through March 31 by the EIA. The people most negatively affected by the increase will be those who use heating oil. On average, about one out of every three homes in the Northeast use heating oil. Those homeowners can expect to see their heating bill increase by 22 percent this winter. Throughout the south, many homes are heated through electricity. Such homes can expect a mild increase of 4 percent this winter, or about $32 over the course of the season. While fuel costs play a role in the increase, the weather is playing a role in the estimates, as well. The National Oceanic Atmospheric Administration predicts this winter will be 4 percent colder than last year.

o the Editor:

The Thief River Falls Public Schools Activities Department wishes to thank the following people for assisting with another successful boys' basketball Northwest Russ Smith Holiday Classic:

- Tournament sponsors Doug and Pam Dallmann and Universal Screenprint;
- The Thief River Falls Backcourt Club and all the parents and volunteers who staffed the concession stand, provided supervision, and assisted with ticket taking;
- Ticket sellers Marcy Helling, Julie Peterson, Gerry Stocks and Brian Peterson;
- Official scorers Don Balmer, Sonia Balmer, Kyle Trontvet and Justin Skjerven; timers Joel Waterworth and Corey Thorson; and public address announcers Art Welter and Terry BlackLance;
- The referees from Thief River Falls, Ada, Kennedy and Manvel, N.D., for their work over the course of the tournament each year;
- The maintenance staff at Lincoln High School for keeping the facility clean;
- Activities secretary Audrey Beito, for her work before, during and after the tournament;
- Mike Lundgren of the Thief River Falls Times, and Jon Praska, Mark Allen, Bob Hultgren and Wayne Rahlf of Thief River Falls Radio Sports, for their complete coverage of the tournament, year-in and year-out;
- The coaches, players and support staff of the eight participating teams, for their dedication to students, activities, fair play and good sportsmanship; and
- The fans from each community, who support their teams with enthusiasm and keep the tournament atmosphere exciting.

During this 25th tournament, we also express our appreciation for Russ Smith, former Thief River Falls activities director, and the activities department staff in 1983 for starting this tournament. Without their initial work and dedication to student activities and Thief River Falls Public Schools, this tournament would never have had the successful 25-year run it has had.

Thank you for all your support of the Russ Smith Classic this year. We wish you all a very Happy New Year and look forward to seeing you at the 26th annual Northwest Russ Smith Holiday Classic.

Sincerely,
Mike Biermaier

To the Editor:

Ever wonder why, in all your travels, you seldom notice a Minnesota State Patrol trooper on the highways? Essentially, Minnesota state legislators have not allowed the Minnesota State Patrol to expand and grow as the population in Minnesota has grown.

The number of licensed drivers and registered vehicles within our state has grown by "leaps and bounds" over the past years, while the safety of traveling motorists has become increasingly reduced during that same time frame by the inability of the State Patrol to gain enough personnel to respond to the need. The present complement of personnel is about 550, which includes the truck enforcement division, flight division, legislative security and governor's security personnel, district investigators, training division and administration. Many of these special assignments, over the years, have been dictated by legislative action, yet the voids for patrol and enforcement on our highways were not adequately filled.

Recently, I noticed the State Patrol's biannual budget does not allow for a recruit training class during the upcoming year. It takes nearly one year of training to put an officer on the highways, yet retirements are occurring within the ranks.

During my tenure on the State Patrol, I recall many years of the legislators beginning to assist in increasing the ability of troopers to better serve the traveling public by increasing the allowable complement of troopers. Usually, the response was the addition of a few troopers, most often, none. After deducting the specialty assignments, there would be, I would guess, less than 400 troopers to actually patrol the state's 12,000 miles of highway. If one divides these 400 troopers into the 12,000 miles of highway, and then factors in the number of shifts needed to patrol, it is no wonder one seldom notices a State Patrol trooper on our highways, especially in rural areas.

Patrolling troopers do much more than write tickets, just ask those who have been stranded on a rural highway or have been assisted in times of emergencies. The Minnesota State Patrol has far more contacts with the traveling public during times of assistance than with enforcement action.

In 1970, 38 years ago, the State Patrol had, by legislative allotment, 504 personnel. It took until 1982 to reach a complement of only 511. It took 12 years to gain approval of an additional seven employees.

I would think that the fees traveling motorists are required to pay through vehicle registrations and gas taxes would ensure that our legislators showed a little more concern for the safety of citizens who use our highways. Let's hope, during this upcoming legislative session, that legislators show more concern. As I recall, the ratio of State Patrol troopers to licensed drivers/registered vehicles is the 48th lowest in the 50 states.

Minnesota's employers add 6,900 jobs in November

Minnesota's employers added 6,900 jobs in November, according to figures released Dec. 18 by the Minnesota Department of Employment and Economic Development. The state unemployment rate fell to 4.4 percent, placing it three-tenths of a point below the national unemployment rate of 4.7 percent.

"We welcome this improvement after some job weakness and are encouraged by these data," said DEED Commissioner Dan McElroy. "The gap between the state and the national unemployment rates is the largest we've seen this year."

Over the year, employers have added 2,566 jobs in Minnesota, which reflects an upward revision of October's jobs by 400. The Minnesota job growth rate is 0.1 percent compared to the national rate of 1 percent.

Construction (up 1,900 jobs) and Professional and Business Services (up 1,800) realized the largest monthly gains in November, followed by Leisure and Hospitality (up 1,600) and Trade, Transportation and Utilities (up 1,500). Financial Activities held steady during the month. Minnesota outpaces the nation in over-the-year job gains in Education and Health Services and Financial Activities.

Declines in November occurred in four of 11 broad industry groups. Manufacturing experienced the greatest decline (down 500 jobs) followed by Government and Other Services (each down 300) and Natural Resources and Mining (down 200).

While manufacturing experienced a decline in jobs in November, most manufacturers reported increases in product orders, productivity and production levels in 2007, according to an annual survey conducted by DEED and the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis.

Respondents to the just-released Minnesota Manufacturing Business Conditions Survey also indicate optimism that 2008 will result in solid growth amid concerns over energy prices, international competition, and import costs. Manufacturers anticipate some employment growth and increases in profits in 2008 even as consumer spending and economic growth are expected to be thin.

As one of 12 regional Reserve Banks that serve as the nation's central bank, the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis is responsible for making and carrying out monetary policy, supervising and regulating banks and bank holding companies, and providing financial services to depository institutions and the U.S. Treasury.

Girls basketball...

Freeze falls to Warroad in overtime

Northern Freeze had a chance to win at the end of regulation time and overtime, but couldn't cash in on either opportunity Thursday and lost a 58-57 girls high school basketball game at Warroad.

There were 15 seconds left in a 53-53 regulation time tie when the Freeze came up with a steal. But the visitors weren't able to execute the play set up during a time-out.

"We never even got a shot," reported Northern Freeze coach Tom Mjelde. "We set up a play, but did a poor job handling the ball. It was frustrating."

A similar scenario developed at the end of overtime when another steal and time-out call gave the Freeze a second chance. This time they got the shot, but it rolled off the rim with two seconds left.

"I feel good in that we gave ourselves a chance to win," said Mjelde. "That's all you can ask for. "We just have to find a way to win close games."

There were four double-figure scorers on both sides, led by Alycia Dahl of the Freeze with 24 points and Kirsten Bockelheide of Warroad with 18.

Northern Freeze was 19-for-54 from the field (35 percent) and 14-for-23 at the free throw line. Warroad went 23-for-44 from the floor (52 percent) and 1-for-3 at the line. The winners connected on 11 of 20 attempts from 3-point range.

"We shot poorly," noted Mjelde. "Warroad shot the ball extremely well, especially the 3-pointers."

Northern Freeze finished with a 25-23 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 19-15.

The loss dropped Northern Freeze, playing for the first time since Dec. 20, to 6-4.

Beth Tvedt of Thief River Falls looked to the basket when she got the ball in the lane between Hawley defenders Allie Sannes (left), Laura Olson (middle) and Angie Jetvig (right) in the first half of Thursday's girls high school basketball game. The Prowlers lost a 60-41 home court decision.

Hawley too much for TRF

Hawley jumped out to a 21-2 lead and was never challenged en route to a 60-41 Thursday girls high school basketball win over host Thief River Falls.

The Prowlers were unable to contain the Nuggets' inside game headed by 6-2 senior center Angie Jetvig.

A Minnesota State University Moorhead recruit Jetvig scored 10 of those first 21 Hawley points. The Nuggets' outburst in the first ten minutes of the game included six baskets from inside the paint, two short jumpers from just outside the lane, a pair of fast break lay-ups and a free throw.

The Prowlers' shortcomings on defense were were matched on offense, where they went 10 1/2 minutes before hitting their first field goal.

Hawley went into halftime with a 35-11 lead. The Nuggets' biggest spread was a 31-point, 48-17 difference on a Jessica Amann jumper from the side with 13:02 remaining.

That's when the Prowlers finally showed some spark as Chelsea Sorteberg knocked down three 3-pointers in a 13-4 run that made it 52-30 with 9:31 left – not enough to make it a game, but enough of a nuisance that the Nuggets' starting five reappeared on the floor to smooth things out for the visitors.

Jetvig finished with a 22-point, 14-rebound double-double. Sam Spaeth, a 5-7 senior guard, added 13 points the Nuggets' offense. Sorteberg had a 13-point night for the Prowlers.

Hawley put together a 57 percent 25-for-44 shooting performance from the field, but the Nuggets were just 9-for-21 at the free throw line. Thief River Falls finished with 38 percent 15-for-40 shooting from the floor and a 7-for-15 showing at the line.

Defensive pressure was applied by Thief River Falls' Chelsey Knutson against Hawley's Ashley Ritter in Thursday girls high school basketball action.

It was a 30-20 Hawley advantage in rebounds and a 19-17 Thief River Falls high figure in the turnover department.

The Prowlers fell to 5-4 with the loss. The Nuggets, coming off back-to-back losses to strong Crookston and Howard Lake-Waverly teams, improved to 6-2.

RLCC 62-35 winner over Climax/Fisher

Red Lake County Central defense helped fuel the Mustangs' offense Thursday in a 62-35 girls high school basketball win over Climax/Fisher in Plummer.

Thirty turnovers by the Knights fed the Mustangs' fast-break offense that launched 85 shots and limited the visitors to just 37 field goal attempts.

Playing their first game since Dec. 20, the Mustangs found themselves down 13-6 at the outset.

"It wasn't going very well at the start," acknowledged Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto, who had to make a quick defensive change to combat the Knights' size inside that features a pair of six-footers. "We switched from man to a zone press," he explained. "That worked pretty well."

Faith Kruchowski scored 18 points, Haylie Malwitz 13 and Hannah Vettleson 11 for the Mustangs, who improved to 9-2. The Knights did not have a double figure scorer.

Red Lake County Central made 25 of those field goal attempts (29 percent); Climax/Fisher connected on 15 shots (41 percent). It was a quiet night at the free throw line, where the Mustangs were 4-for-7 and the Knights went 2-for-6.

The winners had a 31-19 rebound advantage and turned the ball over just 10 times.

B/G-MR teams have two third place finishes

It was third place finishes for both the Badger/Greenbush-Middle River boys and girls during holiday high school basketball tournaments.

The boys were playing at the Dec. 28-29 Little Falls Invitational, where they lost a 65-60 first round game to Pequot Lakes, then bounced back to beat Long Prairie-Grey Eagle 85-61.

Zac Creviston of the Gators was selected to the all-tournament team.

The girls were part of an eight-team Dec. 26-28 Wolves Invitational hosted by Walker-Hackensack-Akeley. The Gators opened with a 61-56 win over Nevis, lost to Pequot Lakes 68-62 and finished with a 70-66 victory over Mountain Iron-Buhl.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River boys are 5-1; the Gator girls are 7-3.

Border Cup play under way for four area high school hockey teams

Fourth annual Border State Bank Hockey Cup schedule is under way.

The competition involves boys and girls high school teams from Thief River Falls, Roseau, Baudette and International Falls – communities where the bank has offices.

Point standings are based upon combined results of the boys and girls matchups in games involving teams from those four schools.

The Border State Bank Cup was designed to build and foster healthy high school hockey rivalries and camaraderie among the communities.

Roseau won the first three Border State Bank Cup titles.

Two members of the 2007-08 Badger/Greenbush-Middle River girls high school basketball team joined the 1,000-Point Club during a one-week span in late December. Liz Schenkey hit that career scoring milestone in a Dec. 21 game at Lake of the Woods and Anne Wicklund accomplished the feat Dec. 27 against Pequot Lakes during the Walker-Hackensack-Akeley Invitational. Both are seniors. Pictured from left to right: Badger/Greenbush-Middle River assistant coach Shane Kilen, Wicklund, Schenkey and Gators head coach Jon Hams. (Submitted photo).

Special hunt has early results

Hunters harvested 48 deer during the first weekend of a special hunt in northwestern Minnesota that aims to reduce deer density and stop the potential spread of bovine tuberculosis, according to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

The hunt began Dec. 29 and continues through Jan. 13 in Permit Area 101, which is considered the bovine TB zone in far northwestern Minnesota. It is open to hunters who have a valid, unused permit to harvest deer regardless of the zone in which a hunter was licensed.

"The hunt has gone very smoothly so far," said Lou Cornicelli, DNR big game program coordinator. "Hunters have two more weekends to take advantage of this opportunity."

To date, four deer harvested in the TB zone during the regular firearms season in November have tested presumptive positive for bovine TB. Three tested positive prior to the DNR's Dec. 5 announcement of the late-season hunt. Since then, lab results have indicated that an additional deer taken during the regular firearms season has tested positive.

"Finding one additional deer with the disease is a concern," said Michael DonCarlos, DNR wildlife research and policy manager. "But the prevalence of the disease remains low and is confined to a small geographic region." All four of the infected deer from the fall 2007 hunt have been found within a five-mile radius of Skime.

After the late season hunt concludes, the DNR will conduct an aerial survey of the area to determine deer distribution and abundance. Once that information is collected, the DNR will finalize plans on the need for additional deer removal by sharpshooters. DNR also will continue to work with the agricultural community to expand and improve programs and policies to help prevent contact between cattle and deer.

This fall's testing of deer harvested in Permit Area 101 was part of the DNR's ongoing TB surveillance program, which began in 2005 when the disease was first discovered in cattle. Since then, DonCarlos said, bovine TB has been detected in eight cattle herds and 17 wild deer in Roseau and Beltrami counties. Officials from the DNR, Minnesota Board of Animal Health and U.S. Department of Agriculture have been aggressively working to manage the disease in deer and livestock so Minnesota can regain its bovine TB-free accreditation.

Details of the special late-season hunt being conducted in deer Permit Area 101 only are:

- Season dates are Saturday, Dec. 29, to Sunday, Jan. 13, 2008.
- Deer of either sex may be taken.
- Hunters can use any 2007 license or permit from any zone.
- A hunter must have a license and use the legal weapon for that license; for example, a hunter cannot use a rifle if he or she does not have a valid 2007 firearms license.
- New or replacement licenses can be obtained at any Electronic Licensing System agent, and hunters can buy additional disease management permits for $2.50.
- Deer also can be tagged with any remaining unused tags from the 2007 season; for example, deer can be tagged with an unfilled firearms license, disease management permits, bonus permits or all-season tags.

All harvested deer must be registered at Olson Skime store in Skime; [illegible] Station in Wannaska; Thief Lake Wildlife Management Area headquarters during regular business hours; or Red Lake Wildlife Management Area headquarters during regular hours. DNR employees will staff the Skime and Wannaska registration stations each weekend of the special season.

Farmers reminded of program dates by St. Paul Risk Management Agency

The Risk Management Agency St. Paul Regional Office reminds producers of crop insurance sales closing dates for the Multiple Peril Crop Insurance programs and the Adjusted Gross Revenue-Lite programs available in Minnesota and Wisconsin, which cover most farm-raised crops, animals and animal products.

Craig Rice, St. Paul regional director, said, "AGR-Lite insures a producer's whole-farm revenue against low returns due to unavoidable natural disasters and market fluctuations that affect income during the insurance year."

AGR-Lite is based on a producer's five-year historical income tax form information and an annual farm report to provide a level of guaranteed revenue for the insurance period. This plan is well suited for producers of specialty crops, such as fruits and vegetables, for which a traditional policy is not available. AGR-Lite can stand alone or be used in conjunction with other federal crop insurance plans.

The plan uses a producer's five-year historical farm average revenue as reported on the IRS return (Schedule F or equivalent forms) and an annual farm report as a base to provide a level of guaranteed revenue for the insurance period. Revenue is the common denominator for the insurance of all agriculture commodities. The United States Department of Agriculture will pay a portion of the premium for AGR-Lite policies and all other policies in the federal crop insurance program.

Upcoming regional sales closing dates:

- Jan. 31 – Final date to submit required documents to continue or change 2008 AGR-Lite insurance for existing policy holders in Minnesota and Wisconsin.
- March 15 – Final date to obtain 2008 AGR-Lite insurance for new application/enrollment policies in Minnesota and Wisconsin. This is also the final date to obtain or change all other spring seeded crop insurance coverage (excluding crops in counties with both fall and spring planted types) in Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Contact a local crop insurance agent to learn additional program details. If there is no coverage in your county for a specific crop under the traditional program, ask your agent whether you would be eligible for coverage under a written agreement. The deadline for requesting a written agreement is the same as the date mentioned above to obtain or change a policy. A list of crop insurance agents is available at all USDA Service Centers or at www3.rma.usda.gov/tools/agents.

Seventh-day Adventist Community Center to hold Living Free series

The LifeStyle Matters® Living Free® series will be held Tuesdays, starting Jan. 15 and ending Feb. 19, at the Seventh-day Adventist Community Center meeting room, 1024 Tindolph Ave. S., Thief River Falls. Opening night will be Tuesday, Jan. 15 at 7 p.m. The remainder of the series will be held Tuesdays, Jan. 22 and 29; and Feb. 5, 12 and 19 at 7 p.m. in the meeting room.

The series will help participants: beat bad habits, overcome negative thinking, learn how to build a better brain, form healthy habits that last, handle stress and multiple priorities, lose weight and keep it off, conquer food cravings for good, achieve long-term success, maintain long-term goals and overcome any addictive behavior.

To register for the series, call (218) 681-4370 or (218) 698-4345.

greater than a 10 percent alcohol content of E10 gasoline is unsafe - "operating an engine on too high alcohol content will cause performance problems and damage to engine parts."

"Those people were saying the same thing when E10 was introduced," said Bergland. Bergland added that there are several studies now that say it's safe, even beneficial to the environment, to burn ethanol blended fuels in vehicles. While, he said, he personally would not burn E85 in a non-flex fuel vehicle, he hasn't heard of any problems from burning E20 or E30 in vehicles. Bergland noted that a lot of people he knows, have been burning it in their vehicles for a long time and haven't reported experiencing any problems.

Bergland uses E20 in his vehicle. He selected E20 after experimenting and discovering that this blend seemed to work best in his vehicle. He believes how a specific blend affects mileage and performance depends on the vehicle, but mostly on how the vehicle is operated.

Many studies have been or are being performed on ethanol blended fuels. According to the National Corn Growers Association, "new research shows that mid-range ethanol blends, fuel mixtures with more ethanol than E10, but less than E85, can in some cases provide better fuel economy than regular unleaded gasoline, even in standard, non-flex-fuel vehicles.

"The study, cosponsored by the U.S. Department of Energy and the American Coalition for Ethanol, also found that mid-range ethanol blends reduce harmful tailpipe emissions and that vehicles without any adjustments can operate well on higher ethanol blends than previously thought."

One of the myths about ethanol fuel is that it reduces vehicle performance. According to the Department of Energy, there is "no noticeable difference in vehicle performance when E85 is used." But, flex fuel vehicles operating on E85 usually experience a 20 to 30 percent drop in miles per gallon due to ethanol's lower energy content.

How It works

Bergland explained that Cenex purchases E85 and the regular unleaded 10 percent blend. Depending upon what blend the consumer picks, the pump automatically calculates the amount of E85 it needs and blends it with the regular unleaded gasoline to meet what the consumer requests.

Bergland expects more and more stations to begin offering blended fuel pumps.

Caution

E20, E30 and E85 are approved for use only in flex fuel vehicles. Julie Quinn, assistant director with Weights and Measures in Minnesota, said at stations selling these fuels, officials with weights and measures check to see that each component advertised meets standards. In other words, E20 must be 20 percent ethanol, and E30 must be 30 percent ethanol. Quinn said they are, of course, concerned about misfueling.

Misfueling would involve putting a higher oxygenated fuel, like E30, in a non-flex fuel vehicle.

Quinn said the emissions and driveability of vehicles fueled with E20 is being studied right now. When completed, the study may indicate that non-flex fuel vehicles may operate perfectly well with E20, but right now there is concern that it may damage vehicles.

Quinn explained that oxygenated fuels like E85 or E30, may cause damage to a non-flex fuel vehicle's catalytic converter. If a consumer's goal is cleaner air, a damaged catalytic converter will release more pollution into the atmosphere.

It's also against the law. Quinn said if you put more than 10 percent ethanol in a non-flex fuel vehicle the consumer and the station may be held responsible and fined.

When asked whether and how that's enforced, Quinn said enforcement would be through a federal investigator, which is not unheard of.

Blends of gasoline that contain more than 10 percent ethanol may be required in the near future. Last February, Minnesota Governor Tim Pawlenty signed legislation doubling of the state's ethanol standard to E20 by Aug. 30 of 2013. Quinn noted that the legislation would expire in 2010 if by that time the federal government does approve the use of E20.

Approval of ethanol blends is found in the owners' manuals of your vehicle under references to refueling or gasoline. Use of an ethanol blend higher than recommended by the manufacturer may invalidate the vehicle warranty.

Another myth

Another myth about ethanol is that ethanol production requires more fossil energy than it replaces. A number of government and university studies demonstrate ethanol's positive energy balance. According to the National Corn Growers Association, "millions of Americans have driven billions of trouble-free miles using ethanol-blended gasoline over the past quarter century."

In June 2004, the U.S. Department of Agriculture updated its 2002 analysis of the issue and determined that the net energy balance of ethanol production is 1.67 to 1. For every 100 BTUs of energy used to make ethanol, 167 BTUs of ethanol is produced. In 2002, USDA had concluded that the ratio was 1.35 to 1. The USDA findings have been confirmed by additional studies conducted by the University of Nebraska and Argonne National Laboratory.

These figures take into account the energy required to plant, grow and harvest the corn—as well as the energy required to manufacture and distribute the ethanol.

The net energy balance of ethanol production continues to improve because ethanol production is becoming more efficient. For example, one bushel of corn now yields 2.8 gallons of ethanol - up from 2.5 gallons just a few years ago.

Roseau Area Community Fund creates Wannaska PTO Scholarship

At its December meeting, the Roseau Area Community Fund (RACF) announced that the Wannaska PTO Scholarship Fund has become a project sub-fund.

"When the difficult decision to close Wannaska Elementary School was made, the Wannaska PTO took the opportunity to develop a scholarship program honoring students who attended there," reported Caryl Turnow, Northwest Minnesota Foundation advisor.

The scholarship fund will provide scholarships, up to $250, to qualified Roseau High School students who attended Wannaska Elementary School. The recipient must be pursuing post-secondary education through a college, university, trade school, tech school, or other accredited not-for-profit technical or vocational education/training institution or program. Scholarships funds are to be used for tuition and books or direct educational material expenses.

"Our students in Wannaska, over several years, worked very hard to earn money through fund raisers, magazine sales and other raffles. We used the money for great carnivals, awesome field trips and yearly scholarships," says school teacher Shelly Laplante. "We decided to keep our scholarship program alive for the students who helped raise this money. There will be enough money to continue to offer three scholarships to these students through the year 2019, which is the last kindergarten class's graduation date."

The first scholarships will be available for graduates of Roseau High School this year. Applications will be available from Mr. Dan Urness, guidance counselor at Roseau High School, in March of 2008.

2007 hunt have been found within a five-mile radius of Skime.

After the late season hunt concludes, the DNR will conduct an aerial survey of the area to determine deer distribution and abundance. Once that information is collected, the DNR will finalize plans on the need for additional deer removal by sharpshooters. DNR also will continue to work with the agricultural community to expand and improve programs and policies to help prevent contact between cattle and deer.

This fall's testing of deer harvested in Permit Area 101 was part of the DNR's ongoing TB surveillance program, which began in 2005 when the disease was first discovered in cattle. Since then, DonCarlos said, bovine TB has been detected in eight cattle herds and 17 wild deer in Roseau and Beltrami counties. Officials from the DNR, Minnesota Board of Animal Health and U.S. Department of Agriculture have been aggressively working to manage the disease in deer and livestock so Minnesota can regain its bovine TB-free accreditation.

"This may be a narrow window of opportunity to stop this disease in its tracks," DonCarlos said. "As long as bovine TB continues to be found in deer, DNR will continue to work with local hunters, landowners, other wildlife and agriculture organizations and agencies to eliminate bovine TB in Minnesota."

Details of the special late-season hunt being conducted in deer Permit Area 101 only are:

- Season dates are Saturday, Dec. 29, to Sunday, Jan. 13, 2008
- Deer of either sex may be taken
- Hunters can use any 2007 license or permit from any zone
- A hunter must have a license and use the legal weapon for that license; for example, a hunter cannot use a rifle if he or she does not have a valid 2007 firearms license
- New or replacement licenses can be obtained at any Electronic Licensing System agent, and hunters can buy additional disease management permits for $2.50
- Deer also can be tagged with any remaining unused tags from the 2007 season, for example, deer can be tagged with an unfilled firearms license, disease management permits, bonus permits or all-season tags.

All harvested deer must be registered at Olson Skime store in Skime; Riverfront Station in Wannaska; Thief Lake Wildlife Management Area headquarters during regular business hours; or Red Lake Wildlife Management Area headquarters during regular business hours.

DNR employees will staff the Skime and Wannaska registration stations during each weekend (Saturday - Monday) of the special season to examine harvested deer for clinical signs of bovine TB. If a deer is taken during the week that exhibits signs of bovine TB, such as lesions on the lungs, hunters should contact the Thief Lake Wildlife Management Area at (218) 222-3747 or the Red Lake Wildlife Management Area at (218) 783-6861.

Temporary deer population reductions may create short-term hardships for deer hunters in this particular area of northwestern Minnesota, Cornicelli said. But reducing the long-term risk of bovine TB becoming established and spreading in the deer population is extremely important.

"In the short term that means deer densities in the bovine TB area will need to be kept low," Cornicelli said. "However, Minnesota's deer populations are resilient, and, while we recognize that dramatic reductions in populations won't be popular with everyone, history tells us deer rebound very quickly."

Following two severe winters in the mid-1990s, Minnesota's wild deer population was very low, he said. But fewer than 10 years later, deer populations had expanded to record levels.

air-lifted to Fargo, N.D.'s MeritCare Hospital.

"They said it would be 45 minutes for the air flight to get to Roseau," said Peterson, who was partially conscious at the time. "I told them I don't have 45 minutes."

Peterson survived the horrifying night, but she was left with injuries to her left arm and right leg. A bullet is still lodged in her spinal cord, which caused a loss of feeling in her extremities, and surgery for its removal was deemed too dangerous, as it could cause permanent paralysis. Also, due to bullet fragments that remain in her body, Peterson must take medication to prevent lead poisoning.

"As a nurse, I was very amazed at the expertise of MeritCare in Fargo," Olson said. "They bent over backwards to be helpful and she received such good care there. In our region, we are known for our compassion and it was something to be on the receiving end of it."

Peterson remained hospitalized for six and a-half months after being shot, which was broken up into four and a-half months at MeritCare Hospital and two months at a nursing home for rehabilitation. She was told that she would never walk again, but she has defied that statement and is already walking.

"When they said that I was never going to walk again, I said, 'yes I am going to walk again,'" Peterson said. "Dr. Garcia argued with me a little bit and said, 'we'll just see.'"

When she left the hospital, Peterson was only walking 75 feet. When she began rehabilitation, a therapist asked why Peterson was even there. The therapist didn't believe Peterson belonged in the six-week program, or that any other therapy would teach her to walk again. Olson had similar thoughts.

"To be honest, I didn't have much hope," Olson said. "I knew she was bound and determined to walk again. I was scared how she would react when it became reality that she would never walk again."

Peterson used her own fear as motivation.

"I don't know what I would have done if I had to be in a wheel chair the rest of my life," Peterson said. "I feel bad for the ones who go through an accident and end up in a chair."

Peterson started with working on rebuilding her range of motion with therapy a couple of times a day. The feeling returned to her right leg during rehabilitation, but until recently, her left leg had no feeling. Olson describes her sister's early way of walking as sort of dragging her feet along and willing her legs to move.

Peterson's left leg started regaining some of its feeling around Thanksgiving, and she continues to see improvement in all of her motor functions, including her left arm and hand, which she couldn't even straighten at first.

"It will never be a totally full recovery," Peterson said. "But it will be darn close if I have anything to say about it."

Peterson returned to work in June 2007, after 20 months of recovery. Her employer, Thomson's Snyder Drug, held her job the entire time.

Peterson has been called a miracle patient by many doctors that have helped her during her recovery, first for even surviving the attempt on her life, and later, for regaining most of her motor skills and returning to her previous lifestyle.

"The miracle," Olson said, "is that it didn't change things as much as it should have. She has been able to go on with a normal life."

"I think of life a lot differently now," Peterson said. "People take life for granted. I know I did."

Regional Chamber meeting

Join representatives from the Thief River Falls and Minnesota Chamber for a candid discussion on priority business issues. Help shape the business agenda for the 2008 legislative session and develop proactive solutions to help grow the business sector and move the economy forward.

At 7:30 a.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 15, at the Chamber of Commerce, area residents will have an opportunity to learn about priority business issues and share information about issues that are important to business. Bill Blazar, senior vice president of the Minnesota Chamber of Commerce, will be facilitating the meeting.

The purpose of this meeting is to present the business communities priorities for the 2008 legislative session. The Minnesota Chamber has been working on developing policies and priorities based on member feedback since fall of 2007.

The Chamber of Commerce will also be participating in Business Day at the Capitol, Wednesday, March 5, 2008. On that day, over 800 business leaders will gather for a day of education and lobbying at the Capitol. Input gathered from the meeting on Jan. 15 will help shape the agenda for the Capitol Day meetings with our Minnesota legislators.

I-500 set for next weekend

The Red Lake I-500 is scheduled for next weekend in Thief River Falls. The United States Cross-Country Snowmobile Racing Association has teamed up with Seven Clans Casino Hotel and Water Park in Thief River Falls to provide a venue for one of the most challenging snowmobile racing events in the country.

The 2008 I-500 marks the 36th annual running of the legendary cross-country racing event. It dates back to 1966 when Herb Howe crossed the finish line in St. Paul. This year's three-day event, starts and finishes at the Seven Clans Casino.

Based on 125 entries, there will be a purse of about $70,000 up for grabs in this challenging race. The winner will get $10,000 plus contingencies.

Currently, the race is scheduled to begin on Friday, Jan. 18. The USCC released the following statement, which indicates that a decision on whether or not to proceed with the race, will not be made until Monday, Jan. 14. "The snow conditions in the Thief River Falls-Red Lake areas are currently poor. However, the extended forecast has several decent chances of snow, particularly later next week. Because of that, we will hold off until Jan. 14 to make a determination as to whether the race will be held on schedule, or if it will need to be rescheduled to a later date."

March-like weather in January has this squirrel wondering what's next. It needn't worry. Weather forecasters are predicting a return to more January-like weather sometime next week. When that cold weather arrives, this squirrel will need that bushy tail and thick coat.

NORTHERN WATCH AROUND THE REGION

Increased soybean plantings thought likely for this year

Warren - "Northwestern Minnesota farmers are a happy lot at this point in history. Prices for the crops remain fairly high, said Howard Person, Extension agent for Marshall and Pennington counties. Because world carry-over stocks are fairly small, commodity prices are likely to stay up, he said Monday in an interview at his Warren office." - Warren Sheaf, Jan. 9, 2008

Green flag set to drop for car races on Cameron Lake

Erskine - "Race officials have given the green flag for Cameron Lake Ice Races, which are slated to get under way Saturday, Jan. 19, much to the excitement of fans and drivers, who have been waiting for the furious fender banging action to get started.

"Hot laps will be held from 11:30 a.m. to 12 p.m. – only half-an-hour due to the track conditions; pit meetings will be held at 12:15 p.m.; and races start at 12:30 p.m." - The Erskine Echo, Jan. 10, 2008

H & S celebrates John Szklarski's 50+ years of service

Argyle - "John Szklarski, design engineer at H & S Manufacturing Inc., was the honored guest at a gathering of relatives, friends and fellow workers in recognition of his 50+ years of dedicated service. The retirement party was held Dec. 21 at the Farmer Dell in Argyle."

"Craig Halfmann, chief executive officer of H & S Manufacturing, presented John with a plaque and gift for his 50+ years of dedication and loyalty to the company. He also recognized John's wife, Edwardine, for her 25 years of service to H & S Manufacturing, working as a painter and doing various other jobs."

"John started working for Paul and Vi Halfmann in 1957 on the farm. John and Paul engineered and developed equipment that was helpful for Paul's farm operation. When neighbors saw this, they also wanted things built or designed for them.

"In the mid-1960s, Paul and John started building snowblowers, electric potato loaders (to eliminate the fumes from gas-operated loaders in warehouses) and miscellaneous farm machinery. H & S was incorporated in 1971 by Paul and John – thus the familiar initials from their last names.

"John had a hand in designing and engineering a multitude of farm machinery and equipment." - The Messenger of Stephen, Jan. 10, 2008

Local man wins state senior chess championship

Red Lake Falls - "The Rev. Glen Proechel, Red Lake Falls, recently won the Minnesota State Senior Chess Championship in Minneapolis. The competition, held Dec. 15 and 16, is for players over the age of 50. Proechel won three games and drew one in the four-round event.

"This is Proechel's third state senior chess title, holding the title of Minnesota Senior Chess Champion previously in 1993 and 1995." - Red Lake Falls Gazette, Jan. 9, 2008

Legislators discuss '08 session

Area legislators meet with Pennington Co. officials

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Representatives Brita Sailer, DFL-Park Rapids and Dave Olin, DFL-Thief River Falls, and Sen. LeRoy Stumpf, DFL-Plummer attended an afternoon question and answer session with Pennington County Commissioners and county department leaders during the Pennington County Board's Jan. 8 meeting.

Each legislator was given a chance to share his or her thoughts on the most recent and upcoming legislative sessions, before answering questions from commissioners and county leaders. Topics discussed during the meeting included balancing the state's budget, the transportation bill, various public safety topics, education, social services, e-waste, rapid escalation in land value, bovine tuberculosis testing, bonding for bridge repairs, property tax systems used within the state, and ditch fund balances.

Former county attorney shares outlook on 2008

Dave Olin served as Pennington County attorney from 1975 to 2007. He was the first legislator to arrive at Tuesday's question-answer session, and shared some of his thoughts on the legislative process after one year in the Minnesota House of Representatives.

Olin said most of the bills introduced during the 2008 session will depend on the February forecast, with a transportation bill and dedicated environmental funding as major early topics. The November forecast projected a $373 million deficit for the state, so balancing the budget will also be a priority in 2008.

After one year in the legislature, Olin has a different perspective on the relationship between metro and rural legislators. "The issues don't tie to rural vs. metro entirely, Olin said, and for the most part, rural and metro legislators were able to work together."

Olin added that the general attitude on the Ag-Finance Committee was "get in, get our things done and have as little bickering as possible."

"We didn't really have any hard-line democrat-republican splits on the Ag-Finance Committee," Olin said. "But there were splits on other committees and there were lots of splits on the house floor."

"When you get down there, you get a look at how cutthroat the system is," Olin said. "I learned to appreciate the statements saying 'X' voted against this bill. Let's take the money from your project here and make you vote against your own project or vote against veterans."

Olin said that is what happened to him, when funding was taken from a Roseau project and put into a project for veterans, even though veterans were already getting much more funding than they had in previous years.

Transportation

Transportation and how to address what could soon be a crumbling infrastructure was the biggest topic of discussion during Tuesday's question and answer session.

Addressing transportation, Sailer said an increase in the gasoline tax would be unpopular among the general public, but it is likely the only way to address the state's need to address its transportation infrastructure.

Minnesota's gasoline tax has remained unchanged at 20 cents per gallon since 1988. Sailer said she doesn't see the gasoline tax doubling, which has been proposed in the past. Instead, she figures the

NCTC receives two ag grants

The Minnesota Agricultural Education Leadership Council has awarded two grants to Northland Community and Technical College. The first grant, which totals $3,500, has been used to develop and implement beginning farmer workshops. The second grant, which totals $5,000, will be used to conduct a mapping project of field topography in northwestern Minnesota. These grants are being led by Dave Grafstrom, a Farm Business Management instructor at NCTC's Roseau site.

MAELC grants range in scale from funding College in the School curriculum in local high school agricultural education programs to helping fund a topography mapping project in northwestern Minnesota. A total of 22 grants were awarded to schools and organizations around Minnesota. Since its creation in 1997, MAELC has provided over $1.2 million in competitive grants, scholarships, sponsored projects and awards.

Three types of grant applications were funded. Innovation grants are open to any school or organization whose program focuses on educating youth and the public about agriculture in an innovative way. Priority Issues Grants are targeted specifically towards high school agricultural education programs. Quality Program Grants align with the MAELC strategic plan of recruitment, retention and transition of agricultural education students and teachers.

Warren man writes "Melrose in Mars"

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

Rev. Emmanuel Sylvester is no stranger to writing books. He has written about 23 books, but he recently completed his first fictional book.

The Warren resident spent six months writing "Melrose in Mars." In the book, "a professor, disgusted with the world and its lame politics, travels to Mars with her daughter. ... Meanwhile, her husband, who was not happy with her plans to take their daughter with her as she travels through space, tries to abduct his daughter by sending his brother, who is on a nearby planet. This story contains a lot of the latest discoveries that the author imagined and found out are already taking place in today's world," according to the book's publisher, PublishAmerica.

"As a child, I used to imagine about scientific stories," wrote Sylvester in an e-mail. Recently a friend gave him the book "Introduction to Organic Chemistry." Sylvester began reading it and got the inspiration to write "Melrose in Mars."

"It came out so well that PublishAmerica selected my book. I was happy," wrote Sylvester, who serves Sts. Peter and Paul Catholic Church in Warren.

Sylvester has three more books in progress. "Scar into Star," a self-help book, is currently being translated into the Bengali and Tamil languages in India. "Run Rich, Walk Simple," a book about how to be financially wealthy and lead a simple life, is currently being edited. Sylvester is working on "Psycho Software," about language in conception.

Sylvester said, "It gives me a sense of achievement when a book is published. For those who imagine and work, the sky is the limit."

"Melrose in Mars" is available at www.publishamerica.com. On its official release date of Feb. 17, it will be available at www.barnesandnoble.com, www.amazon.com and www.borders.com. It costs $19.95.

Lifesaving skills save Crookston man

Friends come to the rescue of William Rasmussen who collapsed during a basketball game in RLF

by David Hill
Editor

William Rasmussen and his family had a lot to be thankful for at Christmas. The 49-year-old Crookston man was playing basketball with his friends at the gym in Red Lake Falls on Dec. 23 when he collapsed. If ever there were a place and time to have a heart attack, that was the time and place.

His friends, most of whom have had some kind of first aid or CPR training, rushed to his aid. When 911 was dialed, a Red Lake County Sheriff's deputy rushed to the scene with an automatic electronic defibrillator, and the volunteer EMT who was called, lived just across the street. Within minutes - seconds really - friends were administering CPR and then an AED was used.

Ron Kennedy, general manager of Red Lake Electric Cooperative, said their team had just finished a basketball game which they had lost and were shooting some hoops on the sidelines.

Steve Philion said he was sitting on the stage. Rasmussen was shooting some baskets when he fell. "I tried to talk to him, but he was just gurgling and gasping. I knew it wasn't good."

Philion, who was on the city's ambulance crew about 15 years ago, said he started performing CPR when he couldn't find a pulse. Although he hasn't performed CPR in many years, Philion said it felt natural.

Rasmussen doesn't remember much about the incident - the moments leading up to it or days after it. He said he has a three-day gap in his memory. His memory is beginning to come back, but just a little at a time. Typically, he said he plays basketball a couple of times a week - once in Crookston and once in Red Lake Falls. On that particular day, he said he remembers going to Thief River Falls earlier in the day, but that's about it.

When Rasmussen collapsed, Kennedy joined Jerod Olson, Steve Philion, and Brian Vatthauer in providing assistance to Rasmussen, who was still gasping at the time, "but, that didn't last," said Kennedy.

Philion started CPR immediately, and then Jerod Olson began mouth-to-mouth. Kennedy said he thought Vatthauer called 911, but isn't quite sure. Within a couple of minutes, a deputy was by their side with an AED, and then Julie Dufka, EMT with the Red Lake Falls Volunteer Ambulance Service, was there.

Kennedy, who was a volunteer with the ambulance for 11 years, said he had been at six unsuccessful CPR attempts, so he was really hoping for the best. Kennedy knows

Cold winter nights call for something special for dinner. Make this meal before you head off for the hockey or basketball game. All of today's recipes are from the new cookbook I got from my daughter-in-law from Washington. It is a compilation of some of her family's recipes and I love it.

How about a hearty soup that can be made in about an hour? This one will be a favorite:

CHEESEBURGER CHOWDER

1/2 pound ground beef
3/4 cup chopped onion
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 cup diced carrots
1 teaspoon dried basil
1 teaspoon dried parsley
4 tablespoons butter (divided)
3 cups chicken broth
4 cups diced, peeled potatoes
1/4 cup flour
2 cups cubed processed American cheese
1 1/2 cups evaporated milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup sour cream
Chopped fresh tomatoes and dill pickle slices for garnish

Brown ground beef in Dutch oven and drain. Set aside. In same pot, sauté onion in 1 tablespoon butter until tender. Add garlic, carrots, basil and parsley. Sauté about 5 minutes. Add broth, beef and potatoes and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and cover. Simmer 15-20 minutes or until vegetables are tender.

Meanwhile, melt remaining butter in small skillet. Add flour and cook and stir for 3-5 minutes until bubbly. Gradually add evaporated milk, stirring constantly. Cook and stir 6-8 minutes.

Gradually stir sauce into soup mixture. Bring to a boil and cook 2 minutes. Reduce heat to low. Add cheese, salt and pepper and continue to stir until cheese melts. Remove from heat and blend in sour cream. Garnish each serving with tomatoes and/or dill pickle slices.

Here's the perfect accompaniment for your hearty soup - hot, buttery baking powder biscuits:

BISCUITS

2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/2 cup shortening
2/3 cup milk

Sift dry ingredients. Cut shortening into flour mixture with pastry blender. Mixture will be lumpy, about the size of small peas.

Pour in milk and mix until flour disappears. Pat out on bread board and cut into circles. Bake at 400 degrees until light brown.

A light lemon dessert will be just the thing to top things off. I make this with graham cracker crumbs and it is great. Wonderful to have in the freezer for a snack too:

FROZEN LEMON DESSERT

4 eggs, separated
2/3 cup sugar
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 cup whipping cream, whipped
3/4 cup crushed vanilla wafers or graham crackers

Beat egg yolks until very thick and light-colored. Gradually beat in sugar, beating well. Add lemon juice, lemon peel and salt, blending well. Cook in double boiler over hot water, stirring constantly (or use micro, watching carefully), until thick. Remove from heat and cool well.

Beat egg whites until stiff peaks form. Fold into cooled mixture. Fold in cream that has been whipped. Spread half of the crumbs in bottom of 10x6 inch freezable dish (I used 9x13 inch). Spoon in lemon mixture. Top with remaining crumbs. Freeze firm, several hours or overnight.

One of these tasty treats would be just right to cool off our mouths after that hot soup - and so delicious any other time, too:

ICED HAZELNUT COFFEE COOLERS

2/3 cup instant coffee, dry
1 1/2 cups hazelnut-flavored nondairy liquid creamer
1 cup water
1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
8 cups milk
Whipped cream, if desired
Ground cinnamon for garnish

Mix coffee, creamer, water and 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon in medium bowl, stirring until coffee is dissolved. Pour into 2 ice cube trays and freeze at least 3 hours or until hardened.

Transfer to plastic container or bag.

For each serving, place 2 coffee cubes, 2/3 cup milk and 4 water ice cubes in blender. Cover and blend on high speed about 20 seconds or until blended and slightly slushy. Pour into glass. Top with dollop of whipped cream and sprinkle of cinnamon.

Recipe makes 12 servings, 1 1/2 cups each.

MEP sets 2008 legislative priorities to protect Minnesota's future

Minnesota Environmental Partnership (MEP), the statewide coalition of more than 80 conservation and environmental organizations, has announced four 2008 legislative priorities to Protect Minnesota's Future.

"Minnesotans value our lakes, rivers and streams; forests and wilderness areas; clean air and natural areas," said Steve Morse, executive director of MEP. "We have a duty to be good stewards of our environment so we can pass on our outdoors traditions and heritage to our children and grandchildren."

To protect Minnesota's future, MEP's member organizations selected four priority issues for the 2008 legislative session:

- Great Outdoors & Heritage Amendment – MEP supports constitutionally-protected funding for clean water, wildlife, cultural heritage and natural areas. To protect Minnesota's outdoors and cultural legacy, MEP is urging the Minnesota Legislature to immediately pass the 2007 legislative conference committee report that would place the Great Outdoors & Heritage constitutional amendment on the 2008 election ballot. Funds would come from an increase of 3/8 of one percent in the sales tax.
- Clean Energy Minnesota – To reduce global warming pollution and increase energy independence, MEP is asking the Legislature to limit and lower pollution from industry, require manufacturers to produce clean cars and encourage sustainable biofuel crops.
- Transportation Choices 2020 – To keep Minnesota's air clean and reduce global warming emissions, MEP supports funding of the Metropolitan Council's transit plan, which would create eight new transitways, double bus ridership, and expand transit in Greater Minnesota.
- Outdoor Traditions Investment – MEP recommends smart investments in Minnesota's waters, wildlife habitat, natural areas, trails and parks to protect these resources for future generations. Thirty specific recommendations to protect Minnesota's outdoor traditions are included in MEP's funding priorities for the 2008 bonding bill.

To learn more about MEP's legislative priorities, go to www.ProtectMNFuture.org.

Formed in 1998, MEP is dedicated to turning values into action to achieve the highest quality natural environment for Minnesotans. More information is available at www.MEPartnership.org.

Illumination ski event set for Jan. 19 at Rydell NWR

The Friends of Rydell Refuge Association will host an "illumination" ski event at the Rydell National Wildlife Refuge on Saturday, Jan. 19.

The Refuge's Visitor Center will be open at 1 p.m. for those wishing to come early to enjoy the seven miles of trails the refuge has to offer. Hot beverages will be available inside the Visitor Center, and for a small donation, the Friends of Rydell Refuge will also offer visitors a hot meal of soup/chili, cornbread, and cookies. Donations will be used towards the completion of a Refuge Oral History Project currently being undertaken and other public use projects. Ask for more information about these projects and ways that people can contribute.

Starting at sundown and continuing until 9 p.m., lighted candles will be placed around the Refuge's Church Lake Trail. The refuge trail system is normally closed after sunset, but for this one night only, visitors can enjoy a unique experience – the refuge at night. Lots of wild critters only come out after the sun goes down and the shadows cast by the moon and stars gives a whole different perspective to the refuge's woods and waters. The event will be canceled if temperatures/wind chills drop below 0 degrees in the afternoon or if any winter weather warnings are in effect for eastern Polk County.

To get to the Rydell Refuge, go three miles east of Mentor or three miles west of Erskine on U.S. Highway 2 and turn south on Polk County Road 210. Follow County Road 210 about two-and-a-half miles south to the large entrance sign and main gate of the refuge. If arriving from the south via Highway 59, turn west onto Polk County Road 41 and follow the signs to the Refuge entrance. If you have any questions, contact the Rydell Refuge at 1-800-841-0172 or (218) 687-2229; for event information/cancellation, press extension 6.

TRF residents reminded to clear their sidewalks

Thief River Falls Public Works Director Ron Lindberg is again reminding residents to clear their sidewalks. Under current city ordinance, residents have 24 hours after a snowfall to clear their sidewalks.

Forty-five private sidewalks have not been cleared of snow. A contractor was hired to clear the snow and has billed the city about $1,000 for the removal, according to Lindberg. That amount will be split amongst the property owners. Lindberg said that this is the third time that the contractor has removed snow from three of those private sidewalks.

Lindberg thanked those property owners who have been diligent about removing snow from the private sidewalks near their properties.

Dream sequence

I like to dream. Sleep feels so good, but it fails to hold my interest if I sleep longer than six hours, at which time I usually begin to dream. This week, I want to take a break from the weather, the presidential primaries and just ease into a dream sequence.

My dreams are mostly enjoyable, as not a lot of conflict exists between my ears. The only nightmares I have usually involve cattle breaking through a fence that I am trying to repair; it's such an internal conflict because part of me wants to herd them back in, part of me wants to fix the fence, and still another segment of my subconscious wants to begin shooting.

A recent dream involved my wife and some friends at a little get-together. In reality, I was sleeping on the couch at the time. At some point in my dream, someone passed the hat for donations to pay for everything, which was the exact moment that my dream ended, and when Lisa awoke me from my slumber. I remember how happy I was that since I was unable to finish this dream, at least I hadn't put any money into the hat that was passed while I slept. I think the moral to this dream is I'm cheap.

I dream about old houses almost every week. I've dreamt I'm fixing an old trailer house, or that I'm converting an old store into a house, fixing steps, repairing walls or any multitude of different handyman tasks, but it seems I'm always building. I don't think this is open to much interpretation, as I like to build things when I'm awake, so it's probably just a continuance of my reality.

This brings up the question of how do we interpret dreams? I always try to find deeper meaning in my dreams, but I think you need to be careful when you view a dream through the lens of your own mind - it's a dangerous business. Any weakness of character that shows up in your everyday life may show up in a dream, and would certainly show up in how you interpret the dream. Also, never listen to someone else's interpretation of a dream unless you trust them very much.

To some, dreams mean fantasy - an escape from reality. The Internet has provided a virtual reality called "Second Life" in which a separate world exists where people can pretend to be whatever person they wish. I did a little research and found that people can choose to be: a character that flies up to 500 feet above ground, a powerful businessman, race car driver, a model, or any other version of them that suits their own ego. I was thinking that if I ever decided to try this virtual life, which I won't, that I would be a cheesemaker. A cheesemaker doesn't fly; he is not a superhero and is probably not a ladies' man, but his secret is that he always has cheese. Virtual reality would also be a lot easier for me than reality, which would include all the hassle of cleaning up the kitchen before Lisa arrives home. The major problem with this scenario is that there is no real cheese, only virtual cheese, which makes no more sense than a virtual life.

Dreams may reflect reality, and we may form our own reality based on dreams. It's hard to say which statement is true, but the one certain truth is: We can't choose what to dream. It is the dream that chooses us, "aye, there's the rub."

NW Minnesota Women's Fund to provide scholarships

The Northwest Minnesota Women's Fund, established in 1997 through the Northwest Minnesota Foundation, is making great strides in meeting its mission: developing resources and serving as a catalyst for improving the quality of life for women and girls.

Thanks to recent gifts of $10,000 from two donors, the Women's Fund has achieved its goal of establishing a scholarship program and will now be offering scholarships for women in the region. In addition, these donations qualified for matching funds from the NMF for the Women's Fund Visionary Partner campaign.

NMF President John Ostrem praised the Women's Fund leadership for its work to address the needs of women and girls in the region. "The Women's Fund is a unique and very important component of the foundation," he said. "Its advisory committee members have created a vision that is embraced by donors throughout northwest Minnesota and from outside the region. This new scholarship program is another significant asset of the fund."

An anonymous gift was used as the catalyst to establish the Northwest Minnesota Women's Scholarship Fund. This restricted fund will provide funding for annual scholarships to female students who reside within the 12 counties of the Women's Fund service area who are pursuing a degree in post-secondary education at the following public higher education institutions: Bemidji State University; Northwest Technical College in Bemidji; Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls and East Grand Forks; the University of Minnesota, Crookston; and the White Earth Tribal College. Preference will be given to students who intend to remain in the region upon graduation.

A second gift was received from Barbara Muesing and Charles Casey. Their generous gift established a second fund that will award scholarships each year to women from the region who are attending UMC. Muesing and Casey have dedicated their careers to education. The University of Minnesota has been especially important. Muesing's 40-year career included service with Extension, the Crookston campus, and nine years as the executive director for the Board of Regents. She was a founding member of the NMF (Initiative Fund) Board of Directors. Casey is a graduate of the U of M College of Veterinary Medicine, and currently serves as chancellor of UMC.

Muesing said, "I've come to understand the quote from Winston Churchill: 'We make a living by what we get, but we make a life by what we give,' which to me means that we have a very special obligation to lend support to things that matter to us. Women in northwest Minnesota who succeed and prosper will help the region succeed and prosper. Education is the key to that prosperity."

According to Florence Hedeen, Women's Fund Advisory Committee chairperson, another important goal of the Women's Fund is to encourage and equip women to reach their full potential. "This initiative is helping to realize our strategic planning goals," Hedeen said. "The generosity of our anonymous friend and the Casey/Muesing family creates a world of possibilities for deserving, capable women in the region. We are extremely grateful to them and to the foundation for providing the generous matching gifts. They have helped to make our endowment goals attainable."

Donors interested in supporting these funds may do so by contacting Lisa Peterson via lisap@nwmf.org or 1-800-659-7859. Endowment contributions, received before June 30, qualify for the NMF matching gift. Visit www.nwmf.org/wfund.php for more information or to make a secure, online donation using a credit card.

Scholarship application forms are available by contacting Peggy Crandall at the NMF at 1-800-659-7859 or peggyc@nwmf.org. The deadline for submitting applications is May 1.

increase will be closer to a 5- or 10-cent increase.

Olin echoed Sailer's statement, saying, "realistically, you won't see an increase near 20 cents [a gallon]. Are you going to see a transportation bill existing that's going to have gas tax included? My guess is yes. It's going to have a lot of other things, too. Is the governor going to sign it? That remains to be seen."

Gov. Tim Pawlenty vetoed a transportation bill in May that would have raised Minnesota's gasoline tax by 5 cents a gallon. Olin said that legislators have a three-day window at the start of the 2008 session to attempt to override Pawlenty's veto. But Olin feels that is unlikely, and he speculated that lawmakers would wait and write a different transportation bill with minor changes to the 2007 bill.

"It's a big priority," Sailer added. "Were going to figure out something that will pass, that will still be meaningful. Will it be what AMC would like to see totally? Probably not."

Continuing with the transportation theme, Carlson asked Stumpf if he felt the senate was going to confirm Lt. Gov. Carol Molnau as commissioner of the Department of Transportation. Molnau was not confirmed to her post by Minnesota Senate members last January, but she was not removed, either.

The process of confirmation includes several options, according to Stumpf. Senators have the option to confirm or not confirm through a vote. But if the vote comes up short, and in this case, Molnau, doesn't receive enough votes, she would be forced to vacate her position as transportation commissioner immediately.

Stumpf said the Senate could also choose to not take the matter up and Molnau could continue to serve as an unconfirmed commissioner.

"There's an awful lot of frustration, at least among the members of my caucus, about a number of individuals," Stumpf said. "As you know, we did not confirm the governor's appointment to the Department of Education, Cheri Yecke, and she had to leave. If we had taken Molnau up at that same time (May 2004), there's wasn't question where she could've gotten confirmed. She probably has less support now than she had back then."

Bridge repairs were also addressed. Mike Flaagan, Pennington County Engineer, said that the goal to address all statewide bridge repairs within two years could be unrealistic. He asked about the possibility of bridge repair bonding being spread out over a longer period of time.

Stumpf said it is a bit of wishful thinking for the state to think that two-year bonding could be enough that it could address all the bridges that are in need.

"There will be some money that will be assessed, but in the end, I think it will be a combination of some bonds that can immediately get revenue into the system, and raising the gas tax, so that we have an additional on-going revenue source that we can put into our road system," Stumpf said." The needs are very, very great. If we don't do something now, the road system will cost us a whole lot more to try and fix it later."

Flaagan also raised a concern that the statute for municipal contracts limits the total cost of non-bid contract work to $50,000. Flaagan feels the statute is outdated. "There's very little that we can do for $50,000," he said.

Flaagan is hopeful that the statute can be changed to allow counties and municipalies the same limit, $100,000, as the Minnesota Department of Transportation has with its projects. Stumpf said the request sounded reasonable.

Public safety

Olin, who serves on both the Public Safety Finance and Public Safety Policy committees, was asked by Pennington County Attorney Al Rogalla to share his thoughts on public safety issues from last year's session and upcoming issues for this year's session.

Olin said last session he saw the strengthening of domestic abuse laws; an attempt to strengthen other laws; and a failed attempt to make a law that all computer theft, regardless of value, a felony. He said the computer theft law was unrealistic, because it is not so much the value of a computer, but what is stored inside a computer, that sets its value.

Olin also said that the Public Safety Finance Committee appointed three new court of appeals judges and increased the amount of money that will be alloted to county jails.

Discussion later returned to jail space and the introduction of 16-bed psychiatric hospitals called community behavioral health hospitals. State Operated Services, a division of the Minnesota Department of Human Services, is currently operating nine community behavioral health hospitals, which are located in Alexandria, Annandale, Baxter, Bemidji, Cold Spring, Fergus Falls, Rochester, St. Peter and Wadena.

Pennington County Sheriff Mike Hruby described cases of individuals who shouldn't be in jails, but rather in a ward somewhere. Because there is currently no room in wards, Hruby said, county jails are typically forced to hold the inmates that should be transported to psych wards, which is increasing the jail's liability.

"What's that person going to do in jail," Hruby said. "You have suicides, you have assaults and things like that. When it gets out that that person shouldn't have been in jail, that they should have been transported somewhere, but there was nowhere to transport them, it doesn't matter, you're still going to get sued."

Olin said the 16-bed community behavioral health hospitals need some fine tuning, but they could be a solution.

Escalated land values

Carlson and Jensen brought up the topic of rapidly increasing land values, and how to guard against land being overvalued because nearby land was sold much higher than its market value. As an example, Jensen described an investor purchasing land that was valued at $600 an acre for $800 an acre. The $800 sale then affects the taxable value for surrounding land.

"Property taxes have always been a hot topic," Stumpf said. "When we had those wet years in the 80s, property values were going down at a significant rate per year, and yet we couldn't reduce the property taxes fast enough, because there were no sales."

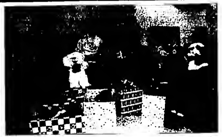
Stumpf added that the rapid escallation of property taxes has created a tough situation for property through out the state. "What can be done?" Stumpf asked.

Stumpf said there are a number of things that have been talked about. The first is a formula that was used years ago, that looked at land's net capitalization, rather than using land-sale value for property taxing.

Another solution, according to Stumpf, would be to create different land classes. "A class that has jumped up dramatically in northern Minnesota is the recreational (hunting and fishing) one," Stumpf said.

Other points of discussion

Along with the aforementioned topics, the trio of state legislators briefly discussed special education funding; the possibility of raising balance limits for ditch funds; reducing the number of property tax programs used by county auditors' offices throughout the state, from five to one or two; e-waste storage and collection; continued state funding for bovine tuberculosis; the cost of housing sex offenders; and the switch from analog signals to digital for televisions and cell phones.



Residents of LifeCare - Greenbush Manor (formerly known as the Greenbush Nursing Home) decided to share in the Christmas Spirit by baking goodies and spending their monthly doughnut sales profit to put together gift baskets for families in need in the Greenbush Area. (Submitted photo)

DNR Announces '08 Grant Applications Available

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources has announced that applications for the 2008 local grants, trail grants, cooperative water recreation grants and Metro Greenways grants are now available.

These grants help local governments, organizations and individuals throughout the state create partnerships with the DNR to fund projects that protect natural resources and provide outdoor recreation opportunities.

Programs include regional parks (outside the metro area), natural and scenic areas, conservation partners/environmental partnerships, local trail connections, federal recreation trails, regional trails (outside the metro area), fishing piers, public boat accesses and Metro Greenways Land Protection grants.

These matching grants fund projects such as natural area acquisition, trail connections or trails for long distance travel, water-based recreational facilities, parks that provide regional natural resource based recreation opportunities, habitat restoration and improvement, and other conservation projects.

Though the amount of funding for these programs is uncertain at this time, it is anticipated that both federal and state funds will be available during 2008. Initiating the application process now provides more time for DNR staff to assist in developing project ideas and for project completion.

Application information is available on the DNR Web site at www.mndnr.gov. Click the "Grants" heading and find the appropriate grant program. For more information, contact the grants staff listed in the program descriptions.

To obtain the application packet by mail, write to Local Grants Program, Department of Natural Resources, Office of Management and Budget Services, Box 10, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN 55155-4010.

that timing is crucial in situations like this, and felt that all the right assistance was being given when it was needed.

Dulka, who is also an EMT at Seven Clans Casino near Thief River Falls, has had training with the AEDs that are available in many area schools. When she arrived on the scene, she said she was glad to see the device was at the victim's side.

She said when she arrived, Rasmussen had no pulse and was not breathing on his own. She estimated that he had collapsed at about 5:20 p.m. She was on the scene by 5:23 p.m., and she had shocked Rasmussen by 5:26 p.m.

Dulka said she administered the shock and then they began providing CPR again. She guessed that within a minute they had a pulse. During that time, she noticed that she had been joined by her EMT partner Diana Nelson, and that Roger Cardinal, another EMT, had also joined them.

Rasmussen was taken by ambulance to MeritCare Thief River Falls Northwest Medical Center. By the time he got there he was talking, but Rasmussen doesn't remember that. He was later transferred to MeritCare in Fargo, N.D.

On Christmas Eve, his wife and daughters at this side, he went into surgery. Rasmussen said surgeons performed a double bypass on the right side of his heart, using arteries from his chest and arm.

At first, Rasmussen said it wasn't a very good Christmas, but his wife Meloni corrected him, saying it was a good Christmas because he was still with them. His daughters JaNae, 21, Kayla, 19, Krystina, 14, and Jamee, 13, would agree, too.

He was released from the hospital on Thursday, Dec. 27. On Friday, Jan. 4, Rasmussen was recovering at his home in Crookston. He said his future includes doing what he used to do. It doesn't include smoking anymore, he said. And he admits that because of his medication, he doesn't miss it, either.

Rasmussen is a manager at Auto Value in Red Lake Falls. He also does some small engine repair work at his home and is a member of the Minnesota National Guard. He served overseas in Bosnia and Kosovo with the units from Thief River Falls and Crookston, but is an instructor at Camp Ripley.

In Rasmussen's situation, timing and the presence of individuals with training probably saved his life.

Rasmussen said he had everything going for him. The right people - his good friends - were at his side when he needed them.

NMF grant funding available for qualified projects

To help meet its mission to make the region a better place to live and work, the Northwest Minnesota Foundation provides grants to public agencies and nonprofits with 501(c)3 federal tax-exempt status. The foundation is interested in supporting projects that will benefit the region's natural resources and area youth, seniors, and communities.

Community planning, caring communities, and natural resource program grants are made to organizations located and/or conducting activities in the 12-county NMF service area. Resources are available to help address issues and opportunities in partnership with the foundation.

To be considered for grant funding, a pre-proposal must be submitted on the NMF application form. They are accepted at any time; however, applicants are encouraged to contact NMF staff to discuss projects before submitting a pre-proposal. More information and a downloadable pre-proposal form are available on the NMF Web site (www.nwmf.org).

Grant requests will not be considered for capital campaigns, major equipment purchases, annual fund drives, endowments, building construction, religious activities, past operating deficits, general operating expenses, lobbying, publicity or advertising.

Projects should show evidence of grassroots support, the need for NMF funding, and plans for future sustainability. All grants are awarded for a two-year period or less and usually do not exceed $25,000. NMF will typically fund no more than half of the total cost of a proposed project.

If there is an idea you wish to discuss, feel free to contact Jim Steenerson, grants specialist, via jims@nwmf.org or Peggy Crandall, grants services associate, via peggyc@nwmf.org. They may be reached by telephone at 1-800-659-7859.

Jordan Nelson of the Bagley Boys Basketball team tries to break free from coverage provided by a Prowler in a boys basketball game played at Lincoln High School Tuesday in Thief River Falls.

Dylan Johnson drives inside and prepares to pass. The Thief River Falls Boys Basketball team defeated Bagley Tuesday night in the Lincoln High School gym.

Prowlers take charge in game with Bagley

Lincoln High School Prowler boys basketball team chalked up a convincing win against Bagley Tuesday, Jan. 8, in the Lincoln High School gym. The Prowlers' effort gained momentum in the first half, culminating with a 41 to 22 score at half. In the second half, their lead continued to grow and the game ended 83 to 49.

"I thought our defensive pressure and our ability to rebound and run was the biggest factor. We got up early on them and were able to maintain our pressure throughout the game. This allowed for some easy baskets on the other end," said Chris McLean, coach of the Prowlers.

The Prowlers recorded 33 rebounds, and 10 offensive rebounds during the game. They were 34 for 53 from the field, and one for five for three-pointers.

McLean attributed Tuesday night's success to a tremendous team effort. "I thought we did a great job of sharing the ball."

LHS girls hockey lose to Roseau

Thief River Falls Girls Hockey team lost to a tough Roseau team on Tuesday, Jan. 8, at Ralph Engelstad Arena in Thief River Falls. Thief River Falls' only score came in the second period from Alie Dorn. Dorn was assisted by Haleigh Stegeman and Ashley Mykelbush.

Roseau took the lead late in the first period with a goal by Dani Janzen. Roseau extended its lead by scoring 30 seconds into the second period, then 3:52 into the second period, and then again at 4:58 into the second period. Dorn's goal came at 5:08 into the second period. Roseau came back out in the third period and again scored quickly (29 seconds into the period), and then again at 16:35.

Scoring

First period - Roseau, Dani Janzen (Loken) 14:40.

Second period - Roseau, Abby Ness (Loken, Janzen) :30; Roseau, Mary Loken (Janzen, Ness) 3:52, Roseau, Kylie Lane (Monkman) 4:58, Thief River Falls, Alie Dorn (Stegeman and Myklebust) 5:08.

Third period - Roseau, Abby Ness (Loken, Comstock) :29, Roseau, Dani Janzen 16:35.

Goalie saves - TRF, Jade Gothberg 18-10-8-36 Roseau, Chelsey Froseth 4-2-12-18.

Steve Kloety, left, accepts the third place check from Tom Saragosa Sr., following the Eighth Annual Tom Saragosa Jr. Memorial Bowling Tournament, held Saturday, Jan. 5. Kloety was the highest finishing bowler from Thief River Falls. The tournament was won by Mike Morris of Fargo, N.D. (Submitted photo)

Thomas Saragosa Sr. and his wife Gladys Saragosa accepted an official United States Bowling Congress Hall of Fame plaque on behalf of their son, Thomas Saragosa Jr. on Saturday, Jan. 5 at Family Bowl. Tom Saragosa Jr. bowled six career 300 games and three 800 series prior to his untimely death May 11, 2000. (Submitted photo)

Mike Morris wins Saragosa Tournament

Kloety third, Bray fifth

Mike Morris of Fargo, N.D., posted a perfect 7-0 record to claim championship honors in the 2008 Tom Saragosa Jr. Memorial Bowling Tournament. The 64-bowler tournament was held Saturday, Jan. 5.

Morris defeated consolation champion Brad Nelson of Grafton, N.D. to win the tournament, which was contested in a double elimination match-play format.

Steve Kloety, Thief River Falls, posted the highest finish among Thief River Falls area bowlers with a third place finish. Kloety was victorious in his first five matches, before falling to Morris and Nelson in back-to-back one-game matches.

Other Thief River Falls bowlers who earned a spot in the top 16 include David Bray, fifth; Scott Langlie, 11th; Jason Olson, 13th; Scott Muzzy, 15th, and Geno Kalinoski, 16th.

Tom Saragosa Sr. and his wife, Gladys, were presented with an official United States Bowling Congress hall of fame plaque, commemorating their son's induction into the Thief River Falls Bowling Hall of Fame.

"Gladys and I are grateful to the tournament committee for the hard work they put in every year," Tom said. "To have our son remembered in this way is heartwarming."

Tom also awarded checks to the top 16 bowlers at the tournament's end.

"For a tournament restricted to non-PBA members, I feel it is a very strong field," Tom said. "Some bowlers have their own very large tournaments, including the KFYR tournament in Bismarck, N.D., and one player this year is a former PBA member (Morris) with a regional title to his credit."

More information about Tom Saragosa Jr.'s induction into the TRF USBC Hall of Fame will appear in a future edition of The Times.

Tom Saragosa Memorial Bowling Tournament results

Second half run pushes Clearbrook-Gonvick to victory over Goodridge

Clearbrook-Gonvick topped Goodridge 59 to 49 in a boys basketball game Tuesday night at Goodridge.

The Eric Mickelson-coached Goodridge Huskies held a 26 to 24 lead after one half of play, but the game's momentum turned for good early in the second half, as the Bears went on 15-2 run, to lead 39 to 28.

Mickelson said he was pleased with the team's effort. He added that Clearbrook-Gonvick's run to start the second half was the difference in the game.

Clearbrook-Gonvick had the shooting edge at 20 of 36 to Goodridge's 18 of 46. The teams were even in rebounds, with 23 apiece and Clearbrook-Gonvick had the edge in the turnover battle with 15 to Goodridge's 18.

Goodridge will next take on Win-E-Mac in Erskine on Thursday, Jan. 17.

BGMR handles Goodridge team

Badger-Greenbush-Middle River boys basketball team handed the Goodridge boys basketball team 70-33 loss Monday, Jan. 7.

"We had a pretty good game for not playing in 10 days. We really got after them with our press and built a nice early lead," said Kent Christian, coach of BGMR. Christian added that "Everyone had a chance to contribute and it was a nice start to the New Year."

Eric Mickelson, coach of the Goodridge basketball team, said BGMR jumped out to a big lead with 15 unanswered points right at the start. He said BGMR "put the pressure on right away and we didn't handle it well." Mickelson added that his team played well the second half and he got a good game out of their only active senior, Otto Rubischko. "He worked hard all night and was a good leader."

BGMR was 30 for 57, 7 for 11 at the line, secured 20 rebounds and had 13 turnovers. Goodridge was 12 for 44, 7 for 14 at the line, secured 33 rebounds and had 27 turnovers.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Opinions in items from other publications may not coincide with the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

We must devote serious attention to development of alternative fuels

Ethanol may not be the answer. There are many issues that need to be addressed - the infrastructure and production capability to provide adequate supplies, energy output required to make ethanol, and concerns over the use of corn on feedstocks. Ethanol may not be the solution, but for the time being, corn-based ethanol is reducing our dependence on foreign oil, reducing pollution, and helping farmers and rural economies.

Let's be honest - public interest and demand for ethanol and other biofuels is generally driven by high fuel costs. Certainly, concern over global climate changes have also impacted demand, but for a large segment of the population, demand is being driven by high fuel costs. If true, then the market for ethanol could easily collapse if the price of oil and gasoline were suddenly to drop. That doesn't seem likely.

Whether or not support of ethanol and biofuels is public policy, may be complicated by the trade relationship the U.S. has with other countries whose economies are based on oil. It's certainly in the interest of the U.S. to support and develop biofuels for a variety of other reasons - cleaner air comes to mind. Selfishly, perhaps, we can also think of the impact it's having on the economy of rural America and on our educational research centers.

The Congressional Research Service concluded that "to meet some of the higher ethanol production goals would require more corn than the U.S. currently produces, if all of the envisioned ethanol was made from corn." Other biofuel supplies are being examined. Cellulosic biomass is promising, "but technological barriers make their future uncertain."

Several studies of ethanol and other biofuel supplies are ongoing. A recent study by the University of Nebraska and the USDA's Agricultural Research Service concluded that an acre of switch grass would produce an average of 300 gallons of ethanol. An acre of corn grown produces about 350 gallons of ethanol on average.

At the National Governors Association summit in Florida on Dec. 13, 2007, Minnesota Governor Tim Pawlenty opened the summit by stating, "America is the world's leading consumer of petroleum, using more than 7.6 billion barrels of oil a year, of which more than 60 percent is imported. If we're to wrestle back control of our own energy future, America must devote serious attention to increasing development of alternative fuels and clean vehicles."

As muddy as the debate sometime seems, it's clear that America must address the issue aggressively - more research needs to be done even while we need to explore more opportunities - opportunities such as blended fuel.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

No injuries reported after three separate accidents Tuesday

No injuries were reported after three separate accidents Tuesday morning due to icy roads. One of the accidents involved a semi that jackknifed, causing its trailer to split open.

Jackknifed semi

The Minnesota State Patrol was dispatched to a semi accident at 7:06 a.m. Tuesday. Craig A. Henry, 34, Stonewall, Manitoba, Canada, was driving a 2000 Western semi tractor loaded with sunflower seeds. While traveling southbound on Pennington County State Aid Highway 16 (the truck bypass), his semi went into a skid on a corner. The trailer then went into a ditch, causing the semi to jackknife. The trailer then split open, partially dumping sunflower seeds on the highway. Henry was wearing his seat belt. Moderate damage was reported. CSAH 16 was shut down for about five hours to clean up the sunflower seeds. The Pennington County Sheriff's Office assisted.

Two-vehicle accident

The State Patrol was dispatched to a two-vehicle accident four miles east of Warroad at 7:41 a.m. Tuesday. At the time of the accident, Laura J. Monkman, 38, Warroad, was driving a 1999 Oldsmobile Silhouette westbound on Highway 11. According to the report, her vehicle couldn't get any traction to brake. Her car sideswiped a westbound 1992 Mercury Marquis driven by Kevin J. Olson, 27, Warroad. Olson was traveling slowly on the ice. Both drivers were wearing their seat belts. Olson's car sustained minor damage, and Monkman's car sustained moderate damage. The Roseau County Sheriff's Office assisted.

One-vehicle accident

The State Patrol was dispatched to a one-vehicle accident three miles south of Thief River Falls at 10:33 a.m. Tuesday. At the time of the accident, Michael R. Ries, 58, Canyon, was driving a 2000 Ford pickup truck northbound on Highway 32. According to the report, he slowed to make a right turn. The pickup truck lost traction and slid into the eastern ditch, hitting a road sign. Ries was wearing his seat belt. Moderate damage was reported. The Pennington County Sheriff's Office assisted.

Car rolls after driver swerves to avoid dog

No injuries were reported early Thursday morning after a driver swerved to avoid a dog, causing his car to slide into a ditch and roll over.

At the time of the accident, Darrell G. Fletcher, 45, Roseau, was driving a 1986 Ford Tempo westbound on Highway 11, near the intersection with Roseau County Road 9, eight miles east of Roseau. He swerved to miss the dog, causing him to lose control of his car. The car then slid into a ditch and rolled. Fletcher was wearing his seat belt, according to the Minnesota State Patrol report. The car sustained severe damage. The State Patrol was dispatched to the scene at 2:15 a.m. Thursday.

Stephen teen suffers injury after accident Monday

A Stephen teen suffered a minor injury after a rollover four miles north of Argyle on Monday morning.

At the time of the accident, Ayla J. Winskowski, 16, was driving a 2000 Ford Explorer southbound on Highway 75. She lost control of the vehicle on the icy road. The vehicle then went off of the road and rolled, according to the Minnesota State Patrol report. Winskowski was wearing her seat belt.

The vehicle sustained moderate damage. The State Patrol was dispatched to the scene at 11:55 a.m. Monday.

Small grains update scheduled for NW Minnesota

The annual small grains update sponsored by the Minnesota Extension Service and Minnesota Wheat Growers Association are now scheduled for northwest Minnesota. The meetings are free and anyone interested in small grain production is encouraged to attend.

The meetings are scheduled:

- Jan. 23 at 8:30 a.m. at the American Legion Club in Crookston;
- Jan. 24 at 9 a.m. at the Hallock City Hall; at 1 p.m. at the American Legion Club in Argyle; and at 5 p.m. at Gene's Bar & Grill in Roseau; and
- Jan. 25 at 8:30 a.m. at Northwest Grain in St. Hilaire.

Topics will include 2008 wheat variety selection by Dr. Jochum Wiersma, from the Northwest Research and Outreach Center at Crookston. Wiersma will also compare yields on varieties with and without the use of a fungicide.

Bret Oelke, Extension Business Management, will discuss how to reduce the anxiety of selling a crop that hasn't yet been produced. Oelke currently works with a number of producer marketing groups and has been a leader in developing new and innovative marketing education programs.

Dr. Beverly Durgan has been conducting weed control trials on old and new herbicide products as well as weed management strategies for wheat and barley. Durgan will share her unbiased research results in order to help producers make weed control decisions that can reduce costs and increase control effectiveness.

Finally, the new 2008 farm bill will be discussed along with its implications for farmers in the Red River Valley.

BP8000 BALE PROCESSORS

Best way to turn round bales into feeding rows, reduce labor.

Best way to make sure ALL YOUR CATTLE get an equal opportunity at feeding time.

Best way to stretch short hay supplies.

When you feed your cows in a different location each day, you can increase land productivity, reduce manure-handling problems and give your herd a cleaner, open range feeding environment. Plus, processed bales don't waste the energy of your cattle ... energy that converts into producing better weight gains.

Vermeer

Stop in and see Cecil or Mark for all your equipment needs.

Cecil
Mark

It's about money

Vermeer BP8000 Processors save hay. Lots of hay. For example, consider the savings of just three bales a week. (That's more than 150 bales a year!) Now, multiply that times your cost per bale, and you soon realize the savings in hay alone could pay for the processor in just a few short years.

...and time!

The Vermeer BP8000 Bale Processor processes a 2,000 lb bale in less than two minutes, while carrying an extra bale on the forks.

BOTTOM LINE: You're feeding and bedding 4,000 lbs. of hay ... in minutes! And, in the winter months – especially during the critical calving season – that's the kind of performance you need to minimize mortality rates and protect your herd from frostbite.

Real Estate For Sale On Bids in Golden Valley Township - Roseau County, Minnesota

The Southwest Quarter of the Northeast Quarter (SW 1/4 NE 1/4), Section Twenty-four (24) in Township One Hundred Fifty-nine (159) North, Range Thirty-nine (39) West of the Fifth Principal Meridian in Minnesota, according to the United States Government Survey thereof.

Forty (40) Acres plus/minus. From State Hwy. 11, go South on Roseau County #9 18 1/4 miles, then West 1/4 mile, then South 1/4 mile.

Property includes a three bedroom, 1 bath house and 3 outbuildings.

Sealed bids will be accepted at Border State Bank, P.O. Box 40, Roseau, MN 56751, until Tuesday, February 5, 2008 at promptly 10 a.m., at which time the bids shall be opened and considered. Bidders must be present or represented during bid opening. Border State Bank will consider all bids legal and binding. Proof of cash or financing must accompany bid.

Those bidders submitting the three (3) highest bids on the parcel shall have the opportunity to increase their bids verbally following the bid opening. The parcel shall be sold as an entire parcel and not by the acre. Each bidder must indicate on the outside of the bid envelope the bidder's name. Bids are binding, so please consider your bid carefully.

The seller reserves the right to reject any and all bids, waive any irregularities or negotiate a private sale.

Sale is for cash and each successful bidder must furnish 5% of the purchase price as a down payment and enter into a purchase agreement on or about February 5, 2008. Closing date on this parcel will be on or before March 3, 2008.

Please direct any inquiries to: Border State Bank, P.O. Box 40, Roseau, MN 56751 or call (218) 463-3888.

FOOD AND WELLNESS FAIR

Tuesday, February 26
2:00 to 4:00 p.m.

LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL CAFETERIA

STUDENTS TO HELP CHOOSE FOODS FOR SCHOOL MENUS!

The fair, sponsored by the Thief River Falls Public Schools Wellness Committee, is for students from Challenger, Franklin, Lincoln and their parents. There will be a wide choice of food samples for students and parents to taste and evaluate. The results of the evaluations will help Food Service staff in choosing foods to serve students.

In addition to the food vendors, the Wellness Fair will be featuring a variety of activities with information from community wellness agencies and school departments. Plan to join us for a fun and "tasty" afternoon!

FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

For more information call Ivy Thorson, Child Nutrition Director, at 681-8675, or e-mail ithorson@trf.k12.mn.us

Sen. Amy Klobuchar visited Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, Jan. 15. Dr. Anne Temte, president at NCTC, focused the meeting on a proposal to help returning soldiers bridge the gap in their medical training so that they could become EMTs or paramedics. Pictured are, from left, Rep. Dave Olin, Sen. Klobuchar, Sen. LaRoy Stumpf, and Dr. Temte.

Sen. Klobuchar visits TRF ...

Medical training for returning soldiers discussed at NCTC

by David Hill
Editor

When Sen. Klobuchar finishes this leg of her journey to visit all counties in Minnesota, she'll have visited 46 counties. Meetings during the tour are short but intense, and focus on specific topics. During this journey, Klobuchar's meetings focused on the farm bill, wind energy, healthcare, and at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, Jan. 15, the meeting focused on a proposal that would help veterans with medical training complete the gap in their training to become EMTs or paramedics.

Dr. Anne Temte, president of NCTC, said Rep. Dave Olin brought the subject of veterans needing training to fill the gap to her attention. She said NCTC is very interested.

NCTC has a Veterans Center at its campuses at East Grand Forks and Thief River Falls. There are 65 students who are veterans at East Grand Forks, and 33 who are veterans taking courses at the Thief River Falls campus. The veterans are taking a full complement of courses, said Temte, but there's a large concentration in the health care programs.

Temte noted that NCTC offers 10 to 11 health-related programs, and has over 500 students in the pipeline to complete nursing training. She also discussed the college's efforts to provide a nursing program at the Tribal College.

Dan Sponsler, paramedicine instructor at the college, said the college has a long history of providing training for the region's emergency medical personnel. In recent years, the college has been attempting to re-invigorate the program, and the proposal to bridge the gap for veterans fits right in with what they want to do.

Providing healthcare in rural areas poses many challenges that affect training requirements. In urban areas, emergency responders may be able to transport individuals in need of critical care to a trauma or acute care center in a short period of time. In rural areas, it may take as long as 20 or 30 minutes to reach the nearest hospital, so emergency responders are with patients for longer periods of time and require a higher degree of training.

Another problem, as pointed out by Brian Holmer, vice president of the Minnesota Ambulance Association, is that roughly 80 to 90 percent of ambulance services in northwestern Minnesota are staffed by volunteers. Volunteers and employees of ambulance services, who start out with a regional ambulance service, generally find better pay in urban settings because of their training and experience. Holmer also noted that low reimbursement rates make it difficult for private ambulance service providers to survive.

Sen. LeRoy Stumpf, who was also

Lowest tuition increase recommended

Tuition rates would go up an average of 2 percent at the two-year colleges and 3 percent at the state universities this fall - the lowest increase since 1998, under a recommendation released Monday, Jan. 14, by Minnesota State Colleges and Universities Chancellor James H. McCormick.

The recommendation follows direction from the board of trustees last year to keep tuition increases as low as possible while enhancing the already high quality of the system's 3,700 programs.

The increases would bring the average tuition to $4,080 for a full-time two-year college student and $5,561 for a full-time state university student in the 2008-2009 academic year. Overall, tuition and fees for the system's 32 colleges and universities would rise an average of 2.7 percent or $129 to $4,849.

The board of trustees is expected to act on the recommendation at its March meeting.

"We are grateful that strong financial support from the Legislature and governor, along with some significant cost cutting throughout the system to improve efficiency, allowed us to propose such a modest increase," said McCormick. "We also know that even this small increase will strain some students, requiring them to juggle studies and long hours of work to meet their career goals.

"Several of our colleges and universities have had to make some tough decisions about programs with extremely low enrollments. I commend them for carefully analyzing how best to meet the needs of their students and communities," McCormick said. "I'm clear that our

Do you know someone who may have Alzheimer's

Valley Home's Memory Care offers home-like environment for individuals with Alzheimer's

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Did you see the warning signs this holiday season? That is a question that the Alzheimer's Association is asking in early 2008.

Busy schedules and long travel distances often mean that the winter holiday season is the only time that many families can get together during the year. During these once-a-year gatherings, it is easier to notice subtle changes in behavior like memory loss, difficulty performing familiar tasks, problems with language, and changes in mood, behavior or personality.

It is normal for an individual: to forget names or occasionally forget appointments; to forget why he or she came into a room or what he or she planned to say; to have trouble finding the right word; or to misplace keys or a wallet.

It is not normal: to forget ever meeting an individual or having no memory of making an appointment; to forget how to get dressed or how to brush teeth; to substitute descriptions like "that thing I eat with," for a fork or spoon; or to place things in obscure places, like an iron in the freezer.

"Everybody forgets where they put their car keys, everybody forgets their appointments," said Shari Holmes, RN Care Coordinator at Valley Home Assisted Living and Memory Care in Thief River Falls. "What's going to standout are tasks that should be just habit for you ... how to put your shirt on, how you comb your hair. It's when those things that you should be knowing on a day to day basis, become harder to remember."

The Alzheimer's Association states that brains age as the rest of the body ages, and some slowed thinking and occasional problems remembering certain things is normal. Serious memory loss, confusion and other major changes are not a normal part of aging, and they may be a sign that brain cells are failing.

For anyone who thinks that a loved one may have Alzheimer's disease, the Alzheimer's Association provides a toll-free help line (1-800-272-3900) that may help families distinguish simple forgetfulness from Alzheimer's disease.

Early detection

Alzheimer's disease is a brain disorder named for German physician Alois Alzheimer. Alzheimer first described the disease in 1906, after treating a patient for five years, who exhibited problems with her memory and speech.

Alzheimer's disease is the most common form of dementia, and there is no known cure, but early detection and treatments can vastly improve the lives of Americans living with Alzheimer's disease.

Early detection will allow families time to locate and meet with a doctor who

DNR replies to Kittson County's counterclaim

Hallock - "A reply to the counterclaim submitted earlier this month by Kittson County arrived via fax from the Minnesota Attorney General's Office on Dec. 24, 2007.

"Preparing for trial will be the next step, said County Attorney Roger Malm."

"As for a timeline of when the case will be called for trial, Malm could only guess that it wouldn't be before the end of the year."

The suit pertains to 16 miles of roads in Beaches Lake Wildlife Management Area and whether those roads are public roads. The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources and the Minnesota attorney general filed a quiet title action suit in late 2007. Shortly thereafter, the county filed a counterclaim, asking for attorney fees if a judge rules in Kittson County's favor. - Kittson County Enterprise, Jan. 16, 2008, by Louise Money

Open house and dedication planned at new corrections facility

Crookston - County and corrections employees are gradually moving into their offices at the new Polk County Justice Center and Tri-County Community Corrections. A public open house is planned Feb. 16 and 17.

"The dedication program will begin at 2 p.m. Feb. 16 and will feature Minnesota State Supreme Court Justice Russell Anderson as the guest speaker. Anderson was a 9th District Court judge in Crookston prior to joining the State Supreme Court in 1998.

"The corrections facility is getting close to being ready to accept inmates although it's not there yet. The plan to transition them into the facility from the current jail has been set for late February.

"Tours of the justice center and corrections facility will be held the day of the dedication from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and again on Feb. 17 from 1 to 4 p.m." - The Erskine Echo, Jan. 17, 2008

The game was a pilgrimage for these visitors

Roseau - "Shortly after 5 p.m. Jan. 9, best-selling sports author Ross Bernstein was spotted lifting two huge containers out of his vehicle. Bernstein, a Twin Cities resident, absolutely loves hockey, which was why he made his first trip to Roseau.

"For sure, he was here to sell books. But he also wanted to experience a Roseau/Warroad hockey game in person.

"He parked next to a vehicle, which is owned by a couple of other hockey fanatics, also from the southern part of the state. Meet Tony Thompson of Milaca and Mike Anderson of Chaska, who were on the second day of a tripleheader of northern Minnesota hockey and also first-time visitors to Roseau." - Roseau Times-Region, Jan. 12, 2008, by Jeff Olsen

RLF teachers' contract not settled by state deadline

The Red Lake Falls School District will be penalized since its teachers' contract wasn't settled by the state's deadline of 12 a.m. Tuesday. It has incurred a one-time penalty of $25 per pupil in state aid. The district has 372 students.

"We can't quite come together," said School Board Chairperson Mike Swendra, who is involved in the labor negotiations. He noted that a "big thing" was that the district was trying to keep expenses down since a referendum failed in November 2007. The negotiations have been occurring for about 18 months. Swendra said he was hopeful that an agreement could be reached.

Teachers' contracts in 15 other school districts also weren't settled by the deadline. All but one of those school districts, Albert Lea, will incur the one-time penalty, according to Education Minnesota, a labor union with a membership of 70,000 educators. The Albert Lea School District won't incur the penalty since the teachers and the district had filed for arbitration. The other school districts facing penalties include Atwater-Cosmos-Grove City, East Central, Ivanhoe, St. Cloud, Fairbault, Menahga, McGregor, St. Louis County, Carlton, Hendricks, Clinton Graceville, Houston, Waconia and Wrenshall.

Education Minnesota noted the number of local unions that did not settle by the deadline is somewhat larger than usual. There were 11 unsettled contracts during 2005-07 and five unsettled contracts in 1999-01, which were the last two times the deadline was in place.

"The fact that so many districts went right down to the wire this year is a symptom of a crisis that has been building for several years – and has come to a head in 2008," said Education Minnesota President Tom Dooher. "To put it plainly, Minnesota is not funding its K-12 schools at a level that allows us both to maintain quality programs and to attract and retain quality teachers."

Inadequate state funding combined with soaring health care costs make bargaining extremely difficult, Dooher said. Statewide, 147 local unions and districts requested state mediation versus 111 during the last bargaining round.

Dooher said the high number of settled contracts (330 out of 346) continues to prove that the deadline helps. Yet, he said that the real lesson of the day surrounds the inadequacy of teacher compensation. Dooher said, "Our union wants the best teachers in the nation in front of the best students in the nation. But that won't continue to be the case unless we address teacher pay."

Skating senior wiles away the time in TRF

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

At least three times a week, Clinton Castle laces up his ice skates at Ralph Engelstad Arena in Thief River Falls. The Holt resident has been skating for many years.

"To me, this is good for everybody, old and young alike," said Castle, a senior citizen who declined to disclose his age. As he put it, he's up there and a person would be shocked to find out his age.

A self-taught skater, he began skating many years ago at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. When asked how long ago that was, Castle said, "Oh my God, I don't know – before they built [REA]." REA was built five years ago, and Castle said that it can't be 20 or 30 years ago that he started skating at HOMCC. "Time goes so fast," Castle said.

He remembers a time when there were many senior citizens skating at the HOMCC. They would have a party each year, and prizes would be awarded. Now, when he skates at REA, Castle never sees senior citizens skating.

Castle is appreciative of REA and has included REA in his will. "There's no better way to spend your money," he said.

Castle is thankful to be able to participate in a worthwhile activity throughout the year. "I don't howl. I don't gamble. I don't drink. I don't do nothing else. I started [skating], and I just love it," Castle said.

And he plans to do it for many years to come, Castle said. "I don't feel any different now than I did years ago."

Holt resident Clinton Castle skates at least three times a week at Ralph Engelstad Arena in Thief River Falls. The senior citizen said everybody should skate.

Are we watching our weight again? Sure enough, all those Christmas cookies and holiday parties have put a few pounds on, haven't they? Let's see if we can't find some recipes for more healthy eating now that the new year is well on its way.

For a really delicious pizza that no one will ever guess is healthy, try this. It may take a little time, but it is well worth it. Get your family or guests to help cut and chop. This recipe makes 2 large pizzas. You can make half a recipe, or make the crusts and freeze one if you don't want to make two at the same time. If you make just one pizza, remember to use just half of the toppings:

HOME-MADE WHOLE WHEAT PEPPERONI PIZZA

Crust

1 2/3 cups water
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 tablespoons nonfat dry milk powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 1/2 cups bread flour
2 cups whole wheat flour
2 teaspoons active dry yeast

Toppings

4 teaspoons olive oil
1 (15 ounce) can pizza sauce
2 teaspoons oregano
4 cups part-skim mozzarella cheese
2 ounces turkey pepperoni, diced
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
2/3 cup chopped onion
2/3 cup chopped green pepper

Place first nine ingredients in bread machine in order suggested by manufacturer. Select dough setting (check after a few minutes of mixing to see if dough needs more water or more flour). When cycle is completed, turn dough on lightly floured surface. Divide in half, cover and let stand 10 minutes.

Roll into two 14-inch circles. Transfer to two 14-inch pizza pans that have been coated with nonstick spray. Spread some of the olive oil over each crust. Spread with pizza sauce, oregano, mozzarella, pepperoni, parmesan, onion and green pepper.

Bake at 450 degrees for 15-20 minutes or until crust is golden. (Recipe makes 2 pizzas, 6 slices each.)

Nutritional Info: Each slice equals 343 calories, 11 g fat (5 g saturated)), 29 mg chol, 611 mg sodium, 43 g carb, 4 g fiber, 19 g protein. Diabetic Exchange is 2 1/2 starch, 2 lean meat, 1 vegetable and 1/2 fat.

(I don't like that much onion, so I substitute the onions for mushrooms and maybe a few black olives.)

If you just don't have the time to make the wonderful pizza above, this one is just as good, and much faster to make (and has less calories per slice, too):

MUSHROOM CHICKEN PIZZA

1 (10 ounce) tube refrigerated pizza crust
1 (6 ounce) can Italian tomato paste
1 1/2 cups cubed cooked chicken breast
2 cups grape or cherry tomatoes, halved
1/2 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
1/4 cup sliced ripe olives
1/8 teaspoon garlic salt
1/8 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 1/2 cups (6 ounces) shredded part skim mozzarella cheese

Spread pizza dough in a 10x15 inch baking pan coated with nonstick cooking spray. Prick with a fork and bake at 400 degrees for 5 minutes.

Spread crust with tomato paste, then with chicken, tomato halves, mushrooms, olives, garlic salt, and salt and pepper. Drizzle with oil and sprinkle with cheese. Bake 13-16 minutes longer until cheese is melted. Recipe makes 6 servings.

Nutritional Info: One piece equals 319 calories, 10 g fat (4 saturated), 46 mg chol, 618 mg sodium, 32 g carb, 3 g fiber, 23 g protein. Diabetic Exchange is 2 lean meat, 1 1/2 starch, 1 vegetable, 1/2 fat.

Here's a wonderful, low fat accompaniment to your pizza meal. If you aren't watching your weight too closely, you can serve the fruit dish over low fat frozen yogurt or ice cream or on a plain piece of cake as a tasty, tart dessert:

SPICY FRUIT DISH

1 (20 ounce) can unsweetened pineapple chunks
1 (15 ounce) can reduced sugar or no sugar apricot halves
1 (14 1/2 ounce) can reduced sugar or no sugar pear halves
1/4 cup packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon butter or stick margarine, melted
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 cup reduced fat yogurt (vanilla or any flavor)

Drain fruits, reserving about 3/4 cup of juice. Place fruit in a 2 quart baking dish. In small bowl, combine brown sugar, butter, cinnamon, nutmeg and reserved juice. Pour over fruit.

Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees for 25-30 minutes or until heated through. Top each serving with 1 tablespoon yogurt. Recipe serves 8.

Nutritional Info: One serving equals 132 calories, 2 g fat (1 g saturated), 5 mg chol, 30 mg sodium, 30 g carb, 1 g fiber, 1 g protein. Diabetic Exchange: 2 fruit.

Stores seem to have these tasty treats all year round now, so if you have a hankering for a sweet treat, make some of these. They'll satisfy that sweet tooth:

SASSY STRAWBERRIES

24 large fresh strawberries
1/2 cup spreadable strawberry cream cheese, reduced fat
3 tablespoons sour cream, reduced fat

Remove stems from strawberries. Place point side up on a cutting board. Cut a deep X in the top of each berry.

Carefully spread berries apart. In a bowl, beat cream cheese and sour cream until smooth. Pipe or spoon filling into each berry. Refrigerate until serving.

Nutritional Info: One strawberry equals 17 calories, 1 g fat (trace saturated), 2 mg chol, 20 mg sodium, 2 g carb, 1 g fiber, 1 g protein. Diabetic Exchange is free.

(The cream cheese-sour cream mixture makes a great dip for your other fruit favorites too.)

Public invited to discuss childhood obesity

The American Heart Association invites the public to join it during a discussion with Sen. Nominations sought for Artist and Arts Advocate of the Year Awards

The Northwest Regional Arts Council in Warren is accepting nominations for the 2008 Northwest Minnesota Artist of the Year and the 2008 Northwest Minnesota Arts Advocate of the Year. The deadline to nominate an individual is Feb. 29. The individual must reside within the Arts Council's service area of Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau.

This is a great opportunity to recognize the outstanding talent or outstanding dedication to the arts, of that special individual in this area. A list of past recipients, which includes their names, communities and qualifications, is on the Arts Council Web site (www.nwrdc/org/arts.htm).

The two selected individuals will receive engraved keepsakes and cash awards of $500 to use as they please to further their arts interest. The award is presented at the Northwest Minnesota Artist Reception. This year's reception will be held Sunday, May 4 at the Roseau City Center.

To request a nomination form, e-mail Mara Wittman, Arts Council director, at mara@nwrdc.org, call her at 1-800-646-2240 or look on www.nwrdc.org/arts.htm.

Notaries public reminded of January deadline

Minnesota Secretary of State Mark Ritchie reminds those with a notary public commission expiring in 2008 to file their renewals before the Jan. 31, 2008, deadline. Ritchie encouraged notaries to file their renewals online by visiting the Secretary of State's Office Web site (https://notary.sos.state.mn.us).

"Notaries public serve an important role in the way business is conducted in Minnesota. It is important for notaries to ensure that their commissions are current," said Ritchie. "I encourage those with commissions expiring to visit the Secretary of State's Office Web site and renew today. It is an easy process and will save notaries valuable time."

Once notaries public are commissioned or renew their commissions, they must also file copies with the county in which they are residents. The cost to obtain or renew a commission is $40 plus a $100 fee to register with the county.

When a notary public commission expires, the notary must seek reappointment by submitting a completed Notary Public Application. The application and renewal forms are available online at the Secretary of State's Office Web site or by contacting the office at (651) 296-2803.

There are approximately 94,000 notaries public commissioned in the state of Minnesota. Notaries public are appointed by the governor and approved by the Senate upon filing with the Secretary of State's Office. Notaries are appointed to five-year terms.

Applications now accepted for WHIP

The Red Lake County field office for the Natural Resource Conservation Service is now taking applications from landowners who are interested in enrolling marginal lands in the Wildlife Habitat Incentive Program.

What is WHIP?

The WHIP is a voluntary program for people who want to develop or improve wildlife habitat on tribal and private lands. It provides both technical and financial assistance to help establish and improve fish and wildlife habitat.

How WHIP works

Landowners agree to prepare and implement a wildlife habitat development plan. NRCS provides technical and financial assistance for the establishment of fish and wildlife habitat development practices. Payments are based on a payment rate for each practice establishment only. WHIP does not provide rental income or easement purchase payments.

The plan

Participants work with NRCS and other conservation partners to prepare a wildlife habitat development plan. The plan describes the landowner's goals for improving wildlife habitat, includes a list of practices and a schedule for installing them, and details the steps necessary to maintain the habitat for the life of the agreement.

Payment rate assistance

NRCS provides the technical assistance and payments rates used to establish, maintain, or replace wildlife habitat practices. Federal payment rates will reimburse approximately 50 percent of costs. State wildlife agencies or private organizations may provide additional funding or expertise to help complete the project. Generally the total payment cannot exceed $10,000 per contract. The financial and technical agreement normally lasts five to 10 years from the date the contract is signed. Under the agreement, the landowner agrees to maintain the established practices and allow NRCS access to monitor the progress and effectiveness of the practices.

What's eligible

Any landowner is eligible to participate. Almost any type of land may be eligible, including:

- grassland
- wood land pastureland
- wetlands
- streams and riparian areas
- agricultural or non-agricultural land

Interested landowners can contact the Red Lake Falls NRCS field office at (218) 253-2181 for additional information.

Artists sought for NW Regional Art Exhibit

Visual artists who are interested in participating in the Northwest Regional Art Exhibit can now request entry form brochures. The exhibit will be juried to include approximately 120 pieces. Two-thirds of those pieces will be from high school students, and one-third will be adult entries.

The Northwest Regional Arts Council anticipates that a variety of visual art mediums will be chosen as part of the exhibit. Entry forms are due Feb. 29. Forms are available online at www.nwrdc/org/arts.htm in the Exhibit section. Entry fees are $5 per student and $10 per adult. Checks are payable to the NWRDC.

High school students and adults with permanent residences in the Arts Council's seven-county region will be eligible to enter. The Minnesota counties represented will be Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau. Eighteen cash awards totalling $1,650 will be distributed in adult and student categories. The Arts Council is also working to arrange several purchase awards.

The exhibit will be held April 30-May 4 at the Roseau City Center. The Arts Council is the sponsor of the exhibit. This program is made possible with funding from The McKnight Foundation.

For an entry form, give your name and address to mara@nwrdc.org or to the front office staff at the Arts Council by calling 1-800-646-2240 or write to Mara Wittman, Arts Council director, NWRDC, 115 S. Main, Warren, MN 56762.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Welcome snowmobile racers and fans

This weekend marks the 36th running of the I-500 that dates back to 1966 when Herb Howe crossed the finish line in St. Paul as the winner of the inaugural Winnipeg to St. Paul I-500. Though the equipment and the course have certainly changed, significant challenges await anyone who takes on the I-500.

Welcome race fans and racers. As long as snowmobiles have been made, northwestern Minnesota has enthusiastically supported snowmobiling. Hundreds of miles of groomed trails exist, as do merchants who are ready to cater to your needs.

Racers, there may be more snow on trails this year than during the past several years, but it's packed and hard. Conditions will challenge man and machine. The weather always poses challenges for Minnesotans and snowmobilers who seem to thrive outside, but the weather this weekend is expected to challenge even the hardiest among us. Be smart. Temperatures are expected to be below zero for most of the weekend. Cover exposed skin and wear appropriate clothing. Weather like this is dangerous.

And when you're tired and cold, come in to the warmth and hospitality of our community. Welcome to northwestern Minnesota. Uff da.

Be smart, stay warm

Minnesotans are used to winter-weather challenges. Some would say we're even proud to say we live where temperatures range from 100-degrees fahrenheit in the summer to 45-below in the winter. Weather forecasters are telling us this weekend will be one of the latter.

Temperatures and wind chill temperatures are expected to stay below zero much of the weekend. Although we may be used to the winter weather, it nevertheless is a good time to review some common sense precautions:

- Stay warm. Stay smart. When outside, cover all exposed skin and wear appropriate clothing.
- Never leave space heaters, candles or fireplaces unattended.
- Clear all vents. Check batteries in fire/smoke detectors and carbon monoxide detectors.
- Never leave children or pets in a vehicle. Make sure all pets and animals that are outside have adequate food, drinkable water and shelter.
- When traveling, tell someone what route you're traveling and when you expect to arrive, have your winter survival kit with you, check road conditions before you leave, and make sure your cell phone is fully charged.

When winter weather is like this, be smart and stay warm.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

Buy Fresh Buy Local Campaign begins

A series of three meetings will be held in three locations in northwest Minnesota, inviting local food producers, processors, retailers and consumers interested in selling or buying local foods to learn about the Buy Fresh Buy Local Red River Valley chapter.

The meetings will be held:

- Jan. 28 at 6:30 p.m. in the Pennington County basement meeting room in Thief River Falls
- Feb. 4 at 6:30 p.m. in the McIntosh Community Center
- Feb 11 at 6:30 p.m. in the Probstfield Moorhead School District room 301.

The program is part of Food Routes program that involves 50 Buy Fresh Buy Local chapters nationwide; this is the third such program for Minnesota. The Buy Fresh Buy Local Red River Valley chapter serves northwestern Minnesota and neighboring communities.

Through outreach events, local food guides, and educational materials, Buy Fresh, Buy Local makes it easy for consumers to find and connect with local food from farmers they can know and trust. "There are many reasons to buy local foods; in addition to getting delicious, fresh food, you'll support farm families and boost the regional economy," Linda Kingery said. According to Kingery, a Maine study indicates that shifting just 1 percent of consumer expenditures to direct purchasing of local food products could increase farmer's income in that state by as much as 5 percent.

The BFBL Red River Valley Steering Committee is working hard to launch the chapter in early 2008. It has developed the Buy Fresh Buy Local Red River Valley label, and developed a partner agreement that allows local partners to use the label under agreement terms. A local partner of the Red River Valley Buy Fresh Buy Local chapter is a farm, a small scale processor utilizing local farm products, a farm stand, a farmers market, or a retail food business, such as a restaurant, food cooperative, or locally owned retail grocery store selling local products. Partners can also be organizations, government agencies, chambers of commerce, tourism bureaus, emerging farmers, youth and individuals, who endorse the chapter goals and participate in chapter activities.

Deadline for arts grants is Feb. 1

Schools and arts organizations are encouraged to apply for arts grants. The Northwest Regional Arts Council in Warren is accepting applications for a variety of grants in literary, performing and visual arts.

The Arts Council serves the Minnesota counties of Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau. Therefore, organizations, schools or individuals applying must be from those counties. Four grant programs have Feb. 1 postmark deadlines.

Its new program is the Hispanic Arts Initiative grants. This category is open to projects that celebrate, educate or enhance the development of Hispanic arts. Schools, community groups, adults and libraries are eligible for the $1,200 grants. A couple of ideas for eligible activities include after-school arts activities that bring Hispanic students together to create art, school residencies that bring in a Hispanic artist or a library gallery featuring the art of a traditional Hispanic artist.

In the Artist in the Schools program, public school districts may apply for up to $2,000 for the sponsorship of projects such as conducting an artist-in-residence program, hosting a visiting artist, or conducting workshops for students and/or teachers. School districts must provide 25 percent cash matches for projects taking place during the school day and 50 percent cash matches for projects occurring in the summer or after school. In-kind matches are not eligible. Each school district may receive up to $3,000 in grant funds annually.

In the Arts Project Grants program, organizations may apply for a maximum of $3,000 in matching funds per grant. Each organization may receive up to $3,000 in grant funds annually. Grants are available for the creation, performance or exhibition of arts. Grants also provide funds to host guest artists or touring groups.

In the Northwest Regional Development Commission/McKnight Small Capital Grants program, arts organizations classified under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code may apply for artistic equipment or other small capital expenditures. This program is supported with funding from The McKnight Foundation. There is no required match for this category. This program may have a May deadline for schools, so contact the Arts Council in early April for the announcement.

Application materials for all of the grant programs are available from Mara Wittman, Arts Council director, NWRDC, 115 S. Main, Warren, MN 56762; (218) 745-6733 or through the NWRDC Web site (www.nwrdc.org/arts.htm) in the grants section.

Free paint available to communities, organizations

The Northwest Minnesota Foundation has announced the availability of free paint to local communities. Through a collaborative venture with the Valspar Corporation and the Minnesota Beautiful Picture-It-Painted Program, assistance will be provided to communities and organizations seeking paint and other coating materials necessary for restoration and beautification projects.

Approximately 550 gallons of free paint will be made available. Selection will be based on the visual impact of the proposed projects, potential advantages to the public, volunteer participation and support, current and/or intended use of the structure to be refurbished, and benefits to those in need. Projects which may qualify for the awards include, but are not limited to, those involving historic buildings, structures or landmarks; parks; community centers or other public buildings; facilities for senior or disabled citizens; and murals or other visual-impact projects. Examples of projects that don't fall within the scope of the program include those dealing with denominational churches, city maintenance, privately-owned facilities, or school projects, with the exception of mural projects.

Grant proposals are due by March 3, and awards will be announced March 24. To obtain application guidelines and application forms, call Holly at 1-800-659-7859 or e-mail inquiries to hollyt@nwmf.org. Include your name, address and phone number in the e-mail inquiry. The application materials can also be downloaded from the NMF Web site (www.nwmf.org).

This is the 11th year of NMF's partnership with Valspar and over this time, they have funded 116 projects with 4,855 gallons of paint.

More than $660,000 in EQIP funds obligated to Marshall County

The Natural Resources Conservation Service has announced that more than $660,000 in Environmental Quality Incentive Program funding has been obligated to contracts for Fiscal Year 2008 in Marshall County.

EQIP is a program that provides agricultural producers with technical assistance, cost-share payments, and incentive payments to crop, livestock and other agricultural producers for making environmental and conservation improvements to their operations to reduce soil erosion, improve ground and surface water quality, and improve soil, plant, and animal health.

EQIP is a voluntary conservation program administered by NRCS, which supports production agriculture and environmental quality as compatible goals. Through EQIP, land users may receive financial and technical help with structural and management conservation practices on agricultural land. Incentive payments may be made to encourage producers to adopt land management practices such as pest management, nutrient management and residue management. Cost-share payments are made for the installation of eligible practices, such as wildlife habitat plantings, erosion control structures, manure management facilities, cover crop and field borders.

Applications for EQIP are accepted throughout the year and ranked during designated funding periods. For more information on EQIP, contact the Warren NRCS office at (218) 745-4351, ext. 3.

Public radio to reach area by August 1

With help from Rep. Dave Olin (DFL–Thief River Falls) and Sen. Rod Skoe (DFL–Clearbrook), the Minnesota State Legislature and Governor Tim Pawlenty passed legislation in 2007 to authorize funds needed to build a new full-powered Minnesota Public Radio news and information station in the Roseau and Warroad communities.

The scheduled air date for KRXW 103.5 FM is Aug. 1, 2008. Currently, the new station is in the construction phases and anticipates having a broadcast facility in place in its new location near Warroad by May 1.

Currently, a translator in Roseau repeats KQMN, which broadcasts Classical Minnesota Public Radio from a full-powered station in Thief River Falls. The new full-powered station enables Minnesota Public Radio to reach a much larger radius in northwest Minnesota, providing better accessibility to its services. Funding for the station was achieved in large part due to the efforts of Olin and Skoe.

Minnesota Public Radio® operates a 37-station radio network serving virtually all of Minnesota and parts of surrounding states and produces programming for radio, Internet and face-to-face audiences. A complete list of stations, programs and additional services can be obtained at www.mpr.org and www.americanpublicmedia.org.

Thief River Falls tops Bemidji in boys basketball

Thief River Falls boys shot 45 percent from beyond the arc to defeat Bemidji 49-43 Tuesday night in Bemidji. The win was just the Prowlers second in Bemidji during the past seven years.

Coach Chris McLean was pleased with his team's effort in a difficult environment.

"I thought our kids went into a really tough place to play," McLean said. "Even though we didn't shoot really well, the kids really battled all night long."

Thief River Falls out-rebounded Bemidji 32 to 30, and committed fewer turnovers at 15 to 16. Bemidji shot 17 of 51 from the floor, while Thief River Falls shot 15 of 46, including a five of 11 night from behind the three-point arc.

Prowlers drop 57-51 JV contest at Bemidji

The trio of Tony Baumgartner Ben Adams and Sam Weaver led Bemidji to a home court JV victory over Thief River Falls Tuesday night. Baumgartner, Adams and Weaver contributed 14, 12 and 11 points, respectively in the Lumberjacks 57-51 win.

Thief River Falls' high scorer was Brady Harbott, who contributed 18 points. Harbott scored three three-point field goals in the first half and added two more in the second.

The Prowlers led 27 to 24 at the break, but they couldn't hold off the Lumberjack's second half charge.

Warroad wins match with Eagles at Warroad

Grygla-Gatzke Eagles came up a little short against a tough Warroad team during a boys basketball game on Jan. 15, in Warroad.

"We played them tough. I was pleased with our effort," said Coach Vern Johnson. "We just came up a little short."

The Eagles were behind by three points at the half. The game remained close during the second half with Warroad only gaining one point on the Grygla-Gatzke team.

Scoring

Goodridge finishes strong in game against Roseau

A slow start may have been a bit unnerving, but the Goodridge Boys Basketball team managed to come back and pull off a victory against Roseau Tuesday, Jan. 15.

Roseau led at the half 33 to 31, but tough defense and hard work put Goodridge over the top.

Goodridge Coach Eric Mickelson said the slow start was unnerving, but the team managed to come back right away in the second half. He added that they went to a full-court press and that helped, too.

Roseau was 16 for 55 from the field, and Goodridge was 22 for 66. In free throws, Goodridge was 11 for 18, and Roseau was 8 for 14.

Mickelson said Roseau got into some foul trouble toward the end of the game. During this time, Goodridge managed to hit some timely free throws.

Scoring

7th grade team splits results with EGF

In a matchup Saturday, Jan 12, between the Seventh Grade Boys Basketball B team and East Grand Forks B team, the Thief River Falls team came out on top 34 to 23. Reid Bohm led the Thief River Falls team with 17 points.

The Thief River Falls A team, however, lost to the East Grand Forks A team 48 to 54. Point leaders for the Thief River Falls team were Collin Jesme with 22 points, and Aron Hejlik with 12 points.

Confident TRF team defeats Moorhead

The Prowler Boys Hockey Team knew they were going up against a tough team. Moorhead had just defeated a Wayzata team 7-0.

"Everyone played very well," said Thief River Falls Coach Tim Bergland, whose team went on to defeat the Moorhead Spuds 3-1 on Tuesday, Jan. 15. "Everyone did their job and showed some confidence," added Bergland.

There was no score in the first period. The Prowlers, however, outshot Moorhead 11 to 8. The first score came in the second period on a powerplay by Keaton Joppru, with an assist by Aaron Langan, at 2:51. Prowler Tyler Aandal, assisted by Spencer Johnson, scored again at 10:13. In spite of the score, Moorhead outshot the Prowlers in the second period 13 to 7. Prowler Coach Bergland said it was because the Prowlers had three penalties.

In the third period, T. Johnson, Moorhead, assisted by I. Cochran, scored at 2:00.

The Prowler's third score came from Lucas Dillon, assisted by Aarun Langan at 16:05 in the third period.

Thief River Falls Goalie Jade Gothberg recorded 37 saves during the night. The Moorhead goalie had 25 saves.

Scoring
First period - No score
Second period - TRF, Keaton Joppru (Aaron Langan) 2:51; TRF, Tyler Aandal (Spencer Johnson) 10:13

TRF loses to Detroit Lakes

Thief River Falls Girls Basketball team lost to Detroit Lakes in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, Jan. 15, despite a couple of second half spurts.

"It was a great effort," said Thief River Falls Coach Jeff Loe. "We gave them a couple of spurts in the second half. Free throws and turnovers were the key stats."

Chelsea Sorteberg led the Prowlers with 13 points. Hannah Kainz had 11, and Cassie Gunderson had 10. Brittany Wiseth led the Prowlers with 10 points and 14 rebounds. The Prowlers were 40 percent or 21 for 53 from the field, and 52 percent or 12 for 23 from the free throw line. The Detroit Lakes team was 43 percent or 21 for 49 from the field, and 58 percent or 11 for 19 from the free throw line. Detroit Lakes also made 43 percent of their three-point attempts. Thief River Falls was one for 10 or 10 percent. Thief River Falls had 39 rebounds, while Detroit Lakes had 31.

New signs in Beltrami Island State Forest

By now, visitors to Beltrami Island State Forest should be noticing a number of new signs along the forest's roads and trails. The signs are part of the off-highway vehicle planning and forest classification process, which is part of multi-user forest management.

In March 2007, Department of Natural Resources Commissioner Mark Holsten, signed the order classifying the forest as "Managed." In a managed forest, motor vehicles may operate on forest roads and trails, unless they are posted or designated as "Closed." The forest classification and road/trail designations are to go into effect December 31, 2007.

As part of the implementation process, DNR staff have been busy installing signs to identify the various roads and trails throughout the forest. Following is a list of road and trail signs that visitors will encounter and what each means:

■ State Forest Road - Generally a one- or two-lane road with native soil or gravel surface. All off-highway vehicle (DHV) and highway-licensed vehicle traffic is allowed.

■ Minimum Maintenance State Forest Road - A state forest road that is maintained for forest management access on an intermittent, as-needed, basis. All OHV and highway-licensed vehicle traffic is allowed.

■ Non-motorized Trail - Hunter walking trail reserved exclusively for non-motorized traffic.

■ Closed Trail - A non-designated route that has been closed, either temporarily or permanently, to all motor vehicle use.

There are additional signs to designate "Areas with Limitations." These areas have been closed to any and all motorized vehicle use in an attempt to protect unique natural resources and provide a balance of user opportunities. Signs for areas with limitations will typically read: "No Motorized Vehicles Permitted Beyond this Point" and/or "Foot Travel Welcome. Closed to all public motor vehicle use."

Although state forest lands classified as managed are generally afforded off-road vehicle and ATV big game hunting/trapping exceptions, the exceptions do not apply to areas with limitations, nor do they apply to non-motorized nor closed trails.

Visitors should also be aware that there are a number of unsigned access trails throughout the forest. Although those routes are unsigned, they may or may not be suitable for motor vehicle use, depending upon weather, soil and other conditions. They are available for both non-motorized and motorized use in an "as-is" condition. Users are responsible for ensuring that no damage is done to the trail (i.e. must not operate a vehicle in any manner that causes erosion or rutting, nor causes damage or destruction to trees or growing crops.) These routes will be monitored incidentally and if damaged, will be subject to closure.

For more information on Beltrami Island State Forest or the off-highway vehicle planning and forest classification process, please visit the DNR Website at www.mndnr.gov.

DNR QUESTIONS

Q: Many areas of Minnesota faced drought conditions earlier this year. Where do we stand now in terms of moisture?

A: Substantial September and October rains flushed away drought concerns in most Minnesota counties. Soil moisture conditions are now considered adequate, stream flows are near historical averages, and most lakes have rebounded significantly from summer's low levels. Just four months ago, one half of Minnesota was burdened with severe to extreme drought. Presently, moderate drought conditions linger only in a small area of west central and central Minnesota, centered roughly on Wadena.

BGMR defeats MCC boys team

Badger-Greenbush-Middle River Boys Basketball team defeated the Marshall County Central team Monday, Jan. 14, at Marshall County Central.

"We shot the lights out in the first half and played solid defense," said Coach Kent Christian. "We had a good flow to our game and everyone contributed."

Tyler Aune led the BGMR team with 18 points, but Zac Creviston collected 17, Jordan Creviston 14, and Allan Dostal 15 points in the win.

"It was a nice win against a team that can really give match-up problems because of their size and shooting abilities," said Christian.

Leading Marshall County Central were Colby Owens with 13 points, Jesse Nelson with 10 points, and Jordan Anderson with 9.

BGMR now extends its record to 8 wins and two losses. In this game, BGMR was 28 for 63 from the field, five for 12 on three-point attempts, five for nine from the free throw line, and recorded 25 rebounds.

Shelter licensing changes greet anglers

Changes to fish house rules during the close of the 2007 legislative session will greet anglers in Minnesota this ice fishing season, particularly those leaving such structures unattended on the ice overnight. The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources expects the changes to generate some questions since the 2007 Fishing Regulations Handbook does not reflect the new statute language.

Col. Mike Hamm, DNR's chief conservation officer, said the changes are pretty straightforward. "If you haul a fish house out and leave it unattended on the ice overnight, it needs a fish house license," Hamm said. The rule change applies to both dark houses and fish houses.

The legal definition for a "fish house" means a structure set on the ice of state waters to provide shelter while taking fish by angling.

For a fish house or a dark house to require a shelter license, it has to be left unattended on the ice overnight and used for taking fish. "Overnight" is defined as the hours between sunset and sunrise outlined in the DNR's sunrise/sunset tables in the 2007 Fishing Regulations Handbook.

Also under new provisions of the statute, residents and nonresidents are treated the same. This means in most cases a nonresident using a fish house during daylight hours will not need a fish house license. Likewise, if a nonresident angler is found occupying a fish house during the night, no fish house license will be required. However, if a nonresident places a fish house on a lake and leaves it unattended overnight, a nonresident shelter license will be required.

"For the 2007-2008 winter season, residents and nonresidents will need the appropriate fish house license only if the fish house is left unattended on the ice overnight," Hamm said.

Frequently asked questions:

Q: Resident or nonresident is angling with a fish house for five hours during the day. Person leaves ice with the fish house. Does the angler need a fish house license?

A: No. A fish house license is not required in this instance.

Q: Resident or nonresident angler stays overnight in a fish house. Does person need a fish house license?

A: No. A fish house license is not required in this instance, as long as the fish house is occupied.

Q: Resident or nonresident angler leaves fish house unoccupied on an area lake overnight in front of the resort angler is staying at. Does the fish house require a fish house license?

A: Yes. A fish house license would be required in this instance. Anytime the fish house is left unattended overnight, a fish house license is required.

Q: A group of (resident or nonresident) anglers pulls a fish house on the ice for a weekend of ice fishing. The fish house is designed with a wheel system that allows for easy access and removal from the lake. The anglers stay in the house and never leave it unoccupied during the course of the weekend. Does the fish house require a license?

A: No. A fish house license is not required as long as the fish house is attended. This includes daylight, as well as nighttime use.

Q: A group of anglers (resident or nonresident) anglers constructs an 8-by-8-by 12-foot fish house on a local lake. Regularly the group, or members of the group, will meet at the fish house after work to fish. By 9 p.m., they've all left and return the following day at 5 p.m. for more fun. Does this fish house require a license?

A: Yes. Depending on who owns the fish house, a resident or a nonresident fish house license would be required.

The following regulations apply to fish houses, dark houses and portable shelters used on all Minnesota waters, unless noted in the 2007 Minnesota Fishing Regulations Handbook:

- ■ A person may not take fish from a dark house or fish house that is left unattended on the ice overnight unless the house is licensed and has a license tag attached to the exterior in a readily visible location. The commissioner must issue a tag with a dark house or fish house license, marked with a number to correspond with the license and the years of issue. A dark house or fish house is not required of a resident on boundary waters where the adjacent state does not charge a fee for the same activity.
- ■ Nonresidents may obtain a license for a fish shelter.
- ■ All shelters (including dark houses, fish houses and portable shelters) placed on the ice of Minnesota waters must have either the complete name and address, driver's license number, or the nine-digit Minnesota DNR number on the license of the owner plainly and legibly displayed on the outside in letters, and figures at least two inches in height.
- ■ A tag, furnished with the license, must be attached to the exterior in a readily visible location.
- ■ Dark houses, fish houses and portable shelters must have a door that can be opened from the outside at any time when in use.
- ■ Fish houses left on the ice overnight need to have at least two square inches of reflective material on each side of the house.
- ■ Fish houses must comply with the identification requirements of the state for which the angler is licensed.
- ■ No person may erect a dark house, fish house or shelter within 10 feet of an existing dark house, fish house or shelter.
- ■ Portable dark houses, fish houses and shelters may be used for fishing within the Boundary Waters Canoe Area Wilderness, but must be removed from the ice each night. The structure must be removed from the BWCAW each time the occupant leaves the BWCAW.

Hibbert wins at Shakopee with a clean sweep

Monster Energy/Arctic Cat's Tucker Hibbert took his career-first win in Shakopee with a clean sweep of the Pro Super Stock class at the Air Force Canterbury National Jan. 11-13. The double-header weekend included rounds two and three of the World PowerSports Association's (WPSA) Snowmobile Tour.

The all-new Arctic Cat SnoPro 600 took the spotlight as Hibbert convincingly won both Pro Super Stock finals, marking the first-ever pro stock win for the new sled.

Hibbert praised everyone at Arctic Cat in Thief River Falls for working so hard to create the new machine along with his team for the long hours of testing and fine-tuning.

"It feels awesome to get a pair of stock wins for Arctic Cat on the new sled. It's a testament to how hard everyone has worked to develop it. I can't thank my team enough for their long hours of testing and fine-tuning. It's been four years since I've been at Canterbury, so to leave with my first-ever win and with the stock sweep, is great. It's a first class facility and the fans were unbelievable."

Hibbert was named the Air Force M.V.P. of the weekend for his professionalism and dominating performance on the race track.

Next up for Hibbert is the West Yellowstone National followed by the most prestigious race of the season, ESPN's Winter X Games. The reigning gold medalist is looking to add medal seven to his hardware collection.

"After this weekend, we know where we are on speed and what we need to work on. I feel really confident heading into the rest of the season and know there are more wins to come for Monster Energy/Arctic Cat," said Hibbert.

Pawlenty releases bonding proposal

Gov. Tim Pawlenty released his bonding proposal for the 2008 legislative session on Monday, putting a strong focus on transportation infrastructure and statewide investment priorities that will yield significant long-term benefits.

The proposal calls for $965 million in general obligation bonding, with a total of $1.09 billion when user-financed bonds, trunk highway bonds, and cash amounts are included.

"Positioning Minnesota for future success means making smart decisions about where we should invest," said Pawlenty. "This proposal is fiscally responsible, and it sets key priorities such as replacing more than 600 local bridges."

Transportation accounts for the largest portion of the bonding bill – nearly 40 percent or $416 million. Of that, $225 million will be dedicated to local bridges and $30 million to local roads. The local bridge amount is more than four times larger than the amount in any other bonding bill in state history.

The proposal also funds a number of priorities within the University of Minnesota and Minnesota State Universities and Colleges systems. Funding is also included for improvements to the Minneapolis Veterans Home, infrastructure related to the Minnesota Steel facility on the Iron Range and the governor's Strategic Entrepreneurial Economic Development initiative.

Transportation – $416 million (38.3 percent of total)

"This bonding bill has a higher level of investment in transportation than any bonding bill in the history of our state. This strategic focus is an important step in modernizing roads and bridges across Minnesota," Pawlenty said.

Funding proposals from the Governor include such things as $225 million for local bridges; this increased funding will provide the state portion of funding to replace approximately 600 to 700 bridges, likely including the Thompson Bridge over the Red River in Polk County; $30 million for local roads; and $55 million for Minnesota's share of the Urban Partnership Agreement awarded by the federal government. The state must pass the latter request to receive $133.3 million in federal funds for a project that will add a MnPASS-type congestion pricing lane to I-35W south of downtown Minneapolis, rebuild two avenues in Minneapolis for better transit use and add park and ride facilities and buses.

Higher Education – $258 million (23.7 percent of total)

"Investment in our education system is important to improving Minnesota's competitiveness," Pawlenty said. His proposal includes such things as $129 million for the U of M and $129 million for the MnSCU system, which includes $6 million to renovate small science labs at 11 MnSCU campuses around the state. The U of M will invest an additional $45 million as its share of the proposed building projects. MnSCU would be responsible for $29 million for its share of the proposed projects.

Environment and Outdoors – $175 million (16 percent of total)

"Protecting and improving Minnesota's natural resources continues to be one of our top priorities," Pawlenty said. "This package builds on our solid foundation in the area of conservation and the environment." His proposal includes:

- $46 million for loans and grants for drinking water and wastewater treatment facility improvements.
- $15 million to cleanup a contaminated landfill in Washington County. 3M is providing up to $8 million for cleanup of the site.
- $30 million for wetland preservation activities.
- $10 million to accelerate strategic acquisition of new Wildlife Management Areas, improve WMA facilities and restore habitat on newly acquired lands.
- $9 million for the Forest Legacy Project to acquire conservation easements on private forest-lands, primarily in northern Minnesota.
- $6 million to improve and expand the Metropolitan Regional Park system.
- $1 million for shoreline habitat acquisition.
- $3 million for state forest land reforestation.
- $3 million for native prairie conservation and protection.
- $1 million for rehabilitation of fish hatchery facilities to maintain efficient production of fish stock.
- $3 million for repair and renovation of state trails.
- $10 million to acquire, develop and renovate state parks and recreation areas.
- $2 million to preserve DNR-owned facilities statewide.

Economic Development – $96 million (8.9 percent of total)

Funding proposals from the governor include such things as $50 million for the Strategic Entrepreneurial Economic Development initiative.

State Building Asset Preservation – $68 million (6.3 percent of total)

Pawlenty's proposed funding includes such things as $15.4 million for State Capitol asset preservation and design and planning for the full restoration of the building; $5 million for the Minnesota Historical Society; and $5.3 million for emergency repairs and unanticipated hazardous material abatement and property acquisition.

Veterans and Military – $50 million (4.6 percent of total)

His funding proposals include $35 million for improvements at the Minneapolis Veterans Home, including demolition of Building #9, construction of a new 100-bed nursing facility, and heating and air conditioning work; $7 million for asset preservation at Minnesota Veterans Homes facilities statewide; and $8 million for asset preservation, life safety and improvements at military facilities, including armories and training/community centers, statewide.

Public Safety and Corrections – $41 million (3.8 percent of total)

Funding proposals include such things as $16 million for asset preservation at correctional facilities statewide and $500,000 for predesign of a new State Emergency Operations Center to meet requirements set by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security for emergency operations centers.

State trail permit required on state and grant-in-aid snowmobile trails

The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) reminds snowmobilers that a Minnesota snowmobile state trail permit is required for all snowmobiles operated on any state or grant-in-aid snowmobile trail in Minnesota. The permit has been required since Oct. 1, 2005.

"Minnesota has one of the best snowmobile trail systems in the country, with more than 20,000 miles of trail," said Forrest Boe, director of the DNR Division of Trails and Waterways.

Most of the trails are managed and maintained by local snowmobile clubs through the grant-in-aid program. "All revenues from the state trail permit go to help snowmobile clubs maintain and groom local grant-in-aid trails," said Boe.

The state trail permit costs $16 for an annual and $31 for a three-year permit; the three-year permit may only be purchased in conjunction with the snowmobile registration. The permit is valid from Nov. 1 through April 30 of each year.

Annual permits can be purchased from a deputy registrar or any of the 1,800 electronic licensing agents throughout Minnesota, by telephone at 1-888-665-4236, or on the DNR Web site at www.mndnr.gov.

The three-year permit is available at a deputy registrar office; through the mail to the DNR at 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN 55155; or with an online renewal at www.mndnr.gov. A $3.50 convenience fee will be added to permits purchased by telephone or online.

More information about the state trail permit, including proper placement, can be found in the 2007-2008 Minnesota Snowmobile Regulations handbook.

Do you know someone who may have Alzheimer's

can properly diagnose Alzheimer's disease. Early detection can also help families make a home environment safer; it will allow time for legal matters like designating a legal guardian or power of attorney; and it will make treatment more effective.

Treatment

There is currently no cure for Alzheimer's disease, but according to the Mayo Clinic's Web site, there are two main types of drugs that can reduce the mental and physical decline associated with Alzheimer's disease. The first is a group of drugs called cholinesterase inhibitors, that work to improve the level of neurotransmitters in the brain.

Donepezil, also known as Aricept; may be the most affective drug in this group. It is FDA approved and it has been proven to delay the onset of Alzheimer's in patients who have mild cognitive impairment. The drugs Exelon and Reminyl are also classified as cholinesterase inhibitors.

A second drug, prescribed under the name Namenda, is used to treat moderate to severe cases of Alzheimer's. It works by protecting brain cells from the chemical messenger glutamate.

Symptoms such as sleeplessness, wandering, anxiety, agitation and depression can also be treated by prescription drugs.

Memory Care

In most Alzheimer's cases, there will be a point when the individual with Alzheimer's deteriorates to the point that they need specialized care. This time period varies.

"I've had some residents who were diagnosed with Alzheimer's up to five years before they had to come in, because their caregiver at home was able to maintain them," Holmes said. "Other times they've been diagnosed within a year and it's rapidly progressed and family members are more apt to step in."

The key, Holmes said, is noticing when the home environment becomes too dangerous.

In March 2006, Valley Home's Memory Care opened its doors with the mission to serve clients with memory loss, by offering a secure and home-like environment. Today, it houses 19 residents, with a capacity of 24 beds.

"We're a secure unit, which is important with Alzheimer's and dementia cases, because often with dementia and Alzheimer's comes the wandering," said Holmes, who joined the Memory Care staff in September 2006.

All entrances and exits to Memory Care are secured by an electronic security code that can be given to friends and family who may visit anytime.

Like Valley Home's other main wing, which focuses on assisted living, Memory Care attempts to allow its residents to remain as independent as possible.

Services include housekeeping; laundry; three meals per day; a.m. and p.m. coffee service; organized social and recreational programs; mail delivery to rooms; a variety of religious activities; medication ordering, storage and administration; whirlpool bathing; evaluation and planning for healthcare needs; and coordination with family physicians. Memory Care residents are supervised 24 hours a day.

Memory Care staff also has more of a one-on-one approach, compared to its assisted living counterpart.

"We're real low stimulation here," Holmes said. "We provide activities that are more for their attention span."

Group and individual activities are tailored to the interests of each resident. These can range from leisure activities like puzzles and cards, to group exercise or gardening and yard work in the Memory Care courtyard. Residents can also participate in activities led by Lincoln High School's Community Action Program students.

"They do not have to participate in anything if they choose not to, we just encourage it," Holmes said. "We try to keep some stimulation, but not over-stimulation."

Residents are also involved with daily housekeeping activities like folding the towels that they will later use or setting the table for meals. They are also in charge of bussing their own tables following meals.

Keeping residents stimulated, but not over-stimulated, is the goal of Memory Care. From the moment residents wake up each morning, they are allowed to move at their own pace. They are given longer time periods to get dressed and longer time periods to eat meals.

"The key is to keep them as independent as possible," Holmes said.

All potential residents need to be diagnosed with Alzheimer's disease or some type of dementia prior to being admitted to Memory Care, but Holmes and other Memory Care staff members are available for consultations.

colleges and universities continue to offer the greatest value of higher education in the state."

Under the recommendation, tuition and fee increases would range from $72 a year to $238 a year, depending on the institution. System officials work closely with each college and university to develop the chancellor's recommendation. Tuition rates vary due to program offerings, local market conditions and other factors.

A worrisome trend began in 2001 when the economy held down state appropriations and tuition increased by double digits for four straight years. Each year, the size of the state's appropriation to the system plays the major role in determining tuition rates.

During the last few years, tuition increases have ranged from 3.6 to 6.1 percent. When the system was established in 1995, state appropriations covered about two thirds of the cost of educating students. Today, state appropriations cover about 52 percent of the cost. Tuition makes up the rest.

Chantal M.B. Wilson, 11th grade daughter of Dewn and Ward Wilson of Greenbush, was selected as a finalist and performed in the 27th Annual Young Artists Recital of the Young Artists Solo Competition held at the Beckwith Recital Hall, Raineke Fine Arts Center, North Dakota State University, Fargo, N.D., on Jan. 5. She memorized and performed the 42-page, 510 measure piano concerto, "Rhapsody in Blue" by George Gershwin. This was a duo-piano arrangement with the band score transcribed for the second piano. Amende Rodahl, MMTA piano teacher of Thief River Falls, was the accompanist for Chantal and performed the second piano part. Judging the contest were Marcella Faflek, Northern State University, Aberdeen, S.D.; Eduerdo Orozco, North Dakota State University, Fargo, N.D.; and Bill Wojnar, Jamestown College, Jamestown, N.D. Chantel has been tutored in private piano lessons since seventh grade by Mercia M. Knuttila, Thief River Falls.

New Apprentice Hunter Program Draws 2,700 Participants

Data compiled by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources indicates that more than 2,700 Minnesotans took advantage of an innovative new program designed to encourage participation in the pastime of hunting.

The DNR's new apprentice hunter validation permit has been issued to more than 2,721 hunters since it became available earlier this year. The $3.50 permit allows Minnesota residents 12 and older, who normally would be required to possess a firearms safety certificate, to hunt without that certificate for one year.

"The response has been outstanding," said C.B. Bylander, DNR outreach section chief. "Think about it. Some 2,700 people who would not have hunted this year were able to enjoy time afield with family and friends."

Under the program, first-time hunters must be accompanied by and stay within visual and unassisted voice contact of a licensed adult hunter who has a firearms safety certificate or is exempt from the requirement. When these rules are followed, apprentice hunter programs have been proven to be safe. "Ultimately, these new hunters will need to earn their firearms safety certificate," said Bylander. "We encourage them to do this as soon as possible."

Jay Johnson, DNR hunting recruitment and retention coordinator, said the new permit was developed to create a hands-on, participatory opportunity for more people to learn about hunting, hunting ethics and the conservation philosophy that is integral to the sport from those who know it best. "This program," he said, "allows individuals to learn and begin their development into the next generation of hunter/conservationists even if, initially, they don't have a firearms safety certificate."

State law stipulates that apprentice hunter validation is good for only one year and allows an individual to be validated only once in his or her lifetime. After the validation expires, participants must complete a hunter education firearms safety training course and be issued a safety certificate before they can buy another hunting license. Standard hunting regulations require that any individual born after Dec. 31, 1979, participate in and pass a hunter education firearms safety training class before he or she can buy a hunting license.

Participation in the initial year of the apprentice hunter validation program shows that 64 percent were young adults ages 17 to 27. Youth, ages 11 to 16, accounted for 34 percent of the total. Johnson said the greatest program utilization came from 12-year-olds, which suggests that interest in hunting among individuals in this age group was particularly strong but a number of them were not able to participate in hunter education firearms safety in time for the 2007 hunting season.

"One of the DNR's priorities will be to ensure apprentice hunters have the opportunity to take a hunter education firearms safety training class before the next hunting season so they can continue their development as the next generation of hunter/conservationists," Johnson said.

The DNR's Enforcement Division offers creative solutions such as home study and online courses for adults and conducts more than 1,300 traditional firearms safety courses for youth. In 2007, those courses are expected to certify about 23,000 students.

"The Apprentice Hunter Validation Program is just one arrow in the quiver of the DNR's recruitment and retention efforts," Johnson said. "It, along with special youth hunts, National Archery in the Schools and Becoming an Outdoors Women programs, all are working to remove barriers to participation and inspire enthusiasm for the sport."

present, noted that counseling for soldiers returning to civilian life would have to be a necessary component of any program.

Sponsler and Holmer, who have trained returning soldiers, agreed with Stumpf's assessment.

Bruce Roed, northern district coordinator for Minnesota State Colleges and Universities, said the chancellor and board of trustees are all on board with the re-integration effort taking place with returning National Guard soldiers. Roed also said they were interested in this gap training proposal. "From the chancellor perspective, this is something we're very interested in." Roed also noted that they want to help area colleges and service providers keep well-trained people in rural Minnesota, where they receive their training.

According to Holmer, about 1,000 soldiers return each year to Minnesota with some medical training. The amount of training they have received varies from 20 to 100 hours.

According to Sponsler, the EMT basic training requires 120 hours of education. It takes between 1,400 and 1,600 hours of education to become a paramedic.

Temte said they are excited about the proposal and added that she thinks the college can find people to set it up.

Stumpf asked what the college would need to make this happen.

Temte responded that it would require taking someone away from his or her normal duties. She said she is confident the person chosen for the job can do that, but time is money.

Sen. Klobuchar said that healthcare will become a much bigger issue once the election is over, but added she thought it might be possible to address some of these unique rural health care issues before then.

Record number of calls shows Turn-In-Poachers hotline works

With help from calls of everyday residents, Minnesota's Turn-In-Poachers (TIP) hotline has been a key asset to state conservation officers in their efforts to protect and preserve Minnesota's natural resources.

A record 508 calls were made to the Minnesota TIP hotline in November. Of those calls, a record 479 cases were referred to conservation officers. Those calls resulted in nine Minnesotans receiving a total of $1,100 in rewards for reporting wildlife violations to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

Turn-In-Poachers was formed in September 1981 by a group of concerned citizens and conservationists to initially curb the illegal harvest of game and fish in Minnesota. Calls today also include wetlands, all-terrain vehicle and snowmobile violations.

From 1981-2007, 27,042 TIP calls have been referred to conservation officers leading to 7,896 arrests. TIP rewards paid out since inception total $331,306. These are some amazing numbers for an organization staffed by a 20 person volunteer board of directors, 10 TIP chapters around the state and thousands of callers who cherish Minnesota's outdoors, according to Al Thomas, executive director of TIP.

TIP, Inc. is a non-profit, privately funded organization. Outdoor enthusiasts report violations anonymously by calling the 24-hour hotline at 1-800-652-9093 or #TIP on their cell phone. Calls leading to an arrest are furnished cash awards ranging from $25 to $1, 000, but nearly half of the informants turn down rewards; they are more interested in protecting and preserving the resources.

The DNR and TIP are providing an online form that people can fill out for tips that are not time sensitive at www.dnr.state.mn.us/enforcement/tip.html.

"Everyone assumes we are part of the DNR or we receive state funding, but that's not the case," said Thomas. "As a non-profit, we ask volunteers to help us raise funds through banquets and ask the outdoor community to join TIP with a membership. This is how we raise the funds to carry out our programs and supply conservation officers with more eyes and ears in the field."

A recent TIP call to conservation officers has a Lester Prairie man facing total fine and restitution amounts of $3,000 for shooting and killing a trumpeter swan on Swan Lake, near Waconia.

"Cases such as these go to show the importance of TIP in protecting and preserving our natural resources," said Col. Mike Hamm, DNR Enforcement Division chief. "They also show how invaluable TIP, its programs and its volunteers are to our field officers, and the importance of law-abiding outdoorsmen and women willing to make the calls."

Hamm also praised the Minnesota State Patrol dispatchers and DNR employees who answer the TIP line.

NORTHERN WATCH AROUND THE REGION

Assisted Living unit in Oklee discussed

Oklee - A resolution was presented to the city council by the Oklee EDA for the purchase of land from St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church for the building of an assisted living unit.

The resolution included three conditions: One, if an assisted living unit is not built within three years or significant progress made, that it would revert back to the church at no cost; Second, the drainage pipe located in the northwest corner of the property would be replaced with a storm sewer if construction disturbs it and affects drainage for the Parish property; and, Third, that the city care for and mow the grass on the property until an assisted living building is built, and if no building is built, until it reverts back to the church at no cost.

Public Input on Lake Bronson State Park dam sought

Grygla - The second-in a series of public meetings discussing the future of the dam at Lake Bronson State Park will begin at 4 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 31, at the park's visitor center. The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources' Dam Safety Section, State Park staff, and consultants from Barr Engineering, will present approximately a dozen options for addressing the dam's structural and safety issues. - The Grygla Eagle, Wednesday, Jan. 23

Old Time Music Dance celebrates its 15th year

Grygla - When they arrive on this particular cold, Tuesday afternoon, they greet each other with smiles and laughter. "Hey, you made it!" Good to see you." "Are you ready to dance?" are a few greetings that I hear tossed back and forth as the Old Time Music Dance in Grygla draws its usual crowd. Many senior citizens from around the area travel what some here call "The Circuit." That circuit includes the Old Time Music Dance in Grygla.

Thelma Thomas started the dance back in 1993. The first band to perform was Mylan Abrahamson and Alden Larson. It was originally held at Fourtown. After a while, the dance settled at the Steak Knife III in 1999. When Darrell Severts bought the establishment and turned it into Yo-Hawn's, he inherited the Old Time Music Dance, as well.

Thomas was inspired to start dances 15 years ago because she loves to dance so much herself. If you're interested in stoping by and checking the dance out, dances are held every third Tuesday of the month at Yo-Hawn's in Grygla. The next dance will be on Tuesday, Feb. 19, and stars Ramblin' Fever. - The Grygla Eagle, Jan. 23.

St. Joseph School to honor four graduates

Red Lake Falls - St. Joseph School in Red Lake Falls will honor four distinguished graduates: Tim Hagl, Eunice Haupt, Terry Weiss and Corey Rystad, posthumously. The 2008 honorees will be recognized Sunday, Jan. 27, at the opening liturgy for Catholic Schools Week 2008 at the 10 a.m. Mass at St. Joseph Church in Red Lake Falls.

The awardees will also be honored at a reception in the parish hall following Mass that day. - Red Lake Falls Gazette, Jan. 23, 2008

Heating Bills

■ According to Mark Ewens, climate service focal point for the Grand Forks office of the National Weather Service, the average daily temperature so far in January 2008 is about four degrees cooler than January 2007.

We're paying for the cold

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

This is the first part in a two-part series focusing on cold weather's impact on heating bills, heating bill assistance, ways to save money with heating, and alternative forms of heating.

Congratulations! Every northwest Minnesota resident who is reading this right now survived the past two weeks of bitterly cold, sub-zero (degrees Fahrenheit) weather. Hopefully the pipes didn't freeze and vehicles were kept in running condition.

Now comes the fun part ... paying for all that heating oil, propane, natural gas or electricity that kept everything from freezing.

Heating bills may not be as bad as expected

According to Mark Ewens, climate service focal point for the Grand Forks office of the National Weather Service, the average daily temperature so far in January 2008 is about four degrees cooler than January 2007. The four degree estimate is misleading, since the beginning of the month featured unseasonably warm weather, but recent cold weather has brought temperatures much lower than their January average highs of 10-15 degrees Fahrenheit and closer to the average lows between 10 and 15 degrees below zero.

So, how much more can residents expect to pay for their heating bills? Russ Luipakka, external affairs manager with Minnesota Energy Resources' northern Minnesota office in Cloquet, said its still too early to tell how the last two weeks will affect heating bills for Minnesota Energy Resources customers. There are also too many variables, like the unseasonably warm weather that preceded the cold spell, to accurately project how much of an increase the average household will see in its heating bill. What is certain, is the fact that January 2008 has been colder than January 2007.

Minnesota Energy Resources uses a unit called heating degree days to compare temperatures from month to month and year to year. Heating degree days are calculated by adding a day's high and low temperature and dividing them by two. That number is then subtracted from 65 to determine a particular day's heating degree days number.

The rationale behind the degree

Arctic Cat reports third quarter loss

The net loss for the third quarter was $10.5 million, or $.58 per diluted share

On Jan. 23, Arctic Cat reported net sales of $159.6 million for the fiscal 2008 third quarter ended Dec. 31, 2007, compared to a record $228.1 million in the same period last year. The net loss for the quarter was $10.5 million, or $0.58 per diluted share, versus prior-year third quarter net earings of $8.2 million, or $0.43 per diluted share, which included an income tax benefit of $.03 per diluted share.

For the first nine months of fiscal 2008, Arctic Cat's net sales were $452.7 million, compared to $609.9 million in the same period last year. The company reported a net loss of $3.7 million, or $0.20 per diluted share, versus net earnings of $23.6 million, or $1.22 per diluted share, in the nine-month period last year.

"We are disappointed in the company's performance," said Christopher A. Twomey, chairman and chief executive officer. "After seven years of record growth, we anticipated that fiscal 2008 would be a difficult year when we took strategic action to reduce dealers' snowmobile inventories. Compounding this was an industry-wide challenging retail ATV market, which continued to deteriorate through the third quarter. We remain committed to aligning inventories with demand, leveraging our efficiency and strategic sourcing initiative, and maintaining our competitiveness and technology leadership through innovative new products and features."

During the quarter, Arctic Cat repurchased approximately 166,000 shares under its stock repurchase program. In addition, the company announced on Jan. 4, 2008, that its board of directors authorized a new share repurchase program of up to $10 million of its common stock. Arctic Cat has approximately 17.9 million common and Class B common shares outstanding.

Product Line Results

Sales of Arctic Cat's snowmobiles were $60 million in the 2008 third quarter versus $106.4 million in the same period last year, reflecting the company's planned reduction in snowmobile production during the current fiscal year. Early season snowfall in key regions during December generated strong retail snowmobile sales and, combined with the company's planned lower snowmobile production in its current fiscal year, helped reduce dealer inventories. Arctic Cat's year-to-date snowmobile sales totaled $168.9 million compared to $248.8 million in the prior-year period.

Sales of Arctic Cat's ATVs totaled $70.1 million, versus $91.8 million in the prior-year third quarter. Year-to-date ATV sales were $207.4 million, compared to $285.8 million in the first nine months of

TB investigation finds another infected herd

On Tuesday, Jan. 22, the Minnesota Board of Animal Health announced that a Roseau County beef cattle herd has tested positive for bovine tuberculosis (TB).

As part of the disease investigation, the Minnesota Board of Animal Health TB-tested cattle herds within 10 miles of an infected cattle herd or infected white-tailed deer. The newly detected Roseau herd tested negative in 2005 and 2006, but during a third, follow-up round of testing in November, one animal tested suspect for bovine TB. Tissue samples were collected and submitted to the National Veterinary Services Laboratory (NVSL) in Ames, Iowa, where a diagnosis of bovine TB was confirmed late last week. Minnesota has now detected bovine TB in nine beef herds.

The United States Department of Agriculture has begun the indemnification process, which consists of appraising the herd so that it can be purchased from the producers and put down.

At this time, Minnesota's Modified Accredited Advanced TB status will remain unchanged. Minnesota Board of Animal Health Executive Director and State Veterinarian Dr. Bill Hartmann said that work will continue unabated to return the state to TB-Free status. However, the discovery of any additional herds could result in the downgrading of Minnesota's status.

"We are discussing with industry representatives and USDA what to do if additional herds are found," said Hartmann. "And we are reviewing all options including split state status. It is important that we gather all the necessary information from USDA and we have to fully comprehend the needs of the industry statewide. At that tim we would be able to address the best way to regain TB-Free status. Either way, we remain committed to working with all of our partners to eliminate this disease."

The state's multi-faceted TB eradication effort includes the following components:

- Area testing: cattle herds located within 10 miles of a previously infected farm,
- Disease investigation: herds that have had contact with one of the previously infected farms, and
- Statewide surveillance: a sampling of 1550 cattle herds across

Hunt of a lifetime

Carl Peterson of Thief River Falls shot this eddax, a desert antelope, while on a free International Hunter Education Association Heritage Hunt in October of 2007.

Educator wins hunt

by David Hill
Editor

Carl O. Peterson of Thief River Falls began his career in hunter education in 1959. Since then, he's had many memorable moments. Most of those memories involve watching eager young pupils becoming knowledgeable young conservationists. This past winter, he got to combine his love of teaching with the hunt of a lifetime.

For years now, Peterson has used the Hunter's Handbook in his class. The Hunter's Handbook is the official student publication of the International Hunter Education Association and 4-H Shooting Sports. During the past several years, he's invited students to fill out entry cards for a free IHEA Heritage Hunt. This year, he even filled out the entry and sent it in.

When Peterson received a telephone call last June that he had been selected as one of the five winners, he said he thought someone was playing a joke on him. Not so. Peterson had won a free hunt at the 10,000-acre Indianhead Ranch in Texas, which is rated in the top three of exotic game ranches in Texas, and all of it - transportation, guides, world-class accommodations and the hunt of a lifetime - all free.

On Oct. 24, 2007, Peterson traveled to Indianhead Ranch. He joined fellow instructor Emily Berg of Dalhart, Texas and three hunter education students: Dakota Thompson of Benton, Tenn., Dominic O'Brien of Republic, Wash., and Carson Anderson of Omaha, Texas. All three boys were joined by their fathers.

Safety first. When you've won the hunt of a lifetime through a hunter safety education magazine, safety comes first. Peterson said winners were given the option to use one of the firearms provided by the ranch or bring their own. Due to the hassles involved in transporting weapons, all of the participants chose to use a firearm provided by the ranch, so the first stop on the trip was to the target range where hunters received another lecture on safety and then became acquainted with the firearms they chose to use. When they finally went afield, Peterson said, the guides carried the shells and only handed the hunter a shell when it was time to shoot.

Airborne® provides grant to Challenger

Ken Wiggs, a teacher at Challenger Elementary School in Thief River Falls, is one of 57 recipients of the Airborne® Teacher Trust Fund grant. Wiggs received a $3,839 grant to purchase 30 guitars, cases and Hal Leonard Guitar Method Books for his fourth and fifth grade students.

"As a music teacher, my hope and dream is that all students will be able to read musical notation and apply their learning through performance with a pitched classroom instrument," said Wiggs. "With the help of the Airborne Teacher Trust Fund, I have been able to achieve this dream."

Understanding the need for funding in art and music subjects, Victoria Knight-McDowell, a former second grade teacher and creator of Airborne Health Formula, developed the ATTF.

"With budgets becoming tighter each year, schools are faced with the difficult decision of having to cut vital programs," said Knight-McDowell. "The Airborne Teacher Trust Fund is meant to fill the gap and keep our youth engaged and inspired, so they can live full and rewarding lives."

This past quarter brought in 711 applicants, 57 of which were awarded grants. The ATTF grants range from $200 to $10,000, and will be awarded to teachers to implement programs during the 2007-08 school year. Programs are evaluated based on need, projected impact on students, educational program elements, and the teacher's desire and passion to succeed. Medicare beneficiaries still have time to change

Part D plans Open Enrollment Period extends to March 31

While Medicare beneficiaries had a Dec. 31, 2007, deadline to enroll in or switch their Medicare Part D health plan, those who already enrolled still have an opportunity to change Part D plans through March 31, 2008.

"With the passing of the Annual Election Period deadline, many of the state's beneficiaries are unaware they still have a chance to move to a different Part D or Medicare Advantage plan to find the best possible health care solution to fit their prescription drug needs," said Ghita Worcester, UCare's senior vice president of public affairs and marketing.

During this phase, called the Open Enrollment Period, Medicare beneficiaries:

- Enrolled in a Medicare Advantage plan with Part D can switch to a different Medicare Advantage plan with Part D.
- Enrolled in Original Medicare and a stand-alone prescription drug plan (PDP) can switch to a Medicare Advantage plan with Part D and vice versa.
- Medicare Advantage plans offer a complete set of health care benefits, including Part D coverage, for an affordable price. These types of plans are held to high performance standards. In fact, The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) recently ranked UCare's Medicare Advantage plan UCare for Seniors in the top 8 percent of health plans nationwide for its quality performance and member satisfaction

For some members of the Medicare population, the Part D enrollment period continues throughout the year. Medicare beneficiaries meeting the following criteria may enroll in a Part D plan at any time:

- Residents of a nursing facility, long-term care facility, rehabilitation hospital and other psychiatric/medical institution.
- Those who became eligible for Medicare because of a disability.
- Those eligible to participate in Medicare Savings Programs.
- Those who are dually eligible for Medical Assistance and Medicare.
- Those who move permanently outside their plan's service area
- Other reasons that apply to Special Election Periods (SEP).

"We encourage those who already signed up for Part D to consider their options carefully. If they want medical and prescription coverage in one coordinated plan, a Medicare Advantage plan may be the answer," explained Worcester. For more information about the UCare for Seniors Medicare Advantage plan, beneficiaries can call 1-877-523-1518 (toll free).

About UCare

UCare (www.ucare.org) is an independent, nonprofit health plan providing health care and administrative services to more than 137,000 members. UCare partners with health care providers, counties, community organizations, and other member-directed groups to create and deliver innovative health coverage plans for:

- Medicare-eligible individuals throughout Minnesota and in western Wisconsin.
- Individuals and families enrolled in income-based Minnesota Health Care Programs, such as MinnesotaCare and Prepaid Medical Assistance Program.
- Adults with disabilities and Medicare beneficiaries with chronic health conditions
- Minnesotans dually eligible for Medical Assistance and Medicare.

In 2007, UCare's UCare for Seniors Medicare Advantage plan ranked in the top 8 percent of health plans nationwide for outstanding performance. UCare addresses health care disparities and care access issues through its UCare Fund grants and a broad array of community initiatives.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere
email: lacours@mncable.net

It's the middle of winter and time for comfort foods. Today's recipes are from the Roseau County Historical Society's 75th Anniversary cookbook printed in 2002. Contact the society if you are interested in purchasing one. I've chosen some of my favorite comfort foods for you today.

Meat loaf and scalloped potatoes are a real comfort meal. Although I couldn't find a recipe for scalloped potatoes in the cookbook, I found a really delicious one for meat loaf, and here it is:

MEAT LOAF
Irene (Mrs. Milt) Sather
Meatloaf
1 1/2 to 2 pounds ground beef
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 egg, beaten with fork (add milk to make 3/4 cup)
Onion as desired
3/4 cup oatmeal
Topping
1/4 cup ketchup
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon mustard

Mix all meatloaf ingredients together and pack into loaf pan.

Mix all topping ingredients and pour over top. Bake at 350 degrees for about 1 hour.

Since I couldn't find a recipe for plain scalloped potatoes in the Roseau cookbook, I'm going to give you the recipe I use. I remember when my grandmother first made it. She found it in a newspaper (maybe the Times?) and used only this recipe ever after, and so have I and so have my kids. I'm sure you will like it and I'm sure it will go nicely with Mrs. Sather's meat loaf. This recipe has been doubled and even tripled to serve a bunch and it always turns out good:

GRANDMA LIDEN'S SCALLOPED POTATOES
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups cold milk, divided
4 cups sliced potatoes
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste

Melt butter and flour in large saucepan. Add 1 cup of the milk and cook thick. Add the second cup of milk and the potatoes and bring to a boil.

Remove from heat and add salt and pepper. (Don't add salt before cooking or you will have curdled scalloped potatoes!) Pour into buttered casserole, dot top with butter, and bake about 1 hour at 350 degrees, until potatoes are tender.

(Yum - I'm going to make Mrs. Sather's meat loaf and my grandma's potatoes this weekend!)

Maybe I'll make this bread too. There's nothing that will lift up the spirit like a nice piece of raisin toast dripping with butter. You can make the bread with your bread maker and the house will smell good the rest of the day too:

BREAD MACHINE OATMEAL BREAD (WITH RAISINS)
Charmaine Lorenson
1 package dry yeast
1 cup quick oats
3 cups bread flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon oil
1/2 cup raisins
1/2 cup molasses
1 1/4 cup plus 1 tablespoon warm water

Place above ingredients in bread machine as recommended by manufacturer. Select whole grain setting. Add raisins when indicated.

Plain vanilla pudding can make your tummy all warm and comfy. Try this one:

VANILLA PUDDING
Florence Klama
1/2 cup cornstarch
1 1/2 cups sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
4 egg yolks, beaten
5 cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon butter

Mix cornstarch, sugar and salt. Add egg yolks and milk and cook until thickened (use double boiler if possible). After cooking, add vanilla and butter.

A lovely bread pudding baking in the oven and the world seems to be a better place. And guess what - you can make this out of your raisin bread when it gets past its prime:

OLD FASHIONED BREAD PUDDING
Doris Oseid
3 cups soft bread crumbs
2 cups milk, scalded
1/4 cup butter
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup raisins
1/2 cup sugar

Place bread crumbs in 1 1/2 quart baking dish. Blend scalded milk with butter, sugar, eggs, salt, cinnamon and raisins and pour over bread. Place baking dish in pan and pour in 1 inch of hot water. Bake at 350 degrees for 40-45 minutes, until knife inserted 1 inch from edge of dish comes out clean. Recipe serves 6.

LSS introduces new coordinator in Pennington County

The Lutheran Social Service Caregiver Support and Respite Program in Pennington County has a new Program Coordinator. Tammy Sykes, who currently manages the program in Polk, Norman, Red Lake and Mahnomen counties, will now be serving families in Pennington, out of her office location in Fertile.

Tammy is responsible for all day-to-day operations of the program, which focuses on providing support, education, referrals, and respite for family caregivers, who are providing care at home to a loved one, aged 60 and older, with a long-term illness or disability.

According to the Journal of American Medicine, seniors who provide round-the-clock care to someone with dementia have a mortality rate that is 63 percent higher than seniors who don't provide such care. Of the caregivers that provide over 20 hours of care per week, 61 percent have suffered from clinical depression, says the National Family Caregiver Association. In fact, it is not unusual for caregivers to enter nursing homes at the same time or earlier than those to whom they provide care.

Family caregivers generally do not talk about the difficulties that they face every day because they don't want to bother others with their troubles. Nor do they talk about the fear that attends the progression of an illness that steals away mental and physical abilities a little at a time.

"Caregivers are usually so busy providing care, that they neglect their own health," states Sykes. The Caregiver Support and Respite program goal is to help caregivers remain healthy. Support groups, individual counseling, referrals, education, workshops and respite are offered to caregivers, enabling them to delay nursing home placement of the loved one they are caring for. The Caregiver Discussion Groups provide a safe place to talk about things and to learn from others in similar situations. As one of the participants said, "It's a place where you don't have to say that everything is fine." Caregiver Discussion Groups in this area include:

- Thief River Falls: second Thursday of each month at 10 a.m. at the Heritage Senior Center
- Crookston: second Monday of each month at 10 a.m., at Trinity Lutheran Church.
- Fosston: second Wednesday of each month at 10 a.m., at Summerfield Appartments
- Mahnomen: third Thursday of each month at 10 a.m., at First Lutheran Church.
- East Grand Forks: fourth Monday of each month at 10:30 a.m. at Family of God Church.
- Ada: fourth Wednesday of each month at 11:30 a.m. at Grace Lutheran Church.

Webster defines respite as "an interval of rest or relief." And that is exactly what the Caregiver Support and Respite Program offers. Respite volunteers, who go through eight hours of classroom training, on-the-job training, and criminal background checks, provide a safe and secure environment for the care recipient while the caregiver takes a break.

The cost for respite service is based on a generous sliding fee scale that ranges from no cost to a maximum of $10 per hour. The only criteria for receiving in-home respite through our program is that the care recipient must be 60 years of age or older.

Anyone who is interested in a discussion group, caregiver coaching/counseling, in-home respite care, or volunteering as a respite worker, should call Tammy at 218-945-6808 or call toll free 1-800-488-4146 and ask for Tara

New Minnesota state park annual permit showcases Mille Lacs Kathio State Park

The 2008 Minnesota state park annual permit featuring Mille Lacs Kathio State Park is now available at a number of locations including all state parks.

"Each year the artwork or photo on the permit highlights a different state park," said Courtland Nelson, director of the DNR Division of Parks and Recreation. "2008 is the 150th anniversary of Minnesota statehood and since so much history is reflected in our state parks, we wanted to feature a park with a particularly significant cultural and natural history."

The annual permit offers unlimited access to vacation destinations, special events, scenic places, historic sites and outdoor activities at all 72 Minnesota state parks and recreation areas for one year from the month of purchase.

The permit was designed by Minnesota artist Bill Gorcica, who is an art professor at St. Cloud State University. It features a landscape view of the park in the background with an image of the type of earthenware pots and their fragments found during archaeological excavations in the park. The Native American scene represented on the pottery was added to the design to illustrate the cultural history of the park.

Minnesota state park annual permits include the $25 annual vehicle permit, an $18 second permit for those who own two vehicles, and a $20 annual pass for motorcycle owners. The motorcycle permit, unlike the regular annual permit that must be affixed to vehicle windshield, is a wallet card that can be carried by the bike owner.

Annual permits can be purchased at any state park and the DNR License Center, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul. Permits can also be ordered by phone from the DNR Information Center by calling toll free 1-888-646-6367.

State parks are open 365 days a year from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Funds from the sale of permits are used to help maintain park facilities and manage natural resources.

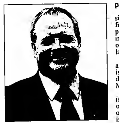
Steve Lillestol launches bid for state representative



Steve Lillestol

Thursday, Steve Lillestol announced his candidacy for House District 1A seat. Lillestol owns the Ford Dealership in Thief River Falls.

"I am running for State representative to bring a fresh perspective to the Legislature. Our rural communities face many challenges, and I believe my background in job creation will be an asset to our area," Lillestol said. "The community spirit in our part of the state makes this an exciting time to represent northwest Minnesota. I look forward to bringing common sense to the State Capitol, much like former Rep. Maxine Penas did."

In making his announcement, Lillestol was accompanied Thursday by Rep. Denny McNamara, District 57B, and Rep. Marty Seifert, District 21A and House minority leader

Seifert said this is the kind of guy who will get the job done. Seifert described Lillestol as a non-political candidate. He explained that Lillestol was not recruited from the party or caucuses.

Lillestol said he made the decision to run after visiting with family, friends, Ford Motor Company, his pastor and many other people. His interest in running for office occurred during a bonding bill tour last fall.

Although he said he doesn't have an agenda, Lillestol said education is an important issue to him - "We don't get our fair share in rural Minnesota."

Health care is another important issue to Lillestol. As a business owner, Lillestol has lived the reality of double digit increases for health insurance costs. "I will work to rein in exploding health care costs. Specifically, we need: to end the monopolies that are dominating health insurance costs, tort reform, welfare reform, mandate and paperwork reductions and other serious measures to address this issue."

Lillestol has a history as a community leader. He serves as president of Jobs Inc., an organization that is dedicated to retaining, creating and expanding business and industry in the Thief River Falls area. He also serves as a board member of MeritCare-Northwest Medical Center, and as a board member of the Community Development Advisory Board. He is immediate past president of Trinity Lutheran Church, a member of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce, Rotary International, the Community Advisory Committee for Northland Community and Technical College, and Police Department Advisory Committee.

Lillestol and his wife, Keri, who is a teacher's aide at Challenger Elementary School, have three adult children

More unwelcome news for cattle ranchers and deer hunters

Another story from the Minnesota Board of Animal Health citing the discovery of another cattle herd with bovine tuberculosis rocked ranchers and residents of northwest Minnesota this week. The news is unwelcome, unfortunate and just about every other adjective you can conjure up for bad news.

The actions taken to irradiate the disease in cattle herds have been drastic. In July 2005, the Minnesota Board of Animal Health and the United States Department of Agriculture discovered a beef cattle herd in Roseau County infected with bovine tuberculosis. This was the first positive herd identified in Minnesota since 1971, when the state was declared free from tuberculosis. To address the problem, infected cattle herds were destroyed, and steps to "clean" the properties, implemented. The state also implemented a statewide testing program to assure everyone that the presence of bovine TB was limited and being addressed. When the BAH announced two weeks ago that 1,500 herds had tested negative for bovine tuberculosis, many thought we were on the road to being declared a TB-Free state. The news this past week of yet another beef cattle herd infected with bovine TB, must have come like a sucker punch to cattlemen in northwest Minnesota. State officials haven't made any announcements, but cattle ranchers must now have to consider that the state will establish certain limits and boundaries around a large part of this area that will definitely limit and affect trade. Hunters must also be concerned.

Minnesota's white tail deer population is resilient. Residents who have lived in Minnesota for any length of time can testify to the rapid growth of the deer population. Hunters can testify to the craftiness, and its ability to survive in harsh conditions.

The actions being taken to reduce the white tail deer herd in the bovine TB area have been drastic in spite of the fact that, according to the Minnesota Board of Animal Health, "it does not appear that the wild deer population is a reservoir for bovine TB in Minnesota. The TB strain isolated from the infected Minnesota herds does not match the strain found in Michigan, and Minnesota has no prior history of tuberculosis infection in deer or other wildlife."

Nevertheless, researchers continue to find TB in the wild deer population too, and in the same area as the infected cattle herds. The one sure way to limit the state's repeated exposure to the risk is to reduce the deer herd. Officials seem to be taking a very conservative approach to addressing the disease.

I'm sure that there are many people out there who still argue whether the state should be taking these steps, but the risks are high for Minnesota.

Regaining the state's TB-free status is important to Minnesota's economy, and while the risks associated with bovine tuberculosis are very low, Minnesota must protect the food supply and take steps to prevent the disease from spreading.

Cattle ranchers in northwest Minnesota must surely anticipate more restrictions and requirements. As well, reducing the deer herd in the bovine TB area is in the best interest of Minnesota. In the short term, these actions will have a negative impact on cattle ranching, the deer herd, and our economy. In the long term, drastic actions now may prevent even more drastic actions later.

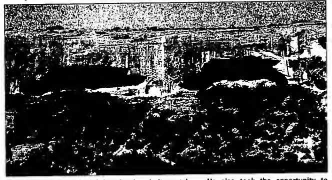
POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.



Tha cava pictured to tha left has drawings in it that date back at least 6,000 years. Carl Peterson of Thief River Falls won a free hunt from the International Hunter Education Association. While on the hunt, he shot an addax, a desert antalope. Ha also took tha opportunity to explore tha countryside and explored this cave. Paterson was told that there are 54 archeological sites on the 10,000-acre ranch where he went hunting.

In tha area where Carl Peterson of Thiaf River Falls went on a free hunt provided by the International Hunter Education Association, everything will aithar poke you or bite you. Peterson is kneeling by some paddle cactus.

Racing for me

I kept up with the I-500 race last weekend and it really tripped my sentimental trigger. The race reminds me of the late 60s and early 70s and of snowmobiles without suspensions, brand names without end and racers without regard for their own bodies. This week let's take a trip from Winnipeg to St. Paul - the hard way.

First off, I can't say how much difference there is between yesterday's racer and today's; both are mostly young and in great shape, courageous and bold. It's not the drivers who've changed so much as the race and the sleds they employ in the task. I just finished watching a DVD of the 1967 I-500 that started at Winnipeg, Manitoba, and ended at the Winter Carnival in St Paul. It was narrated by Keith Jackson and provided the sort of drama that only occurs in a meeting of man versus himself. The snowmobiles had very little suspension, so these racers took a tremendous beating and ended each day as they started the next, greatly fatigued. The images of skis flopping in mid-air between wash-board ramps made of snow contrast greatly with the smooth suspension of even the most basic consumer sleds available today.

There was one scene of cooperation in this race that made me think there will prabably never again be a race that crosses jurisdictions and even international borders. As the racers drove south from Winnipeg, they had to stop at the border. A combination of racing speed and poor brakes made this stop almost impossible except for the help of border guards, who would hold onto the sleds while racers dug inside their coveralls for their border pass. On my last trip to Canada, I got pulled aside for an hour because of my heavy beard and stern countenance. I can't imagine what they would do to a speeding racer today.

The neat thing about I-500 racers is that, with some exceptions, they are the professional athlete next door. We live in the heart of snowmobile country and some of its best racers live anonymously among us; a factor made even greater in a time when racing was a more simple proposition. I have visited with Ernie Melvie from Viking many times, but this week we talked a little about racing during the Nixon presidency. Ernie was an independent racer who's stable included a Polaris 398 TX, a John Deere 295s then closed out his race career with an Arctic Cat Panther. He raced among Rupps, Mercurys, Johnsons and Sno-jets, just to name a few. Ernie's mechanics included Dennis and Douglas Wahl from Greenbush, but come race time the bulk of any racer's support team was at the end of his arm, so they needed good mechanic skills. Ernie lost the bottom gear on his chain case once which he tried, unsuccessfully, to remedy with some barbed wire. Still another time he, along with other racers, switched to bogie wheels for their tracks when conditions demanded it. While most of the racers used loc-tite to keep their bogies mounted, Ernie used a hammer to flatten the threads on the mounting bolts. The loc-tite never had time to set up and those who used it lost bogie wheels. Ernie and his hammered threads made it just fine. Few finished the I-500 back then and Ernie was no different; however, he did do well in local races, such as the Lemans style race held in what is now the industrial park near Thief River Falls.

I get a little sentimental for anything from the 70s, particularly old snowmobiles and the guys who raced them. I still like to know who's racing and the snowmobiles that are technical marvels, but it just doesn't seem the same; I liked it better when I could see a "famous" racer delivering gravel (like Ernie does), or when I'd see him when I was invited to his son, Kevin's birthday party. Seeing someone you looked up to in person, living a regular life, instead of just on television or in the newspaper, made it seem a little more like he was racing for me.

Hibbert wins at West Yellowstone

Tucker Hibbert and his Monster Energy/Arctic Cat dominated the World PowerSports Association Snowmobile Tour's Jack Link's West Yellowstone National. Hibbert was no stranger to the area as he began his snowmobile racing career at West Yellowstone and was born in the nearby town of Driggs, Idaho.

Hibbert grabbed the number one qualifying spot for the Pro Super Stock final and was untouchable all 12 laps. He led every single lap and finished nearly 10 seconds ahead of second place, Arctic Cat's Ryan Simons. It was the first race of the season on a 100-percent natural snow track but heavy snowfall and poor visibility prematurely shut down Sunday's racing, forcing the team's and track crew to stick around to finish the remaining races Monday morning.

With the sun shining and below zero temperatures, 15 riders hit the track for the Pro Open final. With a nearly last place start in the 14-lap final, Hibbert put his head down, rade mistake free and passed first place, Ryan Simons, on lap 10 for the win.

"It was awesome to get my first stock/open sweep of the season and was great to be back in West Yellowstone. These wins give the team and myself so much confidence and extra motivation heading into the Winter X Games this week. Being able to come from behind in the Pra Open final and to win by a good margin really helps me mentally because now I know I can ran down the field if I need to. With a 20 lap final event in Aspen, I know no matter where I am off the start I can fight my way to the front," said Hibbert.

Hibbert and Monster Energy/Arctic Cat are on their way to Aspen, Colo., for the biggest race of the season, ESPN's Winter X Games 12. This year marks the ninth appearance for the six-time medalist at the Winter X Games and a shot for his third gold medal.

TRF overtime win results in series sweep

■ Prowlers edge Lake of the Woods girls 5-4

Haleigh Stegeman scored the first and last goals of the game – the second one coming at 5:40 of overtime – as Thief River Falls edged Lake of the Woods 5-4 in a Tuesday girls high school hockey game at Baudette.

It was the second win of the year over the Bears for the 6-15 Prowlers, who won a 2-0 Nov. 29 meeting in Thief River Falls.

The rematch began with a five-goal first period. In a flurry of activity, goals were scored by Stegeman at 7:09; the Bears' Brenley Anderson at the 8-minute mark and again at 8:44; and the Prowlers' Alie Dorn at 9:22.

Anderson completed a first period hat trick by scoring at 14:21.

Thief River Falls tied it again on a goal by Ashley Mykelbust at 3:05 of the second period, but two minutes later Anderson had her fourth goal of the night.

Dorn got the equalizer at 9:27 of the third period. She ended the night with four points.

Thief River Falls goalie Jade Gothberg finished with 22 saves. Lake of the Woods netminder Bryna Hanson stopped 30 shots.

Scoring

First period - TRF, Haleigh Stegeman (Kaitlin Lund, Alie Dorn), 7:09. LGW, Brenley Anderson, 8:00. LOW, Anderson, Katelyn Thompson, 8:44; TRF, Dorn (Brittney Schwab), 9:22; LGW, Anderson (Kaity Forris), 14:21.

Second period - TRF, Ashley Mykelbust (Raina Pederson, Dorn), 3:05; LOW, Anderson (Thompson), 5:07.

Third period - TRF, Dorn (Molly Paterson), 9:27.

Overtime - TRF, Stegeman, 5:40.

Goalie saves - TRF, Jade Gothberg 22; LGW, Bryna Hanson 30.

NCTC alumni game for women is slated Feb. 2

Northland Community and Technical College women's basketball alumni game will be played Saturday, Feb. 2, in the NCTC gym.

Players are asked to report by 11 a.m. Team pictures will be taken before the game.

Warm-ups start at 11:30 a.m. Tip-off is scheduled for noon.

The alumni match-up will precede a Northland basketball doubleheader that day that will find the Pioneers playing Mesabi Range in a 3 p.m. women's game and 5 p.m. men's contest.

A women's alumni basketball social will be held at the Black Cat starting at 6 p.m.

To register for the alumni contest, or for additional information, contact Paul Peterson, 1101 Highway 1 East, Thief River Falls, MN 56701; telephone 218-681-0737; or email paul.peterson@northlandcollege.edu.

Basketball fund-raiser is planned for Feb. 8 game

Thief River Falls Boys Basketball Alumni Association will be sponsoring a fund-raising 'Hot Stuff Halftime Challenge' during the Prowlers' Feb. 8 game vs. East Grand Forks in the Lincoln High School gym.

For a $1 entry fee, participants take a shot from the 3-point line. A miss eliminates the shooter.

Hit the 3-pointer, you win a pop and get a second chance from 3-point range. Make that one, you also get a large Hot Stuff pizza to go along with your soft drink.

Make both 3-pointers and you get a shot from half-court, where successful shooters will add $20 to their beverage and pizza prizes.

Both ends of the floor will be utilized during the competition.

Proceeds will go to the Boys Basketball Alumni Scholarship Fund.

Thief River Falls defenseman Matt Audette kept East Grand Forks' Brenden Mochoruk (2) from getting around him with the puck during Tuesday's Section 8A boys high school hockey game at the Ralph Engelstad Arena. The Prowlers beat the Green Wave 4-2.

Prowlers skate past EGF 4-2...

Slow start doesn't prevent a TRF win

With a month left in the regular season, Warroad would appear to have a lock on the top seed for the 2008 Section 8A boys high school hockey tournament. The real race is expected to develop for the No. 2 spot – a battle currently involving Park Rapids Area/Menagha/Nevis, Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks and Bemidji.

The Prowlers got one leg up on the competition Tuesday when they overcame a slow start to beat East Grand Forks 4-2 at the Ralph Engelstad Arena.

Thief River Falls was out-shot 10-3 and trailed 1-0 after one period but came back to out-shoot the Green Wave 19-12 and out-score the visitors 4-1 over the final 34 minutes.

"It was a good section win for us," said Thief River Falls coach Tim Bergland. "We had a few days off and we started a little slow, but I thought we came back and played pretty well in the second and third periods. They're a good team, we knew they would be tough."

East Grand Forks defenseman Kody Vizenor became an offensive weapon when he used a screen to beat Thief River Falls goalie Zane Gothberg with a blast on a slap shot from the right side at 13:44 of the first period.

"It was a pretty even game," offered Bergland. "We felt each other out for a while, then they got that first goal."

Thief River Falls tied it at 2:15 of the second period when Matt Lindquist reached out for the puck in the slot and got off a wrist shot that seemed to catch East Grand Forks goalie Alex Christiansen by surprise.

The Prowlers took the lead on a power play goal at 12:11 of the middle period. Gothberg started the play, and was rewarded with an assist by pushing the puck to center ice after the Green Wave had dumped it clearing their zone. Lindquist then made a pass to Brady Johnson, who scored on a wrist shot from the face-off circle to the right of the East Grand Forks net.

Jesse Castle beat Christiansen on the glove side off a 2-on-1 rush at 7:18 of the third period.

East Grand Forks tightened things when Jake Useldinger was allowed to skate untouched into the slot and scored on a power play opportunity at 11:48.

Thief River Falls, however, took away any final-minute suspense when Tyler Aandal sailed down the ice and beat Christiansen cleanly at 14:29.

It was the fourth win in their last five games for the 7-9 Prowlers.

Scoring

First period - EGF, Kody Vizenor, 13:44.

Second period - TRF, Matt Lindquist (Keaton Joppru, Brady Johnson), 2:15; TRF, Johnson (Lindquist, Zane Gothberg), 12:11.

Third period - TRF, Jesse Castle (Johnson, Brady Mounier), 7:18; EGF, Jake Useldinger (Nick Ohman), 11:48; TRF, Tyler Aandal (Castle), 14:29.

Goalie saves - TRF, Zane Gothberg 9-7-4-20; EGF, Alex Christiansen 3-11-4-18.

Gators add player to 1,000-Point Club list

Zac Creviston became a member of the 1,000-Point Club Tuesday and his Badger/Greenbush-Middle River boys high school basketball team posted a key 67-52 Section 8A win over visiting Stephen-Argyle.

A junior forward, Creviston scored 17 points, a figure matched by his brother, senior Jordan Creviston. Tyler Aune chipped in with 12 points.

The Gators led 39-34 at halftime en route to their 11th win in 13 starts.

"Both teams played pretty well," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Kent Christian. "We knocked down some key shots and were able to finish."

Kip Thorstenson of the Storm led all scorers with 20 points. Kyle Gratzek netted 10.

"The west sub-section is incredibly balanced," pointed out Christian. "Tournament time should be exciting."

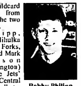
Scoring

	1	2	T
Stephen-Argyle	34	18	52
B/G-Middle River	39	28	67

S-A - Kip Thorstenson 20, Kyle Gratzek 10, Kolby Gruhot 4, Taylor Swanson 5, Jared Jacobson 3, Matt Borowicz 4, Blaine Deschene 3, Evan Hanson 3.

B/G-MR - Brandon Peterson 7, Jordan Holm 5, Jordan Creviston 17, Tyler Aune 12, Zac Creviston 17, Allan Dostal 5, Max Thompson 4.

Robby Philipp to be in Prospects Tournament



Robby Philipp

Robby Philipp of Thief River Falls, a second-year member of the Fargo-Moorhead Jets in the North American Hockey League, has been selected to play in the first NAHL Top Prospects Tournament Feb. 17-19 at the Ice Cube in Ann Arbor, Mich.

The event will feature all-star teams from the NAHL Central, North and South Divisions, along with a squad from the U.S. National Team Development Program. The four entries will each play a three-game, round-robin tournament schedule.

In the two NAHL six-team divisions - Central, South – the all-star selections included five players from the first place teams as of Jan. 1 (North Iowa, Wichita Falls), four from the second place teams (Southern Minnesota, Fairbanks); three from the third and fourth place teams (Springfield, Fargo-Moorhead, Topeka, Alaska); and two from the fifth and sixth place teams (Alexandria, Bismarck, Kenai River, Texas). Coaches also selected one wildcard player from each of the two divisions.

Philipp, Marc Mihulka (Grand Forks, N.D.) and Mark Johnson (Bloomington) were the Jets' NAHL Central Division all-star picks. Philipp and Mihulka are forwards; Johnson is a defenseman.

The 6-2, 165-pound Philipp had 12 goals, 17 assists and 29 points in the Jets' first 35 games this year. In his rookie 2006-07 season, the 2006 Lincoln High School graduate had 11 goals, 22 assists and 33 points in 50 games.

Thief River Falls' Cody Bottem and Michael Benedict are first-year players with the Jets this winter and the Prowlers' Corey Horien is a rookie with the Fairbanks (Alaska) Ice Dogs.

Prowlers beat Rams to extend win streak

Kasey Trontvet scored 19 points, Chase Haviland 15 and Jacob Stuckey 11 as Thief River Falls won a 78-42 Tuesday boys high school basketball game at Roseau.

The Prowlers led 33-24 at halftime and out-scored the Rams 45-18 in the second half.

While a dozen Thief River Falls players put their names in the scoring column, Roseau's offense came from just four players, with three of them – Jordan Timmersman (15), Isaac Erickson (15) and Ryan Gilson (10) – accounting for 40 of the Rams' 42 points.

The two teams combined to put up 46 free throws. The Prowlers were 15-for-26 at the line; the Rams went 12-for-20.

Five straight wins have improved the Prowlers' record to 8-3.

Scoring

TRF JV boys win 69-50

Thief River Falls built a 43-22 halftime lead and coasted past Roseau 69-50 Tuesday in boys junior varsity high school basketball.

The Prowlers were led by Riley Simonson with 18 points, Aaron Yaggie 14 and Jacob Langevin 10.

TRF girls complete sweep with 53-39 win vs. Roseau

Thief River Falls completed a home-and-home girls high school basketball sweep of Roseau Tuesday by beating the visiting Rams 53-39.

Brittany Wiseth scored 11 points and Cassie Gunderson had 9 for the Prowlers, who led only 25-21 at halftime.

Hannah Hogenson scored a game-high 16 points for the Rams.

Thief River Falls, a 59-30 winner at Roseau Jan. 8, improved to 8-6 with a second victory over the Rams.

Scoring

	1	2	T
Roseau	21	18	39
Thief River Falls	25	28	53

Roseau - Hannah Hogenson 16, Setareh Mostafi 2, LaTonya Lave 7, Emily Bolte 4, Elizabeth Housker 2, Brittani Hallstad 6.

TRF - Brittany Wiseth 11, Chelsea Sorteberg 6, Toni Sortaberg 8, Lacey Stennes 2, Beth Tvedt 8, Rachael Johnson 4, Kristine Slotten 4, Hannah Kainz 5, Cassie Gunderson 9.

Tyler Aandal of the Prowlers carried the puck into the offensive zone ahead of Justin Kahl of the Green Wave in Tuesday's Thief River Falls vs. East Grand Forks boys high school hockey game.

Northern Freeze shoots down Wolverines

Contrasting shooting spelled the difference Tuesday as Northern Freeze beat Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke 74-50 in girls high school basketball at Newfolden.

The winners put together a 55 percent 30-for-55 shooting performance from the floor. The Wolverines, on the other hand, struggled through a 27 percent 16-for-60 night.

"Our worst shooting of the year," was the way Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Brent Philipp described his team's play. "Nothing would fall."

Northern Freeze coach Tom Mjelde had a different perspective on things. "We shot the ball really well," he said. "We worked the ball around, stayed away from the 3-pointers and got some high-percentage shots. It was our best game of the year."

The Wolverines fell behind 18-1 at the start and never fully recovered. They trailed 42-24 at halftime. "We were in a hole in a hurry," acknowledged Philipp.

Alycia Dahl had a 19-point, 15-rebound double-double for the winners, whose offense also featured Kinzie Magner with 13 points, Liza Hoglo 12, Sasha Magner 11 and Kayla Halvorson 10. It was the first time this winter the Freeze had five double-figure scorers.

Adelle Prestebak had a 13-point, 8-rebound game for the Wolverines. Brittney Forsberg added 11 points and Alisha Verbout 10 to the Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke attack.

Northern Freeze went 13-for-21 at the free throw line; Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke was 14-for-20. The Freeze out-rebounded the Wolverines 41-21 and topped the turnover charts 21-17.

The results put Northern Freeze at 10-5 and Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke at 5-10.

Scoring

Eagles out-score Bearcats 78-71

Anthony Gast scored 23 points and Chris Klamar had 21 Tuesday as Grygla-Gatzke won a 78-71 boys high school basketball shootout over visiting Kittson County Central.

Jordan Brateng and Cody Archibald added 12 and 11 points, respectively to the Eagles' offense and Greg Sparby collected seven assists.

"I thought we played a pretty decent game," said Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "Our post players (Archibald, Klamar) did a good job; Sparby had a nice game; and we rebounded very well, especially on the defensive end."

The Eagles led 37-33 at halftime as they reached .500 at 6-6. "It was a good effort," said Johnson. "The kids put it together."

Dustin Dalbey scored 16 points to lead the Bearcats. Steven Johnson added 12 points to the Kittson County Central total, while Trevor Austin and Jordan Peterson both netted 10.

It was a good shooting night for the Eagles, who were 28-for-52 from the field (54 percent) and 18-for-22 at the free throw line. The Bearcats went 22-for-55 from the floor (40 percent) and 18-for-30 at the line.

Gast completed a double-double with 11 rebounds as Grygla-Gatzke dominated the boards, 35-18. The Eagles also had more turnovers, 18-10.

Scoring

MCC boys limited to 17 first half points...

Nordics struggle in loss at the hands of Warroad

A 17-point first half doomed Marshall County Central Tuesday in a 48-40 boys high school basketball loss at Warroad.

It was not textbook basketball, according to Nordics coach Jake Rantanen. "Both teams played pretty bad," he said. "They just happened to hit a couple more shots than we did."

Kyle Haven scored 13 points and Evan Maki 11 for the Nordics. Warroad got 10-point games from Jack Phetsanghane, John Johnson and Mitch Wilmer.

Marshall County Central made just 16 of 53 field goal attempts (30 percent); Warroad was 21-for-48 (44 percent). It was an 8-for 13 free throw game for the Nordics; the winners went 5-for-10 at the line.

Warroad finished with a 33-32 rebound edge. Turnovers were even at 18-apiece.

"It was an ugly basketball game," said Rantanen. "We had too many turnovers and we didn't play with any emotion."

The Nordics are 8-5. It was a home-and-home sweep for Warroad, a 44-40 winner at Newfolden Dec. 18.

TRF hockey JV team falls to Green Wave 5-1

East Grand Forks beat Thief River Falls 5-1 Tuesday in boys junior varsity high school hockey.

The Green Wave broke a scoreless tie with a pair of second period goals. The Prowlers opened the third period with a goal by Spencer Wiseth, but the visitors put the game away with three unanswered goals.

Ryan Sagstuen was in the nets for the Prowlers, who were out-shot 27-24.

Thief River Falls was coming off a week's worth of games that included an 8-2 Jan. 10 win over Crookston, a 3-1 Jan. 15 loss to Moorhead, and a 3-1 Jan. 17 setback at the hands of Warroad.

Aaron Schneider collected a hat trick, Marcus Daniels scored two goals and Brady Johnson, Brady Meunier and Dillon Barry had single goals in the win over the Pirates. Goalie Brett Hanson stopped 15 shots.

Schneider scored the lone Thief River Falls goal against Moorhead. Sagstuen had 29 saves that night.

The Prowlers' goal against Warroad came from Daniels. Sagstuen had a 28-save game.

RLF second half offense nets win vs. RLCC, 45-39

Limited to nine first half points, Red Lake Falls came back to beat visiting Red Lake County Central 45-39 Tuesday in girls high school basketball.

"The first half was the best defense we've played in many years," pointed out Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto, whose team limited Red Lake Falls to 4-for-17 shooting in those first 18 minutes.

But the Eagles started the second half with a Jodi Berdahl 3-pointer and forced an immediate turnover that ignited an offensive turnaround.

It was just a two-point difference down the stretch before four Rochelle Schmitz free throws iced it for the winners.

Cassie Columbus scored 13 points and Kylie Vatthauer had 11 – all in the second half – to lead the Eagles. The Mustangs' offense featured Kayla Pelletier with 13 points and Michaela Casavan with 12.

Red Lake County Central was 15-for-38 from the field (39 percent). Red Lake Falls was 18-for-40 (45 percent). Both teams had 7-for-8 free throw games. The Mustangs out-rebounded the Eagles 24-19, but they also had more turnovers, 20-16.

The loss ended a three-game win streak for the 12-4 Mustangs. "It was a good effort," offered Koivisto.

DNR QUESTIONS

Q: Given the extremely dry summer we had followed by a wet fall, should we still prune our trees if they need it? If so, when?

A: 'Good question. If they are already showing signs of decline as a result of the drought, it's best to wait on any pruning activities - because although pruning is good for trees, it is a temporary stressor, and on top of severe drought, stress may be enough to invite in secondary pests like the two-lined chestnut borer that loves stressed oak trees. Signs of decline would be late spring leaf-out, early fall color, branch die-back in the tree tops, smaller than usual leaves and/or pale colored leaves. If these symptoms are present, I'd wait to see if the trees can increase their vigor before being pruned. If the trees are vigorous with no signs of stress, and have normal color, normal growth, etc, then pruning is fine. The best time to prune is during the winter when trees are dormant. But it's hard to tell what's live wood and what's dead wood during the winter. Pruning in fall is the next best time to prune. Spring is the worst time to prune because the bark is loose and injures easily and because disease agents are in full swing during those cool wet months.

- Susan Burks, Minnesota DNR forest health specialist.

Peterson has heard stories about hunts where it doesn't take much skill to shoot penned game. This wasn't the case at Indianhead Ranch. Peterson said the exotic game at the ranch did tend to stand next to the roads. They watched very closely, he said. As soon as someone stepped out of a vehicle, however, they'd head into thick brush and away from the hunters.

Indianhead Ranch offers over 25 species of native and exotic game, free-roaming on 10,000 acres with no interior fences and a diversity of terrain. Hunters were asked to only shoot management animals - animals that needed to be culled from the stock.

Peterson said the diversity of animals and terrain was amazing. While generally flat, there were rocky outcroppings and steep cliffs. Peterson said caves on the property showed signs of ancient inhabitants, who also were hunters. Indian cave drawings, estimated to be at least 6,000-years old, were found on the property. Peterson had an opportunity to see the drawings for himself. The terrain posed a challenge for the hunters, too. Peterson said "everything out there would poke you or bite you." Temperatures ranged from about freezing at night to the 70s during the day.

When it came time to hunt, Peterson told his guide that he'd prefer to let the youngsters shoot their game first because he said it meant more to him to watch their expressions when they were successful. But, it came time for Peterson and he bagged an addax, a desert antelope that lives in several isolated regions in the Sahara desert and is about the same size as a white tail deer. Initially, the addax was 178 yards away. Peterson and his guide, Darren Carr, crept closer. Peterson finally made his shot at about 159 yards. He said it wasn't a difficult shot, but it was made into the sun - dust on the scope reflected particles of dirt collected during the day.

He said he brought home some of the meat. He said it has very little taste - no wild taste to it at all. The head is being mounted for him - again, at no cost to Peterson.

Peterson arrived in Texas on Thursday, Oct. 24, and was back in Minnesota on Monday - just in time for deer hunting season.

As Peterson reflects back on the trip, he said he can't say enough about how enjoyable it was. He had the hunt of a lifetime, got to see animals he'd only seen at zoos, and met some very interesting people, including Joe Engle, Maj. Gen. USAF (ret). Engle was an astronaut and test pilot for the first space shuttle. Engle and his wife were hunting at the ranch at the time, but that's another story.

Peterson is now preparing his lesson plans for hunter education courses, which will take place at the end of March (firm dates have not been set, yet) and is sponsored by the Sportsmans Club. In his first lesson he plans to encourage all students to fill out the entry card inside of the Hunter's Handbook that offers them the chance to win the hunt of a life time, because, he said, "You never know, you could win."

Volunteers donate time and talents to help DNR

More than 34,000 volunteers donated their time and talents in 2007 to assist Minnesota Department of Natural Resources staff with a variety of projects and programs.

"We're fortunate to have so many dedicated Minnesotans who are willing to donate their time and talents for conservation projects," said Renee Vail, the DNR's volunteer programs administrator. "We're extremely grateful for their efforts."

In 2007, 34,773 volunteers donated 472,517 hours of work. Those efforts represent the equivalent of an extra 227 full-time people helping the DNR expand and improve services. The value of volunteer services is estimated at $8.8 million.

"The volunteers provide work that supplements but does not supplant DNR personnel," Vail said. "Their efforts add significant value to the DNR, which relies on the community for assistance. Many of our projects would not be possible without the help of volunteers."

DNR managers, professionals and technicians work with the volunteers to help manage the state's diverse natural resources. Volunteer positions range from jobs requiring no previous experience to specialist positions requiring extensive skill and experience.

Interested in a possible career in fisheries, Kara Torell of St. Cloud asked to shadow a worker from the DNR fisheries in Montrose last spring. Torell helped DNR staff lift large trap nets for muskellunge on Sugar Lake in Wright County in April 2007 as part of a lake survey.

The fish were measured for length and weight and then released. This data helps the DNR make management decisions regarding stocking and regulations and provides a picture of how the fishery is doing, especially when compared to past surveys. Results are posted on the DNR Web site for anglers and others to use.

"Muskellunge and other fish move into shallow water shortly after ice-out," said Mark Pelham, DNR fisheries specialist. "It's a good time to catch a lot of large fish and release them safely. We do this to supplement our summer lake survey. It was cold, wet, hard work and Kara was a trooper helping that day."

Statewide, DNR fisheries volunteer numbers rose by more than 1,800 hours and 470 volunteers from 2006.

"We're glad citizens are willing to help manage this natural resource for everyone's benefit," Vail said.

Volunteer opportunities may occur at state parks, state forest campgrounds, wildlife management areas, fisheries and hatcheries; more than 100 DNR area offices; four regional DNR headquarter offices; the St. Paul central office and special event sites.

More than 600 volunteers assisted the DNR at the Minnesota State Fair, acting as Smokey Bear, helping at the laser shot booth, dispensing lake data reports, and providing entertainment and environmental education presentations on the DNR volunteer outdoor stage.

Volunteers also helped with firearms safety instruction, state park campground hosting, loon monitoring, snowmobile safety instruction, trail clearing, precipitation observing, river cleanups, issuing burning permits and wildlife research.

Volunteers work individually and in groups, undertaking projects in both field and office settings. DNR staff provides training. The DNR volunteer programs office also works with the DNR Alumni Volunteer Association, a program that utilizes retired DNR employees in special DNR projects throughout the state.

For more information about DNR volunteering opportunities, visit the DNR Web site at www.mndnr.gov and click on the word "volunteering" or contact the DNR Information Center, toll free at 1-888-646-6367.

Cross-Country Ski Pass Benefits Trails System

State law requires skiers to purchase and possess either a daily, annual or three-year pass before using any grant-in-aid and state-operated cross-country ski trails this winter. All money raised from the sale of cross-country ski passes directly supports 1,800 miles of designated cross-country ski trails throughout Minnesota, according to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

"Skiers should think of the passes as an investment in their sport," said Andrew Korsberg, trail program coordinator for the DNR. "The money collected is funneled directly into the grant-in-aid program to support and expand the trail system statewide, and to maintain it at the level skiers have come to expect."

Ski passes cost $5 for the daily, $15 for the annual, and $40 for the three-year pass.

The Minnesota Legislature established the ski pass in 1983. The law requires skiers 16 years of age and older to have a valid Minnesota ski trail pass with them at all times while on a designated trail. Skiers caught without a pass may be ticketed.

Skiers may purchase passes at any one of nearly 1,800 electronic licensing agents throughout Minnesota and at most state parks that have ski trails. Annual and three-year passes may also be bought online at www1.wildlifelicense.com/mn. People may also purchase a ski pass by calling 1-888-665-4236, or by mail at DNR License Center, 500 Lafayette Road, St. Paul, MN 55155-4026. Passes ordered by mail require approximately two weeks for delivery.

A $3.50 convenience fee will be added to the sale of passes sold over the Internet or by phone. Minnesota cross-country ski trail information, including trail locations, maps and conditions, is available on the DNR Web site at www.mndnr.gov/skiing/index.html.

DNR announces regulation changes for Upper Red Lake

The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources has announced special regulations to address the cleaning and eating of walleye and northern pike on Upper Red Lake.

On special regulation waters, species with protective size limits are required to be kept intact so that they are measurable. On Upper Red Lake, size limits are in effect for walleye (17- to 26-inch protected) and northern pike (26- to 40-inch protected). New legislation includes an exception, allowing fish with protected size limits to be cleaned for a meal on the ice. Specifically, all fish for which special size limits apply must be undressed and measurable when in possession, except when on the ice and a person is in the act of preparing and using the fish for a meal.

These new rules allowing fish consumption on ice will provide more opportunity to harvest walleye on Upper Red Lake where the current daily bag limit for walleye is two fish. Anglers staying on Red Lake for multiple days will be able to catch and prepare a meal of fish one day and harvest additional fish the next, as long as they take no more than two walleye per day and have no more than two in possession at any time.

Rules for Upper Red Lake require anglers to retain carcasses with head, spinal column and tail intact when cleaning a fish for a meal. Carcasses must be kept in a manner in which they can be separated, counted and measured for the remainder of the day in which the fish were consumed. However, anglers will be required to properly dispose of those carcasses before harvesting any additional fish the following day.

Red Lake Tips

■ Do not allow whole fish or carcasses to freeze together in buckets or bags, since both need to be measurable.

■ Pack whole fish or carcasses in snow or ice shavings in a bucket or cooler inside the fish house to prevent freezing.

■ Carcasses count toward a person's possession limit.

■ Carcasses of fish consumed one day must be taken to shore and properly disposed of in the trash or fish cleaning facility if anglers intend to harvest additional fish the following day.

■ It is illegal to dispose of fish carcasses on or under the ice.

For a complete copy of the most current fishing regulations, visit www.mndnr.gov or call toll free 1-888-646-6367.

Hunters harvest over 250,000 deer in 2007

Early estimates indicate that Minnesota hunters harvested more than 250,000 deer in 2007, according to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

The projected 2007 harvest is below the 2003 record harvest of 290,000, but still among the top five harvests in Minnesota.

To date, a total of 234,000 deer have been registered electronically. The last firearm season closed Nov. 25, but the muzzleloader season was open until Dec. 9 and archery hunting continues until Dec. 31. Final results of the deer harvest will be available in mid-January.

"All things considered, the deer season went well," said Lou Cornicelli, DNR big game program coordinator. "There will be some slight reductions in archery harvest, most likely due to a lot of rain this fall. Also, muzzleloader hunters will be less successful in lottery deer areas because of the change in how antlerless permits were allocated."

Overall, Minnesota's deer harvest is down 4 percent from 2006, but that year's deer harvest was the second highest ever recorded in Minnesota.

days formula, is that homes should not need to be heated if the outside air temperature is 65 degrees or warmer. As an example, if the high is zero degrees and the low is minus-10 degrees, then the day's average temperature of minus-5 degrees will be subtracted from 65 degrees, for a heating degree days total of 70.

The December '07 average heating degree days total was 1,593, which was just six degree days higher than average (1,587). January is typically a colder month, with an average of 1,771 heating degree days.

January 2007 was much warmer. The average daily temperature in northwest Minnesota, according to Ewens, was 6 degrees above normal and heating degree days, according to Luipakka, were much lower, at 1,582. Using this comparison, it is likely that January '08 heating degree days will fall between the 2007 number and the typical average.

Heating bill assistance

For many families in northwest Minnesota, heating bills can be a budget killer. Some of those families can be helped by energy assistance programs.

"We have a lot of families who don't know there is money available," said Phil Wold, community assistance programs manager for the Tri-Valley Opportunity Council in Crookston.

Wold added that fuel assistance is available for both homeowners and renters, and the amount of assistance is based on the three-month total income an applicant receives prior to submitting an application. If an application is submitted in January, Tri-Valley Opportunity Council needs to know of any income the household has received in October, November and December.

Wold said there are three factors that are looked at when determining eligibility. How many individuals live in the home? What was their income is for the past three months? And, what did it cost to heat their home the previous heating year (the previous heating year is from June 1, 2006 through May 31, 2007)?

Maximum income for inclusion into the program is based on family size. If a household includes one individual, the maximum three-month income for eligibility is currently $5,030. For a two-person household, the maximum three-month income is $6,578. Eligibility guidelines continue as three-person household – $8,126; four-person – $9,674; five-person – $11,222; and six-person – $12,770 three-month income.

Households may apply once during a fiscal year. The state of Minnesota processes over 121,000 applications each year, so applicants who are turned down may not reapply during the same year.

"If a family meets the eligibility guidelines, it will receive a percent of the previous heating year's costs," Wold said. "In the situation where there are no heating costs (from the previous year), we use a back-up chart that gives the family a flat dollar amount."

According to the Minnesota Department of Commerce, households with the lowest income and highest fuel costs receive the highest grants. Distribution of those grants vary based on what type of heating a family uses.

"If a client heats with fuel oil or propane, the full grant amount is sent to their bulk dealer," Wold said. "If the family heats with a connected utility, the funds are split into four monthly payments."

The Minnesota Energy Assistance Program runs from Oct. 1, 2007 to Sept. 31, 2008. The last day to apply for the program is May 31, 2008.

Anyone interested in learning more about heating assistance can go to www.commerce.state.mn.us and click on the Heating Assistance tab. They can also contact Tri-Valley Opportunity Council at 218-281-9080 or toll free 1-866-264-3729; Northwest Community Action in Badger at 218-528-3258 or 1-800-568-5329; or Inter-County Community Council in Oklee at 218-796-5144.

Emergency LIHEAP funding received

To date, Minnesota has received more than $77.5 million as part of the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP). An additional $19.8 million has been promised in contingency funds released by the president of the U.S. These additional funds will be used to assist families that have not yet applied to the program during the '07-'08 program-year.

The program also appears to have strong backing for future years. On Wednesday, (Jan. 23) Sen. Amy Klobuchar signed on as a co-sponsor of legislation aimed at increasing Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) funding by $800 million for fiscal year 2008.

"Working families across Minnesota and the nation shouldn't have to choose between paying their home heating bill and putting food on their table," Klobuchar said. "With this winter's frigid temperatures, it is imperative that we provide assistance to our families to help them keep pace with the sharp increase in heating costs."

Minnesota, all of which tested negative for bovine TB.

In all, approximately 347,000 TB tests have been performed since the disease was discovered in Minnesota in July 2005.

The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources conducted TB surveillance of hunter-harvested white-tailed deer in the affected area of northwest Minnesota. Over 3,000 deer have been tested in this area since 2005, with 13 deer testing positive and an additional four testing presumptive positive for the disease this past fall.

Michelle Carstensen, DNR wildlife health program coordinator, said complete test results will be available within the next several weeks.

"Although finding additional infected deer is obviously a concern, the good news is that the prevalence of the disease remains low and is confined to a small geographic region," Carstensen said. "The DNR is taking every precaution to prevent bovine TB from spreading through the deer herd."

Due to preventative measures taken by the beef and dairy industries and animal health officials, cattle infected with bovine TB pose little risk to human health. The United States has actively pursued a bovine TB eradication program since 1917, which includes food safety initiatives such as milk pasteurization and specific examinations of internal organs for TB at slaughter.

All cattle that enter the food supply are inspected at harvest by inspectors that are trained to recognize and report any animals with symptoms of TB and other diseases. It is this inspection process that led to the discovery of the first infected herd in Minnesota.

More information on bovine TB in Minnesota and the testing campaign can be found at www.bah.state.mn.us by clicking Bovine Tuberculosis under the Hot Topics menu or by calling the Minnesota TB Hotline at 1-877-MN TB FREE (668-2373).

Area businesses and industries invited to ASQ breakfast meeting

The Center for Outreach and Innovation at Northland Community and Technical College, in collaboration with the American Society for Quality (ASQ), will host a breakfast meeting at 7 a.m., Wednesday, Feb. 6, at the Swenson House in Thief River Falls. The cost for the breakfast is $5.

The topic for the meeting will be on solving problems using a disciplined, focused approach. Bill Barthold, director of quality at Arctic Cat, will be the guest speaker on this topic. Barthold has over 30 years of experience with problem solving and quality methodology. Attendees will learn methods for approaching problem solving in a "disciplined" manner and apply it to their specific organization.

Please RSVP by Jan. 28 to Lisa Krause at (218) 686-8092.

last fiscal year. Arctic Cat's Prowler utility vehicle and ATVs with large-displacement engines continued to be strong contributors to the company's ATV business. As announced on Jan. 4, 2008, due to the industry's sluggish retail ATV sales, Arctic Cat has reduced its planned ATV production for fiscal 2008 in order to align dealer inventories with demand.

Parts, garments and accessories (PG&A) sales were essentially flat at $29.5 million, compared to $29.9 million in the prior-year third quarter. During the quarter, snowmobile PG&A sales increased as a result of early season snowfalls, offsetting a decline in ATV PG&A sales. Year-to-date PG&A sales totaled $76.4 million versus $75.3 million in the year-ago period, primarily fueled by increased snowmobile parts and accessories sales.

Outlook

As previously announced, Arctic Cat lowered its fiscal 2008 production of snowmobiles by approximately 30 percent, and ATVs by approximately 10 percent, aligning dealer inventory with consumer demand.

Arctic Cat anticipates increased fiscal 2008 fourth-quarter net sales for the period ending March 31, 2008, to range from $192 million to $212 million, compared to $172.6 million for the same period last year. The increase is primarily attributable to planned fourth-quarter ATV sales to dealers. Net earnings in the fourth quarter are estimated to be between $0.21 and $0.25 per diluted share. The company reported a net loss of $1.6 million, or $.08 per diluted share, in the prior-year quarter.

Arctic Cat expects sales for the full year ending March 31, 2008, to be in the range of $645 million to $665 million, with record net sales in fiscal 2007 of $782.4 million. Earnings per diluted share for the 2008 fiscal year are now estimated to be between $.01 and $0.5, versus year-ago diluted earnings per share of $1.15.

Tony's Super Value receives violation

Hallock - "Tony Huotte of Tony's Super Value, Karlstad, asked Kittson County commissioners Jan. 22 for a reduced penalty for failing his store's tobacco compliance check last month.

"According to the county ordinance, the fourth violation carries a fine of $50 to the clerk who sold the cigarettes, a $300 fine to the business and the revocation of the store's tobacco license for one year. Huotte asked that the commissioners consider not imposing the license revocation part of the penalty. 'I'm glad you are fining the employee that sells the product to the minor. I'm even OK with paying my store's $300 fine, but taking away my license means about $20,000 in lost revenue a year,' Huotte explained."

"The board voted in favor of Huotte paying the $300 fine, his employee paying a $50 fine and his license being revoked for 30 days. Commissioner Betty Younggren voted against the motion." - Kittson County Enterprise, Jan. 30, 2008, by Louise Money

People can apply for "lock-in" experience

Crookston - "About 60 people from Polk, Norman and Red Lake counties will have the opportunity to experience a stay in the new Northwest Regional Corrections Center jail on the evening of Saturday, Feb. 16.

"Persons interested in being invited to participate in the 'lock-in' must be from one of the three counties served by Tri-County Community Corrections, be 21 years of age or older, and pass a background screening.

"Applications are to be made by Wednesday, Feb. 6 to Jean Clauson at Tri-County Community Corrections, 816 Marin Ave., Suite 110, Crookston, MN 56716; (218) 470-8105; or by contacting your county commissioner. Participation will be limited.

"The 'lock-in' experience will be held from 5 to 10 p.m. in the 60-bed male general population pod of the new Corrections Center. The time will include going through Intake, being assigned to a cell and locked up (only briefly, of course, but long enough to experience the feeling of having a big door slam behind you), being served the same evening meal that inmates receive, participating in some of the educational programs offered in the jail, and being involved in a few other activities all before being released at about 10 p.m." - The Erskine Echo, Jan. 31, 2008

Earl Ryan family loses home to fire

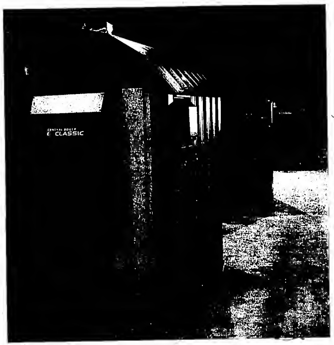
Strandquist - "Becky and Earl Ryan, rural Strandquist, lost their home to a fire on Thursday, Jan. 24.

At 10:45 p.m., a neighbor, Dale Kostrzewski, was driving by the Ryan home and noticed flames coming out of the roof. He immediately called 911, and the Stephen Fire Department was dispatched. The Ryans were not home at the time."

"The fire department was called on Friday when the smoldering house remains started burning again. The house, as well as all of the Ryans' belongings, are a total loss.

"Donations can be dropped off at the Bethesda Lutheran Church in Strandquist or sent to the Earl Ryan family, 24392 390th St. N.W., Strandquist, MN 56758." - North Star News of Karlstad, by Joyce Storeby

It's cold out there



Central Boiler's newest outdoor wood furnace, the E-Classic 2300, meets 2010 clean air regulation emission limits and is U.S. EPA Outdoor Wood-fired Hydronic Heater Program qualified.

Paying for the cold

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

This is the second part in a two-part series focusing on cold weather's impact on heating bills, heating bill assistance, ways to save money with heating, and alternative forms of heating.

After a weekend reprieve, the bitter cold weather returned for another bout Monday night. Sub-zero (degrees Fahrenheit) temperatures returned with lows in the minus-20s on Tuesday and Wednesday, before a moderate warm-up ended the week.

This week's freezing temperatures mean higher heating expenses for families throughout northwest Minnesota next month.

How to cut costs?

There are ways to improve home heating efficiency the next time temperatures plummet. Russ Luipakka, external affairs manager with Minnesota Energy Resources' northern Minnesota office in Cloquet, recommends looking at insulation levels. Necessary insulation levels vary by the material type used and the location within the home. The volume of insulation used in older homes may no longer meet minimum recommendations, so concerned home owners should check with a local building inspector for the proper insulation.

Doors and windows should have a tight enough seal that no cold air can be felt entering the building when closed. Air leaks can be fixed by adding weather stripping or by placing a thin bead of silicone along the gaps on a window.

Furnace efficiency is another area where many homeowners and renters are losing money. Luipakka first recommends that filters be checked and changed regularly for peak efficiency. When regular maintenance doesn't do the trick, it could be time to consider an upgrade.

Modern furnaces are over 90 percent efficient (annual fuel utilization efficiency), compared to efficiency ratings in the 50s and 60s for older units with a standing pilot light, and 80s for standard efficiency furnaces that use intermittent ignition.

Furnaces with an efficiency rating of 90 or higher work much like the furnaces in the 80 percent efficiency range, but some of the heat wasted in traditional systems is reused by condensing escaping water vapor.

Luipakka said that Minnesota Energy Resources is currently offering a $200 rebate with the purchase of a 92 percent or higher efficiency furnace; and a $250 rebate for the purchase of a 94 percent or higher efficiency furnace.

Central boiler

Outdoor wood-burning boilers have long been considered a safe alternative to indoor wood stoves and other furnaces that operate by burning wood, fossil fuels or another form of fuel to create heat. But wood-burning boilers haven't been without controversy. Many types of outdoor boilers have been criticized for the amount of heavy smoke they produce when they are started up, while others are criticized for their consumption of large amounts of wood during a heating season and their lack of efficiency.

Central Boiler, based in Greenbush, is North America's largest manufacturer of outdoor wood furnaces. It has been one of the industry's leaders since being founded in 1984, and with the introduction of its E-Classic 1200 and E-Classic 2300, Central Boiler is doing its part to change the perception of outdoor furnaces.

Both E-Classic models meet the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) voluntary phase one emission levels. The E-Classic 2300, Central Boiler's newest model, also meets the U.S. EPA's 2010 clean air regulation emission limits and it is U.S. EPA Outdoor Wood-Fired Hydronic Heater Program Qualified.

Including both E-Classic models, Central Boiler offers nine boiler varieties, with sizes ranging from the 52-square foot, 140-gallon CL 4030 to the 170-square foot, 764 gallon CL 7260. Fuel options range from wood only to wood pellet/corn burning options and dual fuel options that also allow for the boiler to use natural gas, propane or heating oil as a fuel backup.

Dennis Brazier, owner and founder of Central Boiler, constructed his first outdoor boiler as a means to heat farm buildings. Brazier described his first boiler as being similar to a barrel stove, and the round shape made it very inefficient at distributing the heat it created. He

Planning progresses for Capital for a Day

TRF prepares to be Minnesota's Capital for a Day on May 13

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

On May 13, Thief River Falls will be Minnesota's Capital for a Day. The local Sesquicentennial Planning Board met Tuesday to discuss potential activities to commemorate the observance.

A little more than a month ago, Thief River Falls was named one of five Capitals for a Day in the state of Minnesota. Online voters chose Thief River Falls to be the honorary Capital for a Day of the tallgrass aspen parklands biome. The local observance has the title of "Rivers and Water in Pennington County – Their Importance and Historical Significance."

At the local SPB meeting Tuesday at the Northwest Service Cooperative in Thief River Falls, Faye Auchenpaugh, who is among the people organizing the festivities, noted that the day's activities are all up to local officials.

Thief River Falls Mayor Steve "Beaver" Nordhagen noted that he wished there would be more involvement on the state level. "We need the governor to come up here," he said.

Local officials are drawing upon past observances of Capital for a Day and past Aquacade celebrations for inspiration. Thief River Falls was the Capital for a Day two other times on Sept. 15, 1982, and on June 1, 1989. "It was really two years that put Thief River on the map," said Pennington County Commissioner Bob Carlson, who served as the mayor of Thief River Falls during that time. He noted that state department leaders, for example the transportation commissioner, were available to speak with residents throughout the entire day.

Carlson and Pennington County Commissioner Oliver "Skip" Swanson referred to past honorary designations for students. In the past, kids had the opportunity to be an honorary mayor for a day, an honorary police chief for a day and an honorary judge for a day. They then participated in the daily activities of being the mayor, police chief and judge.

Nordhagen said that more people would become involved in the celebration if honorary activities were held. He used the example of a person's grandson being named honorary police chief for a day. "It would generate a lot more interest," said Nordhagen, who plans to talk to local schools about that idea.

SPB members are planning to hold a luncheon to commemorate the Capital for a Day observance. They plan to invite Minnesota department leaders and local legislators. It's anticipated that tickets will be sold to the general public.

SPB members also talked about recognizing service organizations and continuously-operated businesses at the luncheon.

Thief River Falls is able to use the Capital for a Day title throughout the year. As a continuation of the sesquicentennial festivities, the local SPB is tentatively planning an Aquacade celebration Aug. 2. Aquacade was an annual event held in the 1950s. If the event were held, a kids' activity would be a part of that celebration. Marcoux Corner is scheduled to perform that evening at Hartz Park.

Other ideas include cruises on the river and activities for kids. "We can't forget our other communities either," said Auchenpaugh, who referred to the Pennington County cities of Goodridge and St. Hilaire. She noted that exhibits could be placed in those cities and at various Thief River Falls locations. She added that, if the board decided to have a canoe/kayak run, participants could stop in those cities.

Those other sesquicentennial activities are dependent on whether there is funding for the activities. Pennington County applied for two grants to the Minnesota

New rules at the border

Starting Jan. 31, 2008, U.S. and Canadian citizens will need to present either a WHTI-compliant document, or a government-issued photo ID, such as a driver's license, and proof of citizenship, such as a birth certificate.

Don't get caught at the border without supporting documentation. As of Jan. 31, new requirements take effect at the U.S.-Canadian border.

Residents visiting the Pennington County Recorders office and Bergan Travel seem to be taking the change in stride. Visitors to the Roseau County Treasurer's office, however, have been a little more concerned.

"People seem to be taking it in stride," said Pennington County Auditor Ken Schmalz.

Schmalz noted that applications for passports have slowed down a bit. When the news became more widely reported in 2007, he said, his office was receiving about 100 passport applications per month. As of the end of January 2008, he said he had received 59 applications.

Roseau County Treasurer's office is dealing with people who still have a lot of questions. Questions about the new requirements included whethere there was any value in having both a passport and Passport Card, and questions about other options.

Diane Gregerson, Roseau County Treasurer, said her office has been processing about 100 passport applications per month, which is between 50 and 100 percent greater than normal. Lately, Gregerson said, people have been getting certified birth certificates, as well.

As of Jan. 31, 2008, border officers were required to accept passports or birth certificates and official government identification, like a state-issued driver's license.

Some of the questions the Roseau office has been fielding lately involve the Passport Card, which has been described as a less expensive alternative to a passport. The Pass Card, as it is known, however, can only be used for crossing the border by land and water. The cost of the card will be $45. While applications for Passport Cards are now available, officials have said they won't be processed until sometime next spring.

Sen. Klobuchar offers assistance

U.S. Sen. Amy Klobuchar is urging Minnesotans to be aware of new identification requirements by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security that will affect people crossing the border to Canada. The new rules that took effect Jan. 31.

Klobuchar said her office is available to assist Minnesotans with questions about the new requirements. People may call her office toll-free at 1-888-224-9043 or visit her Web site at http://klobuchar.senate.gov.

Klobuchar continues to push the Department of Homeland Security for additional time for border residents to prepare for the transition, and has already secured several delays in implementation. However, residents should be prepared for a Jan. 31 start date for increased border identification requirements, and the June 2009 start time for passport or passport cards.

Earlier this month, Klobuchar met with customs officials, business owners and residents in Minnesota's border cities, including International Falls, Warroad and Baudette.

U.S. passport fee changes announced

Beginning Feb. 1, the Department of State instituted a new fee schedule for passport services. At this time, applicants will have the option of pre-ordering a new Passport Card, a low cost, limited use (land and sea only) alternative to the Passport Book designed for those living along the border. In addition, the age for which both parents must appear and sign a passport application on behalf of a child will increase from 14 to 16 years old.

Fees are being adjusted to cover the cost of providing efficient and secure passport services including infrastructure, technology and staff. The Passport Execution fee collected by passport acceptance centers and U.S. consular sections abroad is being reduced from $30 to $25.

Prior to Feb. 1, the passport application fee was $67 and the execution fee was $30, putting the total cost at $97. The new passport application fee is $75 and the execution fee $25, putting the total cost at $100. The adult passport renewal fee increased from $67 to $75 (execution fees are not applicable).

To protect children from abduction, and to address concerns regarding runaway children, beginning Feb. 1, both parents will be required to personally appear at a passport acceptance facility, passport agency or U.S. consular section abroad with minor applicants under the age of 16 (up from age 14) and sign the application. New application forms and updated information on applying for a passport and Passport Card became available Feb. 1 at http://travel.state.gov/passport.

It's party time! The Super Bowl is Sunday and you'll surely want to get together with relatives and friends. And even if you watch the game by yourself, you'll love to indulge yourself with one or more of the following dishes.

Use low fat products in this recipe if desired; add another layer of your own favorites; or remove a layer of something you don't like. It will still taste great. It is everybody's favorite Mexican dip, and so versatile:

SEVEN LAYER DIP

1 1/2 pounds ground beef
1 (15 ounce) can refried beans
4 cups shredded Mexican cheese or similar blend
1 (8 ounce) container sour cream
1 cup guacamole
1 cup salsa
1 (6 ounce) can sliced or chopped black olives
1/2 cup chopped fresh tomatoes
1/2 cup chopped fresh green onions

Brown ground beef, drain and cool to room temperature.

Spread beans in bottom of 9x13 serving plate or dish that is 1 1/2 inches deep. Sprinkle with 2 cups of the cheese, then sprinkle with beef.

Spread sour cream over top of beef, then guacamole, salsa, remaining cheese, black olives, tomatoes and green onions on top.

Serve dish immediately or make a day ahead. Bring to room temperature before serving with taco chips.

Those little bite-sized wraps are so nice to have on hand for any get-together. These are especially good, and, again, you can use low-fat products and exchange or add your own favorite ingredients:

SALMON WRAPS

1 (15 ounce) can salmon
1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese, room temperature
4 tablespoons salsa
2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
1 teaspoon dried cilantro
1/4 teaspoon ground cumin (chili powder is good, too)
8 (8 inch) flour tortillas (wheat is good, too)

Drain salmon; remove bones and skin and rinse. Combine salmon, cream cheese, salsa, parsley, cilantro and cumin or chili powder.

Spread about 2 tablespoons of mixture over each tortilla, roll tightly and wrap each one in plastic wrap. Refrigerate 3 hours or more. To serve, slice into bite-sized pieces.

Now that you have the hang of it, I'll give you another recipe for these tasty little wraps (and they're so easy to make ahead). Remember that you can make these to suit yourself with different flavors and additions:

PARTY PINWHEEL WRAPS

2 (8 ounces each) packages cream cheese, room temperature
1 (1 ounce) package dry Ranch salad dressing mix
2 green onions, minced
4 (12 inch) flour tortillas
1/2 cup red bell pepper, diced finely
1/2 cup finely diced celery
1 (2 ounce) can sliced or chopped black olives
1/2 cup shredded Cheddar (or other) cheese.

Combine cream cheese, dressing mix and onions. Spread over each tortilla. Sprinkle with red pepper, celery, black olives and cheese. Roll up tightly and then wrap in plastic wrap. Chill 2 hours or overnight. To serve, slice in 1 inch pieces.

This is such an old favorite that I think we've forgotten about making it. Serve with crackers or veggies. You can also make it in small balls, but that's too much work:

DRIED BEEF BALL

5 ounces dried beef (chopped or ground up finely in processor)
2 (8 ounces each) cream cheese, room temperature
6 green onions, chopped
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt

Set aside 1/2 cup of chopped beef.

In bowl, mix remaining beef, cream cheese, onions, Worcestershire and salt. Mix well and roll into a ball. Roll the ball in the reserved beef, coating outside. Refrigerate for several hours or overnight, covering with plastic wrap once the outside has set.

If you want to go the traditional way and serve a bun with meat, you can't beat this slow-cooked beef barbecue. Cook it overnight or start it in the morning - it is a hit with everybody. Remember to have a big dish of sliced dill pickles on hand to serve with it and buy a variety of rolls, large and small, to serve it on:

SLOW COOKER BARBECUED BEEF

1 1/2 cups ketchup
1/4 cup packed brown sugar
1/4 cup red wine vinegar
2 tablespoons prepared Dijon mustard
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon liquid smoke
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1 1/2 teaspoons dried chopped onion flakes
1 (4 pound) boneless chuck roast

In bowl, combine ketchup, brown sugar, vinegar, mustard, Worcestershire and liquid smoke. Stir in salt, pepper, garlic powder and onion flakes.

Place roast in a slow cooker. Pour ketchup mixture over, cover and cook on low for 8-10 hours.

Remove roast and shred with a fork, discarding any fat. Return to cooker and stir to coat meat. Continue to cook at least 1 hour. Serve directly from cooker if desired.

Thank You
Whether you were an organizer or attended the benefit held for our family at the Eagles Club on Sunday, January 20, we would like to take this opportunity to extend our heartfelt thanks. We would also like to thank our families, friends, and co-workers for all of the love, prayers, and support we have received since little Evan made an early entrance into the world on December 9 at MeritCare Hospital in Fargo. Still hospitalized, Evan is growing every day and was moved from an incubator to a crib this past weekend. We are anxious to bring him home and introduce him to all who have been so good to us.
Love, Jenny, Nathan, and Evan LaRoque

NW Community Action to host home buyer program

Buying a home is one of the most important decisions that a person makes today. In order to prepare home buyers for this important step, Northwest Community Action Inc. will offer "Home Stretch" Home Buyer Workshops on the following dates in 2008: March 18 and 20, May 20 and 22, July 22 and 24, Sept. 16 and 18; and Nov. 18 and 20. The workshops will be held from 5 to 9 p.m. in the conference room at Northwest Community Action in Badger.

The two-session workshop is designed for first-time home buyers; for homeowners ready to finance a contract for deed, or for persons just interested in exploring the possibilities of home ownership.

Participants will gain a thorough understanding of the home-buying process. They will find out: how much home they can afford, what lenders look for in a buyer, how to eliminate the barriers to home ownership, and what kinds of mortgage assistance programs are available.

A certificate of completion will be provided to all participants who attend both workshop sessions. Many lending programs now require completion of this type of home buying workshop to be eligible for their mortgage products. The best time to take the class is six to 12 months before buying a home, and the certificate is valid for several years.

Call the Northwest Community Action Office at (218) 528-3258 or 1-800-568-5329 to receive a registration brochure with more information or to ask questions.

WIC clinics to be offered in February

The Women, Infants and Children's Supplemental Nutrition Education Program (WIC) is being held during the month of February.

Infants, children up to the age of 5, and women who are pregnant or breast-feeding may be eligible for the program. WIC Quin County is very interested in enrolling pregnant women in the program and organizers feel that prenatal nutrition is a vital part of producing a healthy baby. It is important to apply for WIC early during pregnancy. No proof of pregnancy is required.

All potential clients must the WIC Program to schedule an appointment. The following is the schedule of WIC Clinics for the month of February:

- Tuesday, Feb. 5, at the Newfolden Community Center.
- Wednesday, Feb. 6 and Thursday, Feb. 7 at the Warroad Community Center.
- Wednesday, Feb. 6, at the Kittson County Courthouse in Hallock.
- Thursday, Feb. 7, at the Red Lake Falls Community Center.
- Monday, Feb. 11, through Thursday, Feb. 14, at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls.
- Monday, Feb. 18, at the Evangelical Covenant Church in Warren.
- Tuesday, Feb. 19, at the Karlstad Community Center.
- Wednesday, Feb. 20, and Thursday, Feb. 21, at the LifeCare Medical Center Basement Auxiliary Room.
- Thursday, Feb. 21, at the Civic Center in Grygla.

North Valley Home Health will offer immunizations, dental varnishing and blood-lead testing at the Newfolden and Warren clinics from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. For more information contact North Valley Home Health at 218-745-5154 or 1-800-950-6986.

HOLY ROCK
2008 A SEASON OF CIRCUMCISION
Thus saith the spirit of the Lord, For I am bringing circumcision to America. A cutting away of the old, circumcising the hearts of men and woman so that they can walk in me. Let go of the old and the past and look ahead for what I am doing in your life.
For there are unclean things in man that need to be removed. These unclean things are attracting Beelzebub, The Lord of the flies. For I will send forth my word to cut away and expose what needs to go. For it is not by might nor by power, but by my spirit.
For I say to you America, your deliverance is on the way. For know greater love than this, they that layeth down their life for another.
For to whom much is given, much is required. For I remind you, America, of my promises so you will not forget. Do not become weary in well doing, for you will reap a harvest if you faint not. My sheep hear my voice and a stranger they will run from. For when I speak, saith the spirit of the Lord, the mountains tremble and my words will carry out what I sent them to perform.
For there is a generation that is rising, a generation that is seeking my face. A generation that will do great things that the world is waiting for. So lift up your hands America! Call upon me and I will deliver you, that is my will.

Precinct caucus finder available online

Minnesota Secretary of State Mark Ritchie announced Tuesday the launch of a Precinct Caucus Finder, a new free service to help citizens across Minnesota locate their political party's caucus via the Internet. The Secretary of State's Office worked with all of the major and minor political parties in Minnesota to create a one-stop, easy-to-use online search tool with precinct caucus times and locations.

Minnesotans interested in attending a precinct caucus should go to the Secretary of State's Web site (www.sos.state.mn.us) and click on the Precinct Caucus Finder link. The caucus finder will display the precinct caucus times and locations provided by the political parties. If a date and location are not available for a political party's caucus, the Web site directs users to a link to the political party's Web site for more information.

Precinct caucuses are free and open to the public. To participate in a caucus, you must be eligible to vote in the Nov. 4, 2008, general election and likely to support the candidates of that political party. The office has prepared a precinct caucus brochure available for download at www.sos.state.mn.us/docs/mnprecinctcaucuses.pdf. The Republican, Democratic and Independence parties are scheduled to meet for their respective caucuses on Feb. 5, "Super Tuesday." The Democratic and Republican parties will also hold "straw polls" at their caucuses for presidential candidates. The Constitution Party will caucus on Feb. 2, and the Green Party will caucus on March 4. The Independence Party will continue to meet online in a virtual caucus through March 4. The results of the presidential straw polls, as provided by the political parties, will appear on the Secretary of State's Web site (www.sos.state.mn.us).

One person injured after accident Friday

One person was injured after a head-on accident early Friday morning two miles south of Newfolden.

The person, whose identity is under investigation by the Minnesota State Patrol, was taken to Thief River Falls MeritCare Northwest Medical Center with non-life-threatening injuries. Karl E. Mistelbacher, 56, Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, was not injured in the crash, according to the State Patrol.

At the time of the accident, a 1987 Chevy pickup truck was being driven northbound on Highway 59, and Mistelbacher was driving a 1996 Ford semi tractor southbound. According to the report, the pickup truck crossed the centerline and collided with the semi tractor. Mistelbacher was wearing his seat belt. It was unknown if the other person was wearing a seat belt.

The semi tractor sustained severe damage, and the pickup truck was totalled. The State Patrol was dispatched to the scene at 12.25 a.m.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Attend precinct caucuses

Across the country, residents of this country are attending precinct caucuses in record numbers. The reason may be that no clear front runner has been identified. It may be something else entirely. But, I think citizens are intrigued by a process that is getting more and more media attention; and because it's getting more attention they want to be part of the process and are attending precinct caucuses in numbers larger than ever before.

We've been hearing quite a lot lately about caucuses and primaries. We'll be hearing a lot more soon. Twenty-four states are scheduled to conduct either caucuses or primaries on Tuesday, Feb. 5. This is an opportunity for Minnesotans to have a say in who the candidates will be for 2008 elections. It's an opportunity to be a part of the process of selecting candidates, and creating a party platform.

Caucuses are both a means for each political party to let voters nationwide select their party's presidential nominee. It is an opportunity to contribute to the creation of a party's platform or the very issues that differentiate one party or one candidate from another. Caucuses are also a means of selecting delegates (representatives of party members in each state) to send to the party's national convention.

We encourage area residents to attend caucuses and become a part of the solution. You can find the location of your precinct caucus by logging on to http://caucusfinder.sos.state.mn.us/, or by contacting your county auditor.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

The front page article in January 26, 2008 Northern Watch about our "Heating Bills" and what "We're paying for the cold" had some very good, interesting and informative facts which presented the "science of cold" in a very understandable and informative manner easy for all of us to understand plus telling us where to go for help.

Of course, when we get our heating bills, this adds credibility to the facts provided in the article.

Several points are not mentioned in this otherwise excellent article.

1. The colder it is, the more we pay, while the oil companies' and power generating industries' profits soar.

2. "Heating assistance" has been cut back at a time when we are paying more.

3. The politicians in St. Paul have done nothing to correct this problem.

In short, we are trapped - shivering in the cold, paying more, as politicians do nothing while corporate profits increase.

Something is drastically wrong with this picture, which was - again - only partially depicted in the very funny cartoon accompanying this article.

I called both the Roseau Electric Co-op, which provides me with electricity and my propane provider, wondering how it is they would be so unconscionable to make more money under these circumstances - both assured me they didn't want to increase their profits as a result of people suffering and told me this is just the way things turn out ... it is all out of their control. Just the way our "free market economy works."

Might I be so bold as to suggest what all of this really points out: The "free market economy" is failing people and human society miserably.

The more we turn our thermostats down, the more these corporations profit. If we are serious about "greening" our society, this is not the way to do it.

The politicians in St. Paul could easily and swiftly pass emergency legislation in the upcoming legislative session which would see to it that these extra profits, which these companies have reaped as a result of the colder winter weather we have no control over, are used to provide additional "heating assistance;" after all, they say they don't want to profit from us suffering.

When all is said and done, it becomes very obvious that private ownership of the energy industries should come to pass; and the "greening" of our society will require these industries be brought under public ownership the way Floyd B. Olson and Elmer Benson suggested during their terms at the helm of state government; it is time to listen and act.

I would urge everyone to contact their state representatives and senators.

I would also encourage all Democrats to turn out for precinct caucuses on Feb. 5 with resolutions in hand supporting this type of emergency legislation.

Punt, pass, hand-off or fumble your keys to a sober driver

Minnesota law enforcement officers warn impaired driving armchair quarterbacks that they won't be going to Disney World when arrested for driving while intoxicated on Super Bowl Sunday. Enhanced DWI enforcement patrols will take place Sunday in select counties across the metro and in Greater Minnesota. During 2005 to 2007, 538 motorists were arrested for DWI on Super Bowl Sundays.

Super Bowls on Minnesota roads have been relatively safe according to the Department of Public Safety – three deaths over the last three years and none were alcohol-related. Officials stress the importance of planning for a safe ride as the event has become one of the biggest party nights of the year – and there is great potential for alcohol-related crashes.

"You make the call for a safe ride before the game," said Katherine Burke-Moore, deputy director of the DPS Office of Traffic Safety. "Impaired driving is a serious crime with serious consequences."

Super safety tips

- Huddle with guests before the game to determine the designated driver or the plan for a safe and sober ride home.
- Party hosts are responsible for the safety of their guests. If a guest has too much to drink, bench them – make them sleep on the couch.
- Serve plenty of food and non-alcoholic beverages.

Potluck in Mesa, Arizona, on February 16

The annual potluck for Thief River Falls residents living in or visiting the Mesa, Ariz., area will be on Feb. 16.

The 2008 Thief River Falls Area Potluck will be from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 16, at the Las Palmas Resort, 215 North Power Road, Mesa, Ariz.

Participants are asked to bring their own table settings and a dish to pass. Coffee will be provided. The meal will start at noon.

Friends and relatives who will be in Mesa, Ariz., around this time are asked to spread the word.

Tucker Hibbert added medal number seven to his collection of Winter X Games medals. Hibbert won the Winter X Games 12 snowcross event with a 16-second lead. (Submitted photo)

Hibbert wins Winter X Games 12

Untouchable domination was the theme for Monster Energy/Arctic Cat's Tucker Hibbert at ESPN's Winter X Games 12. On Jan. 26, millions of viewers worldwide witnessed Hibbert add medal number seven to his collection in the longest Winter X Games snowcross final in history.

In round one of qualifying Jan. 25 Hibbert took the hole-shot and led all eight laps to lock in the coveted number one qualifying position for the final. After two rounds of qualifying, 20 riders were cut and the stage was set for a 12-rider, 25-lap final event.

On Jan. 26, Hibbert not only won the final, he flat out dominated it. His Monster Energy/Arctic Cat hooked up on the start and ripped the hole-shot, leaving his competition in the snow dust. He rode flawlessly and incredibly smooth every lap to take his third gold medal, 16 seconds ahead of silver medalist Bret Turcotte. This marks Hibbert's second dominating Winter X Games run in a row. Last year, he led 15 of the 18 laps and finished an impressive 15 seconds ahead of second place.

"This is unbelievable. I couldn't ask for anything more," said Hibbert. "My Monster Energy/Arctic Cat with the Speedwerx clutching launched off the start, into the first corner and into the lead. My sled ran perfect the entire race. The whole crew has been working so hard and has my sled dialed. We put everything we got into this event, so it feels great to see it pay off."

Hibbert acknowledged that the Winter X Games is a truly first class event and that he's honored to be a part of it. "They raised the bar this year with a 25-lap event, but I'm ready for an even longer course and race. I felt strong the entire race. This is my job, so there is no excuse not to be in shape and ready for a long final."

"I have to thank my crew, who never stop working, and all the amazing companies that support me. I am so blessed," said Hibbert.

Hibbert has only one race left on his snowcross schedule this season before switching gears to motocross. His final race is in Vernon, N.Y., Feb. 9 through 10, where last year, he made history by winning all six qualifiers and both final events. To keep up with Hibbert's fast life, check out www.tucker-hibbert.com.

March 15 is deadline for NAP coverage

Minnesota producers have until March 15, 2008, to sign up for 2008 Non-insured Assistance Program coverage for spring planted crops. This deadline applies to the following 2008 spring planted crops: forage sorghum, oats, potatoes, soybeans, sunflowers, cut flowers, pasture and all spring planted specialty crops grown for food, including vegetables.

NAP covers losses caused by damaging weather conditions. Producers receive a payment when the loss is in excess of 50 percent. Losses are generally determined by the percentage of loss compared to the producer's actual yield history. Eligible production losses are paid at 55 percent of the established value for the crop.

"Producers who currently have NAP coverage or who are interested in coverage are encouraged to keep accurate production records," said Perry Aasness, state executive director for the Minnesota Farm Service Agency. NAP coverage is only available for crops not covered under the Federal Crop Insurance program.

Additional information on NAP can be obtained from any FSA county office.

Embassy to hold Country Music Jam Session

The monthly Country Music Jam Session will be held Sunday, Feb. 3 beginning at 1 p.m. at the Embassy Community Center of Fosston. There is no charge for the afternoon of music, and all who enjoy a variety of country music are welcome to attend.

All country musicians are welcome to attend and present a sampling of their music. Music will continue through the afternoon and into the evening following the potluck supper served at 5:30 p.m.

For more information, contact Coordinator Russ Comer at (218) 435-6096.

Family Caregivers Concerns Group set for Monday

The Family Caregivers Concerns Group will meet Monday, Feb. 4 from 10 to 11 a.m. at the Good Samaritan Apartments Community Room, 434 S. McKinley, Warren.

This meeting is for family members or friends who provide care and/or support to elderly people. Many group members have loved ones diagnosed with Alzheimer's disease or other related disorders. Individuals with a loved one in the nursing home or at home are encouraged to attend.

Marshall Manor has a unit specializing in care and services for people with Alzheimer's or related disorders. It is Marshall Manor's desire to provide a supportive environment for families of people with these disorders. It recognizes that this disease has a major impact on the family unit. The family will experience "loss" of the individual long before the individual physically dies. It wants to provide education and support for families facing Alzheimer's disease and aging issues.

Three Team Arctic racers donate I-500 winnings to charity

It was cold. Really cold. Like spit and watch it freeze before it hits the ground cold. Three days of sub-zero temperatures didn't stop three Team Arctic racers from battling it out in the USCC Red Lake I-500 Jan. 18 through 20. These three racers set a goal to not only finish the grueling three-day race, but donate any money raised or won to the Children's Miracle Network and the Gillette Children's Hospital.

Jim Urquhart of Somerset, Wis., and John Sandberg of Prior Lake, both piloted new Arctic Cat F5s in the Sport 85 class, while Pro Jeff Gruhlke of Forest Lake, took command of the all-new Sno Pro 600. After battling extremely cold temperatures mixed in with whooped out, drifted ditchlines, icy rivers, tight woods and rugged swampy terrain, Sandberg proved victorious by winning the Sport 85 class and donated his $1,300 winning check.

"It's a privilege to be healthy enough to race Arctic Cat snowmobiles, and I was fortunate to win my class," said Sandberg. "I'm personally honored to be able to donate the money I won to CMN/GCH, so that I might in some way help a child gain their own good health. I had a great experience in that race and a lot of people helped me along the way, but helping kids is just as rewarding as winning races."

The donations didn't stop there as Gruhlke followed suit. Racing Pro Open, Pro 600 and Vet 30 Plus classes, Gruhlke raised $1,300 by finishing sixth in Pro Open and 10th in Pro 600. He also finished fourth in Vet 30 Plus. Gruhlke, who was a consistent top five finisher last season on the USCC circuit, stepped in to race the Black Magic-prepped sled just a week before the I-500.

"It was extremely difficult to find a new Arctic Cat Sno Pro this late in the game, and after working with some leads through the Team Arctic race shop, I worked out a deal with Black Magic Racing the Saturday before the I-500," said Gruhlke. "We had little prep time, but the crew at Black Magic worked hard to race-prep the sled for me. We got good results and with more time we could have been in the Top 5. We'll get better results next year, but I'm just happy to help the cause."

A strong fourth place finish in the Sport 85 class put Urquhart out of the money, but he raised over $1,500 outside the race by getting contributors to sponsor his race program; putting the total contribution to charity over $4,000.

"I came up with the idea of racing for charity last year and figured I could beat my previous total since so many people were willing to help out and be part of the program," said Urquhart. "I really appreciate all the people who helped me along the way this year, namely Arctic Cat. Without them, the USCC and multitudes of contributors, this season would have never been a success."

Contributions are still rolling in and the total is expected to approach $5,000. The deadline to contribute is Feb. 1, 2008, so if you're interested in being a part of the program along with Arctic Cat, USCC and SNO-X Magazine, contact Jim Urquhart at jimu@snoxmagazine.com. Contributors will be part of a full-page ad to appear in the February issue of SNO-X Magazine.

Prowlers shut out Eagles by 7-0 in 8A play

Aaron Langan and Lucas Dillon supplied the offense and sophomore goalie Zane Gothberg notched his first shutout Tuesday in Thief River Falls' 7-0 Section 8A boys high school hockey win over visiting Red Lake Falls.

A hat trick was part of a five-point night by Langan. Two goals and four assists added up to a six-point game for Dillon. Gothberg faced and stopped 11 shots.

Langan scored the only goal of the first period.

Dillon (2), Langan and Jesse Castle scored second period goals to open up a 5-0 spread.

Langan and Spencer Johnson completed the scoring in the third period.

The Prowlers scored two power play goals and one shorthanded goal to improve their record to 8-11.

Red Lake Falls goalies Zach Page and Austin Schmitz combined on 28 saves.

"We played well," said Thief River Falls coach Tim Bergland. "We did a lot of the little things we need to be doing to be successful."

Scoring

First period - TRF, Aaron Langan (Lucas Dillon), 13.12.

Second period - TRF, Dillon (Langan, Kent Paterson), :36; TRF, Jesse Castle (Matt Lindquist), 4:25; TRF, Dillon (Spencer Johnson), 6:44; TRF, Langan (Dillon), 15:41.

Third period - TRF, Langan (Dillon, Tyler Aandal), 5:16, TRF, Johnson (Langan, Dillon), 10:29.

Goalie saves - TRF, Zane Gothberg 4-4-3-11; RLF, Zach Page 11-x-x, Austin Schmitz x-5-12, RLF game total - 28.

Crookston easy winner over Gator girls, 97-39

Class AA power Crookston overpowered defending Section 8A champion Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 97-39 Tuesday in girls high school basketball.

Kamille Wahlin scored 20 points, Molly Simmons 17, Macy Hanson 16, Sydney Epema 14 and Taylor Davis 11 for the No. 1-ranked Pirates, up 53-18 at halftime.

The 12-6 Gators were led by Jessica Dvergsten with 10 points.

Cassie Gunderson of Thief River Falls tried to protect the basketball while being guarded by Alycia Dahl of the Northern Freeze during Tuesday's girls high school basketball game. The Freeze beat the Prowlers 60-48.

Freeze stops Prowler girls

Twice Thief River Falls rallied from a double-digit deficit to threaten a game-long Northern Freeze lead, but on both occasions the Marshall County Central/Tri-County girls high school basketball cooperative turned back the challenge and ended up winning a 60-48 Tuesday match-up with the host Prowlers.

The Freeze, who led from start to finish, were up 15-5 following a long jumper by Kayla Halvorson 7:20 into the game.

Four minutes later it was just a one-point difference when Cassie Gunderson scored on a drive to make it 17-16.

Chelsea Sorteberg's rebound basket had the Prowlers within 27-24 with 12.8 seconds left in the first half, but Liza Hoglo hit a hurried 3-pointer at the buzzer to double the Freeze lead at intermission, 30-24.

The visitors opened up a 45-32 scoreboard gap when Halvorson completed a three-point play off an offensive rebound with 12:23 remaining in the game.

But it would be seven minutes before the Freeze would score again.

A 9-0 Thief River Falls run shaved the point spread to just 45-41 on a Beth Tvedt fast break basket with 9:57 still to play.

With the lead down to four points, Northern Freeze coach Tom Mjelde called a time out and tried to regroup his team. It worked. An Alycia Dahl turnaround jumper in traffic snapped the extended scoring drought and the winners went on to out-score the Prowlers 15-7 the rest of the way.

"Alycia decided she wanted to take the ball to the basket, and she did," said Mjelde. "That was a huge shot right there."

The Prowlers' second major comeback of the night was followed by a five-minute scoreless streak to seal their fate.

"We got stuck on 41 for a long time," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "Seemed like we had opportunities we just couldn't finish."

Dahl scored 17 points, Halvorson 13, Hoglo 12 and Kinzie Magner 9 for the 12-6 Freeze, who were coming off a 65-61 loss to Kittson County Central the night before.

"We had a really tough ball game last night, and we were concerned about coming right back and playing again tonight," said Mjelde. "The kids were pretty tired. But I thought that at times we played well. When we got the lead, we made some poor choices with the basketball – something we've been doing this year. But overall, I was happy with the performance."

Brittany Wiseth scored 15 points and grabbed 14 rebounds for the Prowlers. Toni Sorteberg and Tvedt added 10 and 8 points, respectively, to the attack.

The Prowlers, who lost for the third straight time and fell below .500 at 8-9, were 20-for-51 from the field (39 percent). Northern Freeze went 18-for-44 (41 percent). The difference came at the free throw line, where the Prowlers were 5-for-12 and the Freeze had a productive 23-for-33 night.

"Offensively we need to be more aggressive and go after people," explained Loe.

The Prowlers finished with a 33-24 rebound advantage, but also topped the turnover figures, 25-15.

"Hard to win games when you turn the ball over 25 times and put them at the line 33 times," said Loe.

MCC senior to play football for Beavers...

Jordan Anderson headed to BSU

Jordan Anderson (right), a senior at Marshall County Central High School in Newfolden, will sign a national letter of intent to attend Bemidji State University next fall and play football for the Beavers. He is pictured with Northern Freeze head football coach Scott Parker. National signing day is Wednesday. (Submitted photo).

Marshall County Central senior Jordan Anderson has announced plans to sign a national letter of intent to attend Bemidji State University and play football for the Beavers beginning in 2008.

A defensive end and offensive guard, Anderson was the first player in school history to earn football all-state honors this fall – the first year the Marshall County Central and Tri-County cooperative carried over into football.

"Jordan was a fantastic leader for us on and off the field," said Northern Freeze football coach Scott Parker. "He did not come off the field – he played just about every second. He played over half of the season with a broken arm and still dominated."

The 6-3, 295-pound Anderson, who also plays basketball and baseball, was a two-year captain and two-year all-conference selection in football after earning all-conference honorable mention honors as a sophomore.

Off the field, Anderson carries a 4.0 grade-point average, is MCC student council president and has been active in church and other activities.

"I am excited to go and watch Jordan at the college level," said Parker.

Bemidji is an NCAA Division II school in all sports except hockey, where the Beavers play in Division I. With the exception of hockey, Bemidji teams play in the Northern Sun Intercollegiate Conference.

Northern Freeze had two all-state athletes this fall in Anderson and Marshall County Central classmate Alycia Dahl, who earned the recognition while helping the Freeze to a Section 8A volleyball title. Dahl, it was announced earlier, has signed a letter of intent to play basketball at NCAA Division II Northern State of Aberdeen, S.D., also an NSIC member.

Hannah Kainz put on the brakes as the Thief River Falls forward tried to create room to operate against Northern Freeze defender Kinzie Magner in the second half of the girls basketball game played Tuesday in the Lincoln High School gym.

TRF wrestlers post a 64-18 win over Rams

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Thief River Falls wrestlers avenged two consecutive losses to Section 8AA rival Roseau with a 64-18 blowout victory in Roseau Tuesday. The Prowlers won 10 of 12 contested matches, including nine matches by fall.

Jacoby Bergeron got the ball rolling for the Prowlers with a pin of Braden Stroot. Chaz Abrahamson added a pin at 112 pounds over Zach Audette and Kyle LeDuc made short work of Kyle McCourt at 119 pounds.

Mike Dyrdal accepted a forfeit at 125 pounds and Steve Keogh added six points to the Prowler tally by pinning Mario Defelice at 130.

Roseau got on the board at 135 pounds as defending state runner-up Mark Erickson pinned Thief River Falls' Jesse Sams; and a John Kruger forfeit victory at 140 pounds cut the Ram's deficit to 30-12.

The Prowlers sealed the dual with five consecutive victories by Tom Kalinoski at 145 over Hans Grofstrom by fall; Jordan Engen at 152 over Brandon Peterson by fall; Kevin Fynboh at 160 over Travis Pederson by major decision; Mike Kalinoski at 171 over Cole Buley by fall; and Travis Peralta at 189 by fall over Sheldon Qualey.

Roseau's third and final victory of the dual came in the 215-pound match, as Jordan Sharp made short work of Thief River Falls' Jordan Anderson. Thief River Falls' Tyson Sorvig concluded the dual with a first-period fall of Roseau senior Alex Stein.

Both Thief River Falls and Roseau's wrestling squads will compete in the Northwest Tournament, today (Saturday) in Fertile.

Park Rapids swimmers defeat Prowlers 101-76

Park Rapids Area was a 101-76 winner over Thief River Falls in a Jan. 22 boys high school swim dual hosted by the Panthers.

The winners had seven first place finishes through the first ten events before conceding the Prowlers points in the final two races by swimming exhibition.

Thief River Falls' Brian Kays swept the 50 and 100-yard freestyle races and teammate Ryan Olson was first in the 100 breaststroke.

It was the third loss in four duals for the Prowlers.

Rick Looker will call 2008 IIHF World Championship

Rick Looker

Rick Looker has been selected to officiate in the International Ice Hockey Federation 2008 World Championship, scheduled to be played in Canada May 5-18 at Quebec City and Halifax.

This will be the first time the IIHF flagship tournament will utilize a two-referee, two-linesmen officiating crew. Sixteen referees were named for the event, and Looker, a Thief River Falls native with extensive international hockey experience, was one of two selections from the USA.

The referee pool also includes two selections from Canada, Finland, Germany, Russia, Switzerland and Sweden, along with one each from the Czech Republic and Slovakia.

Looker is currently in his third season officiating in the 15-team Deutsche Eishockey Liga, a high-calibre German league that features a number of American and Canadian players.

Nordics edge Wildcats in final minute

They may form the Northern Freeze cooperative in some sports, but Marshall County Central and Tri-County are still rivals in boys high school basketball. Tuesday the competitiveness surfaced as the Nordics edged the Wildcats 45-44 at Newfolden.

A game that was tied 20-20 at halftime and was a stalemate in nearly every statistical category came down to a 3-point play by Jordan Anderson with 50 seconds remaining that lifted the Nordics from a two-point deficit to a one-point win.

Two end-of-the-game Tri-County possessions failed to change the score.

"A very good ball game," report-

Bearcats' shooting is the difference in victory over Freeze

Kittson County Central couldn't miss Monday, putting to together a 75 percent 24-for-32 shooting performance from the field en route to a 65-61 girls high school basketball win over the Northern Freeze in Newfolden.

The Bearcats were a head-shaking 20-for-23 from 2-point range and 4-for-9 on 3-pointers. They also made 13 of 19 free throw attempts.

Northern Freeze stayed close with a 50 percent 22-for-44 shooting performance.

The winners had a strong inside-outside combination with guard Dana Blomquist scoring 22 points and center Whitney Langen getting 21.

"Dana Blomquist is probably the best point guard in the section," said Northern Freeze coach Tom Mjelde. "We couldn't stop her. And when we went out to challenge her, she dumped the ball inside to Langen."

Alycia Dahl had a 19-point, 10-rebound double-double for the Freeze, with Kinzie Magner scoring 15 and Sasha Magner 10.

"Overall, I thought we played well," said Mjelde. "We had a slow start, but we came back. They just shot the ball so well."

Northern Freeze went 14-for-21 at the free throw line and had a 27-23 rebound edge. The Bearcats topped the turnover charts 25-18.

Cass Lake-Bena is winner vs. B/G-MR in key 8A match-up

Cass Lake-Bena was a 76-63 winner over Badger/Greenbush-Middle River Monday in a boys high school basketball match-up between two teams who were Class A state qualifiers last year and will be the favorites when the 2008 Section 8A tournament gets under way later.

The Panthers won the 2007 Section 6A title but were moved this season by the Minnesota State High School League to Section 8A, where the Gators are the defending champions.

"We played extremely hard, physically, but had some breakdowns mentally," reported Gators coach Kent Christian following the showdown in Greenbush.

"They are a talented team and can do a lot of things," said Christian. "It was a packed house and a fun environment. Against a good team like Cass Lake-Bena, you have to really limit your mistakes and have a good floor game. The effort was there, we just made too many mistakes."

Tyler Aune scored 19 points, Zac Creviston 16 and Jordan Creviston 12 for the 12-3 Gators. Allan Dostal had an 8-point, 11-rebound game.

Nate Salscheider scored 26 points, Jerome O'Brien 22 and Martin Wind 16 for the Panthers.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was 26-for-78 from the field (33 percent) and 7-for-9 at the free throw line.

Open enrollment option available for FSA participants

Area farmers are reminded that they now have the opportunity to transfer their Farm Service Agency records to another FSA County Office if it would be significantly more convenient for the producer to do business with FSA.

FSA recognizes there are farmers in the area who do business with more than one FSA office or may be located closer to an FSA County Office in a neighboring county. The open enrollment option may be something for those producers to consider.

Until recently, FSA required a program participant's FSA administrative office to be the FSA County Office in the county in which the principal farm operator resided. An administrative county change may now be permitted if the producer documents that a new FSA administrative county office is significantly more convenient. The change must be a contiguous county. In 2007, more than 500 Minnesota farmers selected the open enrollment option.

The open enrollment option is a one-time selection (for the current operator) and cannot be used to evade program rules. A farm transfer can be initiated by either the farm's operator or owner, and can be initiated in either current administrative office or in the FSA County Office to which the producer wishes to transfer their farm records. By initiating this request, both the operator and owner agree to do business in the new administrative county.

Producers who use the open enrollment option and meet eligibility requirements will be able to vote for candidates running for FSA County Committee (COC) election in both the county where the producer's farm is physically located as well as where the producer's farm records are administered. However, an eligible producer can only be a candidate for the COC in the county in which the producer resides and also has farming interests, regardless of where the producer's records are maintained.

Producers with questions about the FSA open enrollment should contact an FSA County Office.

March 14 is deadline for 2008 wool program

The Consolidated Appropriations Act 2008 authorized commodity loan and loan deficiency payments (LDPs) for the 2008 crop wool and mohair, and LDPs for unshorn pelts. The 2008 wool and mohair loan rates remain the same as the 2007 rates. The act extends the program only through March 15, 2008. Since March 15 is a Saturday, producers must file their requests no later than March 14, 2008.

Producers normally are required to file the CCC-633 EZ page 1, LDP application prior to loss of beneficial interest. However, for applications filed by March 14, LDP requests may be filed after loss of beneficial interest. For those cases, the LDP rate will be based on the rate in effect on the date that beneficial interest was lost. Producers can file both the CCC-633 EZ page 1, and the CCC-633 EZ page 4, Request for LDP, at the same time.

To be eligible for a loan or LDP on wool or mohair, a producer must:

- have owned the sheep or goats for not less than 30 calendar days before shearing
- sheared the wool or mohair in calendar year 2008
- report all cropland acreage on the applicable farms where the wool or mohair was produced
- have beneficial interest in the wool or mohair

To be eligible for an LDP on unshorn pelts, a producer must:

- have owned the unshorn lambs for at least 30 calendar days before the date of slaughter and filing the LDP application
- sold the unshorn lambs for immediate slaughter in calendar year 2008
- report all cropland acreage on the applicable farms where the unshorn lambs were produced
- have beneficial interest in the unshorn lambs

Wool and mohair producers interested in the 2008 program should contact the staff at the local county Farm Service Agency office that maintains their farm program records for additional details.

Renewable energy meetings planned for Feb. 5

Two meetings focused on renewable energy projects will be held Tuesday, Feb. 5 at the Bethel Assembly Church, 34647 410th St. S.E., Fosston. Both meetings are free and open to the public.

From 10 a.m. to 12 p.m., Cecil Massie, executive vice president and co-founder of 6Solutions LLC, will make a presentation for the Northwest Regional Economic Developers. Massie will discuss Minnesota's renewable energy initiative for producing 25 percent of the state's energy from renewable resources by 2025, and ways that the northwest region might get there.

After a break for lunch, the Northwest Clean Energy Resource Team meeting will begin at 1 p.m. Don Dyrdahl, owner of Earthloops Geothermal business, will give a tour of the church's geothermal system. Next, the group will head to the Polk County Waste to Energy facility, where Bill Wilson will lead a tour and talk about the recently commissioned steam-powered turbine generator. The meeting will be adjourned by 3:30 p.m.

"This is a great opportunity for folks to learn about a variety of energy issues and some innovative ways that people in the area are working to address them," said Joel Haskard, co-coordinator for the CERTs program. "People are welcomed to RSVP for just the morning session with Mr. Massie, the afternoon tours, or hopefully both."

To RSVP for the meeting, contact Joel Haskard at (612) 625-8759 or haska004@umn.edu.

Initiated in 2003, CERTs are a collaborative effort of the University of Minnesota Regional Sustainable Development Partnerships, Minnesota Department of Commerce, the Minnesota Project, the Southwest Regional Development Commission, the Green Institute and community members from across the state. North Valley Public Health to offer immunization, health clinics

North Valley Public Health will offer immunizations, dental varnishing and blood lead testing in conjunction with WIC clinics at:

- The Evangelical Covenant Church in Warren, from 9 to 11 a.m. on Mondays, Feb. 18, March 17, April 21 and May 19;
- The Newfolden Community Center from 9 to 11 a.m. on Tuesdays, Feb. 5, March 4, April 8 and May 6;
- The Grygla Civic Building in Grygla from 9 to 11 a.m. on Thursdays, Feb. 21, May 22, Aug 21 and Nov. 20.

Arrangements should be made prior to the clinics, by contacting North Valley Public Health. The vaccine used for immunizations is provided free of charge by the Minnesota Department of Health for those persons eligible. There will be a $10 fee for administering the vaccine, but no one will be refused because of inability to pay. Immunization services given at these public clinics should not be used in place of the child's usual well-child visits with their physician.

Blood lead testing is available for a fee of $20 and dental varnishing at $14. Many health insurance plans do cover the cost of these. For information and appointments, call Pam Hockstedler, RN at North Valley Public Health, 218-745-5154 or 1-800-950-6986.

We're paying for the cold in Minnesota made a few improvements to the original product, but ultimately decided to scrap the round firebox design.

Brazier's next design featured an improved firebox, with a heat lock water baffle. The new boiler's design was much more efficient and its heat lock water baffle is still used in all of Central Boiler's models today.

Central Boiler outdoor furnaces heat homes with the same concept as most other heating devices. Water located within a water jacket is heated by fire. The heated water is then pumped to the home or other buildings through insulated underground pipes. The heated water can then be connected to almost any type of home heating system, including radiant in-floor heating systems, baseboard heating systems and standard forced air furnaces with heat exchange.

Besides home heat, Central Boiler outdoor furnaces can also be used to heat pools and hot tubs, as well as hot water for in-home use with a domestic water heating kit. For some families, not having to pay extra to heat the water, can cover the expense of operating an outdoor furnace.

"A lot of people find that they can save enough money, by not having to use electricity or gas to power their water heater, to buy wood," Brazier said.

Central Boiler's fire boxes also feature a secondary combustion area with a ripple top design, that increases surface area between the fire box and water jacket, for better heat transfer. The water also retains most of its heat, due to a layer of compact, air tight polyurethane foam insulation that surrounds the outer wall of the water jacket.

Brazier said Central Boiler outdoor furnaces are also user friendly. Maintenance is limited to removing ashes and occasionally checking the water levels, which shouldn't change without a leak in the line somewhere.

"It takes away the negative thoughts or the danger people associate with burning wood," Braizer said of his product. "You don't have to bring wood into the home anymore, wood can be larger and there is no danger of a home chimney fire."

For more information on Central Boiler, or to locate a dealer, visit www.centralboiler.com. or call 1-800-248-4681.

WoodMaster

WoodMaster furnaces are manufactured and distributed by Northwest Manufacturing, Inc., of Red Lake Falls, Minnesota. Since 1989, Northwest Manufacturing has been building industry-leading outdoor furnaces.

WoodMaster offers freestanding, easy-to-operate furnaces that work with most existing heat systems including hot water, forced air, hydronic heat, radiant baseboard, existing water-to-water and floor. A WoodMaster furnace serves as a primary heat source, or in conjunction with existing systems, to warm homes of all sizes, garages, workshops, pools, whirlpools, spa areas and other spaces, plus hot water systems.

WoodMaster furnace users have cut their heating costs by half in one winter, and most owners say the unit pays for itself within three or four years.

Through the Hearth, Patio, Barbeque Association (HPBA) association, WoodMaster's developer, Northwest Manufacturing, has worked closely with EPA on new testing standards and works with state and local governments on appropriate regulations to encourage cleaner burning outdoor wood furnaces.

For more information about WoodMaster furnaces, log on to their Web site at www.woodmaster.com,, or call 218-253-4328.

Geothermal heat pumps

Heat pumps can also be a very economical solution to home heating. According to the U.S. Department of Energy, homes using an air source heat pump can save 30 to 40 percent over the cost of heating with an electric furnace.

Air source heat pumps are considered ideal for moderate climates, as they are essentially a central air conditioner with a reversible flow. In the summer an air source heat pump uses electricity to remove heat from indoor air, while bringing in cool air. In the winter, it brings in warm air from the outside and exchanges it with cool air. Because they do not create the heat they provide, heat pumps can provide four times the amount of energy they consume.

Air source heat pumps are ideal in climates with moderately cold winters, but they do not generally perform well over extended periods of sub-freezing temperatures, according to the U.S. Department of Energy. For northwest Minnesota, and other parts of the country that experience winter temperatures well below freezing, a different type of heat pump is available that is not affected by air temperature.

Geothermal heat pumps use the constant temperature of the earth as a source for heating and cooling and they are not dependent on the outside air temperature. This is possible because the soil located a few feet below the earth's surface is consistent, year round.

Like all other heat pump types, geothermal heat pumps are used for heating and cooling, and in many cases they are capable of supplying a home with hot water.

Geothermal heat pumps operate in the same manner as air source heat pumps, but a liquid like water or a water and antifreeze mixture is circulated from the ground to the home and from the home back to the ground. There are many types of geothermal heat pumps that are currently marketed. They are all classified as closed loop or open loop.

Closed loop geothermal heat pumps are considered the most cost effective. Ground pipes can be configured horizontally or vertically. They can be installed under the surface of an adequate water source such as a pond or a lake. In all closed loop installations, the ground-source pipes are installed well below the typical frost or feeze line.

Open loop systems, the other main type of geothermal heat pump, uses well water as the heat exchange fluid that circulates through the heat pump. Water is then returned to the same well, a recharge well or it is discharged on the surface.

Geothermal heat pumps cost between 25 and 50 percent less to operate than electric furnaces and as an additional benefit, they are also much quieter in operation. Last year, the city of Thief River Falls offered a $2,000 rebate for the installation of a geothermal heat pump and in previous years, the city also offered low interest loans to be used toward the purchase of a heat pump.

According to Arlo Rude, Thief River Falls utilities director, the city has provided rebates and grants to 435 customers, totalling approximately $118,000. The rebates were for home improvements, appliances, heat pumps and air conditioners. Grants were provided for commercial lighting improvements and government energy improvements.

Completed fireboxes with water jackets are stacked and await the next step in the installation process at Central Boiler

Sesquicentennial Grants Program for the local sesquicentennial events. It didn't receive the grants. If approved, the grants would have totalled $9,025. When applying for the grants, the county had agreed to provide $15,900. On Wednesday, Pennington County Auditor Ken Olson said that the County Board would have to decide what to do now that the grants haven't been awarded. He said, "We're still going to have some things. There's no doubt."

The local SPB will meet Tuesday, Feb 12 at 7 p.m. at Northwest Service Cooperative in Thief River Falls.

FMS band to present Winter Pops Band Concert

Franklin Middle School band students will present their Winter Pops Band Concert on Thursday, Feb 7, at 7:30 p.m. in the FMS multipurpose room. The public is invited to attend. Admission is $2 for adults, $1 for students K-8, and free for senior citizens and preschoolers. Proceeds from the concert support the FMS band program. Following the concert, Band Boosters will host a reception in the FMS cafeteria.

The concert will feature an upbeat program that includes movie soundtracks, pop music, and other lighter selections. The Morning Darkness Jazz Band will open the concert with several lively tunes, such as "Spinning Wheel." The sixth grade concert band will follow with several pieces, including the Beach Boys' "Surfin' USA." The seventh grade concert band will present "The Monster Under the Bed," as well as several other fun selections. Closing the concert will be the eighth grade concert band. Eighth graders will perform a medley of tunes from "Grease" in addition to other song selections. All groups are under the direction of Kristin Buckley.

LHS Counseling Department to host financial aid session

The Lincoln High School Counseling Department will host a parent/student financial aid information session Monday, Feb. 4 at 7 p.m. in the LHS cafeteria. The session is open to parents of junior and senior students who are planning to attend college, and their junior and senior students.

Presenters include Donna Quam, Northland Community and Technical College financial aid director; a local bank representative, who will discuss student loans; and LHS counselors. They will provide information regarding how to get money to finance a college education. The session will also cover the financial aid process, programs and forms, including local scholarships available to seniors.

Sen. Klobuchar offers assistance

border," Klobuchar said, "I learned firsthand how these new regulations from the Department of Homeland Security will affect businesses, workers, hunters, anglers and families. While everyone wants to protect national security, it's also important for the government to minimize the red tape for law-abiding Minnesotans who want to travel to Canada."

Since taking office, Klobuchar has been working to help Minnesotans comply with the Western Hemisphere Travel Initiative (WHTI), which passed Congress in 2004 and is now taking effect.

This new law requires that U.S. citizens hold a passport for all international travel, including border crossings into Canada. For the many Minnesotans who do not already have passports, this new requirement might create a significant burden of time, money and inconvenience.

To correct this problem, Klobuchar supported a cheaper and more convenient alternative "passport card" for travel between the U.S. and Canada, Mexico and the Caribbean. Applications for these passport cards will be accepted beginning Feb. 1, 2008. A link to the application is available on Klobuchar's Senate Web site at http://klobuchar.senate.gov

Klobuchar also succeeded in delaying full implementation of the Western Hemisphere Travel Initiative until June 2009 so Minnesotans traveling to Canada will not be tied up in red tape. As a result, until June 2009, a passport or passport card is not required as long as the U.S. citizen can present a birth certificate and driver's license when crossing the border. Children are required to have proof of citizenship, such as a birth certificate.

Below is a fact sheet from Klobuchar with details on the new federal rules. Minnesotans can also get this information by calling her office toll-free at 1-888-224-9043 or visiting her Web site at http://klobuchar.senate.gov

What Minnesotans need to know about the new U.S.-Canada border crossing rules

Beginning Jan. 31, 2008, the U.S. Department of Homeland Security will no longer accept oral declarations of citizenship for travelers over age 19 who enter the U.S. by land or sea. This changes what had been standard practice for decades.

Below are the documents now required under the Homeland Security's new regulations. If you have questions or need assistance, please contact Klobuchar's office at 1-888-224-9043 or visiting her Web site at http://klobuchar.senate.gov.

Acceptable Documents as of Jan. 31, 2008:

(Only one of these documents is required)

U.S. or Canadian Passport

Birth Certificate (along with a driver's license or state-issued identification card)

U.S. Passport Card (available spring 2008)

Trusted Traveler Cards (NEXUS, SENTRI or FAST)

State or Provincial Issued Enhanced Driver's License (when available – this secure driver's license will denote identity and citizenship.)

Enhanced Tribal Cards (when available)

U.S. Military Identification with Military Travel Orders

U.S. Merchant Mariner Document

Native American Tribal Photo Identification Card

Form I-872 American Indian Card

Indian and Northern Affairs Canada (INAC) Card

Travelers 18 and younger are required to have proof of citizenship, such as a birth certificate.

For additional information please go to the U.S Customs and Border Protection Webpage. To Apply for a U.S. Passport Card:

Minnesotans can apply in advance for the new U.S. Passport Card beginning Feb. 1, 2008. The passport card will facilitate entry and expedite document processing at U.S. land and sea ports-of-entry when arriving from Canada, Mexico, the Caribbean and Bermuda.

Adults who already have a passport book can apply for the card as a passport renewal and pay $20. First-time applicants will pay $45 for adult cards and $35 for children.

Rural Reflections

Healthy Conservation

It's not so cold today, so our suffering is over. The pain of cold temperatures may pale for those who will soon suffer the pain of a utility bill influenced by these same cold temperatures. The horse may already be out of the barn for this year, but I want to talk about using less fuel, less electricity, less effort and still live comfortably.

First off, you can never buy heat as cheaply as you can save the heat you already own, which is why insulation and weather stripping are such a good idea. I sealed up our doors and windows for about $15 a few years back and finally insulated our attic this season. Waiting to insulate the attic was a bad idea, it's where you lose most of your heat and also creates ice dams on your roof. Our nephew, Ben, came over to help with the attic on a Monday afternoon; one hour and $120 later, we were done. Our upstairs has always been a bit cold in the Winter (I suspect that's why I used to get a lot of colds), but that night it was uncomfortably hot, much to our happiness. Our basement has always been very cold, which makes our floor cold, but I replaced the outside entry door with an old deep freeze door I got from a neighbor. I cut the door and hinges from the freezer then framed it onto the concrete foundation which has increased the basement temperature by about 12 degrees. We no longer need to wear snow boots when we watch television at night.

One of the biggest changes around our place has been the addition of a corn stove. The corn stove has caused our electricity bill to plummet. It is also nice to have a dancing flame to consider as I do the same of a newly found micro brew beer. I avoid conversations about global warming, but I do believe in keeping my environment clean, as I would our yard or home. The corn stove burns corn which does create carbon, however the act of growing corn uses that same carbon product, it's not a zero-sum prospect, but it's better than other alternatives. As corn prices have increased, I've noticed corn stove prices have decreased, which might be impetus for the smart shopper to get moving; although, you have time enough to finish my column first.

As we work to conserve energy resources we should also try to conserve our most precious resource-water. I found a way to satisfy both of these needs with a water recirculating pump. This pump evacuates your household hot water line back into the water heater, as this same water cools. You never have to let the faucet run while you wait for hot water, which can save the average family up to 17,000 gallons a year. The pump costs about $3 per year to run, and although you may re-heat water from inside your household pipe, the volume of water you heat never changes, so does not demand increased energy. The water you save is the same water that never sees a wastewater or septic system, which saves effort and expense in the form of infrastructure, hauling and maintenance. This summer, we plan to create a drain field system that will drain the low areas of our yard to a central collection point, from where our cattle well can draw a cold drink for thirsty cattle. This will eliminate stagnant water pools, improve groundwater quality and cost no more as the pump must always operate; the only change will be its water source.

Improvement usually comes from many small changes; whether those changes are improving your health, your financial situation or reducing energy consumption. If you can make small changes in how you use energy and natural resources, you may see benefits that include improvement in your health and financial situation - horses you definitely do not want let out of the barn.

TRF Women of Today to meet

The Thief River Falls Women of Today will be holding its monthly meeting Feb. 6 at 7 p.m., at the Thief River Falls Elks Club. Anyone 18 and older is welcome to attend and see what Women of Today is all about. New members are welcome. Contact Tara at 681-0301 with any questions.

Gregerson said she's also been asked about the value of having both a passport and passport card. She explained that some residents are concerned about using their passports on a daily basis, which many do in Roseau County. She said they worry that they may lose their passports.

Some visitors to her office have been concerned about the cost. "It is quite an expense for families," said Gregerson.

As of Feb. 1, the cost of passports increased to $100.

Lately, Gregerson said they also have a lot of Canadians who were born in the United States applying for passports, or getting certified copies of their birth certificates. She added that there are a lot of families in the area that have family on both sides of the border.

All in all, Gregerson said visitors to her office haven't been angry - just concerned.

Al Walseth of Bergan Travel in Thief River Falls said he hasn't had a lot of feedback lately. Most of their business that would involve crossing the Canadian border, takes place during the summer months.

Walseth said the concerns people have had seem to be clearing up. One of the biggest issues was how long it took to have a passport processed. He said at one time, it took more than two months for a passport to be processed. Walseth said his family recently applied for a passport for his granddaughter, and it only took two to three weeks. "We were very pleased about that."

Schmalz and Gregerson said they've both noticed that it takes a lot less time for passports to be processed. Both said that has really helped.

Hockey JV splits with Park Rapids, Marshall

Thief River Falls beat Park Rapids Area 3-1 and lost to Duluth Marshall 6-2 in boys junior varsity high school hockey.

Goals by Matt Audette, Matt Lindquist and Kyle Thompson led the Prowlers to the Jan. 24 win over the Panthers.

Dusty Myklebust and Thompson scored Thief River Falls goals in the Jan. 26 match-up with the Hilltoppers. Brett Hanson was in the nets for the Prowlers, who were outshot 26-15.

Marshall County Central gets by Tri-County

ed Marshall County Central coach Jake Rantanen. "The teams are very even. Jordan made the big play at the end, and I was really pleased with our defense on those last two Tri-County possessions."

Evan Maki scored 20 points and Anderson had 10 for the winners. Aaron Blazejewski and Chase Boen led the visitors with 17 and 14 points, respectively.

Marshall County Central was 17-for-46 from the field (37 percent); Tri-County went 17-for-44 (39 percent). The Nordics had a 4-for-7 free throw game; the Wildcats were 5-for-8. Marshall County Central finished with a 28-25 rebound edge; Tri-County topped the turnover figures 13-12.

The win improved the Nordics' record to 10-5.

CATTLEMEN

American Angus Association
"The Business Breed"

We would like to welcome you to come and take a look at our powerful 2008 yearling bull line up. These bulls are deep bodied, thick topped, and long sided. Our best pen ever, out of Sitz Alliance 6595, Boyd New Day, TC Grid Topper, Perry Power Design, Destination 928 and Lead on.

Customer feedback indicates that our breeding program is getting the job done for them where it counts, at the sale barn with added growth, carcass traits, muscle and superior disposition.

Our Bulls are performance & fertility tested

NW Regional Radio Board formed

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

Six local counties are among 14 northwest Minnesota counties, one city and two tribes that have formed the Northwest Regional Radio Board. The board held its first meeting Wednesday in Thief River Falls. It is intended that the board will increase the interoperability of public safety radio systems. The local counties of Beltrami, Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and Roseau are represented on the board.

About 175 people, including emergency personnel and government officials, were registered for a convening meeting of the board. That meeting was held Wednesday at Ralph Engelstad Arena in Thief River Falls.

About the board, Pennington County Sheriff and Emergency Management Director Mike Hruby said, "The big word is interoperability."

Tim Leslie, assistant commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Public Safety, said that public safety officials, local governments and citizens will benefit from the formation of the board. Leslie, who serves as the chairperson of the Minnesota Statewide Radio Board, noted that the Minneapolis/St. Paul metropolitan area's regional interoperable radio system worked during the response to the Interstate 35W disaster. "That was one of the biggest tests we faced and the radio system performed admirably that day," Leslie said.

The RRB evolved out of a July 2007 meeting among local public safety officials in Roseau. It will be "responsible for establishing interoperability standards," and "regulating performance and technical standards," said Tom Hannon, who is serving as a consultant to the Statewide Radio Board. He noted

Public hears dam safety proposals

Lake Bronson - "Minnesota Department of Natural Resources safety officials and their consultants presented a total of 11 options to replacing the Lake Bronson Dam to a packed house on Jan. 31.

"In two separate meetings in which local residents jammed the meeting room of the Lake Bronson State Park's Center, officials explained the 11 options and recommended six of those options for more consideration."

The dam doesn't "meet federal safety standards and is classified as a 'high hazard' dam."

The answer lies somewhere between doing nothing, and removing the dam and returning the river to its original bed, officials said. "The six options recommended by Barr Engineering included variations of rebuilding or replacing the dam with structures either upstream or downstream. Cost figures for the options ranged from $12 million to more than $20 million.

"As the study continues, consultants will narrow the options with the DNR making the ultimate decision. The DNR will then present the proposal to the Minnesota Legislature for funding. The options will first be pared down to three or four by March or early April, and another public comment meeting will be held at that time. Officials expect to arrive at a final decision in May or June.

"Once approved, the earliest the project could begin would be about 2010, but DNR Dam Safety Engineer Dana Gauthier said 2011 or 2012 is more likely." - North Star News of Karlstad, Feb. 7, 2008, by Dan Nordine

Winger develops plan for the future

Winger - "Since July 2007, residents have been meeting to discuss ways to increase economic opportunity in and around the city of Winger. All community members, business owners and residents alike, were invited to attend these monthly meetings and give their input for developing a vision for Winger and specific goals to achieve that aim. This group of people, tentatively called the Winger Renewal Task Force, met again Jan. 28." The group now calls itself the Winger Renewal Authority.

"The hope would be that the Depot Café (for early morning meals) and Whistle Stop convenience store (which would carry a grocery selection) would be reopened as part of the renewal process. The fact that Winger's population has remained stable at about 200 people over the last 20 years is a positive note since many rural communities continue to decrease in population. There is a significant core of businesses in town that were also identified as a positive factor for further economic development." - McIntosh Times, Feb. 6, 2008

Kids can't get enough of books from library

Grygla - "Dolly Parton's Imagination Library, in cooperation with the Marshall County Initiative, has sent books to children between 1 month and 5 years of age."

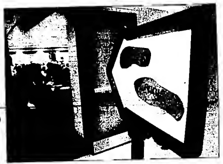
"There were a wide variety of books displayed from several of the children in the Grygla School District, from infant to toddler to preschool age." The books come addressed to the child, in care of the parent, and are theirs to keep." - The Grygla Eagle, Feb. 6, 2008

Independence Party of Minnesota
Welcome to the Independence Party Caucus
Come On In
Republicans and Democrats may be talking this year about "Change"
But the Independence Party is
The ONLY CHANCE for CHANGE

Remarkable

Turnout for precinct caucuses in TRF was remarkable

DFL Party precinct caucus participants discuss issues. Between 200 and 225 people attended the event Tuesday night in Thief River Falls.



The GOP Caucus in Thief River Falls was held at Franklin Middle School. Over 125 people attended the caucus Tuesday night.

Unprecedented numbers of local residents attended precinct caucuses in Thief River Falls Tuesday, Feb. 5. Democratic-Farmer-Labor Party and Republican Party leaders reported never having so many voters attend precinct caucuses.

What took place Tuesday was repeated in several other states. With 24 states holding primaries or caucuses, Tuesday was described as Super Tuesday. At stake for candidates vying for the Democrat president endorsement was 1,681 delegates in 16 primaries, and seven caucuses. Democrat candidates need 2,025 to win the party endorsement. At stake for Republican candidates was 1,020 delegates in 15 primaries and six caucuses. Republican candidates need 1,191 delegates to win the party endorsement for president.

The GOP

The GOP party caucus offered voters their first opportunity during the election year to talk formally about issues, make recommendations for changes to the Republican Party's standing platform, hear from local candidates, and choose delegates to represent them at later party conventions.

The voters attending the caucus did participate in a Presidential Preference Ballot - a straw poll. Although non-binding, the Preference Ballot gives Minnesotans the opportunity to voice their opinion on who should be the Republican presidential nominee. Minnesota Republicans will have a total of 41 delegates, 38 of which are tied to caucuses, three are unpledged RNC member delegates.

Marv Kading described the turnout for the GOP precinct caucus in Thief River Falls as "remarkable." Kading said 125 people attended the precinct caucus, which was at Franklin Middle School. He added that they haven't had that many people turnout for precinct caucuses since the Reagan years. During an average year, 30 to 40 people will attend precinct caucuses, but during a poor year as few as 10 to 20 voters. So, Kading said, in spite of the cold weather (temperatures were below 0-degrees Fahrenheit), the turnout was very remarkable.

Kading said the age representation was pretty well split. No one age group was represented more than any other group. He added, though, that about half of those people attending the caucus were first-timers.

State Results

According to the Minnesota Secretary of State, the unofficial results for the Presidential Preference Ballot were as follows:

Republican Party - Mitt Romney - 25,604 or 41.50 percent, John McCain - 13,487 or 21.86 percent; Mike Huckabee - 12,286 or 19.91 percent; Ron Paul - 9,669 or 15.67 percent; Alan Keyes - 372 or .60 percent; Write-ins - 276 or .45 percent.

Democratic-Farmer-Labor Party - Barack Obama 135,179 or 66.72 percent; Hillary Clinton - 64,567 or 31.87 percent; John Edwards - 933 or .46 percent; Dennis Kucinich - 350 or .17 percent; Frank Lynch - 121 or .06 percent; Bill Richardson - 89 or .04 percent; Joe Biden - 80 or .04 percent; Chris Dodd - 73 or .04 percent; Uncommitted - 1,228 or .61 percent.

Arctic Cat to bring dealers to TRF

Arctic Cat is currently in the planning stages to host the 2009 model ATV Dealer meeting in Thief River Falls June 2 through 14, 2008. Arctic Cat expects to bring in as many as 2,500 people from across the U.S and Canada, as well as their international distributors from Sweden, Norway, Finland, Greenland, Russia and many more.

"This is a monumental event for Arctic Cat and Thief River Falls" said, Ole Tweet, general manager for Arctic Cat's ATV division. Tweet goes on to say, "We want to bring our dealers home to show them the rich history Arctic Cat has with Thief River Falls. This will be the first time since the early 80s that Thief River Falls has hosted our dealer meetings."

The Arctic Cat Dealer show is projected to bring several million dollars to area hotels, restaurants, convenience stores and area

Area residents invited to join in 11th Annual Bird Count

The American tree sparrow may be one of the birds bird watchers participating in the 11th Annual Great Backyard Bird Count will find in northwestern Minnesota.

Bird watchers of northwestern Minnesota are being invited to participate in the 11th Annual Great Backyard Bird Count Feb. 15 through 18.

Pam Wockenfuss, director, Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary, which is located near Warren, is encouraging bird watchers to spend a little time during this period and count birds.

Participation was rather low last year. In fact only three people bothered to count birds, which is somewhat unusual given the fact that the organized Christmas Bird Counts are popular, and northwestern Minnesota is known for its variety of birds.

Wockenfuss said it's easy to submit the information online. "If you can send an e-mail," she said, "you can do this."

According to The Great Backyard Bird Count Web site, www.birdcount.org, the event is an annual four-day event that engages bird watchers of all ages in counting birds to create a real-time snapshot of where the birds are across the continent. Anyone can participate, from beginning bird watchers to experts. It takes as little as 15 minutes.

Wockenfuss said the citizen-based collection of information is forwarded to Cornell labs. Scientists who look at the numbers can determine population densities and species in given areas of the country. Significant shifts may cause scientists to take a closer look.

Big Al's Theatre performance of "The Seven Year Itch" to be performed in TRF

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

To say that Allison Page has been bitten by the acting bug is putting it mildly.

"I never get sick of performing anything," said the Thief River Falls resident.

Page has operated Big Al's Theatre for the past four years. This month, her company, in association with The Bemidji Swashbuckler's Guild, is performing "The Seven Year Itch" at various northwest Minnesota locations. It is Big Al Theatre's first touring production. Page began planning the production while performing in Thailand.

"The Seven Year Itch"

Thinking about a touring production is one thing. Actually planning it is quite another. "It turns out it's a lot of work," said Page, who is in the process of rehearsing for the production in various cities and setting up advertising in the many cities in which the performances are being held.

"The Seven Year Itch" will be performed:

- Tuesday, Feb. 12 through Thursday, Feb. 14 at the Eagles Club in Thief River Falls. Those dinner theater performances will start with dinner at 6:30 p.m.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Valentine's Day approaches and it is always nice to serve a good meal with a little chocolate surprise at the end. You can fit this one in even if you are watching your diet and it will be so tasty you won't believe it.

You can use boneless pork chops to make this dish too - just be sure to trim off the fat. This is good for you and tasty too. Serve over crispy Chinese noodles or rice:

PORK CHOW MEIN
1 pound pork tenderloin, trimmed
1 cup low sodium chicken broth
1/4 cup low sodium soy sauce
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1/2 to 1 teaspoon ginger
1 garlic clove, minced
1 cup thinly sliced carrots (or julienned)
1 cup thinly sliced celery (or julienned)
1 cup finely chopped onion
1 cup coarsely chopped cabbage
1 cup coarsely chopped fresh spinach

Partially freeze pork. Slice across the grain into 1/4 inch thick strips. Set aside.

Combine broth, soy sauce, cornstarch and ginger. Set aside.

In large skillet sprayed with nonstick spray, stir fry pork and garlic for 5 minutes until lightly browned. Add vegetables and stir fry for 3 minutes. Add broth mixture, cover and simmer 3 minutes. Recipe serves 5.

Nutritional Info: One 1 cup serving (not including noodles or rice) contains 167 calories, 506 mg sodium, 55 mg chol, 11 gm carb, 22 gm protein and 4 gm fat. Diabetic Exchange of same amount equals 2 lean meat and 2 vegetables.

A sparkling salad will be just the thing with your main dish - and you can still stay on your diet:

SPARKLING FRUIT SALAD
1 cup unsweetened applesauce
1 (.6 ounce) package sugar free cherry gelatin (raspberry is good too)
1 (12 ounce) can diet ginger ale (or 1-1/2 cups)
1 (8 ounce) can unsweetened crushed pineapple, undrained

Bring applesauce to a boil. Remove from heat and stir in gelatin until dissolved. Slowly add ginger ale and pineapple. Place in 2 quart bowl and chill. Recipe serves 8.

I like to top with a mixture of mayonnaise and whipped topping (maybe a dash of ginger and a sprinkle of sugar or sugar substitute). Use the low fat varieties of both and it will still be a delicious addition.

Nutritional Info: One serving (not including topping) equals 30 calories, 53 mg sodium, 0 chol, 7 gm carb, 1 gm protein, trace of fat. Diabetic Exchange is 1/2 fruit.

Dessert doesn't have to be boring either. Making this cake with your own two hands makes it the best ever. Leave off the frosting and top with fat free whipped topping if you like. If the cake is not frosted, it does not have to be stored in refrigerator, so you can also dollop the frosting on at serving time:

CHOCOLATE ANGEL FOOD CAKE
1-1/2 cups powdered sugar
1 cup cake flour
1/4 cup cocoa
1-1/2 cups egg whites (10 eggs)
1-1/2 teaspoons cream of tartar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar

Frosting
1-1/2 cup whipping cream
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup cocoa
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Sift powdered sugar, flour and cocoa three times. Set aside.

In bowl, beat egg whites, cream of tartar and salt until soft peaks form. Add sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, beating until stiff peaks form. Gradually fold in cocoa mixture by hand, about 1/4 at a time.

Spoon into ungreased angel food pan. Carefully run a metal spatula through batter here and there to remove air pockets. Bake on lowest rack of oven at 375 degrees for 35-40 minutes or until top springs back when lightly touched and cracks fee dry. Immediately place pan upside down on bowl or something to keep the top off of counter. Cool completely.

Run a knife around the edges and center tube to loosen cake and remove from pan onto large plate.

To make frosting, combine whipping cream, sugar, cocoa, salt and vanilla in mixing bowl. Cover and chill for 1 hour. Beat until stiff peaks form. Spread on top and sides of cake. Store in refrigerator.

If you would like a little something special with your cake, try this fondue. Have some fruits ready to dip too, as well as pieces of your chocolate angel food and/or pound cake. Sorry this isn't low fat, but there is no way to make something this delicious without having a calorie or two in it:

CHOCOLATE FONDUE
3 cups milk chocolate chips (18 ounces)
1/2 cup whipping cream
1 tablespoon instant coffee granules
2 tablespoons hot water
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/8 teaspoon cinnamon
Cakes and/or fruits for dipping

Melt chocolate and cream in heavy saucepan over low heat, stirring constantly. Dissolve coffee in water and add to chocolate mixture with vanilla and cinnamon. Mix well. Serve warm.

This is a tasty quick punch you can make for a bunch or serve in chilled champagne glasses to make your meal even more special - and you can serve it to the kids too and celebrate Valentine's Day with them:

MOCK CHAMPAGNE PUNCH
1 quart white grape juice
1 quart chilled ginger ale
Strawberries or raspberries

Combine liquids. Place in punch bowl or in glasses. Garnish with berries.

Rural Reflections

Grant Nelson

The comments published in this column are intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. They are written by independent columnists and do not represent the opinion of the staff or management of The Times/Northern Watch.

Instant Coffee

I have poor impulse control when it comes to coffee. I have spilled many partially-brewed pots on our counter trying to sneak a cup. The answer to my impatience was simple, but unthinkable, as I really appreciate good coffee; my answer was a brew that demands little or no patience from those who drink it – instant coffee.

I didn't come to realize the instant potential of coffee on my own. I introduced you to Travis Black last spring when he was tying walleye spinners in a quiet, calm and meditative way. Travis is sort of my guru when it comes to simplicity, and instant coffee was his suggestion; I was immediately repulsed by the idea. I only drink good coffee. Instant coffee is something you set on a shelf to show you are hospitable to visitors, but not something you actually consume unless an insurance salesman happens to visit in the afternoon. My only experience with instant coffee was as a prop in a high school play and it made my stomach hurt. I like coffee perked, pressed, dripped, but I resisted coffee freeze-dried ... then I tried it.

I fill up my cup from my sister with warm water, hit the "beverage" button on the microwave, then get my blankets and magazines arranged on the couch. That uses up just enough time to heat the water. The instructions say one rounded teaspoon, but that is for non-believers. I use one and a half. I like how the water reacts when I dump in the brown crystallized coffee; it sort of boils up and makes a froth, which warms me right down to make caffeinated soul. Then the taste; you may drink coffee with your mouth, but you taste it with your nose. That's the great thing about instant; it's so concentrated! I've even heard of people who put instant into already-brewed coffee, but I've yet to try it. Cup in hand, I make it to the couch just as our cats arrive to join me in a hot, no-wait cup of afternoon coffee. I am warm instantly.

Instant coffee is also welcome at work. I am thankful that coffee is provided at my workplace, but the truth is that by the time it gets to human lips, it's well past prime and oxidized to the point it no longer chemically resembles coffee. I like to call it "government gin" to borrow a term from the book "1984," which describes a poorly-made, homogenized alcohol fed to the oppressed people of a totalitarian government. Instant coffee is so consistent, protected from the ravages of time through the very process by which it is made, plus the jar is so cute. It is the perfect stimulant at three in the morning; in my most tired moments, I wished I could wash my eyeballs in the stuff.

I will always have a place in my heart for regular coffee, even the half caf/half de-caf stuff Lisa makes me drink. There's nothing like making the full 12-cup decanter on the weekend with a big breakfast and watching the CBS "Sunday" show. That much coffee takes times to make and time to drink; it demands a sort of commitment that seems justified and in proportion to the pleasure it gives us. However, when the mood strikes me, and I want a lot of coffee taste in a hurry, I make my coffee instant. It's not just for visiting insurance salesmen anymore.

RiverView Rehab Services to offer balance workshop

RiverView Rehab Services, in conjunction with the Minnesota Chapter of the American Physical Therapy Association and the Minnesota Department of Human Services, will offer a free balance workshop Tuesday, Feb. 19 at the Golden Link Senior Center from 1 to 2 p.m. The workshop will include a balance screen as well as instruction in basic exercises that can easily be done at home.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the rates of fall-related deaths among older adults rose significantly over the past decade. One of every three Americans age 65 and older falls each year. Among older adults, falls are the leading cause of injury deaths and are the leading cause of non-fatal injuries and hospital admissions for trauma. Minnesota ranks fourth in the nation for deaths attributed to falling.

Many risk factors have been identified for falls, including decreased strength and balance, medication use, vision impairment, an unsafe home environment, a history of falls and a fear of falling.

Operation Round Up grant applications due March 5

Organizations involved in community projects and charities are encouraged to apply for funds from Operation Round Up® at this time. Completed grant applications are due in the Red Lake Electric Cooperative office by March 5.

Operation Round Up is a program adopted by Red Lake Electric Cooperative headquartered in Red Lake Falls. Customers choosing to "round up" their monthly electric bill payments provide funds for this effort. Over 85 percent of Red Lake Electric members are now choosing to contribute pennies each month to enhance their communities.

Funds will be donated primarily to nonprofit organizations to help fund their specific projects or programs. Since the program began in 1993, $290,743 has been granted to community organizations and charities. money is donated for the betterment of the community within the outside service area boundaries of Red Lake Electric Cooperative.

The Red Lake Electric Trust Board of Directors determines grants. Board members are Rodney Hoffman, Goodridge; Kim Swanson, Thief River Falls; Bonnie Cole and Kelly Lundeen, Trail; and Ron Kennedy, Red Lake Falls.

To apply for Operation Round Up grants, organizations should contact the Red Lake Electric office in Red Lake Falls at (218) 253-2168 or 1-800-245-6068. A short application form must be completed and submitted along with a financial statement from the organization. The grant application form is also available on the Cooperative's Web site (www.redlakeelectric.com).

For more information, contact Ron Kennedy at the aforementioned phone numbers.

Teen Dating Violence Awareness and Prevention Week observed

Nationally, one in three teenagers report knowing a friend who has been hit, punched, kicked, slapped, choked or physically hurt by their boyfriend or girlfriend. Whether you know them personally or not, teens at your own school are in unhealthy relationships involving control, physical abuse and other behaviors that can follow them into adulthood as perpetrators or victims of relationship abuse.

In an effort to spread awareness of this often overlooked issue, Congress unanimously passed a resolution to recognize the week of Feb. 4-8 as National Teen Dating Violence Awareness and Prevention Week across the country.

Teen dating abuse isn't an argument every once in a while or a bad mood after a bad day. Dating or relationship abuse is a pattern of controlling and abusive behavior. It can cause injury and even death, and though these are often the stories that make the news, it doesn't have to be physical. It can be verbal and emotional abuse – constant insults, isolation from family and friends, controlling what someone wears, and sexual assault.

Constant texting, phone calls, or embarrassing posting on MySpace or Facebook pages can also be a form of abuse. While communicating online or via text messages is normal, it can be used as a way to monitor, control, or even blackmail a girlfriend or boyfriend. Take the quiz below to determine if you might be in an abusive dating relationship:

Daes yaur boyfrieod or girlfriend:

- Try to control where you go, what you wear or what you do?
- Act jealous or possessive?
- Call, text or Instant Message you excessively?
- Hit, slap, pinch, push or kick you?
- Threaten to kill or hurt you or themselves if you leave them?
- Try to stop you from seeing or talking to friends and family?
- Try to force you to have sex before you're ready?

If you said yes to even one of the questions listed above, you may be in an abusive relationship. You are not alone, approximately one in three teenagers has experienced violence in a dating relationship. If you have questions or concerns, contact Marshall County Victim Services for 24-hour support at (218) 745-5523 or toll free at 1-866-977-4357.

Groundhog's Day Winterfest set for Saturday

The Friends of Rydell Refuge Association will host their Groundhog's Day Winterfest on Saturday, Feb. 9 (today). This year, in addition to games and programs, the refuge will also host a soup/chili supper and an evening illumination ski (previously scheduled for Jan. 19).

The festivities will kick off at 2 p.m. with a variety of outdoor winter games that celebrate the winter season. Games will include the ever popular shmoosh racing, Whappitl, and snow snake toss, as well as other outdoor activities. Inside the Visitor Center, participants will make bird treats for visitors to take home. Inside, visitors can also register for door prizes and enjoy a hot beverage and cookie. For a small donation, they can also have a meal of soup or chili and cornbread.

Have you ever wanted to try cross-country skiing or snowshoeing? Or maybe you just want to learn more about these fun winter activities. At 3:30 p.m., Ardell Knutsvig, Jeff Nielsen and Cory Hanson will present a program on ski equipment and techniques, and answer any questions attendees may have. The University of Minnesota, Crookston Student Activity Center has graciously offered to provide some skis for visitars to try out if they have none of their own. The Refuge Visitor Center also has several pairs of snowshoes available for checkout at no charge.

To cap off the day's events, beginning around 5:30 p.m., a portion of the refuge trail system will be lighted with candles to provide visitors a unique experience – the refuge at night. The refuge trails typically close at sunset, but for this one night, visitors will be allowed to venture out for a glimpse of the nocturnal wildlife on the refuge.

Rydell National Wildlife Refuge is located two-and-a-half miles south of U.S. Hwy 2 between the towns of Mentor and Erskine. To get to the refuge, travel three miles east of Mentor or three miles west of Erskine and turn south onto Polk County Road 210. If coming from the south on Highway 59, turn west on Polk County State Aid Highway 41 and follow the directional signs. For more information, contact the refuge at 1-800-841-0172 or (218) 687-2229.

Public invited to watershed meeting Feb. 21

The Red River Water Management Board and the Red Lake Watershed District invite public participation in a town hall meeting and focus group session in the Thief River Falls Public Library meeting room Thursday, Feb. 21 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. All those with questions about watershed issues and projects are welcome to attend.

The event is part of a larger public information campaign funded by the RRWMB and is designed to "share with all citizens in the Red River basin the positive work being done with regards to water management and protection" said Humboldt resident John Finney, RRWMB president and Joe River Watershed District administrator.

Mark Meister of Communication Research and Consulting Services of Moorhead is coordinating the larger campaign and will be facilitating the town hall meeting.

The RRWMB encompasses the areas managed by the individual watershed districts that have membership on the board. Eight Minnesota watershed districts within the Red River basin form the RRWMB, including the Joe River, Two Rivers, Roseau River, Middle-Snake-Tamarac Rivers, Red Lake, Sand Hill River, Wild Rice, and Bois de Sioux. Future town hall meetings are planned in Ada, Fertile, Roseau and Warren.

The RRWMB was created by an act of the Minnesota Legislature in 1976 to provide an organization with a basin perspective concerning water resources and flood protection. The mission of the RRWMB is to protect and safeguard the livelihoods of Minnesota residents living in the Red River basin by providing assistance, funding, and expertise in water protection and management projects.

Candlelight ski event set for Feb. 16

For those who want to keep the romantic glow of Valentine's Day going or those simply looking for a magical winter evening experience, a candlelight ski event at Lake Bronson State Park on Feb. 16 may just fit the bill, according to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources. Moonlight and the glow of candlelit luminaries will light the trails from 6 to 9 p.m. The 2.1 kilometer candlelight trail is suitable for skiers of all abilities.

"Our trails are pretty flat," said Pete Harrison, Lake Bronson State Park assistant manager. "They wind through both forested and prairie areas in the park and visitors will be able to see the historic observation tower by the light of the moon."

Harrison said people will be able to warm up at the visitor center, where coffee, cocoa, hot apple cider, cookies and doughnuts will be served.

There is no charge for tho candlelight ski; however, a vehicle permit is required to enter the park. The Great Minnesota Ski Pass is required for skiers 16 years or older. The daily vehicle permit and ski pass both are available at the park for $5 each.

Volunteers who would like to help with the event should call (218) 754-2200.

Lake Bronson State Park is located two miles east of Lake Bronson along County State Aid Highway 28.

Fifth graders encouraged to draw attention to child safety issues

The Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension is encouraging fifth graders statewide to draw attention to child safety issues by participating in the National Missing Children's Day Poster Contest.

This year's theme is "Bring Our Missing Children Home." The contest provides an opportunity for fifth graders, along with their teachers and parents, to educate children about safety issues. The winning poster will serve as the pictorial theme for National Missing Children's Day commemorative events.

This is the first year that Minnesota has participated in the national competition, which now includes 26 states.

"This poster contest is a safe and fun way to begin discussing child safety issues, both in the classroom and at home," said BCA Superintendent Tim O'Malley. "When children go missing, their families, friends, classmates and communities feel the impact. This contest allows children to express their feelings, so adults can help them understand and overcome fears as well as understand what they can do to stay safe."

All poster entries are due to the BCA on Friday, Feb. 29. Judges will choose the Minnesota winner in March. That winning poster will then be forwarded to the national competition, with the national winner being honored at the National Missing Children's Day Ceremony in Washington, D.C., in May.

The contest is sponsored by the BCA and the U.S. Department of Justice. Visit the contest site at www.ojjdp.ncjrs.gov/programs.postercontest for more information or a complete contest packet. Questions about the Minnesota contest may also be directed to Janell Rasmussen, the BCA's AMBER Alert Coordinator, at (651) 793-1106 or janell.rasmussen@state.mn.us.

First Care customer satisfaction climbs to new highs

Statistical reports at the Annual Meeting of First Care Medical Services in Fosston demonstrated high marks in all areas of operation.

Board Chairman Larry LePier opened First Care's recent annual meeting and reported on customer satisfaction. He said customers gave First Care staff an "Excellent" rating on 71 percent of the Satisfaction Survey questions returned by patients, residents, families and clients. First Care's goal is to produce satisfaction scores consistently in the top 10 percent, and he noted staff are already producing that result in many areas of service. LePier said, "We are working to move into the top 10 percent on the remainder of the Satisfaction Survey questions by responding to every concern or complaint in an effort to understand and improve further."

Patricia Wangler, chief executive officer at First Care, pointed out that quality of services is the root of the mission of First Care Medical Services. "We exist to provide and coordinate quality health services to improve the health of people, and we seek to be in the top 10 percent on publicly reported indicators, as well as customer service."

In Quality of Care, Wangler reported that in both state and national publicly reported measures, First Care rated in the top 10 percent in 17 out of 22 measures of quality for treatment of surgery patients, heart attack, congestive heart failure and pneumonia. For the remaining five measures, First Care rated in the top 20 percent. "We are happy to report that in the publicly reported measures, First Care ranks among the very top of Minnesota's hospitals," Wangler said.

First Care's nursing home received a five star rating from Minnesota's state inspection team. Wangler reported a three star rating fur hours of direct care from staff to resident, and a four star rating for quality of life and quality of care for residents. "Our scores demonstrate we have a phenomenal staff providing excellent care and services," Wangler said. First Care received one star for single rooms available in the nursing home, "an area we will be focusing on in future planning," said Wangler.

First Care Home Health ranked at or above state benchmark in nine out of 12 publicly reported measures. First Care Home Health admits patients for hospital care 1 percent more often than the state average, but the rural landscape of the service area influences many decisions to admit a patient just to be on the safe side, explained Wangler.

Wangler praised the staff at First Care, "They (personnel) are our greatest asset, resource and the producer of results, and we invest deeply into recruiting and retaining excellent staff." She reported the turnover rate of 16 percent, and noted the organization's 17 percent retention rate. On a five-point scale, the facility's staff satisfaction score for 2007 was at 4.1, close to the facility goal of 4.2. At the same time, employee injuries at First Care are on a downward trend; as a result of safe patient/resident handling protocols and patient lift equipment purchases that protect patients/residents and staff.

LePier reported on the steady growth in the areas of hospital admissions; general surgery; orthopedic surgery; newborn; clinics; radiology CT scans; Emergency Room visits; ambulance runs; physical, occupational and speech therapy procedures; nursing home days; and home health and hospice admissions.

LePier reported on the major importance of achieving local integration of healthcare. He noted the change from Dakota Clinic to Innovis Health, and the discussions between First Care and Innovis Health regarding locally integrating health care to better serve patients. "The desired end result will be one chart and chart number for each patient, where patient information is placed on the system at the time of the visit or procedure and where the information is available to any other provider involved in care of the patient regardless of what services the patient is using," he said.

LePier reviewed community benefit statistics demonstrating that First Care provided over $7 million in community benefit to the surrounding area in the form of charity care, bad debt, discounts from third payers, and also over 4,000 hours in volunteer time.

Robert Schile of Larson Allen reported audit results for FY 2007. Schile reported that First Care incurred a net loss of $92,297, which translates to a 0.6 percent negative operating margin. Schile noted that First Care should focus on building cash on hand to make future investments into capital improvements feasible. Schile praised the financial reporting system at First Care, noting that financial processes at First Care are clean and provide reliable information for the audit and also for the leadership and the Board of Trustees.

Wangler reported that the loss in 2007 was a result of nursing home under-funding by Medical Assistance. Because of years of no cost-of-living and operating adjustment and a 2 percent adjustment in 2007, 35 percent of nursing homes are at risk of closure within the coming three to five years. Wangler encouraged everyone present to sign a petition to support elder services that will be submitted by nursing homes across the state to legislators.

Dr. Charles Winjum, First Care's chief of staff, spoke about the importance of cooperation between rural hospitals and healthcare providers to bring the best possible care to local residents. He announced that Dr. Glenn Johnson, who has been seeing patients and providing orthopedic surgery at First Care, would also be seeing patients at the Innovis Clinic in Fosston. He emphasized the importance of continuing to add to the list of specialties currently available in Fosston, and noted the desire to bring in a cardiologist and an oncologist to Fosston to keep patients from traveling.

Winjum also recognized the employees of First Care and noted the "yes, we can" attitude that prevails throughout the facility. Both LePier and Winjum affirmed the need and importance of an ever-closer working relationship between the hospital and clinics.

Dean Vikan, chairman of the Capital Campaign Committee for the past five years, announced the completion in September of the $500,000 Campaign. He said the committee met again in January to reactivate the First Care Foundation to be operational in October 2008. Vikan thanked all those who were involved in any way to make the Capital Campaign a success.

LePier, Wangler, Winjum and Vikan all praised the staff at First Care, noting the successes reached in the last year could not have been accomplished without the dedicated support of each employee to the institution.

Three members of the Board of Trustees were reelected to three-year terms. They included Edgar Olson, who completed his second term; Dean Anderson, who completed his first term, and Robert Overmoe, who completed his first term.

Comparison information on quality of care is available at www.hospitalcompare.hhs.gov, www.health.state.mn.us/nhreportcard and www.homehealthcompare.hhs.gov.

Making a difference when it comes to school safety

How to protect students and staff from school violence is a valid concern that many parents and staff share. The reports of students and staff being injured while at school appear regularly in headlines across the country. The Department of Justice reported back in December that despite the headline reports of school violence, children are still safer at school than at home.

According to the Department of Justice, the rotes for serious violent victimizations were lower at school than away from school for every survey year from 1992 through 2005. In fact, violent and property crime rates at the nation's schools during 2005 - 57 such crimes per 1,000 students, age 12 or older - were statistically unchanged from the 2004 rote of 55 victimizations per 1,000 students, according to a report by the Justice Department's Bureau of Justice Statistics and the Department of Education's National Center for Education Statistics. The crimes measured were rape, sexual assault, robbery, aggrovated assault, simple assault and theft.

Local and area officials are in a bit of a quandary. While statistics indicate that students are safer in school than they are at home, they have to acknowledge that there are gaps in the protective cover over area schools. There are too many entrances and exits, not enough staff, and not enough money to pay for all the cameras and updates to their facilities that would be needed to provide the kind of protection that parents may expect of our schools. And even if our schools did have the cameras, 24-hour guard service, and money for updates, would officials be able to protect students from all violence? It's doubtful.

What makes a difference? Educators have discovered that if students observe at least one selected security measure in their school - camera, staff person or law enforcement official observing hallways - they feel safer. It may be a deterrent, as well. Another factor is establishing and maintaining a good working relationship with law enforcement officials. The one key factor not examined in the report was the degree of trust that exists between staff and students. Trust is an important factor in any relationship. If students don't trust staff, then they are less likely to report problems or suspicious behavior. And if staff don't listen and aren't observant, well ... all the security measures available today, won't make any difference. Please make a difference.

that local governments will have to go through the RRB when they're considering public safety communications changes in order to achieve interoperability with other public safety radios.

"It's the only way we can get continued grant funding from the state for radio projects," Hruby said.

Very High Frequency (VHF) public safety radio systems are the most common types of public safety radio systems in rural Minnesota. The Pennington County Sheriff's Office and the Thief River Falls Police Department use a digital VHF radio system. The Goodridge, St. Hilaire and Thief River Falls fire departments use analog VHF. They are able to communicate with one another. However, Hruby noted that after any real or mock disaster in Pennington County, emergency personnel refer to a lack of communication among the various agencies at the scene.

Other public radio systems may use Ultra High Frequency (UHF) or 700/800 megahertz radio bands. Once radio systems are upgraded, interoperability and compatibility with other public safety radio systems can become issues.

The 2007 Public Omnibus Bill includes provisions for funding to implement the Allied Radio Matrix for Emergency Response in a shorter period of time. This system "is a major element of Minnesota's long-term interoperable communication planning but not the only element. There is an immediate and pressing need for interoperable public safety communication planning among all emergency responders," according to the RRB and the Northwest Regional Advisory Committee. The majority of the ARMER funding comes from bonding. An increase in the 911 surcharge offsets the bonding. The Legislature has also allocated $323,000 each year of the biennium to plan for interoperable public communications systems.

In 2006, Congress allocated $1 billion to states for the interoperability of public safety communications systems. In order to receive funding, states had to create State Communication Interoperability Plans to show how they would use grant funds for interoperability.

Fourteen northwest Minnesota counties, one city and two tribes have formed the Northwest Regional Radio Board. The board's convening meeting was held Wednesday at Ralph Engelsted Arena in Thief River Falls. Some of the board members include these northwest Minnesota government officials.

- Saturday, Feb. 16 and Sunday, Feb. 17 at the Empire Arts Center in Grand Forks, N.D. Saturday's performance will be at 7 p.m., and Sunday's performance will be at 2 p.m.
- Friday, Feb. 22 and Saturday, Feb. 23 at the Fosston Library and Arts Center. Both performances will be held at 2 p.m.
- Friday, Feb. 29 through Sunday, March 2 at the Chief Theater in Bemidji. Friday's and Saturday's performances will be held at 7 p.m. Sunday's performance will be held at 2 p.m.

"Richard Sherman has been married for seven years...and he's never strayed ... until She came along. Now he's at war with his own conscience and vivid imagination, with hilarious results," Page wrote in a description of the show. "George Axelrod's romantic comedy, which spawned the famed Marilyn Monroe movie, is as alive today as ever."

The cast includes Page; Bemidji resident Jeremiah Liend, who operates The Bemidji Swashbuckler's Guild; Thief River Falls residents Ashley Ramos and Joy Grant; former Thief River Falls resident Tiffany McAnnany, who now lives in Bemidji; and Bemidji residents Eric Kuha, Josey Dvorak and Jeff Sampson.

The two companies are producing "The Seven Year Itch" by special arrangement with Dramatists Play Service Inc. The shows are dedicated to the memory of Jesse Lian, a St. Hilaire resident who died after a car accident in December. Lian was a large part of Big Al's Theatre for the past four years. He had planned to be a part of "The Seven Year Itch."

With the exception of the Thief River Falls performance, tickets are $10. In Thief River Falls, tickets are $17 since it's a dinner theater production. Tickets are available at Kezar Music in Thief River Falls, the Fosston Library, Brigid's Cross in Bemidji and Urban Stampede in Grand Forks. Tickets are also available by calling Allison Page at (218) 686-0794 or by e-mailing her at bigalstheatre@hotmail.com.

Thailand trip

"The Seven Year Itch" isn't the only play in which Page has recently been involved. In December 2006, Page received a phone call from former Northland Community and Technical College instructor Sharon Gulliat, who directed Page in "A Gap in Generations" at NCTC. Gulliat, who now lives in Washington, founded the Chiang Mai Project. Gulliat was interested in doing an international performance benefiting the Vieng Ping Children's Home and the Asian Elephant Hospital, both in Thailand.

About a year later – in October 2007 – Page joined Liend and other actors from the U.S. and Canada to rehearse for "A Gap in Generations" in Port Townsend, Wash. They rehearsed there for about a month and performed the show twice – once at a nursing home and once at a Masonic Lodge – before leaving for Thailand.

Page arrived in Thailand on Nov. 1 and returned to the U.S. on Dec. 12. While there, the cast performed outside in 85- to 95-degree weather. Page had 11-hour rehearsals for the four nightly performances. Her rehearsals included time with the Thai cast members, whose characters were supposed to follow her character's every move in the play.

"It almost killed everybody," said Page, who noted the rehearsals and performances were great experiences but involved a lot of work.

While the cast members were rehearsing, they were filmed by Windy Borman, a San Francisco-based filmmaker. She filmed the cast members in both Washington and Thailand. She also filmed what they did behind the scenes and interviewed them weekly to see how people reacted to the environment and the show, Page said. Borman is creating a documentary on the project and the orphan children from the Vieng Ping Children's Home.

At the Children's Home, the cast performed the prologue of "A Gap in Generations" for about 50 orphans between the ages of 2 and 7. Page wasn't sure if the kids understood the performance since it was in English and the cast originally thought that the older orphans would be attending the performance. Yet, the cast members, who were jumping around, and the music drew the kids' interest. "They were so into it," Page said.

The orphanage is home to kids ranging from birth to age 18. It's not like an American institution, said Page, who noted 10 of the younger children were in "giant laundry carts" with metal bars on the sides and open tops. She added that, given the orphanage's lack of money, it doesn't have many staff members.

The orphans were also keen about the snacks the group brought to the orphanage. "Babies were covered in Oreos head to toe," Page said.

Adoption is legal in Thailand, but many Thai people aren't willing to adopt kids from the orphanage. "They think all the kids have AIDS," said Page, who noted some of the kids, but not all of them, may have AIDS. She added that some of the kids may be in the orphanage because their parents couldn't provide for them and some of the kids may be in the orphanage because their mothers are involved in the sex-trafficking industry that is prevalent in Thailand. Without the orphanage, Page said, the kids could become a part of that sex-trafficking problem. Some orphans have been adopted by people from outside of Thailand.

Page, who couldn't remember the last time she had contact with kids, had a profound experience while at the orphanage. As her fellow cast members played with the kids nearby, Page was approached by a girl. The girl, who was about 4 years old, grabbed Page's wrist, dragged Page to an area near the other people and shimmied up Page's body. "Suddenly, I'm holding this kid," Page said.

The girl spoke to the other orphans. Given that the girl was speaking Thai, Page couldn't understand the words but knew that the girl had to have been saying something along the lines of "Look, what I got."

In the midst of it all, the girl got Page's white stage makeup on her nose. She grabbed Page's costume to wipe it off.

When the group was about to leave, some of the orphans were upset. Unlike the rest of them, the girl seemed to accept that the group was leaving. She then did the hand movements that Page's character did in the play.

It was at that moment that Page realized that she needed to quickly leave the orphanage. She said, "I was like, 'I'm going to cry.'"

No injuries reported after fire Sunday afternoon

No injuries were reported after a fire Sunday afternoon at a pole shed in Warrenton Township in Marshall County. The fire destroyed the shed.

James Vansickle reported the fire at about 4:48 p.m. Sunday, according to the Marshall County Sheriff's Office. The fire occurred at his pole shed in Section 1 of Warrenton Township. As of presstime Friday, the cause of the fire wasn't known. At the time of the fire, hay and a few tractors were located inside the pole shed.

Curtis Carlson to speak at Warren Aglow meeting

Curtis Carlson will be speaking about "Unconditional Love" during Warren Aglow's meeting on Saturday, Feb. 16 at the Warren Community Center in Warren. Refreshments will be served at 9 a.m. The meeting will begin at 9:30 a.m.

Although Curtis Carlson grew up in a Christian home and was taught the golden rule and about Jesus at an early age, John 3:16 "For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." is the verse that really caught Curtis' attention. Curtis says he will be forever grateful that "whosoever" included him. He found that God's unconditional love and His promises give hope in every circumstance and for the future.

Curtis and his wife, Donna, of rural Alvarado, have two daughters, one son and seven grand-children. Curtis has served the public 35 plus years beginning at the township level and in the Army National Guard. He is a Marshall County Commissioner who was recently nominated chairman of the board of commissioners. Curtis is an avid student of God's Word whom the Lord uses in various ways to teach and preach his word. He has also served his church in many areas of leadership.

Four Seasons Senior Center Endowment Fund joins the family of funds under RACF

The Four Seasons Senior Center Endowment and Project Fund was established in 2002 as a component fund of Northwest Minnesota Foundation (NMF). Its purpose is to provide financial support for activities, projects or services that will benefit the variety of programs offered through the Four Seasons Senior Center.

Roseau Area Community Fund (RACF) is pleased to announce that the Four Seasons Fund has transferred within the foundation and is now a sub-fund of RACF. This decision was made by the Four Seasons Board of Directors due to the added exposure their fund will receive under the Community Fund umbrella. Another benefit is any future endowment dollar given to Four Seasons Endowment Fund will qualify for a 10 percent match by NMF. This match goes to the general fund of RACF.

Henry Ford once said, "The highest use of capital is not to make more money, but to make money do more for the betterment of life." Community foundations are the fastest growing sector of organized philanthropy in the US. These permanent endowment funds provide benefits by offering economic and efficient services to donors, by attracting new money into local charitable giving, by providing immediate aid to emerging and existing community needs and by being an agent for positive change in the community.

Freeze reverses Warroad results

Northern Freeze lost a 58-57 overtime game to Warroad a month ago. A Tuesday rematch had a much different outcome as the Marshall County Central/Tri-County cooperative won a 21-point, 54-33 blowout in Newfolden.

"That's a big turnaround," confirmed Northern Freeze coach Tom Mjelde. "We took care of the basketball and defensively we played really well. It was a really nice win for our kids."

Kinzie Magner scored 20 points and Alycia Dahl came within one steal of completing a triple-double with 15 points, 13 rebounds and nine steals.

"Kinzie stepped up big time," mentioned Mjelde, "and Alycia had another great all-around game."

Warroad, a team that knocked down 11 3-point shots in that first meeting, hit just one trey the second time around and did not have a double figure scorer.

Northern Freeze went 18-for-56 from the field (39 percent) and 17-for-32 on free throws. Warroad was 14-for-40 from the floor (35 percent) and 4-for-6 at the line.

The winners, who improved to 13-6, finished with a 35-20 rebound advantage. Warroad topped the turnover charts 26-13.

Gators take over in second half

It wasn't perfect, but Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was nevertheless a 76-52 winner Tuesday in a boys high school basketball match-up at Roseau.

"We started strong, and that was nice to see," said Gators coach Kent Christian, whose team had a 36-24 halftime advantage, "but we got sloppy at times, and this time of year we can't afford that."

The winners were led by Allan Dostal with 17 points, 13 rebounds; Zac Creviston, 13 points, 11 rebounds; Tyler Aune, 13 points, 9 rebounds; Jordan Holm, 13 points; and Jordan Creviston, 12 points.

"Two guys with double-doubles is pretty good, and Aune was one (rebound) short of being the third with a double-double," noted Christian.

Jordan Timmersman and Eric Vatnsdal had 14-point games and Gannon Kriel netted 13 for the Rams.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was 33-for-75 from the field (44 percent) and 8-for-17 at the free throw line.

"Our free throw shooting was less-than-desirable," said Christian.

The 14-3 Gators turned the ball over 15 times, but they also had 18 steals.

Panthers handle another 8A team in rout of Eagles

State boys high school basketball power Cass Lake-Bena had an easy time of it Tuesday against visiting Grygla-Gatzke, winning 95-53.

The loss snapped a five-game winning streak for the 9-7 Eagles, who trailed 48-21 at halftime.

Cass Lake-Bena is the No. 2-ranked Class A team in Minnesota. The Panthers have lost three times this winter, but those setbacks have been at the hands of unbeaten Hopkins, the No. 1-ranked team in Class AAAA; undefeated Crosby-Ironton, the No. 1-rated team in Class AA; and to national power White Station High School from Memphis, Tenn., during the cross-the-country holiday match-ups at the Target Center in Minneapolis.

Saturday, Cass Lake-Bena lost a 114-90 shoot-out to Hopkins.

"The kids gave a good effort, but they're just a solid team," said Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "They're very athletic."

Anthony Gast scored 13 points, while Bret Johnson and Chris Klamar both had 12 for the Eagles, who shot 40 percent from the field (22/55) and had a quiet 2-for-2 free throw night.

The Panthers, who shot 54 percent from the floor (38/70) and went 11-for-16 at the line, were led by Nate Salscheider with 25 points, Martin Wind 20, Jeromy O'Brien 19, Joel Salscheider 13 and Nate Howard 11.

Grygla-Gatzke had a 23-14 rebound advantage, but also wound up with more turnovers, 22-7.

Seniors lead Wolverines' win

■ Four upperclassmen score all the points - 17 each

It may have been the most unique boxscore of the 2007-08 girls high school basketball season. In a 68-56 Monday win at Roseau, all of the Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke offense came from the four seniors on the Wolverines' girls roster as Brittney Forsberg, Rebecca Polansky, Adelle Prestebak and Alisha Verbout scored 17 points each.

"We were pretty balanced," said winning coach Brent Philipp in a classic understatement.

It was a triple-double for Polansky, who complemented her points with 19 rebounds and 10 assists.

"Rebecca was outstanding," said Philipp. "All four seniors had a great game."

Thanks in part to a Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke defense that forced 30 turnovers and fed a fast break offense, the Wolverines put together a 64 percent 27-for-42 shooting performance from the field. They were 11-for-20 at the free throw line, where the Rams had a 5-for-15 night.

The winners, who led 35-27 at halftime, turned it over 18 times.

Hannah Hogenson scored 16 points, Brittni Hatlestad 11 and Elizabeth Housker 10 to lead the Roseau offense.

The win improved the Wolverines' record to 8-11.

Ponies' second half beats MCC

Warren-Alvarado-Oslo hit a tie-breaking 3-point shot just before the halftime bazzer and then out-scored Marshall County Central 47-26 in the second half to win a Tuesday night boys high school basketball match-up 81-57.

A Ryan Oas trey that shattered a 31-31 deadlock was a preview of things to come as the host Ponies knocked down six more 3-pointers over the final 18 minutes to win going away.

"That basket before the half gave them momentum," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Jake Rantanen.

Evan Mattson scored 18 points, Casey Larson 17, Kipp Loeslie 15 and Oas 14 for the Ponies. Evan Maki netted 26 and Colby Owens had 21 for the Nordics, but their teammates added only 10 points, combined, to the offense.

"It was a good first half," noted Rantanen, "but we couldn't get anybody else to step up and help our two scorers in the second half."

Marshall County Central went 24-for-52 from the field (46 percent). Warren-Alvarado-Oslo was 33-for-65 (51 percent). Ten of the Ponies' baskets were 3-pointers.

The 10-7 Nordics were 6-for-10 at the free throw line, where the Ponies had a 5-for-7 night. Warren-Alvarado-Oslo finished with a 26-24 rebound edge. Marshall County Central had more turnovers, 16-10.

Mustangs are 13-4

Red Lake County Central girls ran their record to 13-4 with a Friday (Feb. 1) 57-38 high school basketball win over Warren-Alvarado-Oslo at Plummer.

Three Mustangs had double-doubles as eighth grader Michaela Casavan scored 16 points and grabbed 10 rebounds; freshman Breanna Spong had 11 points and 14 rebounds; and junior Kayla Pelletier finished with 10 points and 11 rebounds.

Junior Faith Kruchowski added 12 points to the Red Lake County Central offense.

The Mustangs led 27-17 at halftime.

HollyAnn Carlson was the Ponies' only double figure scorer, finishing with 10 points.

"We played well defensively," said Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto.

The Ponies kept a defender back to guard against the Mustangs' fast break offense, but that helped led to a 39-23 Red Lake County Central rebound advantage. The winners were 22-for-55 from the field (40 percent) and just 11-for-23 at the free throw line.

Warren-Alvarado-Oslo shot 35 percent from the floor (16/46) and had a quiet 3-for-6 free throw game. The Ponies topped the turnover figures 22-14.

Gators pull away from Warroad for a 57-46 decision

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River took control in the second half to beat host Warroad 57-46 in a Feb. 1 boys high school basketball match-up.

The Gators trailed 28-22 at halftime.

"Warroad has always been a tough place for us to play," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Kent Christian. "It was nice to get a win against a team that has been on a roll."

Tyler Aune scored 19 points, Zac Creviston 18 and Adam Balstad 10 for the Gators. Jack Phetsanghane and Matt Adams led Warroad with 14 and 10 points, respectively.

"We need to be more consistent, but we are coming along nicely," said Christian. "Hopefully within the next couple of weeks we can start clicking in all phases and carry it into tournament time."

Eagles beat Nordics with different roster

Back on Dec. 20, Marshall County Central rolled to a 65-35 boys high school basketball win over Grygla-Gatzke in Newfolden. A Feb. 1 rematch had a little different outcome as the Eagles beat the visiting Nordics 58-48.

No, Marshall County Central hasn't taken a backward tumble. And the home site didn't make that much difference. But Anthony Gast and Chris Klamar sure did. The two seniors missed the first meeting due to injuries. The second time around they combined for 35 points as the 6-2 Gast scored 22 and the 6-3 Klamar netted 13.

"They are a different team with those two players in there," acknowledged Marshall County Central coach Jake Rantanen.

Grygla-Gatzke led 24-22 at halftime.

"I thought we put together a solid game," said Eagles coach Vern Johnson. "We did a real nice job on the defensive end in the second half."

Evan Maki scored 17 points and Jordan Anderson had 13 for the Nordics.

"Other than the outcome, I was very pleased with our performance," said Rantanen. "I thought it was a tremendous basketball game. That's the most intensity we've played with since (winning) the Russ Smith tournament."

Marshall County Central hampered by fouls, turned around from its usual strong inside game to put up 31 shots from 3-point range, hitting six of them.

NCTC softball clinic sessions to be held in gym March 2, 22

Players, coaches and alumni will present the 2008 Northland Community and Technical College 'Grip it 'N Rip it' softball clinic March 2 and March 22.

The clinics are designed for players in grades 6-12.

On March 2, hitting instructions will be given from 12:30 to 3 p.m. and fielding instructions will be offered from 3 to 5 p.m. Cost is $30 per session (hitting/ fielding) or $50 for both sets of instructions.

The March 22 clinics will feature hitting from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and pitching from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Again, the cost is $30 per session (hitting/pitching) or $50 for both sets of instructions.

Registration is due Feb. 22 for the March 2 clinics and March 14 for the March 22 clinics.

The clinics will take place at the Northland gym in Thief River Falls. Players should bring gloves (hitting and fielding), wear comfortable clothes and gym shoes.

Clinic shirts will be provided for all participants.

To register, or for additional information, call Northland head softball coach Kathy Huschle at 681-9746, or e-mail kathy.Huschle@northlandcollege.edu

Registration forms can also be found on the Northland College athletic homepage: http://www.northlandcollege.edu/athletics

Rebels edge Huskies by single point 65-64

Red Lake County edged host Goodridge 65-64 Tuesday in boys high school basketball.

The Huskies scored at the final horn, but it was on a rebound from underneath the basket off a missed three-pointer that would have tied the game.

Jeff Weiss scored 18 points, Neil Klein 12 and Tom Healy 10 for the Rebels, a first-year Red Lake Falls/Red Lake County Central cooperative. They led 35-29 at halftime.

Goodridge got double figure scoring from Jordan Anderson with 18 points, Otto Rubischko 16, and Brett Bakken, who had a 10-point, 12-rebound double-double.

"That was the best game we've played all year as far as staying consistent for a full 36 minutes," reported Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson, whose team has won just twice in 17 starts. "It was a good showing. The attitude was good, we played the best man-to-man defense we've played all year, and we got good bench play."

Goodridge was 23-for-61 from the field (38 percent) and 11-for-18 at the free throw line. Red Lake County went 25-for-68 from the floor (37 percent) and 11-for-16 at the line.

The Huskies had a 43-29 rebound advantage, but also topped the turnover charts, 19-13.

Goodridge was coming off two more solid performance, but two more losses at the hands of Deer River 66-52 and Roseau 68-62 during the Friday/Saturday Roseau Invitational.

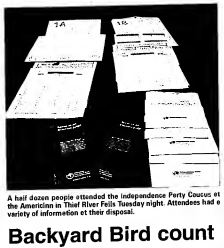
Between 200 and 225 people attended the DFL Party Precinct Caucus at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls Tuesday night. The presidential nominee receiving the most votes in the Presidential Preference Ballot was Barack Obama. Hillary Clinton was a close second.

More than 125 people attended the Republican Party Precinct Caucus at Franklin Middle School in Thief River Falls Tuesday night. The presidential nominee receiving the most votes in the Presidential Preference Ballot was Mike Huckabee.



A half dozen people attended the Independence Party Caucus at the Americinn in Thief River Falls Tuesday night. Attendees had a variety of information at their disposal.

During the caucus, delegates and alternatives were elected and a Presidential Preference Ballot conducted. Kading said they will send over 60 delegates to the county convention. (Thief River Falls could have had 78 delegates. The number is based on the 2006 Pawlenty vote.)

In the Presidential Preference Ballot, Mike Huckabee received 39 votes, Mitt Romney 30 votes, Sen. John McCain 25 votes, Ron Paul 15 votes, Alan Keyes three votes, and Newt Gingrich one vote.

Kading said voters had an opportunity to review the party platform. He said most people were satisfied with the party platform. He said he did receive a small handful of resolutions. Early in the proceedings, Kading said Steve Lillestol, who is seeking the endorsement for House Seat 1A, gave a presentation at the caucus.

The DFL

For DFL party members in Minnesota, it was an especially important day. Minnesota was tied for seventh-largest of the 22 states voting on Feb. 5 in the number of delegates it sends to the national convention. (Minnesota's delegates are awarded based in part on past Democratic performance.)

At the DFL party precinct caucus in Thief River Falls, voters voted in a Presidential Preference ballot, selected delegates to the next level of DFL convention, elected precinct officers, debated and passed resolutions for inclusion in the Minnesota DFL Party's 2008 platform, and identified DFL election judges. In the Minnesota DFL precinct caucuses, h results of the Presidential Preference Ballot determine the allocation of delegates to the Democratic National Convention that pledge to support each candidate. Minnesota may send 88 delegates and 12 alternates to the Democratic National Convention. Df Minnesota's 88 delegates, 72 are pledged delegates and 16 are unpledged (the 12 alternates are pledged).

Jim Fulton, party chair in Thief River Falls, said he was really pleased with the turnout. Between 200 and 225 people attended the precinct caucus at the Heritage Community Center. He estimated that a little less than half were attending the caucus for the first time. Some, he said, seemed to think they were just voting and that it was a general election of sorts. He also noted that there were a lot of younger voters and older voters.

In the four years that Fulton has been party chair, he said he has never seen a turnout like this.

Fulton said the turnout was so large because, in his opinion, they are fed up with the way things are being run and are ready for a change. Fulton said the number one issue among those in attendance was property taxes. Another important issue to those in attendance was health insurance.

During the caucus, participants did vote in a Presidential Preference Ballot. Hillary Clinton received 71 votes, Barack Obama received 73 votes, John Edwards one vote, and three were uncommitted.

During the caucus, seven delegates and seven alternates, four men and three women, were selected. Fulton also said he decided not to run for party chair because he thought it was time for a change. Kjell Melvie was elected party chair.

Independence Party

An Independence Party representative in Thief River Falls reported that about a half dozen voters showed up for the Independence Party precinct caucus at the Americinn in Thief River Falls. Numbers there matched what was reported at the last caucus. The representative indicated that other than concerns about "the entrenched" politicians running the country, most participants expressed fear or sadness for a country out of control, and a sorrow about the war. The caucus did not endorse any candidates.

Census Bureau

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, about 79 percent of Minnesota's voting-age citizens cast a ballot in the 2004 general election, well above the national rate of 64 percent.

CNN

Prior to Super Tuesday, CNN identified the following issues as key issues: abortion, economic stimulus, education, energy, environment, free trade, guns, health care, homeland security, housing, immigration, Iran, Iraq, same-sex marriage, stem cell research and taxes. The most important issues were: economy - 35 percent, Iraq - 25 percent, health care - 18 percent, immigration - 10 percent, terrorism - 9 percent, and other - 2 percent.

USDA inivites applications for rural infrastructure loans and grants

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Rural Development program has invited applications for six programs to help small towns and rural residents finance infrastructure improvements.

"A community cannot thrive without strong infrastructure," said Steve Wenzel, state director of Rural Development in Minnesota. "This financing will help communities improve the quality of life for residents and carries out President Bush's vision of a strong rural America."

The six programs under which applications are being accepted are:

• The Distance Learning and Telemedicine Loan and Grant program, which improves access to education and medical services through the use of technology. Deadline for applications is April 14, 2008.

• The Digital Public Television grant program provides funding to help rural public television stations install the digital transmission equipment that must be in place by Feb. 17, 2009. Digital Public TV grants also may be used for engineering and environmental studies associated with the transition to digital television. Deadline for applications is March 28, 2008.

• The Community Connect Grant Program provides grants to telecommunications providers and municipalities to finance the installation of broadband service in rural communities where broadband is least likely to be available. Deadline for applications is March 28, 2008.

• The High Energy Cost Grant Program provides grants for the acquisition, construction or improvement of energy generation, transmission or distribution facilities in communities where the average residential cost for home energy exceeds 275 percent of the national average. Deadline for applications is March 28, 2008.

• The Revolving Fund Grant Program provides funds to non-profit entities for loans to finance predevelopment costs for water and wastewater projects, or for short-term capital projects that are not part of the regular operation and maintenance of current water systems. Deadline for applications is March 28, 2008.

• The Household Water Well System Grant Program helps individuals finance the cost of household water wells. Funds can be used to upgrade or replace water well systems and to increase the awareness of substandard drinking water systems in communities. Deadline for applications is May 31, 2008.

For further details about eligibility rules and application procedures, see the Jan. 28, 2008, Federal Register, or contact your local Rural Development office. A complete list of office locations and other information about Rural Development programs is available at www.rurdev.usda.gov/mn.

Backyard Bird count February 15-18

presence of a deadly gas is similar to how important bird counts can be. Wockenfuss said what's happening to populations of birds can tell us a lot about the environment before it affects humans. It works the other way, too, said Wockenfuss. She explained that if populations are expanding, scientists want to know why that's happening, too.

Recently, some types of songbirds, like the snow bunting, have been declining. Wockenfuss said she believes that's due to loss of habitat.

This may be a cold time of year, but that doesn't mean residents of northwestern Minnesota won't find a variety of birds. Wockenfuss said residents may see black-capped chickadees, finches, woodpeckers, grosbeaks, buntings, doves, pheasants, grouse and raptors. During the Christmas bird count, 32 different species were counted. Wockenfuss said that's about average for this time of year.

The instructions for counting birds for the Great Backyard Bird Count are simple. Participants count birds anywhere, even at birdfeeders, for as little or as long as they wish during the four-day period. They tally the highest number of birds of each species seen together at any one time. (That way participants will avoid counting birds twice.) To report their counts, they fill out an online checklist at the Great Backyard Bird Count web site.

According to the Great Backyard Bird Count Web site, "As the count progresses, anyone with Internet access can explore what is being reported from their own towns or anywhere in the United States and Canada. They can also see how this year's numbers compare with those from previous years. Participants may also send in photographs of the birds they see. A selection of images is posted in the online photo gallery.

"In 2007, participants reported a record-breaking 11 million birds of 616 species. They submitted more than 80,000 checklists, an all-time record for the ten years of the count.

"Scientists and bird enthusiasts can learn a lot by knowing where the birds are. Bird populations are dynamic; they are constantly in flux. No single scientist or team of scientists could hope to document the complex distribution and movements of so many species in such a short time.

Scientists use the counts, along with observations from other citizen-science projects, such as the Christmas Bird Count, Project FeederWatch, and eBird, to give us an immense picture of our winter birds. Each year that these data are collected makes them more meaningful and allows scientists to investigate far-reaching questions."

Wockenfuss noted that the Audubon Sanctuary is open year-round. She said several people use the cross-country ski trails at the facility. The Audubon Sanctuary would like to invite area residents to become members of the Friends of the Sanctuary Agassiz Audubon Society.

Wockenfuss is visiting civic groups to talk about the Great Backyard Bird Count and the Sanctuary. Anyone who would like to have her speak before their group may reach her at 281-745-5663.

businesses.

Early plans call for the Arctic Cat Business meeting and Corporate display to be showcased at the Ralph Engelstad arena. Tweet stated, "The Ralph Engelstad arena is a beautiful show palace that will represent our product, and our town in a professional manner."

The Parts, Garments and Accessories division will be displaying products at the factory while other areas of Arctic Cat will be opened up to the dealers, such as the ATV demo rides conducted at the Arctic Cat 40-acre test track.

Introducing the power of 3

The all new Outback S3

Welcome to the next generation GPS receiver.
The all new Outback S3 elevates industry standards for functionality, accuracy and expandability. A few of the key features on the user-friendly system include:

- Select from Machine/Field view or Perspective/Aerial view on the large 8.4" bright, color, touch screen.
- The Outback S3 features Straight Guidance, Contour Guidance and Pivot Guidance modes. It also features Return to Point as well as Headland Alert.
- The S3 features Hemisphere GPS's exclusive Crescent Receiver technology for superior performance and accuracy. The integrated receiver is WAAS enabled and is both E-Dif and L1 RTK capable.
- Features USB Port for convenient data transfer and firmware updates.
- Virtual Steering Guide dramatically reduces operator fatigue.
- System is readily expandable to accommodate eDriveTC GPS Assisted Steering, AutoMate Boom Control and BaseLineHD Single Frequency RTK.
- Integrated system features internal memory to log multiple seasons worth of data.

eDriveTC provides affordable hands-free GPS steering that dramatically reduces stress and fatigue in the field.

BaseLineHD

BaseLineHD provides affordable single frequency RTK. It is the affordable alternative to disk markers and provides season-to-season repeatability.

Medical Park will become a reality

Greenbush - "Approval from the state of Minnesota for the construction of the new LifeCare Greenbush Medical Park was received Jan. 24."

"The site for the new facility will be located on the southwest corner of Greenbush, along Old Ridge Road. This area is the present site of the city airport; it is planned that a new location will be found for the airport. If all goes well with the planning phase, groundbreaking ceremonies will possibly take place in September."

"The medical park will feature a 40-bed skilled nursing home unit, which will consist of 24 private rooms and eight semi-private rooms. Included in the skilled care unit will also be a dementia-friendly unit.

"There will be 12 assisted living apartments; a five-day-a-week primary care clinic; and a wellness center, which will offer physical, occupational and speech therapies. There will also be a large community gathering room, which will be open to the public.

"For a monthly fee, the public will be able to use the exercise equipment in the wellness center, similar to what is now being done in Roseau and Warroad.

"Also included in this complex will be a behavioral health office and a home care staffing location." - The Tribune of Greenbush, Feb. 13, 2008, by Mavis Gonshorowski

Superintendent candidates interviewed

Fosston - "No final decisions have been made in Fosston's search for a new superintendent. Six candidates were interviewed over the weekend, and the Fosston School Board has expressed interest in two, according to Keith Klein, a consultant with ADM Group LLP. ADM Group is the firm hired by District 601 to assist in the search.

"A total of 19 candidates have applied for the job. The pool was narrowed down to six. They include Fosston High School Principal John Strom, Mesabi East Superintendent Gene Paulson, East Central Superintendent Jeff Peura, Frazee K-12 Principal Terry Karger, Tri-County (Karlstad) Principal David Sorgaard, and Mary Klamm of the Northwest Service Education Cooperative in Thief River Falls."

"After the interviews, which were held Feb. 8-9, a decision was made to do a site visit of each of their districts before proceeding with making anything final.

"However, no one is out of the running as of yet. Klein has recommended to board members to keep their options open.

"No further meetings will be set until after the site visits." - The 13 Towns of Fosston, Feb. 12, 2008, by Dan Kindall

Eagles boys give game ball to Alva Sparby

Grygla - "For the many years of support that Alva and the late Alton Sparby have given the Grygla-Gatzke Eagles, including a coach, Steve Sparby, the entire boys basketball team signed one of the balls used during the last year and presented it to Alva during the Feb. 7 game against Badger-Greenbush/Middle River. Part of what made this game a particularly special event is that another of the Sparby sons is the athletic director for the Gators, Eldon Sparby. - The Grygla Eagle, Feb. 13, 2008

Bovine Tuberculosis: Concern grows over Split State

by David Hill
Editor

Minnesota Board of Animal Health voted on Feb. 13, 2008, to move toward a split state status in terms of how it handles bovine TB testing of cattle in Minnesota.

Thursday, Feb. 14, the Board of Animal Health announced that a meeting will be held at 7 p.m., Feb. 26, at Grygla School. Another meeting will be held at 9 a.m. on Feb. 27 at Northland Community and Technical College.

As the number of herds infected with bovine tuberculosis grows, concerns among cattle ranchers and state officials continue to grow. Concern is growing because if one more herd is identified as having bovine TB, the state's status could change from modified accredited advanced to modified accredited. That would mean that significant and costly testing procedures would have to be implemented across the state. In all likelihood, it also would have a significant impact on the cattle industry in Minnesota, so officials continue to consider all of their options.

Wednesday, Feb. 13, the Board of Animal Health decided to move toward a split state status. Before a split state status is implemented, a risk assessment will have to be conducted, and the USDA will have to recognize the program implemented.

The exact details of how a split state would work haven't been defined.

Russell Walker, Roseau County Commissioner and former Warroad-area rancher, said he kind of feels like cattle ranchers are being blamed for the TB outbreak. "It doesn't matter where it came from," he said, "it's here."

Walker isn't convinced everything that could be done, is being done.

In February 2005, a cow at harvest was detected with lesions consistent with bovine TB and traced to a Roseau County beef herd. It was subsequently determined to have TB. Since then, TB has been detected in 10 cattle herds, the latest was announced Feb. 4. Bovine TB, caused by the bacteria Mycobacterium bovis, is a respiratory disease of cattle. A chronic, slowly progressive disease that does not spread easily, infected animals may show no symptoms. M. bovis is related to the bacteria that cause TB in humans, M. tuberculosis. Thanks to preventative measures taken by the beef and dairy industries and animal health officials, cattle infected with M. bovis pose little risk to human health.

For one, he's not convinced that elk herds from Canada aren't a problem, and he's not convinced that they aren't carrying the same strain of TB threatening cattle and deer in northwest Minnesota. He said he's been told they aren't carrying the same strain, but he believes that because different labs are looking at the tests, it's not possible to determine that it's a different strain. He didn't want to delve further into that issue because it's an issue he's currently discussing with the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources. Walker believes some of the older bull elk in northwestern Minnesota should be tested, and the tests should be performed at one lab.

Walker is also very concerned about the impact a split state may have on the cattle industry in northwestern Minnesota. He said he is asking commissioners from throughout northwestern Minnesota to meet and discuss what split state status will mean.

Walker sold off his cattle three or four years ago, but his son still has a herd of registered angus, and it's a major issue for him and for many other cattle ranchers. Walker believes a split state status could run the cattle business out of northwest Minnesota. He added that there are some younger cattle operators in northwestern Minnesota, but not many, and this could destroy the business. He also believes it could

DNR continues fencing, testing

by David Hill
Editor

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources is continuing its efforts to limit the spread of bovine tuberculosis.

Michelle Carstensen, DNR wildlife health program coordinator, said the DNR has contracted with United States Department of Agriculture sharpshooters to assist the DNR in removing more deer from the target area. That effort began on Monday, Feb. 11.

According to a news release from the DNR, surveys taken in January showed that there are about 800 deer, an estimated five deer per square mile, in the 140-square mile area that is managed for bovine TB. Last year, similar helicopter surveys in the same area showed 920 deer, an estimated 6.5 deer per square mile. These numbers were high enough to prompt the DNR to seek the assistance of sharpshooters again.

Carstensen said it's impossible to eliminate all deer from an area, but she believes it's important to keep densities low. The goal, she said, is to prevent any further geographic distribution of TB-infected deer. Carstensen said they need to keep the pressure on.

Carstensen said the fencing program remains in progress. They have completed 15 fences on 11 sites with the $54,000 approved by Legislature for 2007. (There's a $5,000 cap on each farm.) The DNR also received another $54,000 for the next fiscal year, which should cover most of the core area. Carstensen said in addition, the DNR, BAH and Minnesota Department of Agriculture have a request to the USDA for $650,000, which would, she hopes, allow them to fence in five-acre stored forage areas, and five-acre feeding areas of all 55 herds in the target area.

Quarantine hits producer hard

by David Hill
Editor

Dean Brateng's experience has not been positive. Brateng, who had a herd of 70 cattle at his farm, which is 15 to 20 miles away from the Bovine TB target zone in Minnesota, learned a year ago last January that he had one suspect cow and one reactor cow. While neither eventually tested positive for TB, the experience cost him thousands of dollars in expenses for which he has received no compensation.

Brateng said the suspect cow and reactor cow were taken for slaughter and the tests taken to Wisconsin. In the meantime, his entire herd was in quarantine. Brateng explained that you can't re-test a herd immediately. You have to wait 60 days, and then test the entire herd. So while the tests on the suspect cow and reactor cow were being completed, and he had to wait for the 60 days to expire, he had to feed and care for the herd, a herd he could do nothing with. In the meantime, his cows began to calve. When the 60-day period ended, he couldn't test the cattle because they were calving. So, he said, he had to wait until after pasture.

Feed began to run short. Eventually, Brateng ran out of pasture for the herd and started to use up his hay, which he would need for the long northwestern Minnesota winters. It wasn't until October that his herd was cleared. And then ... it wasn't until then that he learned his herd had nothing at all.

Trouble continued to mount. Brateng said he had some notes at the bank. Because he couldn't sell his calves, he had no other income

The process has to speed up

by David Hill
Editor

David Saurdiff of Grygla said "they've got to figure out a way to speed the process up."

Saurdiff owns a herd of 400 cattle. On Sept. 14, 2007, one of his cows was taken because it had reacted to one of the tests. On Oct. 24, 2007, he learned that the cow had TB. His herd has been quarantined since the process began.

"It's been a son-of-a-gun," said Saurdiff of the impact on his family. Saurdiff said he had two children, a 29-year-old son and 36-year-old daughter who were interested in the business, but now they don't want anything to do with it. Frustrated by the length of time, paperwork and lack of accountability, Saurdiff said the entire process "is worse than a divorce."

Saurdiff's complaints stem from the length of the process. The government (USDA) didn't conduct an appraisal until Jan. 17, 2008, and then, Saurdiff refused that appraisal. "I can't give them away," he said of his cows. The second appraisal was conducted on Feb. 13. During this time, Saurdiff has not been able to do anything with the herd.

Saurdiff said the problem is that no one person is accountable. "The whole process is unbelievable," said Saurdiff. "The appraisal process," he said, "should have been completed a long time ago."

Saurdiff is also a little frustrated

Meat product isolated at area schools

by April Schelnaha
Reporter

Eighteen local school districts and two local private schools likely received beef from a California company that is accused of slaughtering sick and old cows, according to the Minnesota Department of Education. Four of those local school districts are listed as having Hallmark/Westland Meat Packing company beef on hold.

The MDE indicated that there haven't been any reports of illnesses in connection with the beef. It noted that the majority of the beef sent to Minnesota was "likely served to students before the U.S. Department of Agriculture issued its advisory." It estimated that 240,000 pounds of Hallmark/Westland raw beef was sent to Minnesota schools. Of that amount, about 60,000 pounds wasn't used and has been isolated. Another 15,500 pounds of Hallmark/Westland products were sent to Minnesota schools. Those processed products included beef crumbles and hamburger patties. Those items have also been isolated.

The MDE has indicated that 374 school districts "likely received" Hallmark/Westland beef. On the list are the following local school districts and the following local private schools: Grygla-Gatzke; St. Bernard's Catholic School, Thief River Falls; St. Joseph's Catholic School, Red Lake Falls; Thief River Falls; Tri-County (Karlstad); Win-E-Mac (Erskine); Warren/Alvarado/Oslo; Badger; Greenbush/Middle River; Marshall County Central Schools (Newfolden); Lancaster; Kittson Central (Hallock); Fosston; Goodridge; Oklee; Red Lake County Central (Plummer); Red Lake Falls; Roseau; Stephen-Argyle Central; and Warroad.

Of those local school districts, the MDE has indicated that the following four school districts have placed Hallmark/Westland beef on hold: Kittson Central, MCC, Roseau and Warroad. MDE said the school districts have been notified on how to isolate the beef if they have it in their possession.

Kittson Central Superintendent Bruce Jensen said the district is holding 150 pounds of meat from Hallmark/Westland. "Chances are that meat is going to be gone no matter what the [USDA] says," said Jensen, who expected that the district would throw away the meat

Thief River Care Center to build

Organization to proceed with construction and relocation of long-term care business

Pennington Health Services, doing business as Thief River Care Center, has announced that it has received approval from the Minnesota Department of Health to proceed with a new construction and relocation project of its long-term care business operation.

TRCC plans to build a $14 million, 76,104-square-foot facility on 32 acres on the south side of Thief River Falls. Work on the project is expected to begin in spring 2009. TRCC currently leases about 26,275 square feet on more than three floors at MeritCare Thief River Falls Northwest Medical Center. At that location, it houses up to 65 people.

A press release doesn't specifically indicate where the facility will be built. On Friday morning, Shelley Solberg, TRCC administrator, said, "Right now, I can't really give you that information."

The press release also doesn't indicate when it is expected that the building will be completed or how many residents the facility will accommodate.

According to the press release, TRCC's new facility will provide private or split double rooms, two dining areas, two bathing suites, a chapel and an education center/theatre. In addition, all of these areas will feature neighborhood themes with parks, individual house fronts, and a commercial downtown to provide a "super real" community environment.

Technological advancements will also be implemented throughout the facility. One example is a wireless nurse call system that directs resident calls to a staff person's beeper, alerting staff which resident requires assistance. The system stores response time data, helping to assess quality of care. TRCC is also adding a touch screen data entry system called Momentum Care Touch; this state-of-the-art data entry system will help TRCC healthcare professionals obtain and quickly document the residents' path of care right at the point of delivery.

The construction project is part of TRCC's master plan to exceed the needs and expectations of future long-term care residents living in the Thief River Falls, Rosewood, Newfolden, Holt, Mavie, Goodridge, High Landing, Hazel, St Hilaire and Wylie areas.

TRCC is the former Critical

Paggen named '08 Administrator of Excellence

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

Ron Paggen is a little embarrassed about all of the attention that he has been receiving lately. The Marshall County Central Schools superintendent has learned that he has been honored with two awards.

Ron Paggen

Paggen was recently named the 2008 Administrator of the Year for District 32 of the Minnesota Association of School Administrators. The Newfolden resident was also named the 2008 MASA Region VIII Administrator of Excellence.

"It's nice when your peers recognize you for your achievements, and I mean it comes from your peers. I just simply try to do the job as well as I can and maybe this is some kind of recognition [of that]." Paggen said.

Paggen gave credit to those who work for the district. "We run a pretty good school system here," said Paggen, who referred to staff and the school board.

At the same time, Paggen joked about the awards. Paggen, who retired from serving as a full-time superintendent in June 2007 and is now contracted to 80 percent, joked about what kind of award he would have received if he had completely retired. For the 2008-09 school year, he will be contracted at 75 percent. He plans to officially retire in 2009.

Other MASA District 32 members nominated Paggen for 2008 Administrator of the Year for District 32. Paggen and the other three Administrator of the Year honorees in Region VIII of MASA were then eligible for the 2008 MASA Region VIII Administrator of Excellence. Paggen was selected for that honor as well. He will receive We're having cakes today, just in case nobody baked you one for Valentine's Day.

This recipe is from our former senator's wife, and it sounds like just the dessert we need on these cold days:

CHOCOLATE UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

Mrs. Walter Mondale

3/4 cup sugar
1 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Topping

1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
1 tablespoon cocoa
3/4 cup boiling water

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour 8x8 inch baking pan.

Combine sugar, flour, baking powder and salt. Melt chocolate with butter and stir into dry ingredients, along with milk and vanilla. Beat smooth. Spoon batter into baking pan.

Mix sugar, brown sugar and cocoa, and sprinkle over batter in pan. Pour boiling water over all.

Bake 40 minutes. Cool to lukewarm in pan on rack. Turn out onto cake plate and cake will make its own syrup-like topping. Serve warm or cold.

Someone wanted a red cake. I sent them two recipes with actual beets in them, and here is the red cake recipe that has been around for quite some time. It would have been perfect for Valentine's Day (bring the recipe out next year):

RED VELVET CAKE

1 1/2 cups sugar
1 cup butter
2 eggs, beaten well
1 ounce red food coloring
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 1/3 cups flour
2 tablespoons cocoa
1 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon vinegar

Cream together sugar and butter. Add eggs and beat well. Add food color and vanilla, and beat.

Mix flour and cocoa, and add alternately with buttermilk. Mix soda and vinegar, and mix into batter. Pour into greased and floured 9x13 inch pan. Bake 25-30 minutes or until cake draws away from sides of pan and springs back when pressed lightly.

Frosting

1/2 cup butter
8 ounces cream cheese
2 teaspoons vanilla
3 3/4 cups powdered sugar

Mix butter and cream cheese. Add vanilla and beat. Add powdered sugar, a little at a time, and beat well. Add some half and half if too stiff. Spread on cooled cake.

Want something easy? You can bake an angel food cake for this or, if you really want easy, buy one. Either way it will make a delicious dessert anytime, but it's especially perfect for these snowy days. This cake is also good if you are watching your diet. Replace whipped topping and pudding mix with non-fat and use skim milk. You can also use another flavor pudding, if you wish:

SNOW TUNNEL CAKE

1 package angel food cake mix
1 (12 ounce) container frozen whipped topping, thawed
1 1/2 cups milk
1 (3.9) ounce package instant chocolate pudding

Prepare and bake the cake as directed on package. Cool thoroughly before removing from pan. Slice a 1 inch layer off of top and carefully set aside. Gently hollow out a trench about 1 1/2 inches wide and 2 inches deep. Tear removed cake into small pieces and set aside.

In medium bowl, combine milk and pudding mix. Beat on low for 2 minutes. Fold cake pieces and 1 /3/4 cup whipped topping into pudding. Fill trench with pudding mixture. Replace top of cake. Spread with remaining whipped topping. Decorate with sprinkles or nuts, if you like.

Here's another quick mix cake. This one would be absolutely perfect any time:

AMARETTO BUNDT CAKE

1 yellow cake mix
4 eggs
1 (5.1 ounce) package instant vanilla pudding mix
2 tablespoons amaretto liqueur
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup oil
1/4 teaspoon almond extract

Amaretto Glaze

1/2 cup amaretto liqueur
1 cup sifted powdered sugar

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour a 10-inch bundt pan.

In large bowl, combine cake mix, eggs, pudding, water, oil, almond and 2 tablespoons of the amaretto liqueur. Blend well. Pour batter into prepared pan. While cake bakes, prepare Amaretto Glaze (* below).

Bake 40-45 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Remove cake from oven and poke holes in the surface. Drizzle cake with glaze while warm, making sure that some of glaze goes into holes in cake. Cool cake at least 2 hours before removing from pan.

* To prepare glaze, combine amaretto and powdered sugar until smooth, adding more amaretto as needed.

JetBlue partners with UND to fill pilot pipeline

JetBlue Airways has announced the creation of the Aviation University Gateway, a career-planning and mentoring program designed to identify and recruit talented men and women into the professional pilot ranks. Through rigorous academic training and regional airline experience, the Aviation University Gateway creates a clearly defined career path for aspiring pilots, beginning early in an aviator's college career and culminating in a final interview at a major airline.

JetBlue is partnering with prestigious aviation programs at the University of North Dakota and Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University to fill the Aviation University Gateway's pipeline with top-flight candidates who demonstrate exceptional potential as professional pilots. JetBlue is also partnering with Massachusetts-based Cape Air to be the program's first regional airline partner, giving Aviation University Gateway participants valuable flying experience prior to interviewing at JetBlue.

The Aviation University Gateway path is open to Embry-Riddle or North Dakota students with high academic standing (GPA of 3.0 or above) and recommendations from their professors. It requires a successful series of interviews with JetBlue and a regional airline partner, as well as the continued enrollment in Aviation Accreditation Board International (ABBI) - accredited aviation program. During the Gateway program, participants will intern at Cape Air (and eventually other regional airline partners) and then serve as an instructor at his or her respective flight school, earning 1,500 flight hours. Following that process, candidates will fly with Cape Air for at least two years, earning another 2,500 hours. With a total of 4,000 flight hours under their belts, program participants are then eligible for final interviews at JetBlue.

Plummer Snowmobile Club to host Snowmobile Safari today

The Plummer Snowmobile Club will host its annual Snowmobile Safari on Saturday, Feb. 16 (today). The ride leaves the Plummer American Legion at 2 p.m. Games and door prizes will follow the ride, along with DJ entertainment.

MRTL's Seventh Annual Musical Variety Show set for Feb. 24

The Middle River-Thief Lake Living At Home/Block Nurse Program will hold its Seventh Annual Musical Variety Show on Sunday, Feb. 24, starting at 2 p.m. at the Middle River American Legion Club. Mark Allen from Thief River Falls Radio will emcee the event.

Many new, talented acts are scheduled this year. Performers include the Woodpicks, Miss Middle River Angie Flaten, Sandy Dunham, the Country Toe Tappers, Harry and Karen and Caleb Pongo, Glenice Johnson as "Lena," and Miss Minnesota Outstanding Teen Chantal Wilson. A BBQ lunch and ice cream sundaes will be served. A freewill offering will be accepted, and there will be "Lucky Buck" chances for an array of prizes donated by area businesses and churches. Benke Farms has donated a half-hog that will be raffled off that day. Thrivent Financial will provide matching funds.

Proceeds will benefit MRTL Living at Home/Block Nurse Program, which works to empower volunteers to help serve elders in the Gatzke, Thief Lake and Middle River area. This program helps elders maintain their independence by providing companion service, referrals, assistance with prescription drug insurance, home meal delivery, medical transportation, and respite care, and by doing errands, light household tasks, and more. For more information, contact MRTL Living at Home/Block Nurse Program at (218) 222-4466.

Manufacturers to meet in Grand Forks Feb. 26

The Highway 2 West Manufacturers' Association will meet on Tuesday, Feb. 26, at the Holiday Inn, Grand Forks, N.D. This is a luncheon event which will begin at 11:30 a.m. and adjourn at 1:30 p.m. A tour of the Ralph Engelstad Arena will follow the meeting. Manufacturers, economic developers and educators are invited to attend.

The meeting will be co-hosted by Ideal Aerasmith and LM Glasfiber. The main presentation will be made by Al Podzunas Jr., who will present methods of improving throughput using Snyc Flow. Sync Flow is a manufacturing strategy based on the theory of constraints from the manufacturing management book "The Goal."

The cost for the lunch is $20. RSVP by Feb. 19. The tour of the Ralph Engelstad Arena is an additional $3 at the door. To place a reservation, contact Lisa Bernhardt a Ideal Aerasmith at 218-773-2455 or lbernhardt@idealaero.com.

Little Kicker Talent Contest announced

Ardell Larson, president of Kick'n Up Kountry Inc., has announced the introduction of the new 2008 Little Kicker Talent Contest. The contest will take place at the Thief River Falls Eagles Club on May 4, at 2 p.m.

"The contest is for children in three age groups – 1) preschool to 8 years old, 2) ages 9 to 13, and 3) ages 14 to 18," Larson said.

Contestants are allowed to use their own CDs and monitors, and may do any kind of entertainment. All types and kinds of music are allowed, including country, rock, blues, old time, etcetera. All acts, including individual or groups, etc., are welcome.

Larson stressed that "this is an amateur competition. You are considered an amateur if you are not under a recording contract. All children must be accompanied by a parent or guardian, and a parent's signature is required on the application form."

Trophies and prizes will be awarded, and the contest winners will perform on the afternoon of Friday, Aug. 29, on the Kick'n Up Kountry stage at the Pennington County Fairgrounds in Thief River Falls. The Kick'n Up Kountry music festival will be held Labor Day weekend from Aug. 29-31. (Labor Day is Sept. 1 this year.)

All rules and regulations, and the "Little Kicker Talent Contest Application" can be seen on the Kick'n Up Kountry Web site (www.kicknupkountry.com). To receive an applicaiton, call Ardell Larson at (218) 754-2861. For more information about the contest, visit the aforementioned Web site.

Community Swing Dance at NCTC set for Feb. 29

Break the winter doldrums with music and dance. The Northland Community and Technical College Music Department is hosting a special Community Swing Dance from 7 to 10 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 29, in the Gunderson Commons. Come and celebrate "Leap Year" by dancing to the sweet sounds of the Northland Jazz Band.

The band will be "dressed-to-the-nines" for this 1930s and 40s inspired dance that will feature dance music only from that time, such as songs and sounds made famous by Benny Goodman, Glenn Miller, Duke Ellington and Woody Herman. NCTC's fanciful Speakeasy requires no password to enter, only a desire for good music and good dancing.

Admission is free to the public.

Mocktails (non-alcoholic cocktails) will be sold by the Northland Student Senate and the Northland Athletic Department will have its concession stand open as well.

The Northland Jazz Band is comprised of college students, community members and music instructors from Northwest Minnesota. The group has played for local weddings, dances, concert opportunities, as well as area parades and county fairs. Often referred to as one of the best kept secrets in Thief River Falls, they are a talented and fun bunch that loves to entertain and no longer wants to be a secret.

Heart disease is a serious problem

Many organizations use Valentine's Day as an opportunity to promote heart health, and why not? Heart health is an important issue to many Americans.

February is American Heart Month. This, therefore, is an important opportunity to discuss heart disease, which is the leading cause of death for both women and men and a major cause of disability in the United States. In 2008, an estimated 770,000 Americans will have a new coronary attack, and about 430,000 will have a recurrent attack, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. About every 26 seconds, an American will have a coronary event, and about one every minute will die from aa coronary event.

According to the CDC, the chance of developing coronary heart disease can be reduced by taking steps to prevent and control factors that put people at greater risk. Additionally, knowing the signs and symptoms of heart attack are crucial to the most positive outcomes after having a heart attack. People who have survived a heart attack can also work to reduce their risk of another heart attack or a stroke in the future. For information on heart disease and stroke, visit the CDC's Division of Heart Disease and Stroke Prevention (www.cdc.gov).

Diseases and conditions that put your heart at risk include arrhythmia, heart failure, and peripheral artery disease. High cholesterol, high blood pressure, obesity, diabetes, tobacco and secondhand smoke are also risk factors associated with heart disease.

Signs and symptoms that can mean a heart attack is happening include:

- Chest discomfort, a discomfort in the center of the chest that lasts more than a few minutes, or that goes away and comes back. It can feel like uncomfortable pressure, squeezing, fullness or pain.
- Discomfort in other areas of the upper body, such as pain or discomfort in one or both arms, the back, neck, jaw or stomach.
- Shortness of breath, which may occur with or without chest discomfort.
- Other signs, such as breaking out in a cold sweat, nausea or lightheadedness.

The CDC says the best weapons we have against heart disease are a healthy diet and lifestyle. Physical activity in your daily life is also an important step to preventing heart disease. What have you done lately to improve your heart health?

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

Pesticide applicator training and soybean update to be held

A private pesticide applicator training and soybean update session is set for Wednesday, Feb. 27 at the Northwest Grain meeting room in St. Hilaire. This event offers up-to-date soybean research information and pesticide training for soybean producers in the St. Hilaire area. No pre-registration is required, and the soybean session is free of charge.

The soybean session begins at 9:15 a.m. with a welcome by the Minnesota Soybean Research and Promotion Council and the Minnesota Soybean Growers Association.

At 9:30 a.m., Dr. Phillip Glogoza, from the University of Minnesota Extension, will discuss "Soybean Pest Update, Including Soybean Aphids Outlook, Parasite Release and Thresholds."

At 9:55 a.m., Doug Holen, from the U of M Extension, will speak on "Planting Date Studies: Relative Maturity and Planting Date Influence on Yield in Northwest Minnesota."

At 10:30 a.m., there will be a Pennington/Red Lake County Soybean Growers Meeting to discuss the importance of having a county organization and the 2008 MSGA membership program.

Dr. Phillip Glogoza will discuss "Soybean Disease Update: Soybean Fungicide Research Review and Discussion, Soybean Cyst Nematode Impacts and Best Management Practices, and Soybean Diseases to look for in 2008" at 10:50 a.m.

At 11:15 a.m., Dr. Carlyle Holen, IPM specialist with the U of M Extension, will speak on "Weed Management in Soybeans and Rotations."

The final soybean session will conclude at 11:40 a.m. with Holen presenting "Thistle Management and an Update on Milestone."

The private pesticide applicators training and re-certification session will begin at 1 p.m. with Glogoza and fellow U of M Extension Educators Doug Holen and Howard Person, who will present topics on recordkeeping, label, pesticide safety, and nozzles/equipment. Those applicators whose certification expires on March 1, 2008, have an opportunity to be re-certified without taking a test. Instead of the test, they can be re-certified by attending the daylong program, including the soybean update and the one-hour and 40-minute program in the afternoon. The fee for re-certifying is $50 payable by check only.

A complete listing of speakers and events can be found at www.smallgrains.org. Call 1-800-242-6118, extension 20 for more information.

The Sesquicentennial Stroll: "Walking The Pembina Trail"

by Steven Reynolds

People are drawn to once-in-a-lifetime events in which they can inexpensively participate, even by monetary donation, and 'The Sesquicentennial Stroll: Walking The Pembina Trail' is just such an event. This isn't merely the walk of one man, his ox and two-wheeled cart but truly a historic stroll along the all-but-forgotten Pembina Trail, from Pembina, N.D., to St. Paul. It will be contemporary Minnesotans enjoying Ostby's trek across our storied past, thus creating a chapter of their own for the history books.

Gatzke residents Orlin Ostby and the late Delmar Hagen both wanted to celebrate a Minnesota birthday by walking the Red River Ox Cart Trail from the Canadian border to St. Paul. Delmar made the walk in 1958 for Minnesota's 100th birthday. Orlin is beginning his on July 1, 2008, for Minnesota's 150th birthday. Both of their walks end six weeks later in celebration at the Minnesota State Fairgrounds.

When he was about 18 years old, Orlin worked for Delmar Hagen, a neighbor. He helped him train his Shorthorn ox named "Napoleon" and to prepare for his reenactment of the arduous 420-mile trek along the Woods Trail, one of three Red River Ox Cart Trails on the east side of the Red River of the North.

Between 1800 and 1870, Metis fur traders established the trails to transport their furs and hides to St. Paul for trade goods they would haul back to the Red River settlements in Minnesota and North Dakota, on ox cart trains that varied from a few carts to as many as 500. By 1820, there were approximately 540 carts in use; by 1840, an estimated 5000.

In 1958, Delmar told Orlin that he should make the walk for Minnesota's 150th birthday in 2008, so Orlin kept the idea alive all these 50 years. In 2003, Orlin purchased a team of young Holstein steers, broken to drive, from a 10-year-old New Hampshire 4-Her named Thomas Philbrick, who had begun training "Pum" and "Kin" as a team as young as eight days old.

Over the past five years, Pum and Kin grew in size and experience, becoming celebrities in community events and parades across northwest Minnesota and the Red River Valley region. Pum, chosen for the Pembina walk because of his sweet disposition and cool head, weighs 2360 pounds and is six feet tall at the shoulder. He can easily pull the two-wheel, early-1900s Ontario cart Orlin has modified for the trip. He preferred steel spindles and hubs he can grease, to the horrendous squeal of wood-on-wood, which is peculiar of an authentic Red River Ox Cart, that reportedly could be heard for miles.

Although Delmar walked alone beside Napoleon, who leisurely pulled the two-wheel cart Delmar had made himself, the trail he learned, was a long and lonely affair, except for occasional visitors and community events along the way. In contrast, along with his wife, Mandy, 17-year-old son, Christopher, and 13-year-old daughter, Katherine, Orlin will be joined along the trail by people who have expressed a desire to walk the trail with him for just a few hours, or just a few days, some being Metis descendants. After visiting the Ostby family's Web site: walkingthepembinatrail.com, some people wish to accompany him for the 40-plus day duration, as well as make tax-deductible contributions on-line to their project. All participants are responsible for their own necessities, including transportation, food and water as the Ostbys can do only for themselves and their livestock. Others may wish to participate by making tax-deductible contributions by mail, helping aid Ostby's travel expenses.

"Orlin Ostby & Family: Walking The Pembina Trail," although a definitive Sesquicentennial event, and known only a year ago as " ... the single-most high profile Sesquicentennial event to-date," was, unbelievably, not chosen for Sesquicentennial grant funding. Fortunately, with the much-appreciated cooperation of likewise commonly under-funded Minnesota historical societies along the Woods Trail route, as well as the historical societies and communities in Pembina and Walsh counties in North Dakota, "Walking The Pembina Trail" has received some initial contributions to get the wheels rolling.

If you wish to contribute to this worthwhile historical event, sponsored in part by, Palmville Press & Publishing, Inc., a non-profit organization of Wannaska, send contributions to: Citizens State Bank, 118 Main Avenue S., Roseau, MN 56751 in care of "Walking The Pembina Trail."

Two Hallock women charged with lottery fraud

Two Hallock women have been charged in Kittson County District Court after each woman allegedly stole more than $4,000 in lottery tickets.

Vanagelica Euphemia Camacho, 18, and Anna Lee Jans, 18, have both been charged with felony theft and felony state lottery fraud. Both women are accused of stealing lottery tickets from their employer, Johnson Standard in Hallock, according to the criminal complaints. Both women are scheduled to make their next court appearances on March 4, according to the Kittson County Court Administrator's Office. Jans has entered a not guilty plea, and Camacho hasn't yet entered a plea.

The charges stemmed from a Jan. 28 report to the Kittson County Sheriff's Office from a Johnson Standard owner. That person wasn't identified in the criminal complaints. An investigation found that a large amount of money was missing from the business' lottery account. The investigation also found that a system monitored the daily amounts of lottery tickets sold, revealing the amount missing during each shift and the employee working during each shift. "In reviewing the documentation, it was apparent that most of the losses were taking place during shifts" in which Camacho and Jans were working.

Both women allegedly admitted stealing lottery tickets during their shifts and during each other's shifts. They are also accused of stealing lottery tickets during shifts in which they worked together. Both women allegedly admitted to receiving prizes for turning in stolen, winning lottery tickets.

Camacho allegedly said that "she could be responsible for stealing an amount in excess of $8,000 to $10,000," according to the criminal complaint. Camacho said she had been stealing lottery tickets for about a year. Camacho allegedly admitted to turning a winning ticket into the Minnesota State Lottery office in Detroit Lakes and receiving a prize of about $13,000. The ticket was allegedly bought with money received as prizes from stolen lottery tickets. Camacho said she split the $13,000 with her sister. The complaint alleges that Camacho stole about $4,325 in lottery tickets from the date of her 18th birthday, Aug. 30, 2007, through Jan. 22, 2008. The state plans to seek another $132 in restitution for lottery shortages during Camacho's shifts prior to her birthday and $685 for lottery shortages during shifts in which Camacho and Jans worked together.

Jans allegedly admitted stealing lottery tickets since about January 2007, according to the criminal complaint. She admitted that she stole about $50 worth of lottery tickets each night that she worked. She worked about two or three evening shifts a week. The lottery shortages were found to be more than $4,000 during her shifts from her 18th birthday, Sept. 29, 2007, through Jan. 22, 2008. The state is also asking for $1,436 in restitution for lottery shortages from Jans' shifts prior to her birthday.

Singles' Christian Fellowship plans Feb. 17 meeting

The February meeting of the Singles' Christian Fellowship will be held on Sunday, Feb. 17 at 2 p.m. (note the time change) at the Embassy Community Center at the corner of Third and North Eaton Ave. in Fosston.

Headlining the meeting will be Christine Hanson of Fosston, who will review the book "Chopsticks," which was written by her father, Rev. Joseph Matson. Matson and his wife spent years in China as missionaries. Hanson will also tell of her own experiences in China.

A short business meeting will be held. An attendance gift will be awarded, and a devotion will be given as part of the day's activities. There is also a pancake Valentine brunch at the Embassy serving until 1 p.m., so participants are encouraged to come early. A potluck supper will end the day's schedule of events. All single adults are welcome to attend.

For more information on the club, contact the current leader, Mae Johannessohn, at 218-435-1971.

Don't deposit snow on county roadways

The Polk County Highway Department informs all residents of Polk County that, in accordance with Minnesota Statute 160.2715, it is illegal to place snow (by plowing, blowing or shoveling, etc.) onto county highways. Violations of this statute are considered to be misdemeanors.

Polk County also cautions that the act of placing snow onto a county highway can subject a person to a civil liability if a road hazard occurs and causes a traffic accident. The civil liability can extend to both the property owner and the person who actually placed the snow on the roadway. All citizens are asked to obey these rules, which are designed to keep highways safe during winter months.

Rural Reflections

Grant Nelson

The comments published in this column are intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. They are written by independent columnists and do not represent the opinion of the staff or management of The Times/Northern Watch.

Freshly Plowed

This week's entry is a sister column to the one I wrote a few weeks ago titled "Freshly Shoveled." This column, at first, may seem like more effort on my part to make the mundane seem even more mundane, but it is less about the act of plowing than the actor. This week, I want to write about our grader operator, Jerry Hermreck.

If you live out in the country, you live and die by how well the roads are maintained; bad roads in the summer are bothersome, but poorly maintained winter roads can be deadly. I always think of a grader operator as a sort of knight of the road, working by himself to make sure rural folks wake up to good roads. Prior to Jerry's arrival, our road maintenance was of such a poor quality that with only a few phone calls, I could have arranged a group of neighbors, with pitchforks and torches, to meet me at the local county shop. Jerry does excellent work as a summer maintainer, but I believe he really shines technically when it comes to showing finger drifts the door and cutting down the buildup of snow from the edge of the road in a timely manner.

Here's the real story. Jerry's a good guy and his physical stature inspires confidence. I mean, when you see the grader coming and the outline of its driver almost fills the cab, then you know the cavalry is coming. When I first moved to our farm, I was driving up the Pembina Trail and saw a moose in the distance walking along the shoulder of the road. I wondered what the moose would do as I approached. That is, until I realized that moose was Dave Hermreck, Jerry's father. So, Jerry comes by size naturally. All that aside, it's nice to have someone who handles the mammoth job of clearing the county roads, yet still can finesse his way in and out of our driveway. It's not an easy task. Try driving your house down the road sometime and you'll get an idea of what faces grader operators on a daily basis.

I suspect most who maintain the roads are pretty good at their job, otherwise they would have to move on to something else. I guess the fact that Jerry is "our guy" and that we're friends makes me a little biased in his favor. Truthfully though, I've seen how bad it can be, and I give praise where it's due. Meeting someone on the road who is friendly and decent, plus clears your path, is an asset to any neighborhood and to the county. I don't know what others think when they meet massive vehicles on the road, but when Jerry throws me a big wave with that catcher's mitt he calls a hand, it truly inspires me to think one thing, "How did they get that moose into the cab of the grader?"

Marshall Co. Extension Home Study Groups will again offer scholarship

Marshall County Extension Home Study Groups will again offer a $200 scholarship to a resident of Marshall County who is pursuing a degree in a home economics-related field, i.e. interior design, early childhood, textiles and clothing, family life, education, etcetera.

Students who are in their second year of technical school or community college or second or third year of a four-year program are eligible to apply.

Applications are available at the Marshall County Extension Office. Interested persons may call 745-5232 or 1-800-745-5232, or stop in the office to obtain a scholarship application.

Applications should be sent to Linda Gornowicz, Program Coordinator, Marshall County Extension Office, 208 E. Colvin Ave., Suite 6, Warren, MN 56762. The deadline is March 15, 2008.

ACT registration deadline is March 7

College-hopeful high school students can take the ACT college admission and placement exam on April 12, 2008, the next nationwide test date. The registration postmark deadline is March 7. The registration fee is $30 for the traditional ACT (without the writing test) and $44.50 for the ACT Plus Writing. The late registration postmark deadline is March 21. An additional $19 fee is required for late registration.

Students can obtain registration information and materials from their high school guidance counselors' offices, or they can register online on ACT's Web site (www.actstudent.org). The Web site also features test-taking tips, practice tests, online test prep, and a searchable database for students to see if a prospective college requires a writing score.

"Many high school juniors take the ACT in April," said ACT spokesman Scott Gomer. "Their scores can help them assess their current readiness for college coursework and, if needed, work with their counselors and parents to determine what steps they need to take to improve their readiness."

The ACT is an achievement test that measures academic skills in English, reading, math and science. The optional ACT Writing Test is not required by many colleges and universities, so students should check the admission requirements of colleges to which they're considering applying before registering for the ACT.

Steve Keogh of Thief River Falls works to bring Ostan Sundrud of Fosston/Bagley to the mat during their 130-pound match in the Section 8AA North high school team wrestling tournament. Keogh won the match by technical fall. The Prowlers won the dual 59-15.

Warroad ends TRF bid for a second upset

■ Section 8A top seed shuts out Prowlers 6-0

Thief River Falls' 2007-08 girls high school hockey season ended Tuesday with a 6-0 loss to top-seeded Warroad in the Section 8A tournament semifinals at Roseau.

Warroad, after beating the Prowlers 14-0 and 8-1 during the regular season, skated to a 2-0 first period lead and had a 5-0 cushion at the second intermission.

Thief River Falls goalie Jade Gothberg faced 37 shots. Warroad netminder Pieper Morgan made 11 saves.

The No. 5-seeded Prowlers, who knocked off No. 4 East Grand Forks 2-1 on the road in the Friday quarterfinals, were making their first appearance in the tournament semifinals.

Thief River Falls finished 8-18.

Host Roseau was a 3-2 winner over Crookston in the second half of the Tuesday semifinal doubleheader. The Rams were the No. 2 seed; the Pirates were seeded No. 3.

Scoring

First period - Warroad, Brook Story, 7:46; Warroad, Eliza Evans (Morgan Gixon), 8:51.

Second period - Warroad, Billye Nelson (Lindsay Goulet), 2:37; Warroad, Karlay Sylvester (Sam Rienert), 10:37; Warroad, Layla Marvin (Sylvester, Sam Scheving), 15:31.

Third period - Warroad, Sylvester (Scheving, Brianna Goulet), 14:30.

Goalie saves - TRF, Jade Gothberg 31; Warroad, Pieper Morgan 11.

Play starts Tuesday in 8A hockey

First round games will be played Tuesday, Feb. 19, at Crookston, Hallock and Baudette to begin the 2008 Section 8A boys high school hockey tournament.

Rest of the tournament will be played at the Ralph Engelstad Arena in Thief River Falls, including quarterfinal doubleheaders Thursday and Friday, Feb. 21 and 22; single semifinal games Saturday and Monday, Feb. 23 and 25; and the championship game Thursday, Feb. 28.

Top-four tournament seeds went to Warroad, Park Rapids Area/Menahga/Nevis, East Grand Forks and Thief River Falls.

Warroad is the defending champion.

The Ralph Engelstad Arena will also be the site of a Saturday, Feb. 23, Section 8AA tournament semifinal doubleheader starting at 1 p.m.

If two northern teams advance, the Wednesday, Feb. 27, Section 8AA title game will be held in Thief River Falls.

Prowlers advance to 8AA Final Four

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

The Thief River Falls wrestling team secured a spot in Section 8AA's Final Four with a 59-15 drubbing of the Fosston/Bagley Brawlers in Tuesday night's quarterfinal match-up in East Grand Forks. This is the third consecutive year that Thief River Falls has advanced to the Section 8AA semifinal round.

Semifinals and finals were scheduled Friday at Detroit Lakes – a field featuring the Prowlers, Perham, Little Falls and Roseau.

If the Prowlers are to repeat as Section 8AA champions, they will need to find a way to beat Perham, the champion in Section 7AA last year. The Yellowjackets wrestled to a runner-up finish in last year's state tournament and are currently ranked No. 1 in the state.

"Perham is the favorite over everybody," said Thief River Falls head coach Kenny Geiser. "They're one of the best teams we've faced since I've been here. They don't have any holes in their lineup, so to beat them, you have to win every match where you're favored and still pull off some upsets."

Thief River Falls staked itself to an early 18-0 lead over Fosston/Bagley. Pins were recorded by Jacoby Bergeron over Garrett Sander; Chaz Abrahamson over Mark Harmon; and Kyle LeDuc over Blake Olson.

Fosston/Bagley got on the board at 125 pounds, where Dustin Hanson pinned Sam Mattison.

The Prowlers answered at 130 pounds with a technical fall victory by Steve Keogh over Ostan Sundrud, and a pin by Tom Kalinoski over Trandem Kappedal at 135 pounds.

Jordan Engen won by forfeit at 140 pounds; Kevin Fynboh pinned Justin Radke at 145 pounds; Tom Kalinoski won a 10-6 decision over Matt Enerson at 152; and William Hess won by injury default against Bayle Bellefy at 160 pounds.

The Prowlers won their seventh consecutive match at 171 pounds in a battle of two state-ranked opponents. Fourth-ranked Travis Peralta was the aggressor throughout, winning a 20-5 technical fall over eighth-ranked Andrew Juve.

Fosston/Bagley added wins at 189, with Cooper Wilson topping Nick Cervantes by an 8-2 decision, and Dustin Arneberg winning by injury default over Orlando Peralta.

Thief River Falls' Tyson Sorvig concluded the dual with a 10-2 major decision victory over Fosston/Bagley's Michael Cormican.

Wrestling tournament goes to Detroit Lakes

A skin issue diagnosed Monday on a member of the Pequot Lakes/Pine River-Backus wrestling team forced the No. 3-seeded Road Crew to bow out of Tuesday's Section 8AA South team tournament.

Instead of a six-team, four-match bracket to determine two qualifiers for the Section 8AA team tournament, late adjustments turned the South competition at Little Falls into a three-match affair that advanced top-seeded Perham and No. 4 Little Falls.

Thief River Falls and Roseau, the top two seeds in the six-team Section 8AA North field at East Grand Forks, joined the Yellowjackets and Flyers as sectional qualifiers.

Section 8AA North

■ First round - Fosston/Bagley 54, Walker-Hackensack-Akeley/Nevis 15; Crookston 59, East Grand Forks 20; Roseau 47, Blackduck/Cass Lake-Bena 34

■ Second round - Thief River Falls 59, Fertile-Beltrami 15, Roseau 39, Crookston 38. Prowlers, Rams advance to Section 8AA semifinals.

Section 8AA South

■ First round - Detroit Lakes 37, Park Rapids Area 31.

■ Second round - Perham 61, Detroit Lakes 0; Little Falls 42, Fergus Falls 27. Yellowjackets, Flyers advance to Section 8AA semifinals.

Section 8AA

■ Team tournament semifinals (Perham vs. Roseau, Thief River Falls vs. Little Falls) and finals Friday, Feb. 15, at Detroit Lakes, 6 and 7:30 p.m.

■ Individual tournament matches Friday and Saturday, Feb. 22 and 23, at Cass Lake-Bena High School.

NCTC keeps title hopes alive

With a state tournament trip already in their back pocket, members of the Northland Community and Technical College men's basketball team went into their final two games of the 2007-08 regular season knowing a home court sweep of Central Lakes Wednesday and Vermilion Friday would put them atop the Northern Division standings.

The Pioneers met the first challenge by beating the Raiders 73-57.

A second half offense did it as Northland out-scored Central Lakes 44-28 over the final 20 minutes after they had played to a 29-29 intermission draw.

Going 7-for-10 on second half 3-pointers sparked the Northland breakaway. The Pioneers finished the game with a 51 percent 27-for-53 shooting figure.

Zack Larson scored 17 points, while Luke Settergren and Marcus Gardiner both had 12 for the Pioneers, who improved to 15-10 overall and 7-4 in the Northern Division. They will play in the Minnesota Community College Conference state tournament Feb. 22-24 at Minneapolis Community and Technical College.

Lone Central Lakes scorer in double figures was Kody Braddix with 16 points. The Raiders are 15-8 overall and match the Pioneers' 7-4 Northern Division record.

Central Lakes was 21-for-51 from the field (41 percent). The Raiders were just 2-for-13 on 3-pointers, compared to a 12-for-22 performance from that range by the Pioneers. Central Lakes went 13-for-15 at the free throw line, where Northland had a 7-for-15 game.

The Raiders beat the Pioneers 66-57 in a Jan. 9 game at Brainerd.

Prowlers struggle, but still win

It wasn't Thief River Falls' finest hour, but it was, nevertheless a win, Tuesday as the Prowlers beat visiting Park Rapids Area 68-58 in boys high school basketball.

Kasey Trantvet scored 26 points, Dylan Johnson 17 and Jacob Stuckey 12 as the 13-4 Prowlers won for the tenth time in their last 11 starts.

That wasn't enough, however, for Thief River Falls coach Chris McLean. "It's a disappointing win," he said. "We didn't play well. They (Panthers) played harder than us."

A 9-0 Thief River Falls run late in the first half sent the Prowlers into the break with a 41-33 lead.

The scoreboard difference floated between five and ten points throughout the final 18 minutes.

A basket from underneath by Thomas Juberian with 5:21 remaining kept the Panthers within 57-52. But Johnson, scoring off a lob pass from Stuckey, completed a three-point play, then a single free throw by Grant Dierkhising of Park Rapids was followed by a Stuckey drive through the middle and a Trontvet free throw for a 63-53 spread with 3:53 on the clock.

"We took bad shots at the end," pointed out McLean. "With a ten-point lead, we should have been holding the ball and looking for the good scoring opportunities. Instead, we were launching shots from the outside. But give the kids credit for gutting it out and getting a win."

Dierkhising had a 25-point night for the Panthers, with Kevin Vaadland chipping in 11 and Cody Boterman 10.

Thief River Falls was 25-for-60 from the field (42 percent) and a productive 17-for-21 at the free throw line. Park Rapids went 22-for-56 from the floor (39 percent) and 11-for-15 at the line.

The Prowlers out-rebounded the Panthers 37-26. Turnovers were even at 17-apiece.

TRF rally falls short at Bemidji

Thief River Falls overcame a 13-point second half deficit to take a final-minute lead, only to lose a 67-64 Tuesday girls high school basketball decision to host Bemidji.

The Prowlers trailed 38-28 at intermission and were behind 50-37 in the second half before the rally kicked in.

A basket on a drive by Toni Sorteberg gave Thief River Falls a 64-63 lead going into the final minute of play.

But Bemidji answered with a pair of free throws by Kayla Hirt, and after Thief River Falls came up empty-handed on the ensuing possession, the Lumberjacks picked up another set of foul shots from Lexi Gauwitz to go up by three with seven seconds remaining.

A final Thief River Falls shot went off the rim and Bemidji controlled the rebound at the horn.

The 9-11 Prowlers lost to the 17-4 Lumberjacks 80-53 earlier this year. The rematch was closer thanks in a large part to a 27-point performance by Sorteberg, who hit five 3-pointers. The Prowlers got 10-point games from Chelsea Sorteberg and Cassie Gunderson.

"The girls played as well as we've played all year," reported Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "The effort was great."

Bemidji was led by Megan Larson with 16 points, Ana Molnar 14 and Hirt 12.

Thief River Falls' 41 percent 23-for-56 shooting included a 7-for-17 showing on 3-pointers. The Prowlers were a perfect 11-for-11 at the free throw line.

Bemidji shot 36 percent from the floor (25/69) and went 14-for-22 at the line.

The Prowlers' upset bid was thwarted by a 43-27 rebound advantage for the Lumberjacks – a figure that included 24 offensive boards.

"Our only downfall was not keeping them off the boards," said Loe. "Their size was too much for us."

Both sides had 18 turnovers.

EGF 3-1 winner over Prowlers

East Grand Forks scored three third period goals Tuesday to beat Thief River Falls 3-1 in Section 8A boys high school hockey.

After a scoreless opening stanza, the Prowlers came out of the second period with a 1-0 lead on a Jesse Castle goal at the 12:55 mark.

East Grand Forks, beaten 4-2 on a Jan. 22 visit to the Ralph Engelstad Arena, was kept off the scoreboard in the rematch at the Civic Center until Joey Wikoff scored at 3:49 of the final period.

It was 2-1 a quick 11 seconds later on a shot by John Grabranski.

Grabanski added an insurance goal at 9:15.

Thief River Falls goalie Zane Gothberg made 28 saves. East Grand Forks' Alex Christiansen stopped 25 shots.

The Prowlers take a 12-12 record into their 2007-08 regular season finale tonight (Saturday) at home against Detroit Lakes. The 7:30 p.m. encounter is a make-up game from a weather-related Feb. 9 postponement.

Scoring

First period - no scoring.

Second period - TRF, Jesse Castle (Brody Johnson), 12:55

Third period - EGF, Joey Wikoff, 3:49; EGF, John Grabanski (Wikoff), 4:00; EGF, Grabanski (Jake Usoldinger, Wikoff), 9:15

Rebels out-score Nordics 86-80

Steven Morinville hit seven 3-point shots and made 11 of 12 free throw attempts Tuesday in a 37-point performance that carried Red Lake County past Marshall County Central 86-80 in a high-scoring boys high school basketball match-up at Newfolden.

A Morinville's three-ball at the end of the first half gave the Rebels a 39-36 intermission edge.

Jeff Weiss added 21 points to the Red Lake County offense and Josh Vettleson contributed 12.

The Nordics were led by Evan Maki with 27 points. Jordan Anderson scored 17, while Colby Owens and Jesse Nelson both hit 13.

Marshall County Central trailed by a dozen points with 2 1/2 minutes remaining in the game before chopping the difference to 82-80. But the comeback stalled at that point.

More than happy with the offensive output, Marshall County Central coach Jake Rantanen was equally disappointed in watching as the 11-8 Nordics, who were surrendering an average of 52 points per game, were lit up at the other end of the court. "Score 80 points and still get beat by six – that's not good," he said. "But the kids kept battling at the end. That was good to see. At least we can take one positive out of the game."

Marshall County Central put together a 50 percent 28-for-56 shooting performance from the field. Red Lake County shot 48 percent (26/54), but got some extra offense on Morinville's treys.

The two teams combined to shoot 62 free throws. The Nordics went 17-for-27 at the line; the Rebels were 25-for-35.

Anderson and Owens completed double-doubles with 14 and 10 rebounds, respectively, as the Nordics beat the Rebels on the boards 39-30.

Scoring

Gators' first half nets 67-41 win

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River built a 37-18 first half lead and went on to beat visiting Stephen-Argyle 67-41 Tuesday in girls high school basketball.

The 14-8 Gators got double figure scoring from Anna Wicklund with 13 points, Hannah Berg 12 and Emily Bentow 11.

Brooke Souskojus and Becky Crummy led the Storm with 11 and 10 points, respectively.

Jim Sims is selected for Hall of Fame recognition

Jim Sims of Thief River Falls will be part of the 2008 Minnesota High School Football Coaches Association Hall of Fame induction class.

The MHSFCA Hall of Fame banquet will be held Saturday, March 29, at the Doubletree Hotel in Minneapolis.

Sims, who retired as Thief River Falls Activities Director last spring, will be honored for a career that included an 10-year stint as the Prowlers' head football coach from 1966 through the 1975 season.

The Mahnomen native coached at Eagle Bend High school before coming to Thief River Falls. He left the Prowlers to coach at the University of Minnesota-Crookston from 1976-1994, then returned here to head the School District 564 activities programs in 1995.

Three-point shots fall in Pioneer win

Northland out-scored Central Lakes 36-6 on 3-point shots Wednesday en route to a 92-66 Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division women's basketball win.

Most of the Northland long-range shooting came in the second half. The Pioneers were 1-for-12 on 3-pointers in the first half and 11-for-20 from that range after intermission. They led 36-31 at the break, then fell behind by seven before hitting five straight treys to turn the tide.

Tresta Ralston led the Northland bombers with five 3-pointers as part of a 20-point, 10-rebound double-double for the 5-4 freshman guard fram Dahlen, N.D.

Casey Engelstad, a 5-11 Northland sophomore forward from Thief River Falls, led all scorers with 22 points. Shawna Rogalla, a 5-7 freshman guard from Thief River Falls, had a 17-point, 9-assist night.

Central Lakes was led by Becky Skiba with 17 points. Whitney Glazier and Stacey Butler both had 12.

After a 28 percent first half shooting performance, the Pioneers warmed up to a 41 percent 30-for-73 game total. They cashed in on 20 of 25 free throw opportunities. Central Lakes lost by 26 points despite a 50 percent 28-for-56 shooting figure from the floor. The Raiders had an 8-for-15 free throw night.

Northland out-rebounded Central Lakes 45-33. The Raiders topped the turnover charts 25-19.

The Pioneers, who were already guaranteed a second place finish in the Northern Division, took a 17-8 overall record and 9-2 division mark into their regular season finale at home Friday vs. Vermilion.

Central Lakes, 7-18 and 5-6, was looking to nail down the fourth and final Northern Division state tournament-qualifying spots Friday in a game at Rainy River.

The MCCC state meet will be Feb. 22-24 at Ridgewater Community College in Willmar.

Scoring

Northland - Sarah Passa 5, Sara Rindahl 2, Testa Ralston 20, Alexandria Engelman 0, Brooke Conaly 5, Stephania Kismar 2, Casey Engelstad 22, Amanda Beck 8, Shawna Rogalla 17, Justyna Larson 4.

Prowlers are selected for Team/Week honor

Thief River Falls was recognized as the Minnesota Class AAA boys high school basketball Team of the Week by the Minnesota Lynx Feb. 7.

The Lynx present Team of the Week honors to one girls team and one boys team in each of the state's classes throughout the 2007-08 high school basketball season.

Same-week selections as the Prowlers were the Meadow Creek Christian, Pine Island and Champlin Park boys, along with the Sleepy Eye St. Mary's, Cannon Falls, St. Cloud Cathedral and Woodbury girls.

Each team will receive a certificate and all 104 selections will be invited to a WNBA Lynx game this summer.

Huskies edge Eagles 56-54

Goodridge held off a late East Grand Forks Sacred Heart rally to win a 56-54 Monday boys high school basketball game. It was a make-up contest from a Jan. 29 weather-related postponement.

The Huskies were up 56-51 before the Eagles' Ryan Kowalski banked in a 3-pointer with eight seconds left.

A quick foul on the in-bounds play put Goodridge at the free throw line. Two misses and a Sacred Heart rebound set up a final-shot opportunity for the Eagles. This time a 3-point attempt was blocked by the Huskies' Mitch Stanley to preserve the win.

It was just the third win in 18 starts for the Huskies, whose two previous victories came against Roseau.

"It was a nice win for our kids," said Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson. "It's nice to put another game in the win column."

The two teams played to a 24-24 halftime draw.

Otto Rubischko scored a game-high 25 points for the visiting Huskies. Brett Bakken and Jordan Anderson added 12 and 11 points, respectively, to the attack.

Joe Kulas had a 16-point game for Sacred Heart.

Goodridge was 20-for-46 from the field (43 percent) and 11-for-17 at the free throw line. Sacred Heart went 20-for-54 from the floor (37 percent) and 4-for-11 at the line.

Bakken completed a double-double with 12 rebounds as the Huskies won the board game, 37-26.

Scoring

	1	2	T
Goodridge	24	32	56
EGF Sacred Heart	24	30	54

Goodridge - Brett Bakken 12, Briar Verbout 3, Jordan Anderson 11, Mitch Stanley 5, Otto Rubischko 25.

EGFSH - Joe Kulas 16, Cole Johnson 3, John Pribula 7, Ryan Kowalski 14, Kevin Hatcher 14.

Wolverines sweep Gators

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke girls completed a home-and-home regular season high school basketball sweep against Badger/Greenbush-Middle River with a 53-50 Monday victory.

The 9-12 Wolverines notched their first-ever win over the Gators, 74-70 at Greenbush Jan. 24. The rematch was played in Grygla.

Up 27-20 at halftime, a game-long Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke lead included a 16-point advantage with eight minutes to play before the Gators kicked in a late-game rally that included two shots at a tie in the final 14 seconds.

Brittney Forsberg scored 17 points, Alisha Verbout 12 and Rebecca Polansky 11 for the winners. Liz Schenkey netted 16 points, Anna Wicklund 14 and Jessica Dvergsten 10 for the Gators.

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke won while shooting just 34 percent from the field (15/44) and making just 17 of 40 free throw attempts. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River had a quieter 7-for-11 free throw night, and the Gators turned the ball over 31 times, compared to 24 turnovers for the Wolverines.

Scoring

	1	2	T
B/G-Middle River	20	30	50
Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke	27	28	53

B/G-MR - Eiley Berg 2, Emily Bentow 2, Liz Schenkey 16, Jessica Dvergsten 10, Hannah Berg 6, Anna Wicklund 14.

G/G-G - Brittney Forsberg 17, Rebecca Polansky 11, Jessica Lund 5, Adelle Prestebak 8, Alisha Verbout 12.

Grygla-Gatzke tops Roseau

Five Grygla-Gatzke scorers hit double figures Tuesday in an 83-65 boys high school basketball win over host Roseau.

Anthony Gast and Jordan Brateng had 15-point games for the Eagles, while Chris Klamar picked up 14 and Cody Archibald and Bret Johnson both had 10.

"We had different players step up at different times when we needed to make something happen," explained Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "Everybody took a turn."

Jordan Timmerman led Roseau with 19 points, while Eric Vatnsdal netted 16 and Gannon Kriel had 12.

The Eagles were 32-for-67 from the field (48 percent) and 16-for-25 at the free throw line. The Rams went 23-for-51 from the floor (45 percent) and 14-for-24 at the line.

Grygla-Gatzke trailed 22-20 before finishing the first half with a 17-4 run.

"It was not a real sharp effort on our part, but it was a win," offered Johnson, whose team improved to 10-8.

Scoring

	1	2	T
Grygla-Gatzke	37	46	83
Roseau	26	39	65

G-G - Anthony Gast 16, Delray Cullen 8, Charlie Walls 4, Sam Anderson 1, Cody Archibald 10, Bret Johnson 10, Greg Sparby 8, Chris Klamar 14, Jordan Brateng 15.

TRF JV boys notch 83-57 victory over Park Rapids

Aaron Yaggie scored 15 points, Josh Waine 12 and Riley Simenson 10 as Thief River Falls picked up a 63-57 Tuesday boys junior varsity high school basketball win over Park Rapids Area.

The Prowlers had a 32-23 halftime lead.

All-star Section 8A-8AA hockey games are planned

First Hockeytown Hockey Classic Section 8 all-star high school hockey games be held Tuesday, March 11, at The Gardens in Warroad.

The event will include both a girls and a boys game matching Section 8A players against Section 8AA skaters.

Rosters will feature players selected, without regard to age, from nominations presented by their respective coaches.

The girls game will start at 6 p.m. The boys will play at 8.

RLCC trio leads way in a victory against Falcons

Faith Kruchowski (20), Michaela Casavan (18) and Kayla Pelletier (17) combined for 55 points Tuesday to lead Red Lake County Central to a 65-57 girls high school basketball win over host Fertile-Beltrami.

Ten rebounds each completed double-doubles for Pelletier and Casavan – the latter an eighth grader who got her points/rebounds off the bench.

Red Lake County Central led 33-26 at halftime.

"I thought we played really well," said Mustangs coach Rick Koivisto, whose team had a 15-point scoreboard cushion before a late-game run by the Falcons made it look close at the end.

Kurisa Gullickson scored 17 points and Kasi Hasbrouck has 13 to lead the Fertile-Beltrami offense.

The Mustangs, who improved to 15-5, shot 49 percent from the field (27/55) and went 15-for-26 at the free throw line. The Falcons shot 44 percent from the floor (22/50) and had a 9-for-14 free throw game.

Red Lake County Central finished with a 30-29 rebound edge.

Arctic Cat CEO Chris Twomey accepts award on behalf of employees

Arctic Cat President and Chief Executive Officer Chris Twomey was inducted into the Snowmobile Hall of Fame in St. Germain, Wis. Twomey, of Thief River Falls, was one of four individuals to receive the industry honor for 2008.

In his acceptance speech at the induction ceremony, Twomey thanked the Snowmobile Hall of Fame for the honor, but insisted that Arctic Cat's success and strength was the result of its passionate, dedicated employees.

"I accept this award on behalf of the 1,500 employees of Arctic Cat," said Twomey. "I've been incredibly fortunate to work alongside this very talented group of people, and it is their creativity and strong work ethic that have propelled Arctic Cat to industry leadership."

The Snowmobile Hall of Fame cited Twomey's strong strategic approach to the snowmobile business, a belief in progressive product development and leadership in the sport's political hurdles such as snowmobile use in Yellowstone National Park as key reasons for Arctic Cat's success and his induction.

More than 300 people attended the induction ceremony, including a group of Arctic Cat employees who in four days rode 2008 model year Arctic Cat snowmobiles 1,075-miles round-trip from Thief River Falls to St. Germain and back.

Twomey joins other Arctic Cat employees who have been inducted in the Snowmobile Hall of Fame, including Larry Coltom, Kirk Hibbert, Roger Skime, Dave Thompson and Ole Tweet.

DNR continues fencing, testing

Elk also have been a concern. Carstensen said elk in northwestern Minnesota have been tested for TB. She added that for many years, officials in Canada have been addressing tuberculosis among elk, so the situation in Canada has been observed closely by Minnesota officials.

Carstensen said the strain of TB in elk located in a herd about 150 miles north, in Canada, is a different strain of TB. She added that there is no evidence that the disease is moving in this direction. Additionally, no TB has been found in the six elk from northwestern Minnesota that have been tested. Those six elk represent about 12 percent of the entire population in the region, which is a significant sample.

The process has to speed up

with the DNR. Saurdiff said he keeps seeing elk among his quarantined herd, but when he reports it to the DNR they ask if he has pictures of elk among his herd. Saurdiff said he wants a permit to shoot a couple and for the DNR to test them, but they don't want to do that.

Saurdiff is anxiously awaiting the end of this chapter. He said he would like to start all over again. To do that he'll first have to disinfect everything, but he's not sure when he'll be able to begin that process. He's also concerned about the proposal to split the state. He has no idea where the TB came from and believes it shouldn't be spread around, but splitting the state would "condemn this area."

and had to borrow money to pay interest on those notes.

Brateng said the experience was discouraging. He also estimates that at the end of October he was down between $10,000 and $12,000. That loss has increased. Because he used up his winter hay last fall to feed the cattle that should have been sold sooner, he now has to buy hay, and he can't find any nearby. He expects his total loss to be over $12,000.

Brateng said the impact on his family has been negligible, but he's down to 40 cows now and gradually thinks he's going to quit the business entirely. He explained that testing requires good equipment and lots of help. He said he's old enough to retire, and these requirments are an added burden that he just can't afford.

Brateng has not reapplied for compensation from the USDA to cover his losses during the time when he had to keep his cows in quarantine - cows that didn't even have TB. He was told those were the rules. Now, although he's heard that the rules have changed, he's discouraged and doesn't even know who he'd apply to for assistance if he wanted to, or if it's possible.

On behalf of Arctic Cat employees, Chris Twomey, chief executive officer of Arctic Cat, accepts an award inducting him into the Snowmobile Hall of Fame from Loren Anderson of the Snowmobile Hall of Fame. (Photo by John Sandberg)

Nursing and Convalescent Care (CNC) Unit of the hospital in Thief River Falls. In 2006, St. Francis purchased the unit from what was then known as Northwest Medical Center. St. Francis then renamed it the Thief River Care Center.

MeritCare Thief River Falls NWMC Chief Executive Officer Chris Harff said MeritCare doesn't have an answer regarding what it will do once TRCC vacates its area of the hospital. Harff said MeritCare will have a consulting firm look at its three Thief River Falls facilities this summer to determine the wisest moves for the healthcare organization. Those facilities include MeritCare Thief River Falls NWMC, MeritCare Thief River Falls Southeast Clinic (formerly known as Dakota Clinic) and MeritCare Thief River Falls Northwest Clinic (formerly known as Altru Northwest Clinic).

For information on TRCC or to make a tax-deductible contribution, contact Shelley Solberg at (218) 683-8101 or ssolberg@sfhs.org. To see photos of other completed St. Francis projects, visit the St. Francis Web site (www.sfhs.org).

Schools isolate meat products

even if the USDA said it was safe. He said some of its meat from the company had already been fed to students and staff before the advisory from the USDA. No illnesses have been reported.

Jensen noted that the district hasn't notified parents about the meat because no illnesses have been reported, the district has put a hold on the other meat, and the district probably won't use the other meat. Jensen said he suspected that the whole thing wasn't necessarily about the meat but that the issue was that USDA was in the process of investigating the company for cruelty to animals.

Warroad School District Superintendent Craig Oftedahl said the district has 33 cases, or 1,320 pounds, of Hallmark-Westland ground beef. "The meat we have doesn't match up with any recall numbers," Oftedahl said. He added that the district hasn't notified parents about the situation for that reason and also because the district hasn't served any of its Hallmark/Westland ground beef.

The district is currently waiting to find out what the next course of action will be. "We'll do what we're told," Oftedahl said.

MCC Schools Superintendent Ron Paggen said the district is holding onto a 40-pound case of Hallmark/Westland meat that matches the recall numbers. "To the best of our knowledge, we haven't used any of the meat," said Paggen, who noted that the district throws away its empty meat boxes.

Larry Guggisberg, superintendent of the Roseau School District, said that he has been informed by the district's food service supervisor that the district doesn't have any vending arrangements with Hallmark/Westland. He said the district didn't have any ground beef on hand from Hallmark/Westland nor any products made by the company at the time of the initial hold.

On Jan. 30, the U.S. Department of Agriculture placed "an administrative hold" on Hallmark/Westland products. That hold has been extended until Tuesday, Feb. 19. In January, the USDA also indefinitely suspended the company's ability to supply meat to the National School Lunch Program, and other federal food and nutrition programs.

On Jan. 30, the Minnesota Department of Education was notified about the matter. Following recommendations from the USDA, MDE then placed a hold on all beef products from the company and alerted Minnesota school districts to hold any beef products that they had from the company.

That suspension came after the Humane Society of America released a video allegedly showing Hallmark/Westland workers "using sticks, electric prods and water hoses to force downers to stand on their feet to pass USDA inspection. Downers, cows that are too old or too sick to stand on their own feet, are likely to harbor health risks such as mad cow disease and pathogens. The USDA has regulations that prohibit downers from being processed into meat for human use," according to Foodconsumer.org.

Hallmark/Westland voluntarily stopped its operations on Feb. 1. Three days later, the Food Safety and Inspection Service suspended inspections at the company. A USDA press release noted that the notice of suspension is "a regulatory course of action available when FSIS finds egregious violations of humane handling regulations." The FSIS found that the company had insufficient procedures to handle all animals humanely. As a result, the company won't be allowed to operate until FSIS can verify that the company has taken corrective action. An FSIS official said Feb. 8 that the FSIS had been unable to substantiate the Humane Society of America's claims so far, but FSIS was still investigating the group's claims.

Concern grows over Split State

have a significant impact on the economy of northwestern Minnesota. "That's why," he said, "it's a northwestern Minnesota issue."

Leonard Moe, retired cattle producer, who now assists his son who is a producer, is also concerned about the impact of a split state on cattlemen.

Moe said he recalls a TB outbreak that happened in the early 30s or 40s. Back then, he said, when a cow had a reaction to the test, it was branded and removed from the herd. The farmer then had the option to get rid of it, even butcher it, within a specified period of time. Moe said that within three years, the outbreak was under control. Today, they just return the suspect cow to the herd, which doesn't make sense to him. He also pointed out that this outbreak has already been a problem for three years.

Moe has several concerns, one of which is that producers are not being fully compensated for their losses. He also questions the wisdom of eliminating the entire herd when only one cow in the herd is found to have TB. He said he has been told that the law says when they find even one cow in the herd that has TB, the entire herd has to be destroyed. He thinks that's a lie. But more than anything else, Moe is concerned that if they split the state, it will destroy the cattle business and impact the entire economy of northwestern Minnesota. "They had better have some meetings and justify their actions before they decide to split the state," he said.

Hartmann said plans for a series of informational meetings were already underway.

Thursday, Feb. 14, the Board of Animal Health announced that a meeting will be held at 7 p.m., Feb. 26, at Grygla School. Another meeting will be held at 9 a.m. on Feb. 27 at Northland Community and Technical College.

Hartmann said there's no law that says they have to depopulate an entire herd if a cow is found to be infected with TB. But, current practice and usage points out the practicality of doing so. Currently, if a cow tests positive and is removed from the herd, the herd is basically placed in quarantine for four and one-half years and has to go through eight tests. Under those circumstances it's hard to sell animals anywhere. And even when the owner follows all these precautions, the herd is generally not considered completely rid of infection. Additionally, for each of the four-and-one half years, the herd counts against the state's TB status. Having more than three TB-infected herds in one year would have an impact on the state's TB status.

Moe also expressed concern over one cattle owner with a small herd who had to keep his cattle in quarantine after a cow tested suspect. Eventually, it was determined that the cow did not have TB, but the owner was not compensated for economic losses experienced during the quarantine.

The Bureau of Animal Health is not involved in compensating farmers for their losses. Hartmann said it was his understanding that there was a short period of time when the federal government was not compensating farmers for losses experienced during quarantines when cows were only suspect. That has changed. In addition, Hartmann said the Legislature appropriated $100,000 as a backup if the federal government doesn't authorize payment in such instances. Hartmann also pointed out that the Board of Animal Health is not involved in assessing the value of herds.

Moe expressed concern that the test to determine TB is not entirely accurate. "It's 80 years old," he said.

Hartmann said no test is perfect, but it has been good enough to help nearly eradicate TB from the United States. Researchers are working on different tests, but the USDA does not recognize any other test at this time.

Hartmann and his staff said they were thankful that so many area producers have been cooperative even though this has been a difficult process. The BAH also welcomes questions about the process.

the Administrator of the Year award for District 32 in March. Paggen will receive the other award in April.

Paggen's passion for education and for doing what's best for the kids was always unquestioned, said Paggen's former coworker Bryan Thygeson, who now serves as the superintendent of the Warren/Alvarado/Oslo School District.

"He's a seasoned superintendent. He's got a lot of experience as a superintendent ranging from declining enrollment and building a school after a fire, as well as general experience as a superintendent," said Larry Guggisberg, superintendent of the Roseau School District. Guggisberg said that Paggen served as his mentor when he first became a superintendent seven years ago. Paggen helped Guggisberg determine if he was on the right track while making some decisions related to his district.

Paggen has also served as a mentor to Thygeson. For 10 years, Thygeson was the principal at MCC High School. Thygeson said their personalities complemented their working relationship and he believed their different perspectives worked well for the district. Thygeson said that Paggen's different perspective on situations allowed Thygeson to grow professionally.

Paggen has earned the praise of Mark Carlson, chairperson of the MCC Schools Board of Education. "I would certainly second any thoughts about him being a high-quality individual and a high-quality superintendent," said Carlson, who referred to Paggen's dedication on both professional and personal levels. Carlson added that the school board, district staff and community appreciate the job Paggen is doing as superintendent.

Working In Newfolden

Paggen enjoys his job for many reasons. "I enjoy being around kids," he said. "I think it helps a person feel young."

Paggen said he also enjoys "seeing a good staff doing a good job for the kids." And he enjoys doing his best to keep the school district running in an efficient way.

Paggen indicated that superintendents in smaller school districts may take on various roles. "No two days are alike, and you never know what comes up," Paggen said. One day found him serving as superintendent, serving as principal in the event anything come up while a principal was gone, finding an electrical breaker that had gone out when a janitor wasn't in the building, and taking kids home from school in a Chevy Suburban.

Over the years, there have been some changes in the field of education. "There's more demands on the schools, I think," said Paggen, who noted that schools are educating students who have a lot of difficulties in their lives outside of school.

Paggen is also concerned about the funding of schools. He said the district's financial situation is fine right now, but it can change quickly. He noted that he has heard about the potential for 0 percent increases in school funding in 2009-10 and 2010-11. Even though districts may not receive more state funding during those years, Paggen expects that the costs for personnel and fuel will increase.

Since 1989, Paggen has worked for Marshall County Central Schools – first as the MCC High School principal and later as the MCC Schools superintendent. He originally planned to stay at MCC High School for two or three years. Yet, fate intervened in the form of a fire. On Nov. 7, 1991, MCC High School burned. "It destroyed most of the building. The contents were considered a total loss," Paggen said. As principal, he negotiated with the district's insurance company regarding personal property, and the school board and Paggen negotiated with the insurance company regarding the building. The fire was caused by a faulty coffee maker in the teachers' lounge even though the coffee maker had been turned off. The school district then sued manufacturer Bunn-O-Matic Corporation and won.

A battle also ensued with the state about rebuilding the school. It wanted to send the high school students to Thief River Falls, Paggen recalled. With the help of local legislators and a Minnesota chief deputy attorney general, the district was able to rebuild the school.

In the meantime, MCC High School students were attending school elsewhere. "The churches in town became our school," said Paggen. Half of the bus garage was converted into a shop. Physical education classes were held at Newfolden Elementary School. Administrative offices were also moved to that location until the school could be rebuilt. In August 1992, construction was completed on MCC High School.

A year later, the MCC School Board offered Paggen the job of superintendent in the district that covers about 330 square miles, including the cities of Holt, Newfolden and Viking. He accepted, and he has served as superintendent of the Newfolden-based school district ever since that time.

Past experience in the education field

Before coming to MCC, Paggen served as the principal at Atwater-Grove City High School for one year. Prior to that time, he served as the principal of Chokio-Alberta High School for four years. During his first year as principal there, Paggen also taught Spanish. Before serving as a principal, he taught history, Spanish and driver's education at CAHS for nine years. Paggen began his teaching career in 1975.

Paggen, who spent nearly four years in the Air Force, holds a bachelor's degree in education with majors in history and Spanish from St. Cloud State University. He completed a minor in drivers' education and traffic safety while completing a master's degree in secondary school administration from SCSU. Paggen completed a sixth-year program (another year of graduate work) in general school administration with a licensure in superintendency. Paggen, who was the first person in his family to graduate from college, has also completed additional graduate work through the University of St. Thomas.

No amount of education, though, could prepare him for one of the his job duties – waking up at 5 a.m. to check the weather and roads to see if school should be delayed or cancelled. It's one of Paggen's least enjoyable activities.

Red Lake County Board closes meeting

Red Lake Falls - The Red Lake County Board of Commissioners met Feb. 12. At one point, the meeting was "closed to discuss two separate litigations against the county. One was a lawsuit filed against the county in regards to a county vehicle that was involved in an accident a year and a half ago. The other person involved in the accident alleges he has permanent injuries. The matter is being turned over to the Minnesota Counties Insurance Trust, the county's insurance company.

"The other matter is regarding the deputy registrar and whether the board will contest some costs the registrar would like to impose on the county. There will be a hearing on this issue at the end of February."

"Following committee reports, Sheriff Mitch Bernstein, Chief Deputy Brad Johnson and County Attorney Dan Geller all shared their thoughts on the proposed changes to the county court schedule.

"Under the current schedule, five judges serve the areas of Red Lake, Polk, Pennington, Marshall and Norman counties. These judges rotate on a weekly basis, so each judge comes to the county every five weeks. Red Lake County has court every Monday. When a jury trial is necessary, the county is put on the Polk County calendar and must wait for Polk County to finish all of its cases.

"The proposed changes would have Judge Donald Aandal serving only Red Lake, Marshall and Norman counties. ... Aandal is proposing this change in this schedule to work with smaller counties in order to keep their courthouses operational. There is some push toward having everything handled in Polk County at the new justice center."

"Some counties are not thrilled about the proposed schedule changes and are passing resolutions to oppose it. Based on the information provided by Geller, Johnson and Bernstein, the County Board unanimously voted to pass a resolution in support of the changes." - Red Lake Falls Gazette, Feb. 20, 2008, by Destiny Harmoning

City expands home-buyer aid program to existing homes

Warren - "A down-payment assistance program for housing purchases was extended to apply to existing houses, as well as newly-constructed homes, at the Feb. 12 meeting of the Warren City Council."

"The down-payment assistance program was initiated in 2000 to help potential homeowners who could afford the mortgage payments for a new home but who would have a hard time accumulating the money for the required down payment.

"The program makes available up to $5,000 at 4 percent interest from a seven-county loan pool and, after that, up to another $5,000 at 0 percent from funds made available by the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency. An area loan pool of $575,000 was developed with participation by "11 towns, the counties and a couple of private investors," said Lee Meier, executive director of the Northwest Minnesota Multi-County Housing and Redevelopment Authority." - Warren Sheaf, Feb. 20, 2008

State moving to isolate TB core

by David Hill
Editor

A split state status and fears of a downgraded status for Minnesota cattle producers is one step closer to reality. Officials with Minnesota Bureau of Animal Health, Department of Agriculture and Department of Natural Resources addressed those issues during a conference call with reporters on Tuesday.

Tuesday morning, the discovery of an 11th herd infected with bovine Tuberculosis was announced in Minnesota. As if the cold weather wasn't enough, this announcement sent a shiver through the cattle industry, because this is the fourth herd in a 12-month period discovered to be infected with bovine TB. That means it is likely that the state's status will be downgraded again and that stricter requirements regarding the handling and interstate transportation of cattle in Minnesota will be implemented.

According to the USDA, Bovine TB has affected animal and human health since antiquity. Once the most prevalent infectious disease of cattle and swine in the United States, bovine TB caused more losses among U.S. farm animals in the early part of the twentieth century than all other infectious diseases combined.

Minnesota has been TB free since the 70's. In February 2005, a cow at harvest was detected with lesions consistent with bovine TB and traced to a Roseau County beef herd. It was subsequently determined to have TB. Since then, TB has been detected in 11 cattle herds; the latest was announced Feb. 19. Bovine TB, caused by the bacteria Mycobacterium bovis, is a respiratory disease of cattle. A chronic, slowly progressive disease that does not spread easily, infected animals may show no symptoms. M. bovis is related to the bacteria that cause TB in humans, M. tuberculosis. Thanks to preventative measures taken by the beef and dairy industries and animal health officials, cattle infected with M. bovis pose little risk to human health.

There is a five-tier ranking system when it comes to bovine TB. Prior to 2005, Minnesota was TB-free. Since then its status has been downgraded to Modified Accredited Advanced. Along with each step in the process, more surveillance and action steps are required. With this latest announcement of another herd discovered with TB, officials anticipate that Minnesota's status will be downgraded to Modified Accredited, and more requirements and surveillance steps will be required.

The single largest impact will be to interstate travel. Joe Martin, assistant commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Agriculture, estimates that 200,000 cattle move across Minnesota's boundaries each year. At $10 per test per cow, he said, that's $2 million. Martin also noted that other states may implement restrictions on cattle from Minnesota, too.

Under the requirements of Modified Accredited status, individual cows would have to be tested, and breeding herds would have to be tested. In addition, officials believe a surveillance program would have to be set up for dairy cattle, but officials do not know what that will require, yet.

New rules and penalties

State to begin enforcing new rules and regulations by March 1

Cattle producers in the core area of the bovine Tuberculosis area have been notified of new rules and penalties going into effect March 1, 2008. In announcing the rules and penalties, the Minnesota Board of Animal Health stated, "These specific management practices are mandated in order to minimize the risk that cattle will be exposed to bovine TB from TB infected deer." Adherence to the requirements is stated as critical to preventing new TB infections in cattle. These rules are also accompanied by penalties.

The rules listed in a letter from Linda C. Glaser, DVM, Cattle Programs Division of the BAH, are:

1. Any cattle leaving the producers property must have a TB test within the previous 60 days and be permitted by the BAH to leave the core area.

2. All animals older than 12 months must be TB-tested yearly. A herd TB test must be completed between 10 and 14months of the anniversary of the herd test date. If exceeded, the herd will be quarantined. The cost of all required TB testing will be covered by the BAH, either through reimbursement of a private practice veterinarian or by having a regulatory veterinarian perform the test.

3. A yearly herd inventory is required to be submitted between May 1 and June 30 each year.

4. A cattle/deer risk assessment of the producers' premises was performed by the BAH and the USDA in the spring of 2007. Producers received a summary of that risk assessment with

Keeping track of paws and claws

This is Snoopy, a female domestic short-haired Calico cat. She is currently available for adoption at the Pennington County Humane Society. Like all the pets that leave the PCHS, Snoopy will be the recipient of a microchip ID. The microchips used for identifying pets are small, about the size of a grain of rice. Each microchip includes a unique ID code that is registered in local, state and national databases, which means that lost pets are returned home within hours after they become lost.

Microchips provide quick return for lost pets

Along with tags, microchips help us keep track of pets

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Over 20 million pets are lost throughout the United States each year, and because of poor identification techniques, many of these lost pets are euthanized after they are not claimed by their owners.

The majority of pets are still identified by removable license tags that may contain the pet's name and the owner's phone number or address.

Many owners don't take the time to attach the proper license tag to their pet's collar. In other cases, law biding owners may attach the proper license tag to their pet's collar, only to have their pet lose their tag or collar somewhere between the yard from which they escaped and the pound or animal shelter that takes them in after they are found.

At one time, tattoos were considered a viable alternative to license tags. They are more permanent than tags, but they can be hard to find through a lost pet's thick fur coat and almost impossible to find if a lost pet is frightened or excited.

The use of microchips for pet identification is the latest trend, and it is poised to succeed where tattoos failed. Microchip identification works in the same manner as licensing with tags, except a microchip cannot be removed. The microchips are also very small in size – about the size of an uncooked grain of rice – and are injected under a dog or cat's skin in the shoulder blade area.

Each microchip contains an identification number that is unique to its manufacturer. The identification number is entered into local, state and national databases.

Saving money and heartache

The Thief River Falls Police Department has access to a microchip reader that is on permanent loan from the Pennington County Humane Society. The chip reader is located at the city pound, and it makes it possible for lost dogs or cats to be returned to their owners within hours of becoming lost.

Vern Wittenberg, head animal control officer at the Thief River Falls Police Department, says microchip identification is beneficial to both pet owners and their lost pets. But the technology has been slow to catch on in the Thief River Falls area, and many pets are still held at the pound until their owners claim them days later.

"It helps, obviously if the pets are chipped," Wittenberg said. "Once chipping actually takes off, it will help us a lot."

Microchipping will save the city pound time and money, because it won't have to board as many stray pets. And in most cases, it will save pet owners the heartache of losing a pet.

The Pennington County Humane Society firmly believes in the technology of microchip identification for pets.

"Every animal that leaves here, that belongs to us, is microchipped," said Dawn Williamson, PCHS manager. "We can't force pet owners to microchip their pets, but we strongly encourage it."

Implanting a microchip for identification purposes may sound expensive, but the procedure is relatively inexpensive. Nationwide, the

More details of TR Care Center plans announced

by April Scheinoha
Reporter

More information has been released about Thief River Care Center's plans to build a $14 million, 76,104-square-foot facility.

"Tentatively, we would like to begin construction sometime in the first half of 2009," said Luverne Hoffman, chief executive officer of St. Francis Health Services. He said TRCC's architect has estimated that it would take 18 months to complete the building.

TRCC has an option to purchase 32 acres near the intersection of Highway 59 and County Road 62. The property, which is owned by Judi Bruggeman, is located in the vicinity of the Pennington County Humane Society. It is located in Rocksbury Township, and the property would have to be annexed into the city before TRCC could receive city utilities at that location.

TRCC has been approved to house 68 residents. "We're still providing general nursing home care and services," said Hoffman, who noted TRCC has no plans to specialize, for instance, in the care of patients with Alzheimer's disease.

Hoffman said TRCC houses about 60 residents at its current location at MeritCare Thief River Falls Northwest Medical Center. TRCC leases that space from MeritCare.

"The facility is grossly out of date physically and programmatically," said Hoffman regarding why TRCC has decided to move out of MeritCare Thief River Falls NWMC. He added that the hospital has one kitchen and one boiler for both the hospital and TRCC.

Hoffman said it was in the best interests of both healthcare organizations to detach from one another. He noted that the two organizations may decide to explore a joint relationship in the future, but, as of right now, there are no plans for such a relationship.

Hoffman described TRCC's new facility as a "miniature Thief River Falls" with distinct neighborhoods and a central business district. It will have a theater, café, supper club, church and gas station, he said. Hoffman also anticipates hiring more employees since TRCC will now have its own kitchen and laundry services.

Busy schedule for Agassiz announced

Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge staff and various partners have a busy year planned in 2008 with respect to inventory, monitoring and research activities associated with birds and their habitats.

Field work typically begins in April as refuge staff search for and monitor sharp-tailed grouse breeding sites on the refuge. In 2007, a sharp-tailed grouse breeding site was found on the southern end of the refuge during the latter part of the breeding season. This was the first confirmed sharp-tailed grouse breeding site on the refuge since 1994. The sharp-tailed grouse breeding site was located in a wet area in which refuge staff had mowed an extensive area of willows just months earlier. Staff members hope that some of their management efforts aimed at creating more open habitats on parts of the refuge will encourage more use by breeding sharp-tailed grouse.

As waterfowl return to the region each spring, staff note arrival dates of the various species. Systematic surveys of waterfowl and early migrant shorebirds will also be conducted on two refuge impoundments that are part of a three-year research project aimed at resolving biological uncertainty about the effects of management actions (timing of water manipulations) intended to provide optimum habitat for migrant waterfowl and shorebirds. Twenty-three different refuges throughout the National Wildlife Refuge System are participants in this study, which will conclude in 2008.

The first week in May kicks off an exceptionally busy month as refuge staff cooperate with other partners (e.g. the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources) to conduct surveys on ruffed grouse and woodcock. These are followed by surveys for secretive marshbirds, such as American bitterns, pied-billed grebes and yellow rails, which are intended to monitor species population trends on the refuge. This work is also part of a national effort to monitor these hard-to-detect species. Taped calls of the target species are broadcast into the marsh at pre-determined intervals to elicit a response from nearby birds. Three separate marshbird surveys are completed each year, one in early May, one in late May and one in early June.

Refuge staff also complete what is known as the Four-Square Mile Pair Survey, which is a regional survey effort designed to develop annual estimates of waterfowl production throughout portions of Minnesota, Montana, South Dakota and North Dakota. One four-square-mile block

Winter is getting long and it is time to get out of the rut. Make something a little different for dessert to cheer everybody up on these dreary winter days. Today's recipes are from the "Our Daily Bread" cookbook from the Bethlehem ALCWL of Newfolden.

I'm waiting for spring and hungry for rhubarb. They sell it in the grocery stores now so we can have it when we want it – get some. Then you can chase away the winter doldrums with a taste of spring:

ROYAL RHUBARB CRISP

Valborg Huglen

4 cups fresh rhubarb, cut in 1 inch pieces
3/4 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca
1 (11 ounce) can mandarin oranges, drained

Topping

1 cup oats
1/3 cup brown sugar
1/4 cup flour
1/4 cup butter, melted

Combine rhubarb, sugar, tapioca and salt and toss lightly. Let stand 30 minutes. Stir in oranges and place in ungreased 9 inch square pan.

To make topping, combine all ingredients and place over first mixture in pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 40-45 minutes or until rhubarb is tender. Serve hot or cold.

Here's a nice little summer-type dessert that you can serve after any meal:

SALLY'S DESSERT

Cheryl Nelson

1 cup flour
1/2 cup nuts (save a few to sprinkle on top)
1/2 cup butter
1 cup powdered sugar
1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese
1 large container frozen whipped topping, thawed
1 small box vanilla pudding
1 small box butterscotch pudding
3 cups milk

Mix flour, nuts and butter. Pat into 9x13 inch pan and bake 10-15 minutes at 350 degrees.

Cook pudding and milk until thick. Cool well.

While pudding is cooling, mix powdered sugar and cream cheese. Add 1 cup of whipped topping and spread on cooled crust. Let stand a few minutes, then top with cool pudding mixture. Top with remaining whipped topping and sprinkle with nuts.

This recipe is just like the recipe I make all the time. It is like pudding, only better and it's good for you. I make this dish whenever anybody isn't feeling good. It slips right down and I'm sure it helps them get well.

BAKED CUSTARD

Bev Pederson

3 slightly beaten eggs
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups milk, scalded
1 teaspoon vanilla

Scald milk (heat in microwave or on stove to nearly boiling and a light skin forms on top). Cool a bit. Combine eggs, sugar and salt and slowly stir in slightly cooled milk and vanilla.

Pour into six (5 ounce) custard cups or a 1 quart casserole-type baking dish. Set dish(es) into shallow pan and pour hot water around them 1 inch deep. Bake at 325 degrees for 40-45 minutes, until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Serve warm or chilled. Refrigerate uneaten portions.

What is better than an old-fashioned bread pudding like grandma made? This dish is much like custard above, but with a bit more substance. If you like, you can add some brandy or rum in place of or with the vanilla, and also top with cream or a light caramel sauce made by heating some caramel ice cream topping with a little cream:

PIONEER BREAD PUDDING

Elaine Roering

2 cups bread cubes
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups milk
2 eggs
3 tablespoons butter

Cut bread into cubes. Place in buttered 1 quart baking dish. Scald milk with butter and sugar (to scald, see "Custard" above). Beat eggs slightly and pour over bread cubes. Bake in pan of water (as above) for 1 hour).

Food and Wellness Fair set for Tuesday in TRF

The public is invited to the third annual Food and Wellness Fair on Tuesday, Feb. 26 from 2 to 4 p.m. in the Lincoln High School cafeteria in Thief River Falls.

"The Food and Wellness Fair is an opportunity for students and others interested to evaluate new, healthier foods for school lunch menus," said Ivy Thorson, Thief River Child Nutrition Program director. "This event will also emphasize the importance of wellness and highlight the valuable health and wellness resources available in our community."

A variety of displays will be set up in and around the cafeteria area, which will include food and beverage companies and community health organizations. "We have so many resources available to us in Thief River Falls to promote and protect our health and well-being," said Thorson. "This fair will allow the public to connect with some of the services available."

For more information, please contact Ivy Thorson at the Thief River Falls Child Nutrition Program office, (218) 681-8675 or via e-mail at ithorson@trf.k12.mn.us. The program is sponsoring the fair.

Mapping your retirement workshop scheduled at NCTC

The public is invited to attend "Mapping Your Retirement" – a personal guide to maintaining your health, managing your money, and living well – that will be held March 4 and March 11 from 5:30 to 9 p.m. at the Swenson House in Thief River Falls.

One of the most common questions that you will be asked as you near retirement is, "What will you do next?" Retirement is a significant transition in your life and the more you plan for it, the healthier, happier and more productive you will be during this time in your life. Even if you are not one of the 78 million baby boomers who will retire in the next three decades, you can benefit from the planning process of "Mapping Your Retirement" by starting a plan that will provide a road map for future decisions.

From finances and health, to relationships and spirituality, to work and leisure options, the "Mapping Your Retirement" workshop will help you explore this territory with confidence. This hands-on workshop will help you create a retirement plan, while interacting with others that are on a similar retirement journey. This is not a financial planning presentation, rather, a holistic approach to planning for the next phase of your life.

To take part in this new, exciting workshop, please call Lisa Krause at 218-683-3915. The first time offering of the course will be $30 to cover the cost of the book, course materials and a light meal at each session. Seating is limited so register early.

In Memory Of
William (Bill) Mathieu
Who Passed Away Feb. 21, 2007

I Needed the Quiet

I needed the quiet so He drew me aside.
Into the shadows where we could confide.
Away from the bustle where all the day long
I hurried and worried when active and strong.

I needed the quiet tho at first I rebelled
But gently, so gently, my cross He upheld
And whispered so sweetly of spiritual things
Tho weakened in body, my spirit took wings
To heights never dreamed of when active all day
He loved me so greatly He drew me away.

I needed the quiet. No prison my bed,
But a beautiful valley of blessings instead -
A place to grow richer in Jesus to hide.
I needed the quiet so He drew me aside.

Sadly missed by wife, Lorraine & Cindy & Keith, Mitch, Jay & Lila, Brenda & Steve & grandchildren

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Words offer no comfort from the cold

Although spoken in an effort to comfort, the words "spring is just around the corner" seemed pretty hollow last week. Just as hollow, to some perhaps, were reports of global warming.

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration announced in January that the average temperature for the contiguous U.S. in 2007 was officially the 10th warmest on record, according to data from scientists at NOAA's National Climatic Data Center in Asheville, N.C. The agency also determined the global surface temperature last year was the fifth warmest on record.

The average U.S. temperature for 2007 was 54.2°F, 1.4°F warmer than the 20th century mean of 52.8°F. NCDC originally estimated in mid-December that 2007 would end as the eighth warmest on record, but below-average temperatures in areas of the country last month lowered the annual ranking.

When it is so cold and cabin fever is a real issue, summer days and global warming seem such distant memories or thoughts.

With the bitter cold, officials have been reminding pet owners, who generally keep their pets outside, to bring them inside. We encourage you to care for your pets. And although not everyone wants assistance, perhaps we should also keep in mind our fellow humans who should be treated as kindly as our pets. It is within our power to help.

A poem was delivered to our office this week. We hope it brings a smile to your face. The author was not identified.

It's winter here in Minnesota and the gentle breezes blow
Seventy miles an hour at only twenty-five below

Oh, how I love my dear Minnesota
when the snow's up to your butt
You take a deep breath of winter and your nose soon freezes shut.

Yes, the weather here is wonderful
So I guess I'll hang around
I could never leave good ole' Minnesota
'Cause I'm frozen to the ground

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to an article published in the Feb. 16, 2008 edition of the Northern Watch entitled, "DNR continues fencing, testing." The article is based on an interview with Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) representative Michelle Carstensen.

In the article, Carstensen states there is no evidence that the bovine tuberculosis found in elk in southwest Manitoba is moving toward northern Minnesota. Carstensen supports this belief based on six permits that were given to harvest elk from the Grygla elk herd. All six of these elk were tested for bovine TB and all tests came back negative. Carstensen is reported as stating that she believes this is a significant sample, representing 12 percent of the elk herd in this region.

What is concerning, is that studies on bovine TB infected elk in southwest Manitoba indicate that bull elk ranging in age from 5 to 8 years are seven times more likely to test positive for bovine TB than females in the same age. The six 2007 permits that were given for the Grygla herd were for antlerless elk.

The testing done in southern Manitoba is a result of a bovine TB surveillance program initiated after a discovery that domestic cattle with the disease had infected elk in the Riding Mountain National Park region. This program has been in place since 1998, when an elk that died naturally in the park tested positive for bovine TB. In a five-year time span, bovine TB was confirmed in three cattle herds, nine elk and one white-tailed deer. According to the Manitoba Wildlife and Ecosystem Protection Department, the most likely explanation for the spread of the disease between elk and cattle is through sharing of a food source, such as stored hay, supplemental feeding, and illegal deer and elk baiting sites. Of great concern is the increased use of round bales. Round bales can be left in the field for an extended period of time and can become infected when fed on by animals with bovine TB, whether cattle, elk or deer.

I would disagree that this is a representative sample of the elk herd population regardless of the percent of the herd tested. Bull elk are more susceptible to contracting bovine TB due to conditions associated with mating. During the rut, bull elk loose body condition, lowering their immunity. Additionally, their rut specific behavior of sparring places them in close nose to nose contact with other bull elk. It would seem to me that this is the population that should be tested, not females which have a low risk of contracting the disease.

The bovine TB management area in northern Minnesota is literally surrounded by elk. There are two herds in northern Minnesota; one near Lancaster and one near Grygla. The herd near Grygla shares the same range with the disease-infected white-tailed deer population.

There is an elk herd near Bismarck, N.D., that has reached a population near 900. The carrying capacity of the park where they are located is only 360. These elk are known to be leaving their traditional range and traveling to other areas. According to the DNR, an elk from a private elk farm near Bismarck, was found near Lancaster.

Minnesota is not the only state to have worries regarding transmission of bovine TB from the white-tailed deer population to elk. The State of Michigan Web site has an article on their Emerging Disease Issues page entitled "Michigan's Elk and Bovine Tuberculosis: Surveillance and Laboratory Results." This article states: "Like white-tailed deer, elk are susceptible to bovine TB. Because the elk range lies within an area shared by TB infected deer, the risk of transmission to elk is very real."

If Michigan sees this threat as real, why would the Minnesota DNR not? The condition described in Michigan is precisely the condition that exists in the bovine TB core and management zones for white-tailed deer in northern Minnesota.

The presence of bovine TB in northern Minnesota is a huge threat to individual cattle ranchers, white-tail deer enthusiasts and the economy of this region. Eradicating bovine TB is critical. Research on the spread of this disease and on potential solutions needs to be broad-minded and include emerging possibilities as well as known facts. It is disappointing that the DNR does not seem willing to consider elk as a potential threat, particularly at a time when a 10th cattle herd has tested positive for the disease and a split state status is likely.

Respectfully submitted

To the Editor:

I feel this project (the Lake Bronson dam) qualifies to be funded by The Environment and Natural Resources Trust Fund.

Please take the time to check out this Web site at www.mnlottery.com/etf/faq.html. The information below is from this site:

"What types of projects are funded?

"By law, money in the Trust Fund may be spent only on certain types of projects. These include:

- The Reinvest in Minnesota (RIM) program (fish and wildlife habitat and related recreation)
- Research leading to more effective protection or management of the state's environment and natural resources
- Collection and analysis of information to help develop environmental and natural resource policy
- Enhancement of public education, awareness, and understanding of the environment and natural resources
- Capital projects for the preservation and protection of unique natural resources
- Activities that preserve or enhance natural resources threatened with impairment or destruction."

The fund must be used for projects "whose benefits become available only over an extended period of time."

Another plus is Sen. LeRoy Stumpf is on the DNR Senate committee.

Public invited to volunteer training for Warren hospice

Altru Home Services invites the public to attend volunteer training for Altru's branch hospice office in Warren. The training will be held March 21 and 22 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Warren Community Center. Volunteers who complete this training will serve Altru's hospice patients in Marshall County.

When an illness becomes terminal, Altru's Hospice is there to provide end-of-life care. In most cases, care takes place in the patient's home, among family and friends. Hospice professionals specialize in comprehensive healthcare with expertise in pain control, symptom management, psychosocial support and spiritual care. Bereavement counseling for family members following the deaths of their loved ones is also available. Patients and families have access to Altru's Hospice service 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

For more information, call Sue Fisk, Altru Home Services volunteer supervisor, at (701) 780-1450, or Nicole Nelson, RN, hospice case manager, at (218) 745-5154 or 1-800-950-6986.

Letter to Dave

Dear Dave,

I am frozen, but I have hope, as ill-advised as hope for warmth might be when it's 32 below. The cold awoke Lisa and I this past January in the form of boards in our roof popping from the cold, it has become an expected nightly event but still is a nice change from the sound sleep we usually enjoy. I am craving spring; I have never wanted summer so bad, I am old now and no longer love winter - at least until next winter.

I'm sure our suffering is no greater than a winter spent in Carrington, N.D. The last time we spoke, you were busy selling and servicing equipment for farmers ready to plant seed and harvest rewards in markets where money is less valuable than grain. My big hope is that there has been enough snow cover to provide moisture this spring and so new alfalfa plantings live to see the summer.

I'm sure you've kept up on the latest meat scandal in California; bad hamburger delivered to school children. I am realistic and I know nothing is perfect but the flaw seems to be in the system; people want cheap food instead of good food and that is what they are receiving. The tactics used to create this cheap food are short sighted and not in the best interest of anyone's health. I think people need to buy their food as close to home as possible and make sure it passes through as few hands and gets as little processing as possible. This may mean you pay a little more (sometimes not) and spend more time in the kitchen, but I think it's worth it. I mean, isn't the first step towards health in what we eat? The California incident also calls into question the treatment of animals. Beef cattle would never make it as house pets and wouldn't exist if they weren't good to eat; however, there's no reason that their lives shouldn't be as pleasant as possible. Also, if we are truly good stewards and treasure life, then a steer's death should be a good and respectful one.

I wrote this letter just prior to meeting with Danie Packard to do my bookwork and taxes; all seems dark and impossible before the suffering caused by a day of bookwork and taxes in "Danie's house of pain." I know what I do on the farm, and I know how I do it, but communicating that to others on a balance sheet is like swimming through hardened gelatin without the benefit of little slices of banana to mark my progress. I have to get up and walk circles outside of Danie's office to release anxiety incurred from these sessions. But in the end, it always works out; in truth, Danie's abilities are a real blessing disguised as a day in the trenches.

That's about all the news I could find to thaw out and send, Dave.

Ekre and Christian Brothers Racing bring home top spot

Submitted

They rode for over two hours on Sunday, but the prize waiting for the pros at the end made it worth it in the first leg of the 2008 AMSOIL Triple Crown presented by Polaris. DJ Ekre from Shevlin, rode his Arctic Cat snowmobile through ice, snow, mud and forest on his way to a first place finish in the Mille Lacs 200 in Garrison.

The Mille Lacs 200 was the first of three consecutive weekends of the high stakes cross country series sanctioned by the USCC. This weekend, Feb. 23 and 24, the second leg of the series will run with the BIR 200 at Brainerd International Raceway, followed by the Hayward Area Chamber of Commerce's Hayward 300 at the LCO Casino in Hayward, Wis., March 1 and 2.

Ekre was one of more than 120 racers in this weekend's event. Racers participating in the event came from the five-state area and Canada, and participated in classes ranging from amateur and vintage, to youth and pro. The increased payout of $25,000 will be seen at each of the next two legs of the series.

Ekre's teammate, Brian Dick, who also rides an Arctic Cat, from Thief River Falls, led the entire 100-mile race leading into the last three laps. It was reported that his sled blew a belt, which prevented him from making a clean sweep of both pro finals for the weekend. When Dick's belt blew, it enabled Ekre to move in front and claim the $3,000 first place prize.

"This was a great test of both man and machine," said AMSOIL Triple Crown race manager Scott Lorentz. "If the rider didn't have both himself and the sled in shape, you were not going to make it through the course today."

USCC President Pat Mach also commented on the event, "We are working to build the events to be both racer and spectator friendly and today was definitely a step forward, and we will continue to improve, but with the number one goal of giving as much as we can back to the racers."

Ekre said after the race he was sore, but felt good about the weekend. "Everyone rode hard and gave it their best, but I think my teammate and I set the bar high going into the last two events of the series. I would have liked to see more riding in the rough stuff, and I think BIR is going to offer that."

Tickets for the BIR 200 are available at the Brainerd International Raceway ticket office by calling 1-866-444-4455 and for the Hayward 300 by calling the Hayward Area Chamber at 715-634-8662.

Pesticide applicator training and soybean update to be held

Private pesticide applicator training and a soybean update session is set for Tuesday, Feb. 26 at the McIntosh Community Center. This event offers up-to-date soybean research information and pesticide training for soybean producers in the McIntosh area. There is no pre-registration required, and the soybean session is free of charge.

The soybean session begins at 9:30 a.m. with a welcome by the Minnesota Soybean Research and Promotion Council and the Minnesota Soybean Growers Association.

At 9:50 a.m., John Nowatzki, North Dakota State University ag engineer, will discuss "Fuel Saving Strategies for Crop Production and the Basics of Strip Till Equipment."

At 10:10 a.m., Dr. Phillip Glogoza, University of Minnesota Extension, will speak on "Soybean Pest Update, Including Soybean Aphids Outlook, Parasite Release and Thresholds."

At 10:50 a.m., Glogoza will discuss "Soybean Disease Update: Soybean Fungicide Research Review and Discussion, Soybean Cyst Nematode Impacts and Best Management Practices, and Soybean Diseases to look for in 2008."

At 11:15 a.m., Dr Carlyle Holen, IPM specialist from the U of M Extension, will speak on "Weed Management in Soybeans and Rotations."

The final soybean session will conclude at 11:35 a.m. with Jim Stordahl, U of M Extension, who will speak on "Planting Date Studies: Relative Maturity and Planting Date Influence on Yield in Northwest Minnesota."

The private pesticide applicator training and re-certification session will begin at 1 p.m. with Glogoza and Stordahl, who will present topics on recordkeeping, label, pesticide safety and nozzles/equipment. Those applicators whose certification expires March 1, 2008, have an opportunity to be re-certified without taking a test. Instead of the test, they can be re-certified by attending the entire day program, including the soybean update and the 1 hour and 40 minute program in the afternoon. The fee for re-certifying is $50 payable by check only.

A complete listing of speakers and events can be found at www.smallgrains.org. Call 1-800-242-6118, extension 20 for more information.

Warren man charged with felonies after Sept. 2007 crash

Felony charges were filed Tuesday against a Warren man for a September 2007 crash.

Corey J. Trudell, 24, has been charged with 12 counts of felony criminal vehicular operation and one count of gross misdemeanor third degree driving while intoxicated, according to the Marshall County Sheriff's Office. Trudell's initial court appearance is scheduled Tuesday, Feb. 26.

The charges stem from a one-vehicle accident near Warren on Sept. 15, 2007. According to the sheriff's office, Trudell was driving a 1999 Ford pickup truck, when the truck left the roadway, entered a ditch and hit an embankment. Trudell's two passengers, Tony Hamrick and Sharri Larson, both of Warren, suffered serious injuries.

Lucas Dillon of Thief River Falls slipped the puck under Bemidji goalie Derek Dudgeon to score on a penalty shot with just 2:46 remaining in Thursday's Section 8A boys high school hockey tournament quarterfinal game at the Ralph Engelstad Arena. Behind Dudgeon's outstanding play, the Lumberjacks had a 1-0 lead until Dillon scored. Two minutes later the Prowlers' Kent Peterson got the game-winner in a 2-1 Thief River Falls victory.

Section 8A high school hockey tournament...

Prowlers finish Jacks

What a finish.

A disallowed goal, a game-tying penalty shot and a tie-preserving save on a clean breakaway - all occurring in the final five minutes of the third period - led to a 2-1 Thief River Falls Section 8A boys high school hockey tournament quarterfinal win over Bemidji Thursday at the Ralph Engelstad Arena.

Stymied for 48 minutes by Bemidji goalie Derek Dudgeon, the Prowlers were trailing 1-0 and clock-watching was well underway when the excitement meter began its climb.

For a moment, the No. 5-seeded Lumberjacks might have thought they had a spot in the Saturday semifinals against top-seeded Warroad in their back pocket when the puck got by Thief River Falls goalie Zane Gothberg with 5:08 remaining. That would have made it 2-0. The officials, however, immediately waved off the goal, saying that it was kicked in.

With less than three minutes left, a shot by the Prowlers' Matt Lindquist hit the crossbar - another tough break on a night when Dudgeon's play and a game full of near-misses had Thief River Falls players, coaches and fans groaning in frustration from the start.

But this time the No. 4-seeded Prowlers got the break they so desperately needed. As players for both sides battled for the puck following the shot by Lindquist, the officials ruled that Bemidji skaters had helped Dudgeon cover the puck in the crease and awarded Thief River Falls a penalty shot with 2:46 to play.

Prowlers coach Tim Bergland didn't hesitate to pick a shooter: junior Lucus Dillon, who was coming off a five-goal game in a Saturday regular season-ending 8-1 win over Detroit Lakes. Dillon didn't disappoint, putting the puck under Dudgeon for a 1-1 tie.

"Lucas has played well for us all year," said Bergland. "He's a big-time play-maker. He plays well in pressure situations."

But there was plenty of excitement still to come. Fifty-nine seconds after Dillon scored, Gothberg had the spotlight as the sophomore netminder made a pad save on Bemidji forward Alec Schulz, who had slipped behind the Thief River Falls defense for a one-on-one confrontation with the goalie.

"As big a play as the penalty shot was, Zane's save on the breakaway was just as big," pointed out Bergland. "That kept it a tie."

Overtime was in the making...until the now-revitalized Prowlers rushed into the Bemidji zone and converted on the second of two scoring chances. Dudgeon made a big save on Dillon, but Kent Peterson was there for the rebound and pushed the puck across the goal line - barely - before the the netminder could get back in position. The goal came with only 45 seconds on the clock.

It was the third meeting of the year between the two teams, who split during the regular season by winning on the road.

"That was a great win for our kids," said Bergland. "We had lots of opportunities to put the puck in the net, but we either missed, or the goalie made the save. He's played well against us every game we've played this year. I thought we outchanced them, but we couldn't score. The kids were getting frustrated. But we hung in there."

Until the Prowlers' late-game scoring, the only goal came from Bemidji's Dylan Wizner off a brief flurry of action around Gothberg at 2:45 of the second period.

Gothberg finished with 23 saves. Dudgeon stopped 32 shots.

Thief River Falls is 14-12.

Pioneers' Player of Week list grows

Tresta Ralston, a 5-4 Northland freshman guard from Dahlen, N.D., was named Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division women's Basketball Player of the Week for Feb. 11-16.

Ralston averaged 19.5 points, 8.5 rebounds and 5 steals in regular season-ending Northland wins over Central Lakes and Vermilion.

It was the fourth time the Pioneers had a Player of the Week selection. Casey Engelstad earned the award for Week 4, and Shawna Rogalla was honored in Week 5 and Week 8. Engelstad, a sophomore, and Rogalla, a freshman, are both from Thief River Falls.

Northland men's team had one Player of the Week pick this winter: Luke Settergren, a sophomore from Burnsville, who was named in Week 12.

Both Northland teams are currently involved in Friday-through-Sunday state tournament play – the women at Ridgewater Community College in Willmar and the men at Minneapolis Community and Technical College.

Correction: it was reported in the Feb. 20 Thief River Falls Times that the Northland women lost to first-round state tournament foe Ridgewater during the regular season, but the Pioneers won the Dec. 1 match-up 55-54.

TRF JV team 59-42 winner

Eleven-point games by Aaron Yaggie and Riley Simenson led Thief River Falls past Marshall County Central 59-42 in a Tuesday boys junior varsity high school basketball match-up.

Freshman stop MCC 42-23

Thief River Falls beat Marshall County Central 42-23 in freshman boys basketball Tuesday.

The Prowlers were led by Connor Hutton, John Milks and Kameron Johnson with seven points each.

TRF swimmers finish with dual win

Thief River Falls is in Willmar this weekend to compete in the 2008 Section 3A boys high school swim meet.

Friday prelims preceded today's (Saturday) finals.

The Prowlers ended the regular season on a high note by beating Detroit Lakes 86-84 in a Thursday (Feb. 14) dual at the Franklin Middle School pool.

It was a down-to-the-wire finish, with the Prowlers' second and third place finishes offsetting the Lakers' winning time in the meet-ending 400-yard freestyle relay.

Brian Kays led the the Prowlers with first place swims in the 50 and 100-yard freestyle races, along with an anchor leg on a first place 200 freestyle relay team.

Thief River Falls wins also came from Anish Patel in the 100 butterfly and Ryan Olson in the100 breaststroke.

Patel, Travis Carlson and Cody Wolter joined Kays on the first place relay team.

The Prowlers went 2-4 in dual meet competition after winning just once in 31 duals over the past four years, including three straight winless winters.

"We lost some of our fastest swimmers this year due to different reasons," explained Todd Haase, the Prowlers' co-head coach along with Jill Buck. "We had kids step into those spots, and not just fill positions, but turn in faster times than those who left. Jill and I have nothing but good things to say about these kids. They've done everything we've asked of them. They worked hard and got better and faster all season long."

TRF boys beat Marshall County Central 49-42...

Rematch goes to Prowlers

Thief River Falls held off a second half Marshall County Central comeback Tuesday to win a 49-42 boys high school basketball game at Newfolden.

The two teams met in the championship game of the Russ Smith Northwest Holiday Classic back on Dec. 29, with the Nordics beating the host Prowlers 73-66.

It was much more of a defensive battle the second time around. Thief River Falls had a 30-17 intermission advantage, but produced just eight second half field goals as the Nordics got within three points with two minutes remaining.

"We just couldn't make any field goals in the second half," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Chris McLean. "Credit the Marshall County Central defense. We didn't get many good looks at the basket."

The Nordics started the game with a 10-2 headstart, only to have the Prowlers take control with a 28-7 run.

"Thief River Falls always comes out and plays hard," said Marshall County Central coach Jake Rantanen. "They got us down, but I was happy with our second half effort. There are no moral victories, but I was happy with the kids' effort. They battled."

After chopping the difference to 40-37, the Nordics' late-game charge was throttled on an odd carom. Evan Maki was applying defensive pressure when he popped the ball free at mid-court. However, instead of a turnover, the Prowlers got a basket out the play when the ball deflected off the hands of a Marshall County Central player near the Thief River Falls free throw line and was deflected through the net for a 42-37 scoreboard spread.

"That was the strangest play I've ever seen in a basketball game," offered Rantanen. "And it was big. We had the momentum, but when the ball went through the basket, we were all stunned."

Dylan Johnson and Kasey Trontvet had 12-point games to lead the Thief River Falls offense. Jordan Anderson of the Nordics led all scorers with 17 points. Maki, limited to two first half points, finished with 11.

"I was really pleased with our defense," said McLean. "I usually don't like to point out individual performances, but Chase Haviland did a great job defending Maki in the first half."

Thief River Falls was 16-for-40 field the field (40 percent); Marshall County Central went 18-for-42 (43 percent). The difference came at the the free throw line, where the Prowlers were 16-for-26 and the Nordics had a quiet 4-for-6 night.

Marshall County Central lost Anderson to fouls with four minutes remaining. His partner under the basket, Colby Owens, missed the game due to back problems.

Even with Owens missing and Anderson plagued by foul trouble the Nordics still managed to outrebound the Prowlers 29-20. However, they also topped the turnover charts, 16-6.

Thief River Falls is 14-5. Marshall County Central fell to 11-10.

Grygla-Gatzke 77-55 Monday winner over Clearbrook-Gonvick

Anthony Gast scored 28 points, Bret Johnson 15 and Chris Klamar 10 as Grygla-Gatzke picked up a 77-55 Monday boys high school basketball win over visiting Clearbrook-Gonvick.

The Eagles led 38-23 at halftime.

"We played a very solid game from start to finish," said Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "It was one of our better games for a while."

Chris Kjolhaug scored 16 points, John Broggeman 11 and Devin Larson 10 for Clearbrook-Gonvick.

The Eagles shot 42 percent from the field (30/72), made 13 of 19 free throws and won the rebound battle 32-18. The Bears shot only 33 percent from the floor (19/57) and went 11-for-20 at the line.

"We moved well on defense and we rebounded very well," noted Johnson. "We limited them to one-shot possessions."

RLCC girls start, finish strong against Patriots

Red Lake County Central started strong, bogged down, then had a solid finish Tuesday in a 60-33 girls high school basketball win over Win-E-Mac at Oklee.

The Mustangs, who won for the 16th time in 22 starts, opened the game with a 12-2 run. The Patriots managed to stay within 24-16 at halftime, but they lost ground after intermission.

"We had a pretty good second half," reported Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto.

Brianna Spong had a 14-point, 11-rebound double-double for the winners, with teammates Kayla Pelletier and Faith Kruchowski scoring 14 and 10 points, respectively. Win-E-Mac did not have a double figure scorer.

The Mustangs shot 46 percent from the field (28/61), while the Patriots struggled through a 29 percent shooting night (14/49). It was quiet at the free throw line, where Red Lake County Central was 2-for-6 and Win-E-Mac went 1-for-3.

Red Lake County Central finished with a 30-24 rebound edge. Win-E-Mac had more turnovers, 20-18.

Bears beat Wolverines

Lake of the Woods got by Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke 68-64 Tuesday in girls high school basketball at Baudette.

The 10-13 Wolverines, who trailed 33-31 at halftime, had an eight-point lead late in the game, but couldn't hold off the Bears.

"They made their free throws at the end," reported Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Brent Philipp.

Down 67-64, the Wolverines had three shots at a tie in the final moments with offensive rebounds off missed 3-pointers.

Instead, a foul and a Lake of the Woods free throw in the final moments iced it for the Bears.

Alisha Verbout of Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke led all scorers with 26 points. She had all six of the Wolverines' 3-point baskets. Teammates Rebecca Polansky and Adelle Prestebak joined her in double figures with 15 and 14 points, respectively.

The Bears were led by Ashley Feldman with 18 points, Chelsea Poolman 14 and Lindsay Christianson 10.

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke struggled through a 30 percent 19-for-64 shooting night. The Wolverines were a busy 20-for-33 at the free throw line, where the Bears went 12-for-18. Lake of the Woods topped the turnover charts 20-16.

Grygla-Gatzke handles Sacred Heart 73-58...

Halftime lead produces Eagles win

Grygla-Gatzke built a 37-16 halftime lead en route to a 73-58 Tuesday boys high school basketball road win over East Grand Forks Sacred Heart.

Jordan Brateng scored 19 points, Chris Klamar 18 and Bret Johnson 11 for the winners. Kevin Hatcher had a 23-point game and Joe Kulas netted 18 for Sacred Heart.

"We played a real good first half, and we played well the first part of the second half," said Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "Sacred Heart shot the ball really well in the second half and closed the gap a little."

Grygla-Gatzke was 30-for-64 from the field (47 percent) and 10-for-15 at the free throw line. Sacred Heart went 23-for-47 from the floor (49 percent), but was only 8-for-20 at the line. The winners finished with a 35-19 rebound advantage.

Nazareth Lutheran to host benefit for Lynde Brandon

by Barb Geer

A benefit for Lynde Brandon is scheduled for Sunday, March 2 from 1 to 3 p.m. at Nazareth Lutheran Church in Holt. Preliminary plans for the benefit include a meal and silent auction.

Lynde has had numerous health problems since 1999. Her daughter, Brooke, was born Aug. 3, 1999, and she was born via C-section. After Brooke's birth, Lynde needed to have numerous minor surgeries on her breasts due to plugged milk ducts. She had about a half dozen surgeries due to this problem, and she was unaware of anything else happening at that time. Approximately four years later, she started having numerous bladder, kidney and urinary tract infections. She was hospitalized several times because of those infections.

After being in the hospital numerous times, and while she was on medication continuously, her regular physician, Dr. Petrescue, decided there had to be something else causing these problems. He could not see such a young girl having to self-catheterize herself three to four times a day. Petrescue referred her to Dr. Lighiner at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester.

The first time Lynde went to the Mayo Clinic two-and-a-half years ago, she and her family were there in a motel for a week. After numerous tests, they determined that the nerve to the bladder had been severed and therefore no longer telling the bladder to empty. An option was proposed to Lynde to have a permanent bladder bag connected to her hip, to continue to self-catheterize for the rest of her life, or to have an InterStim Device inserted into her back near the spine with four to five electric cords running to the bladder, kidneys and urethra. The device had been used to help patients who had the reverse problem of needing to empty their bladders all the time, and they figured it could help Lynde's bladder empty with additional electrical shock to it.

The first surgery was done on or about Oct. 21, 2006. A temporary unit was inserted in order to test the level and/or settings that would work and hopefully make the bladder react. Lynde came home with the temporary device and a control unit that she could adjust if needed. She had to keep records and data for about six weeks. In January 2007, she returned to Mayo and the permanent unit (InterStim) was placed into her back/spine area with four to five electrical cords running through nerves to the areas. This surgery had to be performed without any anesthetics, was about three-and-a-half hours long, and was very painful. She has since had two more of the same surgeries. Lynde has been to Rochester six times in the last three years and will be going back again for follow-up at the end of April.

Insurance has been a problem for much of Lynde's treatment. Prior to the first temporary unit installation, she had to meet with the Insurance/Administration Department and get permission to have the surgery. It was pre-approved and they proceeded with the first surgery, which cost $39,550. Five weeks later, she got a letter from the insurance company saying that the claim was denied because the surgery was experimental. The family was in shock, but it set up payment plans and is in the process of appealing the decision regarding the first surgery.

Approximately five months later, Lynde fell, and the first unit broke. She had to go back again to Mayo and repeat the same processes to insert a new unit. The insurance is assisting with the second unit and surgery at 80 percent, and she will pay the remaining 20 percent.

Lynde has limitations now that she has never had in her life. She cannot lift more than 20 to 25 pounds because the machine could malfunction, thus sending her back to Rochester for re-setting and/or surgery if needed. If Lynde loses or gains five to 15 pounds, the machine can malfunction and again require surgery. Lynde is not used of any of these limitations, and it is very hard on her. Lynde has always been very athletic. She was involved in athletics in high school, and she also played softball, bowling and all sports with her children.

Lynde worked at Arctic Cat and Fleet Supply, and her last position, which she loved, was at UPS. Due to her medical problems, she had to terminate herself from the position at UPS. She has not worked for the last two years, adding to the financial difficulties. Her husband, Todd, works for the Postal Service and is on a temporary assignment in Warroad. His permanent position is located in Detroit Lakes, so he is on the road a lot. Todd and Lynde have two children. Brody is in fifth grade at Newfolden Elementary School and is very athletic. It bothers Lynde that she has limited ability to work-out with Brody. Brooke is in third grade at Viking Elementary School, and she also enjoys all sports. Lynde, Todd, Brady and Brooke live in Holt. Lynde and Todd have lived there since they were married 12 years ago.

Lynde and Todd are members of Nazareth Lutheran Church in Holt. Their children go to Sunday School there, and the entire family attends church there. Todd was on the church's board prior to obtaining his position at the Postal Service. At that time, he became unable to attend the regular meetings. Both Todd and Lynde assist with the elementary after-school activities when they can.

Lynde's mom, Arlette Abrahamson, said, "Both Todd and Lynde are very helpful, kind people. They help their neighbors and friends all the time. Todd is a member of the American Legion Post in Middle River, as well as Bryce and I are, too. They would rather give their last dollar to someone in need then take from anyone ... except their parents, LOL!" (For those of you who are not internet-savvy, LOL means Laugh Out Loud.)

Lynde has been very reserved about her medical problems, not wanting to accept charity from others. Friends from church have been insistent about having a benefit for quite some time, and Lynde has denied their request. However, their persuasion has finally won out.

A temporary savings account has been established at Border State Bank for the benefit. For those who cannot attend the benefit, but would still like to help the Brandons during this time, donations can be dropped off at any of the Border State Bank locations, earmarked for the Lynde Brandon Benefit.

New directors appointed to ODC Board

Two new members have been appointed to the Occupational Development Center's Board of directors. Mara Wittman (Northwest Regional Development Commission Arts Council, Warren) and Peggy Fultz (Bagley Hardwood Products Inc., Bagley) began serving on the ODC Board in January.

Wittman and Fultz join a group of talented board members who are very dedicated to fulfilling ODC's mission of providing job opportunities for individuals with disabilities and other employment barriers. Ronald Oleheiser (Herald-Review, Grand Rapids) serves as chairperson. June Schelde (Guardian Angel Health and Rehabilitation Center, Hibbing) serves as vice chairperson, and Rob Boyd (Bremer Bank, International Falls) serves as secretary/treasurer. John Ostrem (Bemidji), Mike Johnson (Grand Rapids), Wallace Sparby (Thief River Falls), Carson Stensland (Bemidji), Chuck Randle (Roseau), Ken Ness (Chisholm), Dale Jensen (Warroad), Shawn Newland (Thief River Falls) and Jeff Maag (Crookston) complete the roster.

For many years, ODC has provided nationally accredited programs across northern Minnesota for individuals with disabilities and other employment barriers. Through these programs, the ODC provides assistance in obtaining various jobs. This outcome is accomplished in two ways: ODC staff connect with community employers to match individuals with available job opportunities, and ODC provides jobs through manufacturing and subcontract work within ODC facilities.

While many may not know about ODC, this company has quietly and successfully worked with dozens of businesses, as a provider of both quality employees and quality products and services. ODC directors provide governance to harness the collective efforts to advance the company's mission and long-term welfare.

Vegetarian Supper Club to begin in Thief River Falls

The first Vegetarian Supper Club to be held in Thief River Falls is scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 28, 5:30 p.m. at Open Arms Christian Fellowship, 401 St. Paul Ave. S. Community attendance is welcome.

"Many individuals interested in preserving or improving their health are looking for ways to increase their daily intake of plant-based foods," observes community health educator Marilyne Sayler. "To address this need, the Thief River Falls CHIP Chapter (Coronary Health Improvement Project) is launching a monthly vegetarian supper club that will provide an opportunity for individuals and families to share delicious health-promoting cuisine, recipes, and ideas in an informal relaxed setting."

Reservations for the complimentary introductory meal are requested by 9 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 27. Those interested in attending or learning more about the supper club may call 681-1776 or 689-3276.

Charlene Abrahamson benefit on March 11

There will be a benefit for Charlene Abrahamson on Tuesday, March 11, from 5 to 8 p.m. in the Gunderson Commons at Northland Community and Technical College - Thief River Falls campus. Events will include a spaghetti feed, silent auction and bake sale.

Abrahamson suffered multiple brain aneurysms on Dec. 15, 2007. All proceeds will go to the Abrahamson family to off-set medical expenses.

The benefit is cosponsored by NCTC and Thief River Falls Wrestling. Supplemental funds will be provided through Thrivent Financial for Lutherans, Pennington/Red Lake Chapter.

Individuals who wish to donate items to the silent auction and bake sale can drop their items off at the NCTC receptionist desk located off the Gunderson Commons. For more information, contact Stacey Hron at 218-681-0877.

State moving to isolate TB core

The BAH and Department of Agriculture are looking at a number of options. Dr. Bill Hartman, state veterinarian and executive director of the BAH, said they will be looking at three things: a partnership with the University of Minnesota to investigate just how the disease spreads; zoning; and authorization of plans to eliminate the disease.

Zoning refers to the split state status the BAH board voted last week to pursue. Splitting the state would allow the rest of the state to proceed under a higher TB tier status, lessening the impact on the state's cattle industry.

Hartmann said in discussions, they have been using Michigan as an example. Michigan is split into three sections.

In northern Minnesota, Hartmann said the boundaries of the zone would be as close to the current target zone as possible. When pressed on the specific boundaries for the proposed zone in northwest Minnesota, Hartmann said there is some language in USDA regulations that state it should include 200 herds, but language elsewhere that says the zone should include 1,000 herds. That would affect a large portion of northern Minnesota - possibly as many as nine counties.

The specifics of the plan are still being discussed, but Hartmann explained that the plan will have to be implemented before they get approval from the USDA. He said they will make the case to the USDA that it's a small area and that they already have implemented many requirements to limit the spread of the disease.

Hartmann said he isn't sure how long it will take to implement the split zone - maybe a year or so, but he said he's hoping that the timeline will be shorter.

At one point during the conference, Martin was asked whether they had considered a buyout of all herds in the zone. Martin said that's an option that has been considered.

Hartmann said he's not sure when the downgrade in the state's status will be made official. At the very earliest, it will take four years for the state to regain its TB-free status, and that's if Minnesota reports no more than three herds with TB in each year.

Officials stressed the cooperation between agencies to address this problem, and that the focus of the entire country is on eliminating this disease.

In the next couple of weeks, producers will be receiving letters explaining what will be taking place. In addition, a series of public information meetings have been scheduled. A meeting has been scheduled in Grygla at 7 p.m. on Feb. 26 at Grygla School, and another at 9 a.m. on Feb. 27 at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls.

New rules and penalties

recommendations for reducing cattle/deer interaction on the producers' premises and those recommendations were to be implemented by the end of 2007.

Glaser's letter stipulates that Minnesota law provides for civil and criminal penalties for persons who violate BAH state laws, or a special order, standard, stipulation, agreement or schedule of compliance. Failure to comply within 30 days will result in civil penalties. The penalty for movement of animals without a permit is $250. The movement of animals without a permit and current TB test is $2,000. The penalty for herd violations include: $1,200 for not completing a herd test; $300 for not completing a herd inventory and submitting it by June 30; and $350 for feed management violations. (Producers have 30 days from the date of notice to rectify herd violations.)

Glaser states in her letter that, "The participation of cattle producers in the core area is integral to the success of Minnesota's bovine TB eradication plan. Your adherence to these management practices will help to protect your herd and the state's cattle industry."

Busy schedule for Agassiz announced

in the southwestern part of the refuge serves as a study site where staff evaluate wetland conditions, in addition to tallying waterfowl pairs, two times each May.

When staff determine that the spring waterfowl migration has concluded (typically in mid-May), the refuge's breeding duck pair survey is completed. This is an intensive survey of the entire refuge that involves both aerial and ground-based observers. This highly important annual survey provides reliable trend data as well as an indication of habitat management effectiveness. Data from this survey are also used to calculate annual duck production (number of ducklings) estimates. Eagle nest occupancy is also noted during the aerial portion of this survey. After a 30-year absence, Agassiz NWR recorded its first bald eagle nest in 1992. Nine eagle nests presently exist on the refuge.

June begins with the completion of surveys of the refuge's colonial nesting waterbirds, which include Franklin's gulls, eared grebes and black-crowned night-herons, among others. These surveys provide an index to the local and regional population status of these bird species. The typically large Franklin's gull colony (sometimes in excess of 40,000 pairs) is generally counted by analyzing photography taken from low-level flights over the colony.

Another important June survey effort includes the completion of breeding bird point counts. These surveys follow a national protocol, and their purpose is to inventory a wide variety of birds that use the various habitats on the refuge for breeding purposes. Amateur ornithologists, who are skilled in bird species identification (both sight and sound), are often contracted by the refuge to complete this project.

The breeding season tapers off in July. At that time, the number of bird-related surveys conducted by the refuge also tapers off. However, in July and August, refuge staff conduct two duck brood surveys in order to estimate annual duck production on the refuge. Ducklings are categorized by both species and age as part of this survey effort.

Refuge staff continue their focus on waterfowl as fall arrives. In early September, the refuge begins a month-long duck banding program, where ducks are baited into specific areas and captured under rocket-propelled nets. More than 1,200 mallards and an assortment of other species are banded annually. In 2008, the refuge will work with researchers from a disease lab at the University of Georgia to learn more about avian influenza (bird flu) as it exists in ducks (low pathogenic form) and the water. They take various samples from the birds that will be captured for banding. In 2008, they may fit a number of juvenile mallards with Global Positioning System harnesses. Later in the month, as the fall migration begins, staff monitor the progress of the migration by conducting weekly counts along designated routes throughout the entire refuge.

Many of the aforementioned projects are completed annually on the refuge, and in 2008, as in most years, this work is complemented by a variety of research efforts that not only seek data on birds but also on their habitats and the refuge's ability to successfully manipulate the habitats. In 2008, research includes (1) work on restoring sedge meadow habitats for species such as the yellow rail, sedge wren, Le Conte's sparrow and common yellowthroat, (2) work evaluating Agassiz NWR's ability to reduce cattail coverage throughout summer fires, and (3) work aimed at determining our ability to accurately quantify habitat change through the analysis of aerial infrared imagery.

price ranges between $25 and $40 (excluding the cost of registration). The procedure is offered by both veterinarians and animal shelters.

"It's a good thing for people to do, and if you factor in how sad you are when your pet goes missing, the cost is really nothing," Williamson said.

The procedure is relatively simple and is as painful to the pet as typical vaccinations. It begins with scanning the pet to see if there are any existing chips in place. If there are no microchips present, then the new chip is scanned, to ensure that it's numbers match those listed on its packaging. Finally, the microchip is injected into the pet's upper torso, between the shoulder blades.

There is almost no maintenance necessary on identification microchips. Once a chip is implanted, it shouldn't move for the life of the pet. The chips themselves do not contain any batteries, and they are read by a scanner that sends a harmless radio signal to the tiny microchip, which then sends its ID number back to the scanner.

Veterinarians are encouraged to scan chips during pet checkups to make sure they are operating properly. Families are encouraged to re-register their pets following a move. This does not require a new chip – just a scanning and recording of the family's new address.

Microchipping technology began in the 1990s, but it has been slow to catch on among pet owners. In Thief River Falls there are approximately 130 pets that have been microchipped and registered.

Microchipping is safe and dependable, but what happens when someone without a chip reader finds a stray pet? For this reason, law enforcement and humane society personnel recommend that pet owners utilize collar tags in addition to microchip identification.

Students go hungry for children worldwide

Wars and natural disasters all over the world dominate the daily headlines, but behind the scenes and far from the spotlight, hunger and preventable diseases claim the lives of 29,000 of the world's children a day.

Right now, more than 850 million people around the world don't have enough to eat. Annually, more than 10 million children under the age of 5 die from disease and malnutrition as a result of hunger. But world hunger is 100 percent preventable, and teens from the Evangelical Covenant Church in Thief River Falls are ready to be a part of the solution.

On Feb. 22 and 23 (today), they join the efforts of hundreds of thousands of young people all over the nation who will set aside the usual "stuff" that fills their daily lives. Instead, they will "BE HUNGRY" – the theme for World Vision's 30 Hour Famine this year – by going without food for 30 hours to get a taste of what the world's poorest children and families face every day. Prior to the event weekend, students raised funds with the knowledge that every $30 they raise can help feed and care for a child for a month. Groups were also encouraged to perform hands-on service projects during the weekend in order to make a difference in their own community as well.

As part of the Famine, local participants are involved in a number of learning activities for the purpose of understanding how and why hunger impacts our world. The students will participate in a game named Tribe, in which each student is given a new identity and tribe. These "tribes" work together through a series of games and learning labs, to insure their survival. This year, Tribe is experienced through identities from the people of Indonesia and the struggles that they have experienced since the tsunami that devastated their islands in 2006.

"The 30 Hour Famine has a lasting impact, not just on the children and families receiving life-changing food and care, but also on participants who view their own potential to affect change very differently afterward," said Debbie Diederich, national director of the World Vision 30 Hour Famine.

Funds raised by 30 Hour Famine participants help feed and care for children in poverty-afflicted countries around the globe. Funds from 30 Hour Famine contribute to World Vision's response in areas where famine, conflict and other crises make children vulnerable to hunger and preventable disease. Since 1992, 30 Hour Famine has raised more than $100 million, representing countless saved lives. World Vision works in 100 countries, helping approximately 100 million people every year.

School Board votes on superintendent candidates

Fosston - "The Fosston School Board voted unanimously last Thursday night to offer the district's helm to Mesabi East Superintendent Gene Paulson. The former teacher and principal has been with Mesabi East for 30 years. Eight of those years were as superintendent."

"Paulson and East Central School Superintendent Jeff Peura were the top two candidates after interviews were conducted Feb. 8-9. There were a total of six individuals that interviewed at that time. They included Fosston High School Principal John Strom, Frazee K-12 Principal Terry Karger, Tri-County (Karlstad) Principal Terry Sorgaard and Mary Klamm of the Northwest Service Cooperative in Thief River Falls." - The 13 Towns of Fosston, Feb. 26, 2008, by Dan Kindall

Pilots give tribute to WWII veteran Floyd Hesse

Red Lake Falls - "Floyd Hesse, a heavily decorated World War II veteran, was buried Feb. 23 in Oak Grove Cemetery near Red Lake Falls.

"The services included the customary salute to veterans, the flag-folding ceremony, the rifle squad and the somber playing of "Taps." However, Hesse's funeral contained one unique element, a fly-over salute by vintage warbirds.

"Two pilots, who met Hesse and had wanted to do a tribute to the local hero, flew over the cemetery, side-by-side in two North American Aviation P-51D fighters.

"Mustangs, to which they are most often referred, are perhaps the most well-known combat planes in actioa during WWII. The P-51, which harbors a Rolls Royce-Merlin V-12 engine, made most of its wartime missions as a bomber escort during raids over Germany. In wartime, the plane was armed with six aircraft versions of the .50-caliber Browning machine guns." - Red Lake Falls Gazette, Feb. 27, 2008, by Destiny Harmoning

He came back to the "deep freeze" to be in God's country

Strathcona - "A week ago last Sunday, Garrett Hedlund was with his dad, Robert; his stepmother, Yvonne; and his pal, Tony Jenson, at the kitchen table at the family farm in rural Strathcona.

"They were discussing an upcoming fishing trip, wrestling, the rental car getting stuck a couple of times already, and acting.

"He's been in at least half a dozen films and has a very exciting one in the negotiating stages."

"Playing on the TV screen in the living room was one of his latest movies, 'Death Sentence,' with Kevin Bacon and John Goodman

"In 'Georgia Rules,' another of his recent films, he starred with Jane Fonda and Lindsay Lohan.

"Forget typecasting him as an actor He's far too versatile.

"He played a skinhead in 'Death Sentence' and a Mormon in 'Georgia Rules.'" - Roseau Times-Region, Feb 23, 2008, by Jeff Olsen

Producers and area officials listen to information about bovine Tuberculosis presented by Dr. Sherry Shaw, United States Department of Agriculture. Experts from the Minnesota Board of Animal Health, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, various producer organizations, and the assistant commissionar of the Minnesota Department of Agriculture all presented information on their findings. Shaw and the other experts made their presentations during a meeting Wednesday, Feb. 27, at Northland Community and Technical College.

Producers seek answers to bovine TB threat

by David Hill
Editor

The discovery of bovine Tuberculosis in northwestern Minnesota does not qualify it as an outbreak. Outbreak tends to mean that it has been discovered outside specific boundaries. Minnesota has tested cattle statewide and all 11 beef cattle herds and all 17 deer found with the disease have been located roughly in a north-south area between Roseau and Grygla. That area is becoming increasingly isolated through government efforts to limit the spread of the disease. That's what officials will present to the USDA when it seeks to limit the still yet undefined and undeclared split state status which will put the northern zone in a lower and more restrictive status than southern Minnesota.

People were standing in the aisles because every seat in the auditorium at Northland Community and Technical- College in Thief River Falls was occupied Wednesday, Feb. 27, by individuals who wanted to learn more about the state's position regarding bovine TB. More than 450 people attended the same informational meeting in Grygla the night before. Producers are also frustrated by the fact that a decision to downgrade the state's status has been made official, and that the boundaries of the proposed split state that would put some producers on the wrong side of the line, haven't been defined. Under these conditions, it's impossible for them to make business decisions.

"You're to be applauded for your efforts and cooperation," said Dr. Bill Hartmann, state veterinarian and executive director of the Minnesota Board of Animal Health. "By participating in testing and working with officials, you're doing a lot now," said Hartmann. Hartmann encouraged them to continue to help the state with testing, to be careful if buying cattle (get tests), keep good records, and support this effort to eradicate bovine TB by supporting the state and the agencies and associations that support this effort.

The state Board of Animal Health recently announced that it would pursue a split state status because of the identification of bovine TB among cattle and deer in northwest Minnesota. The announcement came shortly before the state received word that a fourth herd within a 12-month period had tested positive for bovine TB. Because a fourth herd was detected, it is no longer a matter of if the state's TB status will slip from modified accredited advanced to modified accredited, but when.

Hartmann said the state has already conducted a statewide test that showed no TB infection beyond a small area in northwest Minnesota. Hartmann said it wouldn't make sense to downgrade the entire state to a modified accredited status, because there aren't enough veterinarians in the state to get the job done, and physical boundaries, such as state lines, mean nothing to deer or cattle. He also admitted that it would take some pressure off the rest of the state. He said it just does not make sense to focus limited resources on areas where there is no infection.

In the United States, there is a five-tier rating system - accredited free, modified accredited advanced, modified accredited, accredited preparatory and non accredited. Minnesota did have the highest rating - accredited free, but the status slipped to modified accredited advanced, and is expected to drop to modified accredited. There are different requirements at each level for the control and eradication of bovine TB. In addition to federal regulations, some states have their own regulations for importing cattle.

The move from modified accredited advanced to modified accredited will have a significant impact on producers. Under MA status, feeder cattle or bison must have a negative TB test within 60 days of shipment. In addition, sexually intact animals can only move to an approved feedlot. Breeding cattle or bison must have a negative whole herd TB test

Stimulating the economy

File your tax return to get your rebate

The IRS will send out tax rebates starting in early May, but residents have to file their 2007 tax returns in order to get their payments

"Some people receiving Social Security and veterans' benefits may not realize they will need to file a tax return to get the stimulus payment," said Linda Stiff, acting IRS commissioner. "To reach these people, the IRS and Treasury will work closely with the Department of Veterans Affairs, the Social Security Administration and key beneficiary groups on outreach efforts."

Most taxpayers just need to file 2007 tax returns as usual. No other action, extra form or call is necessary.

The tax rebates are part of the Economic Stimulus Act of 2008, which President George W. Bush signed Feb. 13. The act includes a maximum of $600 for individuals and $1,200 for married couples. An additional $300 per child will be given as well. The rebates will be provided to those taxpayers with at least $3,000 of earned income. Payments to higher income taxpayers will be reduced by 5 percent of the amount of adjusted gross income above $75,000 for individuals and $150,000 for those filing jointly.

Taxpayers who file their tax returns using an Individual Taxpayer Identification Number issued by the IRS or any number issued by the IRS are ineligible. Also ineligible are individuals who can be claimed as dependents on someone else's return, or taxpayers who file Form 1040-NR, 1040-PR or 1040-SS

The act also provides payments to some taxpayers who have no tax liability, such as low-income workers or those who receive Social Security benefits or veterans' disability compensation, pension or survivors' benefits received from the Department of Veterans Affairs in 2007. Those taxpayers will be eligible for a payment of $300 ($600 on a joint return) if they had at least $3,000 of qualifying income.

Qualifying income includes Social Security benefits, certain railroad retirement benefits, certain veterans' benefits and earned income, such as income from wages, salaries, tips and self-employment. While these people may not normally be required to file tax returns because they don't meet the filing requirements, the IRS emphasizes they must file 2007 tax returns in order to receive tax rebates.

The act, which also includes tax incentives to encourage businesses to spend money, is estimated to provide more than $152 billion to the economy this year. More than 130 million taxpayers are expected to receive rebates The IRS will start sending the rebates in early May – either through direct deposit (if a taxpayer has chosen that method on his or her tax return) or through the mail. Payments will continue over several weeks during the spring and summer. A payment schedule for taxpayers will be announced in the near future

Guetter named '08 Administrator of the Year

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

Jim Guetter, superintendent of the Plummer and Oklee school districts, has been named the 2008 Administrator of the Year for District 31 of the Minnesota Association of School Administrators. The Argyle resident received the award for his work with the Plummer School District. He will be presented with the award on March 19.

"Well, it's humbling, and obviously, I'm grateful to the other superintendents that were involved in the selection process, but I think it says more about what's going on at our schools in Oklee and Plummer," said Guetter.

Last year, Guetter received the Administrator of the Year award for District 30 of the M.A.S.A. That award was for his work with the Oklee School District. (Students from both districts attend Red Lake County Central Elementary School in Plummer. Then they move on to RLCC High School.)

Guetter attributed his most recent award to the overall educational experience at the schools. He cited some "good things" in the districts. Those things include the Stimulating Maturity through Accelerated Readiness Training/Boost-Up program at RLCC Elementary School, the "positive improvements" in the music and arts programs at RLCC High School, and the boys basketball cooperative with Red Lake Falls.

RLCC Principal Randy Pederson believes that Guetter is worthy of the honor. "He's a student-first superintendent that can still dot all his i's and cross all his t's in terms of school finance," Pederson said.

Jim Guetter

RLCC High School Principal Mike Bergevin agreed, noting that a school district can have a superintendent who is good with money and is a bad educator, a superintendent who is bad with money and is a good educator, or a superintendent who is good with money and is a good educator. Bergevin said Guetter fits the latter description. "We're very fortunate to have him," Bergevin said.

Guetter is the kind of superintendent who arrives early and leaves late, noted Pederson, who indicated he often chides Guetter for that tendency.

Bergevin said the three of them work well together "It's the way Jim leads, and that's why I've been very happy here," said Bergevin, who noted staff members enjoy working with Guetter as well. He added that Guetter was the reason that he decided to move from a large school to smaller RLCC High School.

Guetter is a 1982 graduate of Nevis Public School. He graduated from Mayville State University in

Goodridge plans gym remodel

The Goodridge School District is seeking bids to remodel Goodridge School's small gym. The winning bidder will replace the gym's roof, place a new finish on its interior walls and ceiling, and replace the gym's siding Bids will be opened March 6 at 5 p.m. at the school.

The small gym is used for gym classes, after-school athletic practices and some middle school athletic games.

"Hopefully, we can get started right about the time school's out," said Goodridge Superintendent Galen Clow, who expected that the project would take 90 days this summer. The school hopes to have the project completed in time for middle school volleyball this fall. Project funds are coming from the district's capital outlay fund.

Have a family-friendly meal this week. Everybody loves pizza, and this is one everybody will request time and time again.

Make your own stuffed crust pizza at home. Homemade is always better anyway, and they'll think you bought it. The recipe looks formidable, but it is really very easy - get the kids to help too. You can use cooked hurger or Canadian bacon in place of the pepperoni if you like:

STUFFED CRUST PIZZA

2 teaspoons cornmeal
2 (10 ounces each) tubes refrigerated pizza crust
8 ounces string cheese (or cut mozzarella into 4x1/2 inch sticks)
1 tablespoon butter, melted
1 1/2 teaspoons fresh basil or 1/2 teaspoon dried
1 (8 ounce) can of your favorite pizza sauce
1 (3 1/2 ounce) package sliced pepperoni
1 (4 ounce) can mushroom slices or pieces, drained
1 (2 1/4 ounce) can sliced ripe olives, drained
2 cups shredded mozzarella cheese

Sprinkle cornmeal evenly on a greased 10x15x1 inch baking pan. Unroll dough and place in pan, letting it drape 1 inch over edges. Pinch center seam to seal.

Place pieces of string cheese around edges of pan. Fold dough over cheese and pinch to seal. Brush crust with butter and sprinkle with basil.

Bake at 425 degrees for 5 minutes. Spread with sauce. Place 2/3 of the pepperoni in a single layer over sauce. Sprinkle with mushrooms, olives and cheese. Top with remaining pepperoni.

Bake 10-12 minutes or until crust and cheese are lightly browned.

Recipe makes 8-10 big slices.

A little taste of icy cold fresh crunch goes just great with that pizza:

SOUR CREAM AND CUKES

1/2 cup sour cream (see below)
3 tablespoons white vinegar
1 tablespoon sugar
Pepper
4 medium cucumbers, sliced thinly
1 small sweet onion, sliced thinly and separated

Combine sour cream, vinegar, sugar and pepper. Stir in cucumbers and onions. Cover and refrigerate at least 4 hours. Serve with a slotted spoon. Recipe serves 8.

Nutritional Info: For reduced fat version, prepare with reduced fat sour cream. 3/4 cup of salad equals 52 calories, 1 g fat, 5 mg chol, 10 mg sodium, 8 g carb, 2 g fiber, 3 g protein. Diabetic Exchange is 1 1/2 vegetable.

A pizza feast needs an easy dessert and you'll love this one. Set out a bunch of "extras," like nuts, cherries, whipped cream, chocolate sprinkles, and you've got a dessert that is just right and everybody will love. Mix the "pudding" ingredients for the sundaes ahead of time and microwave when ready for dessert:

CHOCOLATE SUNDAES

2/3 cup sugar
1/4 cup cocoa
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 1/4 cups milk
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 cups vanilla ice cream

Scoop ice cream into 6 cups and place in freezer.

Combine sugar, cocoa, cornstarch and salt. Gradually stir in milk until smooth. Microwave, uncovered, on high for 6 minutes or so, stirring every 2 minutes, until sauce comes to a boil and thickens. Stir in butter and vanilla. Serve warm over ice cream.

If you're a chocolate lover and trying to eat light, here's the recipe for you, but you don't have to be dieting to enjoy it:

MOCHA PIE

4 ounces reduced fat cream cheese, room temperature
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup cocoa
1 tablespoon instant coffee granules
1/3 cup fat free milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 (12 ounce) carton reduced fat whipped topping, thawed
1 extra serving size graham cracker crust (9 inches)
Reduced calorie chocolate syrup

In large bowl, beat cream cheese, sugar and cocoa until smooth. Dissolve coffee granules in milk. Stir coffee mixture and vanilla into cream cheese mixture. Fold in whipped topping.

Pour into crust, cover and freeze for at least 4 hours. Remove from freezer 10 minutes before serving and drizzle with chocolate syrup. Recipe serves 10.

Nutritional Info: Each piece (not counting the chocolate syrup) equals 259 calories, 13 g fat, 8 mg chol, 198 mg sodium, 31 g carb, 1 g fiber, 3 g protein. Diabetic Exchange is 2 starch and 2 fat.

Thank You

To our children, Terry, Kathi, Brian and Brent and families for hosting a special day with our family and friends celebrating 80 years of life and memories.

Family Caregivers Concerns Group to meet Monday

The Family Caregivers Concerns Group will meet Monday, March 3 from 10 to 11 a.m. at the Good Samaritan Apartments community room, 434 S. McKinley, Warren.

This meeting is for family members or friends who provide care and/or support to elderly people. Many of the group members have a loved one who has been diagnosed with Alzheimer's disease or other related disorders. Individuals with a loved one in the nursing home or at home are encouraged to attend.

Marshall Manor has a unit specializing in care and services for people with Alzheimer's disease or related disorders. It is its desire to provide a supportive environment for families of people with these disorders. It recognizes that this disease has a major impact on the family unit. The family will experience "loss" of the individual long before the individual physically dies. It wants to provide education and support for families facing Alzheimer's disease and aging issues.

Meeting Minnesota's Challenges Head-On

by Rep. Dave Olin

The 86th Legislative Session convened on Feb. 12, 2008, and the next day the governor delivered his State of the State speech in St. Cloud. I was pleased to hear the Governor recommit to education, renewable energy, and health care reform, but it was disappointing not to hear any specifics when it came to economic stimulus and job growth, transportation funding, nursing homes or addressing rising property taxes.

These days, the minds of most Minnesotans are on the state of our economy, keeping their jobs, and making mortgage payments. Unemployment lines continue to increase, and too many folks are struggling to keep a roof over their heads. Jobs are needed, and this session we're ready to pass a Capital Investment Bill that will put more Minnesotans back to work on important public projects statewide. Jobs are solutions that deliver what Minnesotans need most – work to sustain themselves and their families.

Recently, our state economist, Tom Stinson, declared the state economy is less healthy than the national economy. Minnesota is dealing with a slowing economy and a budget shortfall that is expected to increase by the end of the month. Some say we are in or soon will find ourselves to be in a recession. These are tough times, and we will be faced with making some difficult choices as we work to pass legislation on behalf of hard-working Minnesotans.

This is a bonding year, a short session during which the Legislature will primarily focus on state bonding requests and policy issues. We intend to meet Minnesota's challenges head-on this session, making progress while remaining mindful of the price tag, given the economy has taken a downturn. This session is all about giving our state's struggling economy a boost and providing economic stability for Minnesota's working families by growing and keeping jobs.

We have great challenges before us that can be met if we continue to focus on job creation, invest in education at all levels, a safe and reliable transportation infrastructure, sustainable energy policies, and viable health care reforms. As a Minnesotan and a state representative, I am confident that together we can accomplish a great deal to move Minnesota forward.

As always, please feel free to call or write me on this issue or any other state or local issue by phone (651) 296-9635 or (218) 681-7216, by mail at 593 State Office Building, 100 Martin Luther King Blvd., St. Paul, MN 55155 or via e-mail at rep.dave.olin@house.mn.

Students named to SCSU dean's list

St. Cloud State University has announced the names of 1,488 students whose academic achievement placed them on the fall semester dean's list. To be eligible for the honor, students must have a grade point average of 3.75 or higher on a 4.0 scale.

Among the 1,488 students named to the dean's list are: Tiffinee Nicole Nelson, Badger; Willie Mahoney Swanson, Roseau; Allyson Renee Helling, Thief River Falls; Rachel Ann Solberg, Thief River Falls; Danielle Jo Sorvig, Thief River Falls; and Julie Manivong, Warroad.

Four people injured in accidents Thursday

Four people were injured in two separate rollovers on Highway 11 Thursday evening.

Crystal R. Anderson, 25, Drayton, N.D., and Kailee Graham, 4, unknown city, suffered minor injuries after the first accident, which happened two miles west of Donaldson. The accident was reported at 5:50 p.m. Thursday. They were taken to Kittson Memorial Healthcare Center in Hallock. As of presstime Friday, status reports weren't available.

Courtney G. Carlson, 43, Warroad, and Richard M. Kelly, 16, Salol, suffered non-life-threatening injuries after an accident two miles east of Roseau at about 6:20 p.m. Thursday. They were taken to LifeCare Medical Center in Roseau. They weren't admitted to that hospital, according to the nursing director Friday morning.

At the time of her accident, Anderson was driving a 1999 Pontiac Grand Prix eastbound on Highway 11. According to the Minnesota State Patrol report, she lost control of the car on the ice. The car then entered the north ditch and overturned. Both Anderson and Graham were properly restrained. The car sustained severe damage. The State Patrol and the Kittson County Sheriff's Office responded to the scene.

At the time of his accident, Carlson was driving a 1995 Chevy pickup truck westbound on Highway 11. According to the State Patrol report, he lost control of the pickup truck on the ice. The truck then went into a ditch and rolled. It was unknown if Carlson or Kelly were wearing seat belts. The truck sustained severe damage. The State Patrol, Roseau County Sheriff's Office and Roseau Police Department responded to the scene.

Cost-share dollars available for erosion control

The Marshall County Water Resources Advisory Committee has set aside extra dollars this year to be used for one or two projects that will help reduce sediment loads into the ditches and rivers in Marshall County. These projects will help control soil loss and/or improve water quality of surface waters. Examples of projects that will be considered are: "wind break plantings," "grass waterways and filter strips," "buffer plantings," "erosion control structures," "stream bank stabilization" and others.

About 50 percent of cost-share funding will be awarded to one or two projects in priority areas. The committee will make its selection in April. Landowners shall complete an application, and a project plan with a budget and a contractor's estimate. Applications shall be submitted to Marshall County Water and Land Office by April 1. For more information, call Jan at (218) 745-4217 or e-mail her at jan.kaspari@co.marshall.mn.us.

Local students named to NDSU dean's list

Local students were among the 2,707 North Dakota State University students to be placed on the fall 2007 dean's list. A student must earn a 3.5 grade point average or higher, and be enrolled in at least 12 class credits to qualify.

The students include: from Angus – Brittany G. Johnston; from Argyle – Alison M. Borowicz, Brent A. Gostomzik and Nevin L. Lubarski; from Badger – Alicia J. Wicklund; from Fosston – Nicole M. Dyrdahl and Amanda J. Nord; from Greenbush – Dayne B. Efta and Regina A. Wollin; from Hallock – Desirae C. Kraska; from Halma – Kayla J. Godparents

I've written about my nephew, Jamie Nelson, in prior columns. He and his wife, Kristy, are an outstanding young couple; hardworking, intelligent and blessed at making excellent decisions. The latest example of outstanding judgment was in their choice of godparents for their child, Casey. This week, I want to talk about Lisa and I becoming godparents.

Casey was baptized early in January, after which we headed to his place for family, friends and a deep-fried turkey. The gifts he received left little to question but that this little boy will be a farm kid; Casey comes from a farm heritage. His great-grandfather (my dad) bought him a Farmall model "M" just like he always used on the farm. After that gift, Casey was deluged with lots of John Deere items, as that is what his father likes to drive. We even got into it earlier, during Christmas, when I found a 1/16 scale 8630 John Deere tractor on the Internet that Casey could use to emulate his dad cutting CRP. Truth is, it was actually an 8640, but the tractor Jamie owns has a 40 series clutch, so they're pretty close; I guess that's one of the hard and brutal facts of life that I may have to explain to Casey when he's old enough to understand. I was amazed at the implements available in 1/16 scale, although someone else will have to somehow explain to Casey how his 1970s era 8630 can possibly pull a current-model, 1/16th scale, 60-foot air seeder. This conversation will be uncomfortable and, I'm afraid, may have to be handled by his parents with some intergenerational help from my brother David, who used to work for John Deere.

Jamie is my nephew, but we're more like brothers; I've enjoyed watching his progress through life, which has led him to being a parent. His family visited us last weekend, and Jamie had to change Casey, an act that usually takes people way too long to perform. We're a no-baloney family, and Jamie is no different. Each move was made in an effort to efficiently complete the change, then move on. It should also be noted that Jamie threw his hands in the air in the same fashion as is performed at a rodeo when a cowboy brings the steer to the ground and ties the animal's legs together; apparently Casey will not only inherit our love of tractors, he will also inherit the bizarre Nelson sense of humor. Casey also has our appetite, which was apparent after he chugged eight ounces last weekend, then slammed the bottle to the table. I think Jamie and Kristy may need a small herd of top-producing Holsteins very soon.

I understand the duties of a godparent, and this is not to make light of those tasks. It's just that among the responsibilities, I've also found a lot of fun. Lisa and I never even questioned what our responsibilities would be when Jamie and Kristy asked us to be godparents; when it comes to Casey, it was an offer we couldn't refuse.

TRF man charged after pulling gun on another man

A Thief River Falls man was charged this week after he allegedly pulled a gun on another man.

Bernard William Cloud Jr., 45, has been charged in Pennington County District Court with a felony offense of second degree assault. In Wednesday's edition of The Times, it was noted that Cloud had charges pending for assault and that the matter remained under investigation. More information was released later in the week regarding the alleged offense.

The charge stems from a 911 call made Feb. 22 at 12:19 p.m. At that time, a man reported that Cloud had fired a gun at him at Cloud's house, 620 Horace Ave. S., according to the criminal complaint. (Given the situation, the Northern Watch isn't identifying the man.) Cloud has denied shooting the rifle at anytime. The man told police that someone had called him earlier that day, accusing the man of being "a narc" since law enforcement had searched Cloud's house a day earlier.

After that phone call, the man went to Cloud's house. His girlfriend and her two children waited in a vehicle in front of the house. When he arrived, he saw Cloud's brother Jim; another man he didn't know; and a female believed to be Cloud's sister with a young child outside of the house, according to the complaint. The man went inside the house and talked to Cloud. The man said that he told Cloud he wasn't responsible for the raid. He then told police that Cloud became angry and kept telling him to get out of the house. The man went outside and was standing outside, when Cloud allegedly walked out of the home with what the man thought was an AK-47 or an SKS rifle. The man told police that Cloud pointed it at him while the man was standing on the street. He said he heard what he thought was a gun going off and thought he was going to be shot. The man ran back to the vehicle, and, along with his girlfriend and her kids, he left.

According to the complaint, Cloud told police that he became angry with the man because the man smirked when he told Cloud, "I understand the cops were here last night." Cloud said the man kept telling him that he didn't have anything to do with the search of Cloud's home the day before the latest incident. At one point, Cloud said, he grabbed a CO_2 pistol and was going to hit the man with it. Yet, Cloud decided not to do so. Cloud then pushed the man out of his residence and thought that the man had left. However, Cloud told police, the next thing he knew, the man wanted to come back inside. Cloud said he went inside his home, grabbed an SKS rifle and started walking toward the man. Cloud told police he didn't point it at the man but had it at his side. He said he had it pointed straight up along his right shoulder at one point in time. Cloud said he just wanted the man to get the message to leave. He said the man then ran to the vehicle and left. Cloud denied shooting the rifle.

WIC Clinics to be held this month in local cities

The Women, Infants and Children's Supplemental Nutrition Education Program is being held during the month of March.

Infants, children up to age 5, and women who are pregnant or breastfeeding may be eligible for the program. WIC is interested in enrolling pregnant women in the program. It feels that prenatal nutrition is a vital part of producing a healthy baby; therefore, it is important to apply for WIC early in pregnancy. Proof of pregnancy isn't required.

All potential clients must contact the WIC Program to schedule an appointment.

The following is the schedule of WIC Clinics for the month of March:

- Tuesday, March 4 – Newfolden Community Center
- Wednesday, March 5 – Warroad Community Center and Kittson County Courthouse in Hallock
- Thursday, March 6 – Warroad Community Center and Red Lake Falls Community Center
- Monday, March 10 - Thursday, March 13 – Redeemer Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls
- Monday, March 17 – Evangelical Covenant Church in Warren
- Tuesday, March 18 – Karlstad Community Center
- Wednesday, March 19 - Thursday, March 20 – LifeCare Medical Center basement auxiliary room in Roseau

For further information about the WIC Program, call or write WIC Quin, P.O. Box 248, Newfolden, MN 56738; phone 874-7845 (Newfolden, Viking, Middle River, Holt or Thief River Falls residents) or 1-800-223-1591, or e-mail quinchs@wiktel.com.

North Valley Home Health will offer immunizations, dental varnishing and blood lead testing at the Newfolden and Warren clinics from 9 to 11 a.m. Arrangements should be made prior to the clinics by contacting North Valley Public Health. For more information, contact Pam Hockstedler, RN at North Valley Public Health at (218) 745-5154 or 1-800-950-6986.

Dead animal collection cancelled

The 15th annual dead animal collection service for 2008 in northwest Minnesota is officially cancelled due to the bovine tuberculosis outbreak. The tracking company that picks up the animals and hauls them to the rendering facility in Blue Earth has received word from the rendering facility that it will not accept any animals from northwest Minnesota due to the outbreak. The Pembina Trail Resource, Conservation and Development Association is sorry for any inconvenience this may cause.

For more information on bovine TB, visit the Minnesota Board of Animal Health Web site (www.bah.state.mn.us) or contact your local large animal veterinarian.

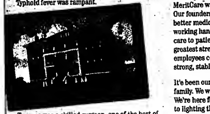
Lighting the Way

The Beginning
The year was 1905, Dr. Olaf Sand and Dr. Nils Tronnes were two Norwegian immigrants trying to establish their medical practices in the pioneer town of Fargo. The young doctors had dreams of improving the quality of life for the people in the area. Hygienic conditions were bad. Typhoid fever was rampant.



Tronnes was a skilled surgeon, one of the best of his time, and Sand's creativity and innovation in diagnosing and healing complemented Tronnes' skills perfectly. They set up a medical practice above Christianson Drug Store at 10 Broadway in Fargo, where some of the most important plans for the city's and region's history were unfolding.

St. Luke's Hospital
Community leaders including Lars Christianson, a druggist and entrepreneur, joined the doctors to discuss the possibility of building a Lutheran hospital in Fargo. The visionary group dreamed of a hospital that would attract the finest doctors and nurses to this bustling community. A place that would set new standards with a commitment to high quality care. A place that would be open to everyone regardless of their ability to pay. On Feb. 25, 1908, the 35-bed St. Luke's Hospital opened on the 700 block of north Broadway. Within three days, all beds were full.

Fargo Clinic
The concept of what would become Fargo Clinic had been a vision of Sand and Tronnes since 1908. Sand personally visited with every doctor in the region to sell the idea of group practice, which was revolutionary at the time. In 1919, Sand, Tronnes, three other doctors and a few businessmen formed the Fargo Clinic. In 1921, the Fargo Clinic building opened next to St. Luke's Hospital. By 1923 they had forged new ground, bringing many new medical specialties to the region: 28 doctors had joined the staff, beginning what would one day become the largest group practice between Minneapolis and the west coast.

While medicine — and the world — has changed drastically since 1908, the pillars upon which MeritCare was founded have remained constant. Our founders' vision helped light the way to better medical care — with hospital and clinic working hand-in-hand to provide multi-specialty care to patients. Today, that vision remains our greatest strength, as over 7,000 doctors and employees continue MeritCare's tradition as a strong, stable force in the community and region.

It's been our privilege to serve you and your family. We were there for you 100 years ago. We're here for you today. And we look forward to lighting the way to better health for generations to come.

Lighting the Way
To help us honor our past and anticipate our future our centennial theme is "Lighting the Way." Light is inspiration. Knowledge. Growth. Hope. Life. From the flame of a nurse's lamp flickering at a patient's bedside to the spark of innovation and technology to hearts set afire today, light is an important symbol for MeritCare. This year, we will reflect on the past and look forward to an even brighter future for our patients and the communities we serve.

Living the Legacy
Throughout the coming year MeritCare will use monthly themes to celebrate our centennial. Each month we'll have events in communities large and small across the region as we join in celebrating a century of caring. Watch for monthly newspaper ads highlighting the themes as we celebrate those who came before us, and anticipate the brightest of futures.

Prowler girls advance to Section 8AAA semifinals...

TRF comeback beats Rocori

Thief River Falls has uncovered the formula for post-season success: play at home. The Prowlers are unbeaten in Section 8AAA girls basketball tournament games at the Lincoln High School gym. The problem has been securing a home court contest.

Tuesday, fourth-seeded Thief River Falls hosted fifth-seeded Rocori and won the quarterfinal match-up in come-from-behind fashion, 73-68.

That ended a string of four straight Thief River Falls opening round tournament losses – all on the road. The last time the Prowlers advanced to Round 2 was in 2002 when they beat Sartell-St. Stephen 48-41 at home.

It appeared Thief River Falls' Class AAA post-season record would fall to 1-6 when Rocori went on a 10-0 run late in the first half for a 35-23 advantage that would be 35-25 at intermission.

"We gave up some easy shots, and we weren't hitting our shots," said Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe.

But that changed in a hurry when the teams returned to the floor as Toni Sorteberg opened the second half with a basket from the side, then Chelsea Sorteberg knocked down back-to-back 3-pointers.

"We came out in the second half and played better defense and we were more patient on offense," offered Loe.

A 3-ball by Toni Sorteberg gave the Prowlers their first lead of the second half at 46-45 with 11:34 remaining.

However, three consecutive turnovers on in-bounds plays led to a pair of baskets, three free throws and a 52-46 Rocori lead in a span of just 23 seconds.

Section 8AAA Girls Basketball

■ Quarterfinals - Fergus Falls 75, Sauk Rapids-Rice 37; Thief River Falls 73, Rocori 68; Sartell-St. Stephen 58, Little Falls 49; Detroit Lakes 76, St. Cloud Cathedral 35

■ Semifinals Saturday, March 1 - (at Minnesota State University Moorhead) Fergus Falls vs Thief River Falls, 6 p.m.; Sartell-St. Stephen vs Detroit Lakes 7:30 p.m.

■ Championship Thursday, March 6 - (at MSUM) semifinal winners, 7 p.m.

"We expected different pressure defenses from Rocori," explained Loe. "We just didn't handle it very well. We didn't have the right people on the floor at the time. Those turnovers were huge; that was almost the game right there."

But it wasn't a knock-out punch. The Prowlers picked themselves off the floor and resumed the fight.

Rocori had a 59-51 lead after a Melanie Hilsgen free throw with 6:49 on the clock, only to have the Prowlers tie it 63-63 when Chelsea Sorteberg hit an open 3-pointer with 2:58 left.

"Our scouting reports said Rocori was a team that never quit," said Loe, "but our kids battled back, too. They played hard to get back in the game."

The Prowlers capped off their rally with some clutch free throw shooting down the stretch. They scored their final ten points at the line, with Cassie Gunderson, Toni Sorteberg (twice) and Kathryn Walrath all dropping in a pair of foul shots to make it 71-66 with just 38.7 seconds showing.

"We missed some free throws early, but we made the ones at the end – something you've got to do in close games," said Loe.

Stacy Svihel drove the middle of the lane for a basket to keep the Spartans in it at 71-68 with 31.5 seconds to play.

A single Gunderson free throw was followed by two hurried off-the-mark Rocori 3-point shots.

Walrath completed the scoring and made it a two-possession game by making a free throw with 11.9 seconds remaining.

Four Thief River Falls scorers hit double figures, with Chelsea Sorteberg netting 19 points, Toni Sorteberg 18, Gunderson 11 and Brittany Wiseth 10. Key points also came from Walrath, Hannah Kainz, Beth Tvedt and Kristine Sletten.

Hilsgen scored 18 points to lead the Spartans, with Stacy Svihel picking up 15 and Sarah Aaseth 11.

Thief River Falls shot 40 percent from the field (21/53) with eight 3-pointers. Rocori shot 36 percent (24/66) with three treys.

After shooting just 10 first half free throws, the two teams combined to put up 47 second half foul shots. The Prowlers, 0-for-3 in the first half, finished 23-for-33 at the line. The Spartans were 17-for-24.

Thief River Falls, beaten on the boards early, came back to win the rebound battle 39-38. Rocori had the edge on the offensive end, 16-13.

The Prowlers had 13 turnovers; the Spartans, who finished the year 7-20, turned it over 10 times.

"That was a dandy," said Loe afterwards. "The kids are excited. It's a great group of kids. They deserve to go on."

The Prowlers take a 10-14 record into a 6 p.m. semifinal encounter against top-seeded 22-4 Fergus Falls today (Saturday) at Moorhead State University Moorhead. The Otters, a one-sided 75-37 Tuesday quarterfinal winner over Sauk Rapids-Rice, beat Thief River Falls 66-54 in a

Rocori forward Melanie Hilsgen (11) blocked this shot from under the basket by Thief River Falls' Hannah Kainz during Tuesday's Section 8AAA girls high school basketball tournament game hosted by the Prowlers. Thief River Falls came back from a 35-23 first half deficit to beat the Spartans 73-68.

Spuds' second half start tops Prowlers

Moorhead turned a 47-41 intermission edge into a 55-41 difference in the opening moments of the second half Tuesday and went on to beat visiting Thief River Falls 85-65 in boys high school basketball.

"We were really good offensively in the first half," reported Thief River Falls coach Chris McLean. "We felt good about being within six points. But at the same time, we were concerned with the fact that we gave up 47 points in the first half."

Those concerns were justified as the Spuds knocked down a pair of 3-point shots and a regulation 2-pointer to open the second half with a bang.

"We had a hard time stopping them," acknowledged McLean. "They have so many weapons."

Guard Jordan Driscoll led the Spuds' offense with 23 points. Center Paul Roers netted 12 points, while guard Zach Johnson and forward Jordan Klovstad both had 10.

A 23-point game allowed Thief River Falls forward Dylan Johnson to share game-high scoring honors with Driscoll. Guard Chase Haviland and forward Jacob Langevin had 10-point games for the Prowlers.

Moorhead enjoyed a 56 percent 35-for-63 shooting night from the field, which included a 4-for-9 showing from 3-point range. The Spuds were a perfect 11-for-11 at the free throw line.

Thief River Falls had a 46 percent 22-for-48 shooting night, including a 3-for-8 figure on 3-pointers. The Prowlers made 18 of 22 free throw attempts.

The Spuds controlled the rebounds, 35-17. They beat the Prowlers on the offensive end, 16-6.

"The kids tried hard," offered McLean. "But they (Spuds) cranked it up a notch in the second half. We had trouble defending their high-low posts and they did a number on us on the boards."

Thief River Falls took a 16-6 record into a Friday regular season home finale vs. Roseau. The Prowlers close the schedule March 7 at Detroit Lakes.

The Prowlers will host a Section 8AAA tournament quarterfinal game Tuesday, March 11, against an as-of-yet unnamed opponent.

Moorhead wins JV game against Thief River Falls

Moorhead was a 66-46 boys junior varsity high school basketball winner over Thief River Falls Tuesday.

Aaron Yaggie had a 24-point game to lead the Prowlers, who were behind 27-21 at halftime.

Wolverines win first 8A contest against EGFSH

Brittney Forsberg scored 25 points, Alisha Verbout 19 and Rebecca Polansky 16 to lead Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke past East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 72-50 in the second half of a Tuesday opening round Section 8A West girls high school basketball tournament doubleheader at Northland Community and Technical College.

Warren-Alvarado-Oslo handled Stephen-Argyle 70-32 in the first half of the twinbill.

The Wolverines shattered a game-opening 10-10 tie with a 12-0 run and never looked back against the Eagles.

"Forsberg and Verbout hit a couple of 3-point baskets early to get us going," said Wolverines coach Brent Philipp.

The winners had a 43-24 halftime cushion.

Jessica Fontes and Samantha McDonald provided most of the Eagles' offense with 18 and 16 points, respectively.

Sacred Heart turned the ball over 30 times.

"Our press started to get to them," said Philipp, whose team took a 12-13 record into the Thursday quarterfinals against Red Lake Falls.

Owens, Nordics power way past RLC team 76-55

Marshall County Central coach Jake Rantanen called it a "monster" game Tuesday after watching the Nordics' Colby Owens score 29 points and pull down 20 rebounds in a 76-55 boys high school basketball win over Red Lake County.

The win snapped a four-game losing streak for the Nordics - a two-week winless skid that began with an 86-80 defeat at the hands of the Rebels.

"We needed a win - bad," said Rantanen, "and the kids came through."

It was a 39-20 Marshall County Central lead at the half.

Joining Owens in double figures for the Nordics were Evan Maki with 19 points, Jesse Nelson 12 and Sean Pyle 10. Red Lake County was led by Ian Mercil with 16 points and Neil Klein with 14.

Rantanen cited Maki and Joey Peterson for their defensive efforts in holding the Rebels' high-scoring Steven Morinville and Jeff Weiss to just six points each. Morinville torched the Nordics for 37 points in that first meeting.

With Owens hitting 12 of 16 shots, Marshall County Central was 31-for-57 from the field (54 percent). Red Lake County went 22-for-72 from the floor (31 percent).

Neither side shot well from the free throw line, where the Nordics went 12-for-23 and the Rebles were 5-for-14.

Behind Owens, Marshall County Central dominated the boards, 51-18.

The 12-11 Nordics topped the turnover charts 16-12.

Mario Johnson honored

Northland guard Mario Johnson was named to the 2008 Minnesota Community College Conference men's basketball all-tournament team following the Feb. 22-24 post-season playoffs in Minneapolis.

Johnson, a 5-10 sophomore from Milwaukee, was earlier named to the MCCC All-Northern Division team.

The Pioneers' Reo Thomas was announced earlier as an All-Northern Division and MCCC all-state pick.

Large REA crowd watches as Rams skate past Spuds

Ben Nelson scored two goals and Tyler Landman and Dustin Moser had three-point games Wednesday as unbeaten, No. 1-ranked defending state champion Roseau skated past Moorhead 6-1 in the 2008 Section 8AA boys high school hockey tournament finals at the Ralph Engelstad Arena in Thief River Falls.

The 28-0 Rams out-shot Moorhead 17-0 and had a 1-0 lead on a goal by Nick Oliver 3:50 in to the game before Brock Buckellew tied the contest with just three seconds remaining in the opening period.

That gave the Spuds and their fans a glimmer of hope at the first intermission. But it was a false sense of security. Goals by Nelson, Moser and Landman provided the Rams with a 4-1 cushion at the second break. Moser scored shorthanded; Landman scored with two minutes left.

Third period goals by Nelson and Trevor George padded the final margin.

Roseau wound up out-shooting Moorhead 36-21. The Rams outscored Section 8AA opponents River Lakes, Buffalo and Moorhead by a combined 27-1.

The Spuds, who lost to the Rams 7-2 and 4-0 during the regular season, finished 14-10-3.

A paid attendance figure of 3,393 was announced by Ralph Engelstad Arena officials.

The Minnesota Class A and Class AA state tournaments will be played March 5-8 at the Xcel Energy Center in St. Paul. A seeding selection process will pick the top four teams in each class, with a blind draw then creating the quarterfinal match-ups.

Scoring

First period - Roseau, Nick Oliver (Adam Knochenmus), 3:50; Moorhead, Brock Buckellew (Nick Thielen, Joe Becker), 16:57.

Second period - Roseau, Ben Nelson (Tyler Landman, Mitch Martinsen), 6:25; Roseau, Dustin Moser, 8:58; Roseau, Landman (Moser), 15:00.

Third period - Roseau, Nelson (Landman), 3:30; Roseau, Trevor George (Oliver, Moser), 14:57.

Goalie saves - Roseau, Mike Lee 2-11-7-20; Moorhead, Logan Marks 17-6-1, Coleman Wagner x-x-6, Moorhead game total - 30.

B/G-MR is 20-3 after beating Bears 83-55

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River reached the 20-win plateau Tuesday with an 83-55 boys high school basketball win over visiting Lake of the Woods.

The 20-3 Gators played well at times and not so well at other times, according to head coach Kent Christian. "We showed spurts of greatness and spurts of being putrid," he said.

Tyler Aune (26), Jordan Creviston (25) and Zac Creviston (23) combined for 74 Badger/Greenbush-Middle River points.

"We passed the ball pretty well, as evidenced by our 35 assists," pointed out Christian.

Brandon Peterson led the winner's floor game with 10 assists. Jordan Creviston had eight.

Peder Beckstrand of the Bears got into the scoring spotlight, too, with 28 points, and Jake Beckel had 13.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River enjoyed a 50 percent 35-for-70 shooting night, which included an 11-for-19 showing from 3-point range. The Gators had a quiet 2-for-4 free throw night.

Scoring

Grygla-Gatzke able to battle through fatigue

Effects of playing five games in eight days began to show on Grygla-Gatzke Monday. But despite the fatigue, the Eagles still came out a 45-34 boys high school basketball winner over Tri-County.

It was the seventh straight victory for the 16-8 Grygla-Gatzke squad.

"They (Wildcats) play a deliberate game," pointed out Eagles coach Vern Johnson. "They limit your offensive opportunities and they force you to play defense."

Ten points apiece by Bret Johnson and Chris Klamar was the best the tired Grygla-Gatzke squad could muster. "We were a little sluggish," acknowledged Johnson. "We were tired. But I thought we still played pretty good defense, and we did a nice job on the boards."

Chase Boen scored 15 points to lead the Wildcats, who were down 28-20 at halftime.

Grygla-Gatzke was 17-for-43 from the floor (40 percent) and 8-for-11 at the free throw line. Tri-County went 12-for-40 from the floor (30 percent) and 9-for-14 at the line.

The Eagles out-rebounded the Wildcats 32-18. The winners also topped the turnover charts 16-11.

Warroad defends 8A title

Two second period power play goals carried Warroad past East Grand Forks 2-0 Thursday in the 2008 Section 8A boys high school hockey tournament championship game at Thief River Falls' Ralph Engelstad Arena.

Jon Hellquist snapped a scoreless tie with a goal at 9:43 and Michael Pieper doubled the Warroad lead at 11:26.

Warroad goalie Jared Paquin stopped 25 shots for the shutout. East Grand Forks netminder Alex Christiansen finished with 20 saves.

The win gave Warroad its second straight Section 8A title and will send the team to the state tournament for the fifth time in the past six years.

Warroad, the top seed in Section 8A, is 22-6. Third-seeded East Grand Forks finished 12-14-1.

Class A state tournament play begins Wednesday at the Xcel Energy Center in St. Paul. Class AA state quarterfinals will be Thursday.

Head coaches of the 16 section champions will use an online voting process this morning (Saturday) to determine the top four seeded teams in each class.

Following the votes a blind draw will be conducted to determine the first round opponents for the seeded teams.

The state tournament seeding process was initiated for the first time prior to the 2007 tournament. Prior to that, pairings were drawn up on a rotating basis from year to year.

In addition to Warroad, Class A state qualifiers include Mankato West (Section 1), Blake (2), New Ulm or Litchfield (3), St. Thomas Academy or South St. Paul (4), St. Cloud Cathedral (5), Little Falls (6) and Duluth Marshall (7).

The Class AA state line-up will feature Lakeville South or Lakeville North (Section 1), Edina (2), Woodbury (3), Hill-Murray or White Bear Lake (4), Centennial or Blaine (5), Benilde-St. Margaret's (6), Cloquet (7) and Roseau (8).

Scoring

First period - no scoring

Second period - Warroad, Jon Hellquist (Jeremy Hahn, Michael Pieper), 9:43; Warroad, Pieper (Hahn, Bryce Ravndalen), 11:26.

Third period - no scoring.

Goalie saves - Warroad, Jared Paquin 7-10-8–25; EGF, Alex Christiansen 6-9-3–20

Grygla student named ExCel Award recipient by MSHSL, AAA Clubs

Samuel Anderson of Grygla is one of 40 high school juniors from communities throughout the state who have been selected as the 2008 ExCEL Award winners.

Sponsored by the Minnesota State High School League and the AAA Clubs of Minnesota, ExCEL — Excellence in Community, Education and Leadership — is a unique recognition program designed exclusively for high school juniors. Students who are active in fine arts and athletic activities, who show leadership qualities, and who are model citizens are eligible for the award. Three-hundred and fourteen students were nominated by their schools this year.

Each award winner will participate in an on-court award ceremony during the halftime of the Class AA girls basketball championship game on March 15.

The ExCEL award program began in 1996. Award recipients are selected through a multi-level process that involves League member schools and an independent panel of judges from schools throughout Minnesota.

More than 2,500 students have been recognized with this award over the years.

Shawna Rogalla is selected to NJCAA All-Region 13 team

Shawna Rogalla, a 5-7 Northland Community and Technical College freshman guard from Thief River Falls, has been named to the 2007-08 National Junior College Athletic Association Division III women's basketball All-Region 13 team.

Rogalla ranked second in the NJCAA Division III national statistics in assists with an average of 8.4 per game.

School officials made the all-region announcement this week.

It was earlier reported that Rogalla and teammate Casey Engelstad were Minnesota Community College Conference All-Northern Division and MCCC all-state picks. The Pioneers' Tressta Ralston was listed as Honorable Mention All-Northern Division.

Strong first half nets Gators 75-51 win over KCC Wolfpack squad

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River doubled Kittson County Central 34-17 in the first half and coasted to a 75-51 Friday (Feb. 22) boys high school basketball win.

Zac Creviston and Tyler Aune led the Gators with 25 and 19 points, respectively, while Jordan Holm and Allan Dostal both had 10-point nights for the winners.

Steven Johnson's 12 points led the Bearcats.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Boomer retirements pose challenges and opportunities

Who hasn't heard the concerns about the aging baby boomers?

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention states: The United States is on the brink of a longevity revolution. By 2030, the number of older Americans will have more than doubled to 70 million, or one in every five Americans. The growing number and proportion of older adults places increasing demands on the public health system and on medical and social services.

The U.S. Census Bureau estimated that 7,918 people would turn 60 each day beginning in 2006. That amounts to 330 people every hour.

The baby boomers are members of that generation born between 1946 and 1964. These individuals, who have helped push major societal and cultural changes, are beginning to retire, and it's beginning to look like their influence on society and culture isn't over, just yet.

Experts have been talking about the impact of the retiring baby boomers on health care facilities, Social Security and retirement facilities for some time. Chronic diseases and long-term illnesses will place a heavy economic burden on individuals and society. Some of the experts have begun talking about the impact retiring boomers will have on our workforce. Consider for a moment the impact it will have on the economy of northwestern Minnesota, where population declines have already had a significant impact on the labor pool: The impact this group will have on the economy cannot be disputed.

While many have been focused on the economic impact of retiring boomers, very few people have been thinking about what boomers should be thinking about. After all, there's more to planning than pensions, Social Security and Medicare. Boomers may not be as prepared to be sent out to pasture as one might anticipate. Their culture has been one of health, bolstered by a fear of growing old, and accumulating and spending their wealth, not on preparing to ease into retirement. As they retire, they may find it more difficult to maintain that lifestyle than they thought.

While boomers may not be prepared to retire, society may not be as prepared as it should be either. Just imagine the impact a large number of independent, fountain-of-youth seeking seniors might have on traditional nursing homes. Current facilities may not provide the flexibility and choice that boomers demand - or expect.

So, it's beginning to look like this group, which has had such a significant impact on society and culture, may once again force cultural and social attitudes to shift.

The cliché being used today describes the situation as one filled with "challenges and opportunities."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

USDA meat recall focused on animal handling, not food safety

To the Editor:

Recently, the United States Department of Agriculture placed an administrative hold on beef products produced by California-based Hallmark/Westland Meat Packing Company. Some of the beef involved in this recall has come to Minnesota schools as part of the Federal School Lunch Program. We are writing to assure school administrators, parents and students that this hold is due to regulatory requirements and contractual violations, not for food safety reasons.

Parents of local schoolchildren can feel confident in the safety of beef produced for the school lunch program because of the strict safety standards established by the USDA. School lunch contract requirements include finished product sampling to ensure ground beef tests negative for E. coli D157:H7 and Salmonella. In addition, there are multiple safeguards in place to make sure BSE is not an issue in this country. Packing plants also must abide by Hazard Analyses Critical Control Point (HACCP) certification requirements that ensure food safety.

The treatment of cattle depicted in recent video released by the Humane Society of the United States in no way represents the types of treatment cattle receive on a daily basis. We simply do not condone the actions in this video. As beef producers, we have expectations that when our cattle leave our farms and ranches, our animals are treated humanely, and that every step is taken to produce safe beef. We support the USDA's actions today to enforce the laws that ensure our cattle are handled with care and that our beef is produced safely.

Minnesota beef and dairy producers work hard every day to give animals the proper care and handling they deserve, and we expect proper treatment to continue after they leave our farms and ranches.

Minnesota's beef producing families have, for generations, committed themselves to sound animal welfare because we know healthy animals produce healthful food. Good animal care is not only the right thing to do, it is good business.

Producers seek answers to bovine TB threat

within 12 months of shipment and negative individual animal TB test within 60 days. There is no test required for slaughter cattle or bison if animals move directly to slaughter at an approved slaughter facility (federal or state inspected plant).

Since 2005 when the first herd was discovered near Skime in northwest Minnesota, a total of 11 herds have been infected by bovine TB. In addition, 17 white-tailed deer have tested positive for the same strain of bovine TB.

No official area has been designated for the split state. The most frequently described proposal would involve nine counties - Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Lake of the Woods, Pennington, Red Lake, Beltrami, Polk and Clearwater. There are 1,300 herds in the nine-county area. Hartmann said he didn't think the size of the area would have to be as big as that. A map displayed at the informational meeting showed an area that encompassed parts of Marshall, Roseau and Lake of the Woods counties.

Impact

The discovery of bovine TB in northwestern Minnesota has already led to the depopulation of several herds. In some cases, that meant the elimination of the single source of income for families affected by depopulation.

"I'm not going to lie to you, there will be an impact," said Joe Martin, assistance commissioner of Agriculture in Minnesota. He said if he were a producer in the area, he would be planning on having annual herd tests.

The tests cost $10 per cow plus the vet fee.

Martin said many producers feel the cattle industry is under appreciated, "but we know you're important."

Martin said this is not just a regional problem, it's a statewide and national issue. Approximately 200,000 cattle leave the state annually. If the entire state's status is lowered, each cow will have to be tested. It's possible that the dairy industry also will face additional requirements, and that producers may face additional requirements from other states. North Dakota, for example, has already approved slightly more restrictive requirements than the USDA requirements that will come with a lowered status.

Jerome Burkel of Burkel Grain Service, Greenbush, was at the meeting in Thief River Falls. Burkel Grain Service, he said, has been a family business for 60 years, and it's now on the line.

"We're totally dependent on the livestock industry in northwestern Minnesota, and we're on the line just like producers," said Burkel. Burkel added that even if there's even of reduction herds in northwest Minnesota, it's a problem for his business and family.

Burkel is one of many area residents who feel more has to be done to eliminate the threat of the disease spreading from deer to cattle. In fact, he worked up a few numbers to share with officials and expects them to "do the math."

In the core area, the rate of infection among white-tail deer is 1.13, or twice the rate of cattle (.558).

Based on NASS numbers, Burkel said the value of the livestock industry in the nine county area is over $186 million. The impact on the economy is estimated at seven to eight times that amount. Because of the way they are handling this issue, Burkel also said that it costs the DNR over $500 to harvest each deer. He suggested offering a bounty and letting area residents take care of the deer.

Burkel believes that more should be done to eliminate the threat, specifically white-tail deer, to protect this significant part of the economy.

In fact, the livestock and the agriculture industries in several of the counties in northwest Minnesota are the most important industries in the economy.

Wildlife

To date, the disease has been confirmed in 13 free-ranging deer, and four deer harvested in fall 2007 are currently bovine TB-suspects. All infected deer have been adult animals, and were taken within five miles of a cluster of four bovine TB-infected cattle operations.

Dr. Michelle Carstensen, wildlife health program coordinator with the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, outlined efforts being made by the DNR to limit the spread of TB in deer. The approach includes an expanded hunting season, additional permits, and use of federally approved sharpshooters. Carstensen said an aerial survey of the core area last year showed about 1,000 deer. A survey one year later after implementing the approach, they counted 833 deer. The limited impact may have been due to the mild winter, and high survival and reproduction, immigration into the core area, and recreational feeding, although that appears to have dropped off significantly. Regardless, Carstensen concluded that one year of extensive efforts to reduce the presence of deer in the core area is not enough time. Pressure needs to continue to be applied.

Elk herds in northwestern Minnesota were also a topic of discussion. Officials said they have tested every animal they can get their hands on and that they haven't found any TB among the Elk. They remain vigilant especially since an elk herd in Canada has TB, although it is a different strain of TB.

Assistance and Resources

The BAH, said Hartmann, will continue to seek resources, work with the USDA, Michigan and California where there are outbreaks, and partner with the University of Minnesota to determine how the infection is spread. Hartmann explained that they don't know why a herd was tested twice with no infection and then infection appeared on the third try. He said he hopes the University of Minnesota can help them answer questions like that.

Ryan Walker of the University of Minnesota beef team and extension service, said the university plans to work with producers all over the state and are here to support whatever it takes to get TB out of the state. "TB has done no one any good since it has been here," he said.

Walker outlined a number of initiatives: partnerships with producers and groups seeking the eradication of bovine TB; creation of a one-stop TB resource Web site; and the development of home study courses on best management practices for producers and veterinarians.

Officials do not know where the TB came from. It seems consistent with a strain found in cattle in the southwestern U.S. and Mexico, but as Dr. Sherry Shaw, USDA, pointed out, similar does not mean identical. In addition, they aren't exactly sure how it is transmitted.

Spread to Humans?

Some area residents have expressed concern about the possibility of the disease spreading to humans. Anita Cardinal, county nurse, said she had received several calls from concerned residents. Although she knows that there is very little chance of the disease spreading from cattle to humans, Cardinal attended the meeting in Thief River Falls Wednesday because she wanted to learn more about the disease.

Martin urged producers not to forget the consumer. They are worried if the food is safe, which it is because of the number of safeguards in place. Nevertheless, their fear could have an impact on the industry, as well.

Bovine TB, caused by the bacteria Mycobacterium bovis, is a respiratory disease of cattle. A chronic, slowly progressive disease that does not spread easily, infected animals may show no symptoms. M. bovis is related to the bacteria that cause TB in humans, M. tuberculosis. Thanks to preventative measures taken by the beef and dairy industries and animal health officials, cattle infected with M. bovis pose little risk to human health.

Supporting efforts

Other groups and organizations remain supportive of efforts to eradicate bovine TB from Minnesota.

Mark Johnson, executive director of Minnesota Deer Hunters Association, said he has heard concerns from members across the state about the disease in deer and livestock. He added that there is uniform concern about the issue, not just about deer. "They are thinking about all of you and want to do what they can to help."

A representative of the Minnesota Cattlemen's Association said his association is following the issue closely. At their last meeting, he said they took a close look at a split state and where to draw the line, and how it would affect producers on both sides of the line.

He urged producers to think more about their marketing options and the impact of this disease on the entire state.

Petition drive

Thursday, Gail Steinhauer of Thief River Falls began circulating a petition requesting that the DNR use helicopters to manage the bovine Tuberculosis disease among deer.

Steinhauer said bovine Tuberculosis "is a very important health issue to the human food chain, our livestock industry and the deer herd in the state of Minnesota."

Roosevelt's historic Elkhorn Ranch near Medora, N.D.

The ranch is where Roosevelt developed his staunch conservation ethic and vision. Rugged and scenic, the land was purchased from willing sellers, the Eberts family, and transferred to the U.S. Forest Service in 2007. It was a landmark success following a two-year campaign led by Boone and Crockett Club with critical partnership from the Elk Foundation.

Andy Hoxsey, chairman of the board for the Elk Foundation, accepted the award during a Feb. 3 ceremony in Las Vegas, Nev.

"Cooperative partnerships are definitely the future of conservation. The Boone and Crockett Club has spent many decades developing key partners across state and federal governments, resource agencies, businesses and organizations. To be selected from their long list of partners is truly an honor for the Elk Foundation," said Hoxsey.

David Allen, Elk Foundation president and CEO, added, "Any conservation organization would be honored and gratified to be mentioned alongside Theodore Roosevelt. There's not a more authoritative acknowledgement that, together, our volunteers, members, donors and staff are an important resource for conservation today."

The award recognizes the characteristics that Roosevelt valued in conservation partners, explains Lowell E. Baier, president of the Boone and Crockett Club.

"Roosevelt understood the power of influential partners unified by strong leadership," said Baier. "He was a master at selecting the right people in the right places at the right time to do the right thing. These principles remain a cornerstone of the Boone and Crockett Club. Our Theodore Roosevelt Legacy Award is a special honor for a partner who best exemplifies this spirit."

About the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation

Founded in 1984 and headquartered in Missoula, Mont., the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation is a nonprofit organization dedicated to ensuring the future of elk, other wildlife and their habitat. The Elk Foundation and its partners have permanently protected or enhanced over 5.2 million acres, a land area larger than Connecticut, Delaware and District of Columbia combined. More than 500,000 acres previously closed to public access are now open for hunting, fishing and other recreation. The Elk Foundation has more than 150,000 members, a staff of 150 and 10,000 active volunteers. To help protect wild elk country or learn more about the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation, visit www.elkfoundation.org or call 800-CALL-ELK.

About the Boone and Crockett Club

Founded by Theodore Roosevelt in 1887, the Boone and Crockett Club promotes guardianship and provident management of big game and associated wildlife in North America. It maintains the highest standards of fair chase and sportsmanship in all aspects of big game hunting so that these resources of the people may survive and prosper in natural habitats. Club member accomplishments include the protection of Yellowstone and creation of Glacier and Denali national parks, founding the National Forest Service, National Park Service and National Wildlife Refuge System, passing the Pittman-Robertson and Lacey Acts, establishing the Federal Duck Stamp Program, and developing original codes of conduct which later became the cornerstone of modern game laws. Area producers packed the auditorium at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls on Wednesday, Feb. 27, to receive information about bovine Tuberculosis discovered in beef cattle and deer in northwest Minnesota.

On Feb. 22, Goodridge School students played kickball in the small gym at the school. The Goodridge School District is seeking bids to remodel the gym. Bids will be opened March 6 at 5 p.m. at the school.

1987 with a Bachelor of Science degree in education with a major in mathematics and a minor in coaching. In 2002, he obtained a master's degree in educational leadership from Tri-College (Minnesota State University, Moorhead; North Dakota State University; and Concordia College). In 2003, he obtained a specialist's degree in education administration.

Prior to becoming the superintendent of both the Plummer and Oklee school districts in 2003, Guetter served in the combination role of superintendent and K-12 principal at Herman-Norcross Community School. Before serving in administration, he was a math teacher at Stephen/Argyle Central High School for six years, and prior to that, he was a math teacher at Argyle High School for eight years. Guetter also worked as a math teacher for one year at Villard High School. In the past, Guetter coached football and basketball at the middle school level, and also worked as a head coach.

Counties approve resolutions regarding bovine Tuberculosis

Marshall County Board of Commissioners went on record March 4 unanimously approving a resolution calling for a significant reduction of free ranging white-tail deer and elk in the core area, and increased efforts to eradicate the the bovine Tuberculosis disease currently spreading through livestock and free-ranging white-tail deer.

Roseau and Pennington county officials have approved similar resolutions. Red Lake County Board of Commissioners did not approve the resolution because officials didn't believe they have enough information on the subject.

The Marshall County resolution, moved and seconded by Gary Kiesow and Kenny Borowicz, states the following:

Whereas, bovine Tuberculosis is an infectious disease that has been identified in livestock and free-ranging white-tail deer in Roseau and Beltrami counties,

Whereas, 2002 statistics document that the cow/calf business contributed over $40 million to the local economy in a nine-county area in northern Minnesota; and

Whereas, an 11th livestock herd has been identified in Minnesota, four in the last year, the United States Department of Agriculture has downgraded Minnesota to a Modified Accredited bovine TB status for livestock; and

Whereas, the Minnesota Board of Animal Health has made a recommendation to implement a split state status due to this downgraded status; and

Whereas, this infectious disease was first identified in 2005 and limited progress has been made to successfully implement a strategy to effectively deal with the problem and eliminate the disease; specifically to reduce the white-tail deer population in the core bovine TB area; and

Whereas, it is critical that this infectious disease be addressed immediately and whatever measures be taken to eliminate this problem as expediently and efficiently as possible:

Now, therefore, be it resolved, that we request the following:

1. A significant reduction of free ranging white-tail deer and elk in the core area.
2. Continued testing of white-tail deer and elk in the bovine TB managed zones.
3. A single point of contact and decision making in the Department of Natural Resources to efficiently facilitate communication, public relations, and solutions.
4. Engage Department of Public Health and the Department of Homeland Security and Emergency Management with the management of the transmission and spread of this infectious disease.
5. Implement an accelerated timeline for the elimination of bovine TB in both livestock and white-tail deer populations.
6. Support a split state status as a last resort only after all other options have been exhausted.

Towns to hold annual meetings

Local townships will hold their annual meetings and elections Tuesday, March 11. For those townships with elections, one supervisor with a three-year term, one clerk with a two-year term, and any unexpired or vacant positions will be elected. Questions may also be placed on ballots for particular townships. In case of inclement weather, the meetings will be held Tuesday, March 18.

For information about your particular township, contact a township representative or your county auditor's office.

Drayton/Robbin bridge replacement set for 2009

Hallock - "A Minnesota Department of Transportation project manager for the Minnesota Trunk Highway 11 and North Dakota Trunk Highway 66 bridge project confirmed that the scheduled replacement is still happening in 2009.

"Considering the recent controversy over the transportation bill's passing, concerns had mounted that the project would be in jeopardy."

"Roger Hille cautions travelers that the new bridge won't be completed and open for traffic until the fall, or even early winter, of 2010." - Kittson County Enterprise, March 5, 2008, by Louise Money

New court schedule will not be as proposed

Red Lake Falls - "The Red Lake County Board of Commissioners held their regular meeting Feb. 26." At that meeting, the proposed court schedule was discussed.

"The proposed schedule change for District 9 court didn't go into effect March 1. The proposed schedule had too much opposition, especially from Norman County.

"The court schedule will remain as is for now. Many schedules have been proposed and options are still being" analyzed. The board is unsure of how the schedule will look. - Red Lake Falls Gazette, March 5, 2008

City approves bid advertising for Parkview II infrastructure

Warren - "Engineer's plans and specifications for streets, sewer and water for the proposed Parkview Second Addition were accepted, and authorization was given to advertise for bids for construction of the infrastructure at the Warren City Council meeting Feb. 26.

"Steve Emery, an engineer with Floan Sanders, the city's consulting engineering firm, was present to explain the plans and specifications, and the structure of the project bidding. He said the bids will be opened at City Hall at 10 a.m. Wednesday, March 19. Floan Sanders will then tabulate the bids and present them at the City Council meeting Tuesday, March 25. He said the package was set up with a basic bid for putting in the streets, water and sewer lines, curb and gutter, and settling pond, plus two optional add-ons. Alternate 1 is for a fence around the sediment pond, and the second alternate is for adding fabric and rip-rap to the sediment pond.

"Responding to a question at the meeting, Emery said information he has received indicates that contractors are 'hungry for work,' suggesting that bidding will be competitive. The preliminary engineer's estimate of the project cost is $475,000 for the base bid, $16,000 for the chain link fence around the sediment pond and $13,500 for the rip-rap, for a total of $504,500. The city will install natural gas and electrical service for the subdivision, and those costs would be rolled into the total cost of the development's infrastructure." - Warren Sheaf, March 5, 2008

SCOUTING FOR FOOD
BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA
Thrivent Financial for Lutherans
Does hunger persist in the USA?

This tag replaces the plastic bags Scouts used to leave on doors at local residences. The tag provides information about the food drive they are conducting and what the Area Food Shelf needs. Local Scouts will be placing the tags on door knobs of area homes in the near future. Scouts will pick up bags or boxes of food left on door steps beginning at 10 a.m. on March 15.

Food Shelf drive will be March 15

Scouts go door-to-door raise awareness about hunger

The Voyageur Trails District of Northern Lights Council, BSA, will be conducting its Boy Scout Food Shelf Drive as an annual Good Turn Project on March 15. Prior to March 15, paper food shelf tags will be hung on door knobs by Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts in communities that have active Scouting groups soliciting food items for local food shelves. On March 15, the Scouts will pick up the food.

Through this service project Scout leaders raise awareness of the social problem of hunger. Hunger is a problem that seems a world away. Unfortunately, it can be found locally. Tonight, there are people in this community who will go to bed hungry. This service project teaches Scouts to tackle the problem of hunger by lending a helping hand. It is an opportunity for our local Scouts to help those people who are less fortunate.

Tiger Cubs, Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Venture Crews and their parents will team up with their community to do a good turn for their local food shelf by delivering paper food shelf tags door to door. The paper tag, instead of the usual plastic bag, will let the homeowner know what types of food stuff is needed at the local food shelf. Each tag is printed with a "Scouting for Food" logo that asks residents to fill their own plastic or paper bag or box with non-perishable food and place it on their front steps in a visible spot so that it can be picked up beginning at 10 a.m. on Saturday, March 15, and delivered to the local food shelf where it will be weighed and sorted.

The goal for the Thief River Falls Boy Scouts is to collect 4,000 pounds, which will be matched pound for pound. Last year, the Thief River Falls Boy Scouts collected 3,107 pounds of food and $59.

The Boy Scouts collect food in March as Minnesota Food Share provides an additional incentive to participating food shelves to receive money for food or dollars collected. Minnesota Food Share fights hunger through community action.

Each March, Minnesota Food Share brings caring people together to participate in Minnesota's largest drive to restock food shelves. Thousands of corporations, congregations, civic groups, schools and individuals come together to collect millions of pounds of food and dollars to restock food shelves of Minnesota, which in turn feed hungry families that need help.

The Boy Scouts are proud to be able to be of service to people in need. Boy Scouts are asking local residents for help in making this years' campaign another success by filling food bags or boxes and placing them on door steps by 10 a.m. on Saturday, March 15. Residents who live in the country, or individuals who did not receive a food shelf tag, may bring donations to their church, and the church will bring it to the food shelf.

Voyageur Trails District is made up of Scout groups in Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and Polk counties.

Red Lake Watershed District holds open house for new building Feb. 28

Thursday, Feb. 28, Red Lake Watershed District conducted an open house at its new facility located at 1000 Pennington Avenue in Thief River Falls.

After looking at costs associated with remaining at its location on Main Avenue in Thief River Falls and the benefits of moving to a new location, the Watershed District board of managers decided to move would be in the best interest of the District.

In the first week of July 2007, the Watershed staff moved into its new Watershed office on Pennington Avenue. The building, designed by Tom Jones, Jones Architectural Engineering of Clearbrook, is a stick structure. Construction began in the fall of 2006 and was completed in June 2007 by Schmitz Buildings of Red Lake Falls. Completed, the building consists of 3,840 square feet of office space and an additional 2,550 square feet of garage space. It also takes advantage of several geothermal wells. The total construction cost was $646,761.29. It was paid for, in part, from the sale of excess land purchased in 1986 for a project that failed to materialize. The remaining costs will be paid over a period of approximately 15 years with funds budgeted from the general fund budget. The management board will not have to increase its tax levy to help pay for the cost of the new building.

Myron Jesme, Watershed administrator, said they were very pleased with the building.

Carving creatures big and small

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Elroy Aune has a unique hobby that he shares with only a few hundred people nationwide. His hobby is woodcarving, but there's a twist. He doesn't use any carving knives or chisels. Instead, he opts for something a little more powerful, his Jonsered chain saw.

"It's kind of fun to monkey around with it," Aune said. "If I had a heated shop, I'd be doing more of it."

Aune, a former logger, is not exactly sure how he got into wood carving with a chain saw. He figures it was 13 to 14 years ago that he got his start, "monkeying around" on the same Marshall County farm that his grandfather homesteaded.

Art has been a part of Aune's life since childhood. He majored in illustration and graphic arts at Bemidji State University. Painting was one of his favorite art mediums and his wife, Debbie, is an art teacher in the Greenbush-Middle River School District. So where did the desire to carve wood using a chain saw come from?

Aune's not totally sure. But his father, Peter, a true craftsman by Aune's description, was into more traditional styles of wood carving. Coupling the talents he inherited from his father with the skills he learned as a logger has given Aune the unique ability to create larger than life chain saw carvings.

One of Aune's most famous creations is a 15-foot alligator that is permanently displayed in the Greenbush-Middle River High School gymnasium in Greenbush. Aune was asked by Middle River resident Tom Super to carve the gator, the mascot of Greenbush-Middle River, for display at the high school.

Aune said two scotch pine logs were supplied by Super. In case he made a mistake on the first log, a second one was available. Super also suggested that the gator have teeth – which was a first for Aune.

The gator and other large projects take several hours to complete. Much of that time is spent planning for the next cut. Once a cut is made, there is no going back.

"You're walking around in circles wondering what will happen after I cut this piece off," Aune said.

Aune said the gator's teeth, legs and eyes presented potential problems.

"They get a little crude, but if you look at an alligator, they can look a bit crude too," Aune said.

Besides the gator on display at Greenbush-Middle River High School, Aune has carved an Uncle Sam for his mother-in-law, a native American (which was carved from the second log supplied by Super) that stands over six feet in height, a black bear, several bear cubs and many other creatures.

Getze resident Elroy Aune holds one of his bear cubs that he carved with a chain saw during a demonstration for grade school students in Middle River.

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere
email: lacours@mncable.net

If it is ever saup weather, it is now. Be brave and try something new this weekend.

I believe this recipe was on a television program a while back. I haven't tried it yet, but I might this weekend. My husband has been asking for the homemade kind since last summer when we were overrun with tomatoes. I figure I can learn how to make it with canned tomatoes now in the winter so I am ready next summer, in case we have another bumper crop of our own:

HOMEMADE TOMATO SOUP

30 ounces chicken or vegetable stock
1 (28 ounce) can concentrated crushed tomatoes
1 cup heavy cream
Salt
Black pepper
Fresh parsley or basil

Combine brath and tomatoes in saucepan over moderate heat. When mixture bubbles, stir in cream and reduce heat to low. Simmer gently for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add salt and pepper and puree with a blender (immersion that you place into the cooking pot or regular blender - be careful because liquid is very hot if it bubbles on you). Serve topped with parsley or basil.

Toasty Toppers:

4 slices crusty French bread (or other), cut 1/4 inch thick.
2 cloves lightly crushed garlic
Olive oil
Pepper
1/2 pound cheese that will melt nicely, like provolone, cheddar, Swiss, etc.

Toast bread in toaster or in oven until golden. Rub with garlic and drizzle with olive oil. Top with pepper and shredded cheese. Place under brailer until cheese melts and is golden. Place on toast round on each bowl of soup.

I wonder if I gave you this soup. I got it from a fellow at work and it is delicious. Thanks, Chuck:

CHUCK'S WILD RICE SOUP

1 cup wild rice
3 cups boiling water
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 chicken
3/4 cup celery
1/2 cup carrots
1 can chicken broth
2 cans cream of mushroom soup
3 soup cans milk
1 small can mushraoms
1 teaspoon season salt
Pepper to taste

Add rice to boiling water. Simmer 1 hour or until tender and drain.

Dice and brown chicken (or I just use leftover cooked chicken, buy a cooked one at the market. Chuck said he sometimes uses canned). Sauté vegetables together.

Combine all ingredients and simmer about an hour.

This is a very good soup. It is quite thick, so I like to thin it with a little beer. Also, I use canned pimento - about 1 1/2 teaspoons:

CREAMY CHEDDAR SOUP

1 small onion, diced
2 large pimentos, diced
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 1/2 cups chicken stock
1 1/2 cups cream
3/4 cup grated sharp Cheddar cheese
1/4 cup green onions
Salt and pepper to taste
Small dash of cayenne pepper - to taste
Dash of Worcestershire sauce

Sauté onion and pimentos in butter for 5-7 minutes. Blend in flour. Add chicken stock and then cream and cook thick. Add cheese and stir until melted. Add green onions, salt and pepper, cayenne and Worcestershire. Garnish with more chopped green onion, if desired. (Thin with beer or milk if desired.)

One more soup for you - this one made in the slow cooker for a wonderful supper with no work. Just mix it up in the morning and you have a delicious meal that evening. If you take it easy on the topping and the crackers, you have a might low-fat meal too:

CHUNKY TURKEY CHILI

1 pound ground turkey (or beef)
1/2 cup coarsely chopped onion
2 cans (15 ounces each) diced tomatoes with juice
1 (15 ounce) can pinto beans, drained and rinsed
1/2 cup salsa
2 teaspoons chili powder
1 1/2 teaspoons ground cumin
Salt and pepper to taste
1/2 cup shredded cheese (Cheddar, Mexican blend, or your favorite)
Sour cream
Sliced black olives
More salsa

Brown turkey and onion. Drain excess fat. Place in crock pot with tomatoes, beans, salsa, chili powder and cumin. Stir gently, cover and cook on low for 5-6 hours. Before serving, taste and add salt and pepper. Top with sour cream, black olives, cheese and more salsa as desired. Serve with crackers or taco chips.

Singles Christian Fellowship to meet March 9 in Fosston

The March meeting of the Singles' Christian Fellowship will be held on Sunday, March 9 at 3 p.m. at the Embassy Community Center in Fosston. On the program will be a short business meeting and a devotional. An attendance gift will be awarded.

Also on the program will be Christine Hanson of Fosston, who will tell of her father's book, "Chopsticks." Her father and mother were missionaries to China. She will review the book and tell of their lives in China.

The day will close with a potluck supper, with the offering money going to Chinese missions.

Election scheduled for MN Beef Council directors

Elections for five Minnesota Beef Promotion and Research Council directors will be held during late March.

The Minnesota Department of Agriculture, which coordinates commodity Council elections, will mail ballots to all eligible producers on March 19. The results are expected to be available on or before April 21.

The Beef Council's funding comes from the Beef Check-off program in which $1 is collected each time a beef or dairy animal is sold. Council activities focus on promotion, research and educational programs to increase the demand for beef. Board members approve and direct the business activities of the council.

One local district – District 1 – is holding an election. That district includes the counties of Becker, Clay, Clearwater, Kittson, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau.

Mail ballots will automatically be sent to all beef and dairy producers who returned a ballot request card in January. Producers that did not request a ballot may call the Minnesota Beef Council at (952) 854-6980 to receive a ballot for next year's election.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Remember to emphasize safety on the farm all year long

As cold as it is and with as much snow as there is on the ground, it's hard to believe that spring is around the corner. With spring, of course, comes spring planting - an important time for area farmers. In preparation for spring planting, Farm Bureau Safety and Health Network is conducting Agricultural Safety Awareness Week campaign. "Growing Our Most Important Crop" is the theme of this year's observation.

The purpose of the event is to remind agricultural producers that, in the rush of completing tasks on their farms and ranches, they need to take time to act safely and to repair or replace safety devices that protect them, their family members and employees from injuries and fatalities. But, this year's campaign pays particular attention to protecting children from the dangers that can easily be found on family farms.

Wheat, corn, soy beans and other crops cannot compare in importance to children. That's of course what the Farm Bureau is referring to when it refers to "our most important crop." How could that not be true.

Unfortunately, it's a fact that over 100 children each year die in farm accidents in the United States. In the next few weeks, several news releases from the Farm Bureau will emphasize protecting children from the dangers that can be found on family farms. As adults, perhaps we don't take everything into consideration that we should. Children, for example, don't always recognize the unpredictability and size difference that puts them at risk around livestock. We probably take for granted, our actions around stored grain and tractors, as well.

Remember to teach children and grandchildren to be cautious around livestock, grain storage facilities, and farm machinery not just during farm safety week, but all year long. Remember, children are your most important crop.

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

Since bovine Tuberculosis (TB) was first identified in a cattle herd in 2005, this infectious disease has been identified in a total of 11 beef cattle herds and 17 free ranging white-tail deer in Roseau and Beltrami counties. While it is true that this disease has been detected at low levels in both cattle and free ranging white-tail deer, TB testing efforts have identified four cattle herds in the last six months. As a result of these four herds testing positive in the last year, the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) will downgrade the state of Minnesota from a Modified Accredited Advanced to a Modified Accredited status due to bovine TB.

You may ask what is the significance in this downgrade in the TB status? First off, all livestock leaving the state of Minnesota will have to have a TB test within 60 days of movement. Second, other states can place restrictions on the movement of cattle from Minnesota. In fact, on Feb. 21, 2008 the state of North Dakota tightened movement of cattle into North Dakota from Minnesota. Third, whole cattle herds will have to have an annual TB test. Fourth, it is estimated that these TB tests will cost the livestock producer over $10/head plus labor charges. And fifth, Minnesota has a shortage of veterinarians. Estimates suggest even if the vets worked full time with TB, it would be difficult, if not impossible, to test all the cattle in Minnesota.

The above are some of the reasons given for a proposed split-state status for Minnesota due to bovine TB. How many cattle herds? What is the area? What is the timeline? Will all cattle herds leave this area? These and many other questions are on the minds of livestock producers in Roseau and surrounding counties. The TB issue has been on the minds of livestock producers since 2005. However, recent developments added a new level of stress and anxiety to the entire livestock industry.

The livestock industry is important to the local economies in northern Minnesota. The proposed split-state status has the potential to cause a collapse of the livestock business as we know it in northern Minnesota. According to figures from Bagley and Winger, over 7,000 animals were moved to sales barns in the last week of February. Normal animal movement for this time of the year is approximately 1,000 animals. What would cause this accelerated movement of livestock to auction? The most likely reason is recent and pending changes in the bovine TB status for Minnesota.

Roseau County and surrounding counties cannot stand many weeks like last week and have the livestock industry be a vibrant part of the local economies. The National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS), reports indicate that in 2007, livestock numbers were; 158,700 head in Lake of the Woods, Roseau, Kittson, Marshall, Beltrami, Clearwater, Pennington, Red Lake and Polk counties. A breakdown of livestock numbers in this nine-county area: beef cattle - 62,000 head, feeder cattle - 88,600 and dairy cattle - 8,100.

To date, 3,400 beef cattle from positive bovine TB operations have been depopulated. Of those cattle, 19 head have tested positive for an average of .558 per 100 head of cattle. Statewide, 140,000 cattle have been tested, with 24 confirmed positive for bovine TB. Statewide, the average falls to .0171428 per 100 head.

White-tail deer statistics are similar. Of the 1,500 deer killed and tested in northern Minnesota, 17 have tested positive, with a ratio of 1.13 per 100 head. Statewide tests on 3,000 deer found 17 positive cases, or an average of .566 per 100 head. Free ranging white-tail deer are known carrier's of bovine TB. The number of free ranging white-tail deer must be immediately reduced to minimize the further transmission and spread of bovine TB.

While it is true that 11 cattle farmers have had herds depopulated, the impact that this infectious disease can have on local economies are staggering. According to 2007 NASS statistics, the dairy and beef cattle industry contribute over $186 million to the economies of Lake of the Woods, Roseau, Kittson, Marshall, Beltrami, Clearwater, Pennington, Red Lake and Polk counties. This number includes animal cost only, and not the flow of dollars that this sector of agribusiness generates.

When a herd of cattle is depopulated, the economic loss trickles well beyond the fence post. Main Street will suffer! Bankers won't have to lend money; implement dealers will sell less equipment, and there is less demand for feed, fertilizer, fuel and other supplies. If cattle producers cannot make a living off the land, these people may have to move to other communities to find employment. If families move, school districts will suffer, local business will be negatively impacted, and there will be fewer people employed in local agriculture. What will happen to this land that is best suited for livestock? It may be devalued, enrolled in a government program (CRP), purchased by the state, and taken off the tax rolls.

Immediate action on the part of the USDA, the Minnesota Department of Agriculture, the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, and the Minnesota Board of Animal Health is needed to get a handle on this expanding problem. We need accountability and collaborative problem solving to address the spread of this infectious disease. I would urge all concerned parties to contact our representatives and senators at both the state and federal levels.

Respectfully submitted,
Roseau County Commissioner
Russell Walker

CHIP information sessions scheduled

Thief River Falls CHIP (Coronary Health Improvement Project) will hold a spring class beginning March 31. Free information sessions will be held in the meeting room of the Thief River Falls Public Library at the following times: Tuesday, March 11 at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.; Thursday, March 13 at 2 p.m.; and Monday, March 17 at 7:30 p.m.

The deadline for registration for the spring CHIP class is Thursday, March 20. For further information, call Thief River Falls CHIP Director Marilyne Sayler, (218) 681-1776 or (218) 689-3276.

CHIP is a video-based lifestyle improvement program which can help reduce health risks associated with heart disease, hypertension, diabetes and obesity. The four-week program will be facilitated by a team of community volunteers, MeritCare Thief River Falls Northwest Medical Center Lab personnel, and CHIP graduates like Jan Cullen.

Jan and her husband, John, enrolled in the CHIP class last July, which included two Heart Screen assessments, one at the beginning of the program and another at the end. They attended the 16 sessions, which included class activities, heart healthy food, and scientifically sound video presentations by Dr. Hans Diehl. At the conclusion of the program, the Cullens were delighted with their results. But their CHIP story does not end there. In the months since graduation, they have been attending monthly CHIP Alumni Meetings, which provide ongoing support for graduates.

As Jan and John arrived at the most recent CHIP alumni supper, they were aglow. "We just had a professional photo taken," Jan announced triumphantly. "We haven't had one done together in a long while, and, with our 50th wedding anniversary coming up, we figured it was about time."

The Cullens have good reason to be excited about posing for a photograph. Since attending the CHIP class this past summer, they are looking better than ever. Jan lost seven pounds during the month-long class and John lost 12 pounds; by continuing their CHIP lifestyle, they have seen the pounds drop even more.

Even though the Cullens admit that they enjoy their improved agility and trimmer physical appearance, they like knowing what happened inside their bodies as a result of following the CHIP program even more. Jan's total cholesterol plunged 50 points; John's dropped 40 points. A few months later, when John's physician saw that John's cholesterol was continuing to improve, the physician cut John's daily dose of cholesterol-lowering medication (Lipitor) in half. Understandably, John was very pleased. "That felt like progress," he said with a smile.

"All of his lab values, including his glucose, showed real improvement," his proud wife added. "In fact, his blood sugar has been so good that one of his diabetic medications was discontinued as well. We are really happy about that."

An energetic 70-year-old housewife, Jan serves her community as a member of the Goodridge City Council and as a dispatcher and first responder for the Goodridge Area Fire Department. She became interested in CHIP out of concern for her husband's health. "One doesn't see what I see as a first responder and not think about health," she said.

In past years, John, a 72-year-old truck driver, has had numerous stents, as well as triple bypass surgery, to alleviate blockages in his arteries. "I didn't want him becoming a cardiac cripple and neither did he," said Jan, "so we decided to take the CHIP class. I am glad that we attended together because we were able to amiably help each other make positive changes in our lifestyle." Now, according to Jan, John's shirts are becoming quite baggy on him. "I bought him some new ones that are smaller," she said, and, with obvious fondness, she added, "He looks really nice in them."

Besides losing weight and improving their blood chemistry, the Cullens admit that they simply feel better since adopting their healthy lifestyle. "We feel as if we have a new lease on life," said an enthusiastic Jan. "Thanks to CHIP and good medical care, we feel younger than ever. Now that's something worth celebrating!"

Goodridge residents Jan and John Cullen are among the graduates of the Thief River Falls Coronary Health Improvement Project (CHIP) who have lost weight. Free informational sessions will be held beginning Tuesday, March 11 for the next CHIP class. The sessions will be held Tuesday, March 11 at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.; Thursday, March 13 at 2 p.m.; and Monday, March 17 at 7:30 p.m. All of the sessions will be held in the Thief River Falls Public Library meeting room. NCTC baseball team in Florida

Annual spring trip is under way for the Northland Community and Technical College baseball team.

The Pioneers are scheduled to be in Cocoa, Fla., to play 12 games during an eight-day stretch that begins today (Saturday).

It's the eighth straight year the program has headed south to jump-start the season. Guy Finstrom coached the Pioneers from 2001 to 2004 and began each campaign with an early-spring trip to Arkansas. Steve Gust continued the tradition when he took over the coaching reigns in 2005, but he switched sites to Florida's Atlantic coast, southeast of Orlando.

Northland, a National Junior College Athletic Association Division III program, will be challenged in Florida with a series of games that begin with West Virginia Wesleyan, an NCAA Division II team and includes a Monday matchup with Montgomery College-Germantown, a Maryland school that reached the NJCAA Division III World Series last spring.

"It's the most intense (Florida) schedule we've put together," pointed out Gust.

Northland brought in 34 players for fall practice and currently has a 23-man travel roster. "The team is excited about the season," said Gust. "We feel we have all the ingredients of a pretty good team. The Florida trip will allow us to evaluate our talent and see who can play at this level."

Gust doesn't plan to have the Pioneers sit around and wait for the snow to melt upon their return. They are booked for a tournament in Miles City, Mont., March 20-22.

An optimistic schedule-planner has Northland making its 2008 home debut March 29 against Central Lakes.

Under Gust, the Pioneers have put together three straight 20-win seasons. That victory plateau was reached only once previously – when Northland went 21-11 in 1994. Terry Wiseth coached that team. He is currently an assistant on Gust's staff, along with Keith Blattenbauer and Will Leetch.

There are ten sophomores on the Northland roster, including Tyler Earls, Pelican Rapids; Ross Helling, Thief River Falls; Matt Greek, Thompson, N.D.; Nick Pickard, Matt Puente and Kane Aubol, East Grand Forks; Nick Stenberg, Park Rapids; Derek Neset, Finley, N.D.; Charles Schmitz, Red Lake Falls; and Matt Luckey, Billings, Mont.

Freshmen on hand are Kyle Neufeld, Winnipeg, Man., Canada; Doug Peterson, Bemidji; Tyler Wood and C.J. Neumiller, Lake of the Woods; Andrew Fryer, St. Francis; Jake Kiebke, Detroit Lakes; John Greeier, Grand Forks, N.D.; Tyler Kjemus and Aaron Kjemus, Thompson, N.D.; Kyle Nowacki, Warroad; Matt Nelson, Red Lake Falls; Jared Larson, Roseau; and Mark Nelson, Ada.

A number of players are listed at multiple positions at this point. Fifteen of them are pitching possibilities.

"We do have pitching depth, and it looks like we go at least two-deep at every position," noted Gust.

Outside of the spring trip and tournament starts, all Northland regular season baseball dates are 1 p.m. doubleheaders.

2008 NCTC Baseball Schedule

March 8-16 - spring trip to Cocoa, Fla.; March 20-22 - Miles City, Mont. Invitational; Saturday, March 29 - Central Lakes; April 4-5 - Riverland Invitational; Wednesday, April 9 - Itasca; Saturday/Sunday, April 12/13 - at Vermilion; Wednesday, April 16 - MSU-Bottineau; Saturday/Sunday, April 19/20 - Hibbing; Tuesday, April 22 - at MSU-Bottineau; Wednesday, April 23 - at Itasca; Saturday/Sunday, April 26/27 - at Mesabi Range; May 1-3 MCCC state tournament, St. Cloud; May 8-10 NJCAA Region 13 tournament, Willmar

Northland softball squad starts year at Disney Wide World of Sports Complex

Members of the 2008 Northland Community and Technical College softball team are working on their game at the Disney Wide World of Sports Complex in Kissimmee, Fla.

The Pioneers left Friday for the 220-acre facility, which is the spring training site of the Atlanta Braves.

In her eighth season as Northland head coach, Kathy Huschle has taken her team on a spring trip to Cocoa Beach, Fla. the past three years. The Pioneers have scheduled five practices before playing their first game Monday against John A. Logan (Ill.) Community College.

"We will be playing a total of eight games and squeezing in a few 'trouristy' things as well," said Huschle. "If it is not delayed, we will be going to view the shuttle launch of Endeavor on March 11 at 2:28 in the a.m. I'm thinking it might be easier to keep them (players) up, rather than try to get them up at that time."

There are two sophomores on the 2008 Northland softball team: outfielder Ashley Lund from Detroit Lakes and infielder Jerica Olson from Newfolden.

Freshmen on the roster include Nichole Kempenich, Baudette; Carissa Erickson and Alicia Sunsdahl, Roseau; Brittni Johnson, Shawna Rogalla and Sarah Michaels, Thief River Falls; Kalie Jordahal and Lillie Loken, East Grand Forks; Betsy Halvorson, Trail; and Keandria Cobbins, St. Paul.

Jim Sims

Jim Sims will join his third Hall of Fame

Jim Sims' 19-year stint as head football coach at the University of Minnesota-Crookston will be recognized with his induction into the Minnesota High School Football Coaches Association Hall of Fame.

The ceremony will take place Saturday, March 29, at the Double Tree Hotel in Minneapolis. Social hour is scheduled from 5 to 6 p.m. Dinner will be at 6 o'clock.

Six individuals will be honored that night for their dedication and contributions to high school football in Minnesota.

The 2008 inductees include Del Elston (Harmony), Ron Stolski (Brainerd), Mario Lucia (Bigfork/Grand Rapids) and Gary Trimble (Kimball) in the High School Division, along with Sims (UMC) in the College Division.

Sims coached high school football in Thief River Falls for 10 years from 1966 through 1975 before heading to UMC, where he compiled a record of 93-66-1 from 1976 through 1994.

Crookston was a two-year school during Sims' first 18 years. He was there when the campus became a four-year institution, ending a long athletic rivalry with Northland Community and Technical College.

Sims returned to Thief River Falls to serve as Director of Student Activities in 1995 and retired from that position following the 2006-07 school year.

In 1996, Sims was named to the Prowler Hall of Fame and in 2002 was selected for the UMC Hall of Fame.

Pioneers adding five members to Hall of Fame list

Five new inductees will be added to the Northland Community and Technical College Athletic Hall of Fame during a Saturday, April 19, banquet at the school-owned Swenson House.

The group includes Van Swanson, Tim Engelstad, Tim Olson and Deb Jacobson of Thief River Falls, along with Pete Sullivan of Bemidji.

It will be the fourth class of inductees, bringing the Hall of Fame membership list to 27.

NCTC at Disney Wide World of Sports

Johnson, Rogalla and Cobbins are pitchers.

Guy Finstrom returns as assistant coach.

Like the Northland baseball team that is also in Florida, the softball squad raises its own funds to play for the season-opening trip.

The Pioneers will also get a break from the weather when they return to Minnesota by working out in the Irish Dome, an indoor practice facility in Rosemount, March 27-28.

PCHS plans Woofstock 2008

The Pennington County Humane Society will host its annual Woofstock event on Saturday, March 15, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Eagles Club in Thief River Falls.

The 2008 edition of Woofstock, "Don't Worry .. be Yappy," includes a free-will burger lunch, silent auction, a bake sale, and other fun and games. All proceeds will go directly to the care of shelter pets.

Producers reminded about FSA deadline

The Pennington County Farm Service Agency Office reminds producers who are planning to use FSA's commodity loan program for their 2007 crops that March 31 is the deadline for filing applications for the following 2007 crops: wheat, barley, oats, canola, flax and honey.

March 31 is also the deadline for requesting a Loan Deficiency Payment. However, due to current market prices, none of these commodities are currently earning an LDP. May 31 is the deadline to file an application for loans or LDPs on 2007 crop corn, soybeans and sunflowers.

To be eligible for a loan or LDP, a producer must have complied with the annual program requirements for the farm that produced the crop and maintain beneficial interest in the commodity placed under loan or LDP. Loan eligibility requires that the commodity must be in storable condition; meet specific commodity eligibility requirements; not have been substituted, purchased, bartered or received as a gift; and not have been previously pledged for an LDP.

Commodity loan and LDP applications are required to be completed through the FSA County Office that maintains the farm program records. Producers considering using the commodity loan program should contact the staff at their local FSA Office to complete an application before the March 31 deadline.

Producers with questions concerning FSA commodity loans or LDPs should contact the Pennington County FSA Office at 681-1612 extension 2 or their local FSA County Office.

Rural Reflections

Grant Nelson

The comments published in this column are intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. They are written by independent columnists and do not represent the opinion of the staff or management of The Times/Northern Watch.

How about this weather?

Please give this week's column a chance; I know I can make it something better than the low expectations set by the title, I truly believe I can do better than the coffee-shop heroes who occasionally break from talk about things they can actually change to complain about this week's topic – the weather.

First off, I love the weather; I always have. When I was little, tornadoes scared me almost as much as the USSR's Iron Curtain and UFO's mutilating beef cattle. I think we often grow to adore that which scares us because we crave the power it has over our emotions. When I was a teenager, I would watch cloud formations closely, praying for the rain that would take me from the baler tractor and place me in the seat of my friend's car at the old "Galaxy" drive-in theatre. I think one of my favorite experiences with the weather was about 15 years ago on the Pembina Trail. It was July, and a huge storm was rolling up from central North Dakota and I watched the whole thing from the ridge 10 miles west of Thief River Falls. I had been listening to a baseball game on a Grand Forks radio station, so I listened to the announcer describe the storm while I watched it from the comfort of my old Cadillac Coupe 'de Elegance. The clouds formed little upside-down commas across the sky, but unlike their grammatical counterparts, they did not pause but rather raced almost straight north, it was terrifying, it was wonderful.

Weather is beyond our control but not beyond our understanding. Depending on your knowledge of the topic, it takes either foolishness or courage to predict the weather but for some it's their job. The National Weather Service makes a pretty good three-day forecast and has a mostly dead-on interpretation of the next 24 hours in weather. I listen for local forecasts, tune in our weather radio, then visit several internet sites on a regular basis to get a balanced picture of the weather. I think the best suggestion I could make in how to know the weather is that you need to listen to the complete forecast with your mouth shut; I am amazed at how people interpret a weather forecast based on partial information. I think they just listen until they hear the word "snow" and then immediately become elated or depressed and simply tune out. Folks get too hung up on watches and warnings and the boundaries used to define the watch or warning. Lisa and I live just a few miles from Polk and Red Lake counties, so if a warning includes Red Lake but not Pennington County, I am still concerned; storms don't recognize imaginary lines on a map. The National Weather Service offers weather spotter classes called "Skywarn" and they only take up one evening so that may be a good way to learn a little about the weather and to appreciate it.

I think I like the weather because it's a metaphor for a higher power, it's almost like a quick Polaroid picture of God doing morning calisthenics. I like the weather because it brings both hope and change without having to claim credit for either like some tired presidential candidate. The weather reminds me that I'm never more free than when I realize there are some things I cannot control and that I can only control my reaction to them; I can't control the rain, but I can decide whether or not to find an umbrella. If nothing else, the weather is always something to talk about, when you have nothing else to talk about and you're sitting in a café.

Kick'n Up Kountry Music Festival announces important deadlines

Ardell Larson, President of Kick'n Up Kountry, Inc. urges everyone to get their 2008 Early Bird Tickets before the April 1, 2008 price increase. To order tickets go directly to: www.kicknupkountry.com or call 218-754-2861, or toll free at 1-877-542-5687.

The 2008 Kick'n Up Kountry Music Festival will take place at the Pennington County Fairgrounds in Thief River Falls, Labor Day weekend Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 29 through 31.

This year's lineup includes country greats Ronnie Milsap, Neal McCoy, Gwen Sebastian, who grew up in neighboring North Dakota, Mustang Sally, Jeff Bates, Wayne Renn Bund, Bucky Covington, Joe Nichols, Jason Jones, regional acts, the Hilarious Mayberry Cops Comedy Act, and other entertainers yet to be announced.

Little Kicker Talent Contest Application Deadline

The first 2008 Little Kicker Talent Contest will take place at the Thief River Falls Eagles Club on May 4, 2008 at 2 p.m. This amateur contest is for three age groups: 1) Preschool to 8 years old, 2) ages 9 to 13, and 3) ages 14 to 18.

Trophies and prizes will be awarded and the contest winners will perform Labor Day weekend on the Kick'n Up Kountry stage in Thief River Falls at the Pennington County Fairgrounds on the afternoon of Friday, Aug. 29, 2008.

The application deadline is April 15, 2008. For further information on the Kick N' Up Kountry "Little Kicker Talent Contest" visit the KUK Web site at: www.kicknupkountry.com. Call Ardell Larson at (218) 754-2861 to have an application mailed.

Challenger to hold book drive March 17-20

Challenger Elementary School in Thief River Falls will hold a book drive prior to Turn Off the TV Week. The book drive will be held March 17-20. The purpose of this book drive is to collect as many books as possible so that the school can redistribute the books to CES students.

Reading is very important to learning because it relates to all of the subject areas. Some CES students do not have access to many books at home. CES teachers hope to give five books to each kindergarten through fifth grade student. In order to do this, they need about 4,500 books.

Members in the community may help out as well. If you have any children's books that you would like to donate, bring them to CES and put them in the Commons. CES would like all of the children to have the opportunity to read during the summer months. For more information, contact Jamie Bakken at (218) 681-2345, extension 732.

PCHS to hold annual meeting

The Pennington County Humane Society will hold its annual meeting on Tuesday, March 11 at the C'mon Inn in Thief River Falls, beginning at 6 p.m.

Sign-up resumes for Dairy Disaster Assistance Program

Eligible dairy producers who suffered production losses in 2005, 2006 or 2007 may apply to receive benefits under the Dairy Disaster Assistance Program III.

Producers can sign up at their local United States Department of Agriculture Farm Service Agency service center until May 5, when the sign-up period will end.

This dairy program will provide $16 million in benefits to dairy producers for dairy production losses that occurred between Jan. 1, 2005, and Dec. 31, 2007, because of natural disasters. To be eligible, a producer's operation must be in a county designated a major disaster or emergency area by the president, or declared a natural disaster area by the secretary of agriculture between Jan. 1, 2005, and Dec. 31, 2007. Producers in contiguous counties are also eligible. Producers in counties declared disaster areas by the president may be eligible even though the agricultural loss wasn't covered by the declaration if an FSA Administrator's Physical Loss Notice covered such losses.

The U.S. Troop Readiness, Veterans' Care, Katrina Recovery and Iraq Accountability Appropriations Act 2007, signed by President George W. Bush in May 2007, authorizes this program. The 2007 Act provides $16 million in DDAP-III benefits. On Dec. 26, 2007, Bush signed the Consolidated Appropriations Act 2008, which extends DDAP-III payments to eligible producers who suffered dairy production losses throughout the 2007 crop year before Dec. 31, 2007.

FSA began enrolling producers in DDAP-III in late 2007 and early 2008, then temporarily halted sign-up pending the completion of rule-making, which began with the issuance of a proposed rule for public comments on the program. Based on public comments, FSA made minor changes to the proposed DDAP-III rules. These changes are explained in the final DDAP-III regulations, which were published in the March 4 Federal Register.

Producers reminded of NAP deadline

The Pennington County FSA Office reminds producers that March 15 is the deadline to purchase Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP) coverage for most spring-seeded crops and perennial pasture.

NAP provides financial assistance to eligible producers affected by a natural disaster. The program covers crops for which Federal Crop Insurance is not available. NAP covers losses greater than 50 percent of the expected production, based upon the producer's approved yield and reported acreage. Eligible production losses are paid at 55 percent of the established value for the crop.

To apply for 2008 crop coverage, producers must complete a CCC-471 application for coverage and pay the service fee. The application and service fee must be paid by the applicable sales closing date. The service fee is $100 per crop per county, or $300 per producer per county not to exceed $900 per producer in all counties. The service fee covers all acreage for the applicable crop grown in the county.

Producers with questions concerning NAP should contact the Pennington County FSA Office at 681-1612, extension 2 or their local FSA Office.

Peterson completes U.S. Navy training

Navy Seaman Recruit Jeffrey I. Peterson, son of Mark W. Peterson of Lancaster, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week program, Peterson completed a variety of training which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, firefighting, water safety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis was also placed on physical fitness.

The capstone event of boot camp is "Battle Stations." This exercise gives recruits the skills and confidence they need to succeed in the fleet. "Battle Stations" is designed to galvanize the basic warrior attributes of sacrifice, dedication, teamwork and endurance in each recruit through the practical application of basic Navy skills and the core values of Honor, Courage and Commitment. Its distinctly "Navy" flavor was designed to take into account what it means to be a Sailor.

Peterson is a 2007 graduate of Lancaster Public High School of Lancaster.

Sustad reports for duty with First Marine Aircraft Wing

Marine Corps Pfc. Michael R. Sustad, son of Keith A. Sustad of Stephen, recently reported for duty with Marine Wing Headquarters Squadron One, First Marine Aircraft Wing, Okinawa, Japan. Sustad is a 2003 graduate of Stephen-Argyle Central High School of Stephen.

Area students graduate from BSU

Nicholas Brustad of Plummer and Sarah Dziengel of Strandquist graduated from Bemidji State University at the conclusion of the 2007 Fall Semester. Brustad graduated with a bachelor of science degree in business administration. Dziengel graduated with a bachelor of science degree, with honors, in elementary teacher education.

This 15-foot alligator was carved by chain saw from a Scotch Pine log by Elroy Aune. It has been displayed in the gymnasium at Greenbush-Middle River High School since its completion. (Submitted photo)

Carving creatures big and small

Aune says that patience is a big part of being successful with chain saw carving. Carvers should be prepared to put in several hours on each project, which includes planning for the next cut and maintaining a chain saw's blades. Dull blades can force a carver to apply too much pressure, which can cause uneven cutting.

Aune spent 15 hours on his native American carving, which remains one of his largest. As a rule of thumb, the more detailed a carver wants to be, the more hours he or she will need to spend.

"It's not an exact thing, but you want to get close enough so that people can recognize what it's supposed to be," Aune said. "Sometimes when you start a carving, you don't know what it's going to be until you are done. Sometimes you start out carving a dog and it ends up a fish."

Wood needs to be oiled after carvings are completed to help prevent splitting. Aune also prefers leaving the wood rough from the chain saw blades, rather than smoothing it out afterwards. He hopes to resume carving once the weather warms up.

"My sisters all want me to make them something," Aune said. "I suppose I should get around to it."

LifeCare Greenbush Manor to host Easter basket silent auction

LifeCare Greenbush Manor will host a "Relay for Life Team" Easter basket silent auction fundraiser Monday, March 10 through Tuesday18. Baskets will be on display in the nursing home lobby. A visible bidding form will be available for each basket. Participants may bid as often as they wish on as many baskets as they wish.

Relay for Life raises money for research and programs of the American Cancer Society. This year's event will be held on Aug. 8 in the Roseau City Park.

This chain saw carving of an American Indian stands more than six feet in height and is displayed on the front porch of Getzke resident Elroy Aune's home. Aune estimates that it took 15 hours to complete the carving.

Zach Lee, Ian Herzberg and Ryan Herzberg (from left), Pack 57 Scouts representing all Scouts in Thief River Falls, will be among the area Scouts delivering Scouting for Food paper food shelf tags to area homes in the near future. The boys will be picking up bags or boxes of food on March 15 beginning at 10 a.m.

Nicole Hagen joins staff at NCTC Satellite Site in Roseau

Ron Dvergsten, dean of management education at Northland Community and Technical College, announced that the college has hired Nicole Hagen as the new part-time academic advisor for the Roseau Satellite Site located on the second floor of the Roseau City Center.

The NCTC Satellite Site currently provides the residents of northwest Minnesota with several educational options, including ITV classes, online distance education classes, and on-site classes taught by qualified instructors.

"I am excited to have Nicole join the Northland College staff as the academic advisor for our Roseau Satellite Site," said Dvergsten. "Nicole's past work experience at other colleges will be a great resource to NCTC and the Roseau area."

Prior to moving to Roseau, Hagen was employed as the executive assistant to the president and Board of Trustees at Aquinas College in Grand Rapids, Michigan. She has also worked for the College of Saint Benedict and Saint John's University as the assistant director of communications, electronic and print media.

Nicole and her husband, Todd, a native of Roseau, made the choice to move their family to Roseau in 2004. "The wonderful school system made it an easy decision to move back to the area," said Hagen. Since moving back to Minnesota in 2004, Hagen has been working out of her home-based office as a liaison between granite fabricators and distributors and representatives of a stainless steel sink and faucet company that is owned and operated by several members of her family.

"I am thrilled to be back working in a college setting," said Hagen. "I look forward to working with individuals to help them achieve their educational goals. The community is very fortunate to have such a beautiful site located right here in Roseau," said Hagen.

Hagen will be working with area businesses to discuss their employee educational and training needs. She also serves as a proctor for those taking online distance education courses.

Loren Senderson, engineering assistant at Red Lake Watershed District in Thief River Falls, has been employed at the Watershed District for over 20 years. Senderson said staff at the Watershed District office are very pleased with their new office space on Pennington Avenue in Thief River Falls.

Myron Jesma, administrator of the Red Lake Watershed District, said they are pleased with their new office on Pennington Avenue in Thief River Falls. Construction of the facility was completed in late June. On Thursday, Feb. 28, the Watershed District conducted an open house at the new facility.

Hallock's hope for water tower help may be dashed for 2008

Hallock - "The Hallock water tower has been a subject the Hallock City Council has discussed for many years. Lately discussion has turned to immediately replacing it.

"Financial assistance for repairing or replacing the tower has been sought over the last year. Midwest Assistance and the U.S. Department of Agriculture both turned the city down. At February's meeting, the council visited with District 1A Rep. Dave Olin about whether he could help secure funds from the bonding bill. He said, at that time, that there's about $900 million available in the bonding bill, but over $4.5 billion is anticipated in requests. A letter from the city describing the impending project, accompanied City Council member Dan Money to the State Capital the following week. Money ended up testifying before the House for the need for financial help, in the form of Hallock's inclusion in the bonding bill.

"At press time, e-mails from Olin indicated that neither the Hallock water tower or the Hallock ice arena made it into the 2008 bonding bill. He did indicate that, in the meantime, other avenues will be pursued for funding, as well as being ready for the next bonding bill in 2010." - Kittson County Enterprise, March 12, 2008, Louise Money

Wild turkeys released at several sites around Polk County

Erskine - "Wild turkeys were released at several sites around Polk County last week. As part of an ongoing effort to reintroduce eastern wild turkeys to northern Minnesota, the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, along with the National Wild Turkey Federation, released 14 hens and two toms northwest of Erskine on March 7. All of the turkeys are wild and were live-trapped adult birds from southeastern Minnesota." - The Erskine Echo, March 13, 2008

FHS student takes to the skies

Fosston - "For most secondary students, the intensity of preparing for the future begins to kick into high gear when they reach the 11th grade. Studying for the SATs and examining college campuses occupy the time of those who intend to pursue academics after graduation.

"Generally, it has been no different for Fosston High School junior Matt Enerson. However, his plans to earn a degree in aeronautics and to become a professional pilot have steered him to a distinct course. Enerson began preparations for his future career last April, when he placed himself under the tutelage of pilot Mike Sundquist.

"The 17-year-old said he started looking at earning his pilot's license when he was in the eighth grade. Members of the Fosston flying club were instrumental in opening the door for Enerson. He credits Bob Saeter with connecting him with Sundquist.

"When asked about funding the endeavor, Enerson said he paid only for the fuel that was consumed and that the club provided a certain number of free hours. He was able to foot most of the bill himself with some help from his father." - The 13 Towns of Fosston, March 11, 2008, by Dan Kindall

LHS choirs prepare to shake the rafters one more time

A whole lotta shakin' goin' on is exactly what is happening in the Lincoln High School choir room lately. Darcy Reese and the 165 voices within the Choir Department have been working hard to prepare for the upcoming two shows in May, and the Concert Choir and Jazz Tour to New York City in June. Part of the preparation for these performances was to have 11 selections ready for a two-day rehearsal schedule with Robert Robinson and members of the Twin Cities Community Gospel Choir.

If you attended the May 2007 Shakin' The Rafters show, you will surely remember Robinson and the performance that the choirs put on with him. Due to the fact that rehearsing and performing with artists of Robinson's caliber is rare and highly educational, the choir has been fortunate enough to bring him and all his musicians back for another performance opportunity with the LHS choirs. Robinson toured with Lori Line for 20-same years before branching off on his own for his solo career. He is very active around the United States and is always working on a gospel project in the Twin Cities. He has numerous CDs on the market and will be selling his newly released CD at the May concert.

The students rehearsed with Robinson, Sam the gospel piano player, and three backup singers from 8:20 to 11:20 a.m. Monday, then came back for another three-hour rehearsal that evening from 6:30 to 9:30. The crew then returned on Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 11:20 a.m. to rehearse one more time and make sure that the singers were sure of all the changes. Gospel techniques, as well as historical information about the spirituals and the gospel pieces, was tied in throughout the rehearsals. The choir room was set up with 13 sets of risers, and there was no room to spare. Robinson was pleased, with the choir, and no notes had to be plunked out for anyone.

Before they left on Tuesday, Robinson told Reese that he was excited to come back with even more of his gospel choir members in May to sing with the LHS choirs. He said that he was not only impressed by how much music the choir had learned but was amazed by the work ethic, commitment and the fantastic manners that all of the singers displayed at all of the rehearsals. Reese stated that when the Pavarotti of Gospel Music makes comments like that, it makes all the work and extra rehearsals worth it. To hear what Robinson can do, log onto www.robertrobinsonmusic.com, then picture him live on the stage with the LHS choirs for their repeat performance.

Ginger Commodore, a jazz vocalist from Minneapolis, will be back rehearsing and performing with the choir and with Swingsations. She will work with the choirs April 7 to 8. Commodore is a professional Jazz artist from the Twin Cities. She worked with the choirs and Jazz last year, and was very impressed with all the singers and jumped on board as soon as Reese invited her

Members of the Lincoln High School choirs rehearsed Monday and Tuesday with Robert Robinson and members of the Twin Cities Community Gospel Choir. The choirs, along with various artists, will perform as part of Shakin' The Rafters II on May 18 and 19 at 7 p.m. in the LHS auditorium. Tickets go on sale April 1 at Kezar Music in Thief River Falls. Tickets are $10 each.

Ag program takes area man to South Africa

Warren man enjoys learning about different culture

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

The trip seemed to be a perfect fit for Cam Fanfulik.

"It was a fabulous learning experience. South Africa was always someplace I wanted to go to even as a kid," said the Warren resident.

Fanfulik is a loan fund manager and economic development planner with the Northwest Regional Development Commission in Warren. He was in South Africa from Feb. 15 to 26 as part of the Minnesota Agriculture and Rural Leadership Program international study tour. Rural leaders from throughout the state were selected for the MARL Program. The two-year program includes nine in-state seminars; a one-week national study tour in Washington, D.C.; and an international study tour.

"Being a part of the MARL Program has just been exceptional and a great learning experience for me," said Fanfulik, who noted participants were able to develop relationships with the South Africans.

While in South Africa, Fanfulik learned about that country's agricultural practices. "They're trying to grow crops – wheat, corn and soybeans – like we do, and they're trying to do it on ground that is really some rocky stuff," said Fanfulik, who also witnessed citrus operations in that country.

The group also visited a farm with more than 20,000 acres. Fanfulik said the farmer had 200 full-time employees and more than 100 tractors. The farmer harvested potatoes the way farmers harvested potatoes here 40 years ago. He drives out to the field, where the potatoes are lifted out of the windrows. Then more than 500 part-time employees sort and clean the potatoes. Fanfulik said South Africa's agricultural system is based on cheap labor.

Fanfulik also witnessed the reparations that are occurring to make up for apartheid, which ended 14 years ago in South Africa. About 100 years ago, land was taken away from blacks, and now that land is being given back to blacks. The only problem, Fanfulik said, was that the blacks have been so subjugated that they don't have a good education and they don't know how to farm. The land that has been returned to them now sits idle.

Yet, one thing surprised him more than anything else. Fanfulik was flabbergasted by the divide he saw among rich people and poor people in South Africa. He said one could see a slum in Johannesburg, where there was sewage in the streets, rampant disease, unemployment at 40 percent or more, and no running water. Across the street was a gated compound with electrified barbed wire to protect relatively upscale homes.

Even though Fanfulik was surprised by the conditions he saw in South Africa, he enjoyed learning about the South African culture, religions and agriculture. He encourages young farmers and young rural professionals to look into the MARL Program. For more information about the program, go to www.marlprogram.org.

Warren resident Cam Fanfulik (right) visited with Gerrit Roos, a corn, soybean, cattle and sheep farmer near Belfast, South Africa. They talked in Roos' soybean field during one of the stops on the Minnesota Agriculture and Rural Leadership Program international study tour to South Africa, which was held Feb. 15 to 26. Grants for conservation projects are announced

The Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation, an international conservation organization with a focus on habitat protection and enhancement, has announced its 2008 project grants for Minnesota.

For 2008, four grants totaling $21,586 will help fund the following Minnesota conservation projects in Beltrami, Kittson and Marshall counties:

- Kittson County – Establish two new forage openings, re-seed two existing openings and enlarge an existing legume plot affecting 90 acres at Skull Lake, Beaches Lake and Caribou wildlife management areas to enhance elk habitat and alleviate depredation issues; treat brush and aspen encroachment on 380 acres at Caribou, Beaches Lake and East Park wildlife management areas.
- Marshall County – Plant 79 acres of forage openings at Grygla and Wapiti wildlife management areas to enhance elk habitat and alleviate depredation issues (also affects Beltrami County); shear and mow 250 acres of brush at Grygla, Wapiti and Moose River wildlife management areas to return area to early stages of vegetative succession, provide a mosaic of habitat types, and prepare for prescribed fire treatment in the future (also affects Beltrami County).

"This is all about ensuring the future of elk, other wildlife and their habitat in Minnesota," said David Allen, foundation president and chief executive officer. "Grants are based on revenues from Elk Foundation fundraising banquets in Minnesota, as well as worthy project proposals."

Since 1984, the foundation and its partners have completed more than 70 conservation projects in Minnesota with a value of nearly $1.4 million. Partners for the 2008 projects in Minnesota include the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources and the Minnesota Deer Hunters Association North Red River Chapter.

Tri-River Pioneers in Plummer plan July 4 event

by Barb Novak

The Tri River Pioneers held a meeting March 3 and decided that they would have a Fourth of July celebration in Plummer again this year. This is basically a fundraiser, but it will entail a lot of free entertainment and a parade much like they had last year.

Vendors are welcome this year, and they should contact Roger Skjerven of the Tri River Pioneers for guidelines and costs. The local businesses will also be open as usual. John Berberich will be the cook again this year for the cookout.

There will be entertainment again this year, and Heart of Worship will be a leading act. Heart of Worship is a contemporary sacred music group based in Red Lake Falls. There will be Old Time music, and others are invited to play and entertain for the day.

The annual Tri River Pioneers meeting was set for April 7. The yearly dues are due in March.

A discussion was held about how to get some grant money to expand the display area of the museum. There were suggestions of how to word the grant application or the museum.

Jean Matt has been working on a brochure for the museum and has decided on a tri-fold single sheet of paper with photos, and an explanation of the purpose and goals of the museum.

The Rx for hospital food

Food service at TRF hospital receives major improvement

The patient and cafeteria menu at MeritCare Thief River Falls Northwest Medical Center will be changing.

As of March 18, the hospital's patient and cafeteria menu will change to reflect Fargo MeritCare's retail menu.

Jennifer Jorgenson, PNS manager, said "integration with MeritCare Northwest Medical Center food services and Fargo is going great, and they couldn't be prouder."

Jorgenson said the MeritCare menu change will benefit patients, Thief River Care Center residents, families and visitors, MeritCare associates, Northern Lights Group Home, and recipients of Meals on Wheels.

Jorgenson explained that it will offer patients and residents a wide variety of food that is mostly made from scratch, not processed or packaged. MeritCare believes in providing nutritious and flavorful food. The changed menu also offers a new selection of foods to try. Examples of lunch and supper include: tangy honey barbeque ribs, chicken dumpling casserole, manicotti with marinara, breaded pork medallion, sautéed tilapia with citrus butter, etc.

A new option will be a hot breakfast from 7 to 9 a.m. Jorgenson said they have had a lot of positive comments from staff about this new feature. Examples of hot breakfast include breakfast croissant with ham, cheesy hash brown bake, and vanilla bean French toast. "We are hoping that people will utilize the service and that the effort and food won't be wasted," said Jorgenson

Applicants sought for Johnston scholarship fund

A scholarship fund established to honor the life of Dorrance H. Johnston is now accepting applications from engineering students for awards.

The scholarship fund honors Johnston's life, his passion for engineering, and the desire to help other engineering students attain their goals. Scholarships are available to high school graduates or those who have earned equivalence diplomas from Warroad High School, and are pursuing their final year toward earning at least a bachelor's degree through a college or university in an engineering program.

Applicants may contact Gary Olson, Warroad High School guidance counselor, at 386-1820 or Peggy Crandall, Northwest Minnesota Foundation grant services associate, at peggyc@nwmf.org to receive an application. The deadline for submission is April 15.

In December 2006, the Dorrance H. Johnston Scholarship for Engineering Fund joined the family of 23 Warroad component funds administered by the Northwest Minnesota Foundation. It is an endowed fund that will continue to benefit students for years to come.

Johnston, a 1926 WHS graduate, attended the University of Minnesota and earned a bachelor's degree in engineering in 1931. He graduated in the midst of the Depression and was unable to obtain work in his field.

Johnston returned to Warroad and worked as a commercial fisherman and mink rancher. He used the knowledge he attained in engineering throughout his personal and professional life.

The fund was recently recognized by the Northwest Minnesota Foundation as the 17th Circle of Vision award recipient. The purpose of the Circle of Vision is to honor individuals, groups or organizations that have made gifts, planned gifts, or will bequests of $100,000 or more in direct support of the foundation or any of its component funds.

The mission of the Warroad Area Community Fund is to promote charitable giving for the public good, for building an endowment for the area's future, and responding to changing needs in the community.

Karlstad Area Choir to present "Lift High the Cross"

The Karlstad Area Choir will present a Lenten/Easter cantata, "Lift High the Cross," on Palm Sunday, March 16, at 7 p.m. at the Karlstad Baptist Church. The choir is composed of singers from throughout the area under the direction of Dan Hellerud, accompanied by Kirstin Olson, and sponsored by the Karlstad Area Ministerial Association. This year's cantata features a children's choir in the opening song. An offering will be taken for the Ministerial Association, and lunch will be served. Everyone is welcome. Sons of Norway Granlund Lodge to meet March 20

The Sons of Norway Granlund Lodge No. 240 will hold its next meeting on Thursday, March 20 at the Embassy Community Center in Fosston. The meeting will convene at 6:30 p.m., and it will include a short business meeting with an attendance gift being awarded.

This is an international evening, with a number of foreign students telling of their countries. There will be a potluck supper at 6:30 p.m., allowing for time to meet the students and their host families. This is always regarded as one of the best Sons of Norway meetings of the year. Visitors are always welcome.

Stephens graduates from basic training

During the eight-week program, Stephens completed a variety of training, which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, firefighting, water safety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis was also placed on physical fitness.

The capstone event of boot camp is "Battle Stations." This exercise gives recruits the skills and confidence they need to succeed in the fleet. "Battle Stations" is designed to galvanize the basic warrior attributes of sacrifice, dedication, teamwork and endurance in each recruit through the practical application of basic Navy skills and the core values of Honor, Courage and Commitment. Its distinctly "Navy" flavor was designed to take into account what it means to be a sailor.

Stephens is a 2005 graduate of Greenbush-Middle River High School.

Women on the Frontier to be discussed

Dr. Cynthia Prescott of the University of North Dakota History Department, will be the guest speaker at the Pennington County Chapter of the American Association of University Women meeting Monday, March 17, at 7 p.m. in the Dakota Room at the Ralph Engelstad Arena. Because this is National Women's History Month, Prescott will be discussing such pertinent topics as mothers and daughters on the frontier, and families on the overland trail. Guests are welcome to attend this event.

I love to make cookies, but bars are richer, quicker and easier. Today I'm giving you some bars from my own cookbook - some of my favorites. Better be ready for rich because I don't think any of these are low fat.

This is my mother's recipe. She would make them for Christmas. Cut them small, because they are sooo rich, but sooo good:

NUTTY BARS

Crust

1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 cup brown sugar
3/4 cup butter

Topping

6 ounces butterscotch chips (buy a good brand with a nice, buttery flavor)
1/2 cup white corn syrup
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon water
1 (13 ounce) can mixed nuts

Mix crust ingredients like pie crust. Press into greased 9x13 inch pan.

To make topping, melt together the chips, syrup, butter and water. Pour over crust and then sprinkle with the mixed nuts. Bake for 15 minutes at 350 degrees until mixture bubbles around the nuts to the center of pan. Cool to set before cutting.

Here are some more bars with a crust. These are rich, too, but oh so good. They are so good that they really don't need the frosting, but it makes them very pretty:

CHERRY BARS

Crust

2 cups flour
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup butter
Filling:
2 eggs
1 egg yolk (reserve white)
1 1/2 cups brown sugar
1/4 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup chopped maraschino cherries, drained (save any juice)
1 cup nuts
2 cups chopped walnuts

Frosting

1 slightly beaten egg white
2 tablespoons maraschino cherry juice
2 cups powdered sugar

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Mix crust ingredients like pie crust, cutting in the butter. Press into 9x13 inch greased pan. Bake 10-12 minutes until lightly browned. Cool slightly.

To make topping, beat eggs and egg yolk with brown sugar until fluffy. Sift 1/4 cup flour with baking powder and salt and blend into egg mixture. Stir in cherries and nuts and spread on baked crust. Bake 20-25 minutes longer. Cool in pan.

To frost, combine all frosting ingredients and beat smooth and fluffy. Spread on cooled bars.

These are very rich bars too, and everybody will love them. Again, cut small:

CHOCOLATE FILLED BARS

Crust & Topping

1 cup brown sugar
3/4 cup butter
1 1/2 cups oatmeal
Pinch of salt
1 1/2 teaspoons soda
1 1/2 cups flour

Filling

1 can condensed milk
2 tablespoons water
12 ounces chocolate chips

To make crust, combine crust ingredients and place half in 9x13 inch pan.

Combine ingredients for filling and pour over crust in pan. Top with remaining half of crust mixture. Bake about 20 minutes at 350 degrees.

I know you've had this recipe before, but remember that there are a lot of new cooks out there who have never made these. Won't they be pleasantly surprised when they try them? These and the Chocolate-Filled Bars above are not the same, so try both of them. The first time I had these bars was at my card club, and you know we all presented our very best at card club - and cut big pieces too. I thought I'd died and gone to heaven - and this is that very same recipe I got from Carole Glass back then, except I adapted it for a 9x13 pan instead of 7x11. I needed a bigger recipe of something this good:

TURTLE BARS

Crust and Topping

1 1/2 cups oatmeal
1 1/2 cups flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon soda
3/4 cup butter
Sprinkle:
3/4 cup walnuts
3/4 cup mini chocolate chips (or regular)

Filling

35 Kraft caramels
5 tablespoons cream

Make crust and topping by mixing dry ingredients in bowl and then cutting in butter. Press a good half of the crust mixture into 9x13 inch pan, reserving remainder for topping. Bake crust at 350 degrees for about 10 minutes, until puffy and golden. Meanwhile, make filling by melting caramels with cream in double boiler or in micro (watch in micro - it can burn in there too). Set filling aside when melted.

Sprinkle baked crust with walnuts and chocolate chips, then top with caramel mixture. Glop the topping mixture over the caramel layer and return to oven for 15 minutes.

Let cool before cutting, if you can.

Spellers advance to the Multi-Regional State Spelling Bee

The Region 1 & 2 Spelling Bee was held Feb. 29 at Northland Community & Technical College in Thief River Falls. Advancing from local and district competitions, 40 students in grades 5 to 8 from 34 schools in northwestern Minnesota participated in the Regional Spelling Bee. All spellers participated in a written round in the morning with the top 26 spellers continuing in the afternoon with an oral round. The Regional Spelling Bee was hosted by Northwest Service Cooperative.

The top four spellers of the Regional Spelling Bee advanced to the Multi-Regional State Spelling Bee on March 11 in St. Cloud, with the winner of this bee advancing to the 81st Annual National Spelling Bee in Washington, D.C., on May 28-29. Region 1 & 2 winning spellers who went on to compete at the Multi-Regional–State Spelling Bee included Isaac Thorson, grade 7, Bemidji School District; Max Baldwin, grade 7, Lancaster School District; Peter Rokke, grade 8, Marshall County Central School District; and Alex Munsterman, grade 8, Warroad School District.

Additional students competing at the Regional Spelling Bee included the following local students: Vanessa Burkel, Badger; Janica Stewart, Greenbush/Middle River; Chloe Miller, Goodridge; Justin Kiesow, Grygla; Mickala Morinville, Red Lake County Central; Alexandra Norby, Roseau; Brita Kihle, Roseau; Bethany Potucek, Stephen/Argyle Central; Shashank Holalkere, Thief River Falls School District; Andrew Sparby, Thief River Falls School District; Kayla Wollin, Tri-County School District; Allyson Hebert, Warren/Alvarado/Oslo School District; and Cody Lee, Win-E-Mac School District.

Avis Dyrud from NCTC served as the reader for the Regional Spelling Bee. Lloyd Hietala, Badger; Diane Johnson, Thief River Falls, and Judy Kaml, Thief River Falls, assisted as judges.

The Spelling Bee is a series of competitions for students in grades 5 to 8 beginning at the classroom level and progressing on to district, region, state and national levels. Benefits for students include improved spelling, increased vocabulary, learning concepts, developing correct English usage, developing poise in public performance, and community recognition for participation.

Swanson joins Roseau Area Community Fund

At its February monthly meeting, the Advisory Committee of the Roseau Area Community Fund welcomed new member Nancy Swanson and thanked out-going member Chuck Thompson for his service to RACF.

The RACF is building permanent charitable funds for the community and provides support to all those who strive to improve the quality of place there. All gifts stay in the Roseau area.

The earnings from this endowment fund will be dispersed each year to various Roseau-area nonprofit groups and public entities, both city and rural. The principal will not be depleted, so funds will be available year after year. The fund is guided by an advisory committee of local people, who are aware of the local needs.

To learn more, go to www.nwmffunds.org/Roseau, or contact Phil Sallberg, Mary Dieter, Rusty Billberg, Don Miller, Liz Kvien, Swanson or Caryl Turnow.

Rust appointed Ethics Committee chairperson

The Minnesota Supreme Court recently appointed Crookston attorney Daniel Rust as chairperson of the Fourteenth District Bar Association's Ethics Committee. The Fourteenth District includes Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Polk, Pennington, Red Lake, Norman and Mahnomen counties. Rust replaces Thief River Falls attorney Delray Sparby, whose term as chairperson has expired.

District ethics committees are established in each of the 21 district bar associations to investigate complaints of unethical conduct against Minnesota lawyers for the state Lawyers Professional Responsibility Board.

District Ethics Committee members are attorneys and members of the public who volunteer to serve on the committee. Complaints about a Minnesota lawyer's professional conduct must be filed directly with the Office of the Director of Lawyers Professional Responsibility, 1500 Landmark Towers, 345 St. Peter St., St. Paul, MN 55102-1218. These complaints are then referred to the appropriate district ethics committee for an investigation and recommendation.

Johnston herd tops DHIA list for February

Todd and Kathy Johnston were the top dairy herd producers for the month of February, according to the supervisor of the Red Lake-Pennington County Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

Supervisor Randy Rasmussen put the following herds in the Top 10 of the association for the month of February:

1. Todd and Kathy Johnston, Angus – 60 cows, 88 percent in milk, 73 pounds of milk, 2.9 pounds of fat, 2.3 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 103 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
2. Northwest Research and Outreach Center, Crookston – 113 cows, 89 percent in milk, 72 pounds of milk, 2.4 pounds of fat, 2.2 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 109 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
3. Northstar Dairy LLC 3X, Lancaster – 896 cows, 90 percent in milk, 67 pounds of milk, 2.6 pounds of fat, 2.2 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 104 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
4. Walter Brothers Farm, Plummer – 298 cows, 90 percent in milk, 67 pounds of milk, 2.5 pounds of fat, 2.1 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 108 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
5. Beyer Brothers Farm, Red Lake Falls – 69 cows, 88 percent in milk, 65 pounds of milk, 2.3 pounds of fat, 2 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 100 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
6. Wayra Dairy, Trail – 221 cows, 90 percent in milk, 64 pounds of milk, 2.4 pounds of fat, 2 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 110 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
7. Robert and Terri Dahlen, Twin Valley – 55 cows, 85 percent in milk, 64 pounds of milk, 2.2 pounds of fat, 1.9 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 106 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
8. Tom and Diane Kolstoe, Oklee – 37 cows, 95 percent in milk, 64 pounds of milk, 2.4 pounds of fat, 1.9 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 104 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
9. Spring Prairie Colony, Hawley – 357 cows, 88 percent in milk, 62 pounds of milk, 2.4 pounds of fat, 1.9 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 103 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.
10. Paul Duray, Greenbush – 45 cows, 91 percent in milk, 62 pounds of milk, 2.4 pounds of fat, 2 pounds of protein, in supervised testing with 108 percent of DHIA test-day milk sold.

The herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd. The amount of milk or butterfat is averaged out over all the cows. This gives the farmer a record of the earning power of the herd for the month. If too many dry cows are included in the herd, then the average for the month may be low even though the cow that is milking produces a lot of milk.

More prisons won't solve our problems

I'm not one to call for a reduction in prison sentences just because one in every 100 adults is now confined in an American jail or prison. Instead, the focus should be on the reasons why more and more people are breaking laws.

According to figures gathered and analyzed by the Pew Public Safety Performance Project, the number of people behind bars in the United States continued to climb in 2007, which the report states, saddles "cash-strapped states with soaring costs they can ill afford and failing to have a clear impact either on recidivism or overall crime." That report stated that for the first time in our history, more than one in every 100 adults is now confined in a prison or jail.

How expensive is the problem? Last year, states spent more than $49 billion on corrections, up from $11 billion 20 years before.

The report states that while violent criminals and other serious offenders account for some of the growth, many inmates are low-level offenders or people who have violated the terms of their probation or parole. "The report points out the necessity of locking up violent and repeat offenders, but notes that prison growth and higher incarceration rates do not reflect a parallel increase in crime, or a corresponding surge in the nation's population at large. Instead, more people are behind bars principally because of a wave of policy choices that are sending more lawbreakers to prison and, through popular 'three-strikes' measures and other sentencing laws, imposing longer prison staya on inmates."

The increase in prisoners is forcing some states to look for alternatives. The report continues, "As a result of the high costs, some states are experimenting with a range of community punishments that are as effective as incarceration in protecting public safety and allow states to put the brakes on prison growth - Some states are holding lower-risk offenders in less-costly settings, such as day reporting centers, treatment facilities, electronic monitoring systems and community service. Another common intervention, used in Kansas and Nevada, is making small reductions in prison terms for inmates who complete substance abuse treatment and other programs designed to cut their risk of recidivism."

From my viewpoint on the sidelines, which clearly means I'm not an expert on social justice or criminal justice, I don't think we can neglect the societal need for punishment as a goal. Our goals also should include protecting the public, and doing what we can to cut the risk of recidivism in the most efficient manner possible. Above all else, however, I think we should be asking why more and more people are breaking laws and what we can do to change that.

The conclusion we draw from these facts is disheartening. It seems to say that Americans are accepting of the consequences of their actions, but are failing to learn from them or see the harm they cause. It seems to beg the question, are we becoming a nation of people who don't see the wrong in violating the law so long as we somehow benefit and aren't caught?

POLICIES

Letters To The Editor: The staff of the Northern Watch encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in Northern Watch exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The staff believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will not withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by newspaper staff for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, the staff encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention by calling 681-4450. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

Performers in "Willy Wonka Junior" at Franklin Middle School perform the "Candy Man" scene in a recent rehearsal. The evening performance of the show will be at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, March 18. The afternoon performances will be at 1:15 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, March 17 and 18. All performances will be in the school's multipurpose room.

FMS presents Willy Wonka Jr.

Kayla Redd is the student director of the Franklin Middle School production of Willy Wonka Junior. Performances will be at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, March 18, and at 1:15 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday, March 17 and 18. All performances will be in the Franklin Middle School multipurpose room.

Franklin Middle School choir students will be presenting "Willy Wonka Junior" on Tuesday, March 18.

The play, based on "Charlie and the Chocolate Factory" by Roald Dahl, is about five children who buy candy bars and find a golden ticket inside that awards them with a special treat - a day at the factory and a lifetime supply of chocolate.

The play will be presented at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, March 18, and it will be performed at 1:15 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday, March 17 and 18. Admission is $2 for adults, and $1 for children kindergarten through grade 8. Preschool children and senior citizens will be admitted free of charge. All performances will be in the multipurpose room at Franklin Middle School.

Spectators are invited to bring 50 cents to buy a candy bar and a chance to find a "golden wrapper" for a prize at the end of the show.

Choral director Ruth Stenson said the performance is largely student-led. Students worked out the choreography, blocking, costumes, make-up and props. Stenson added that Kayla Redd, student director, did an outstanding job.

Students in the cast include: Taylor Storm as Willy Wonka, Morgan Stokke as Charlie Bucket, J.C. Hansen as the Candy Man, Linzie Pittman as Mrs. Bucket, Jeff Caperton as Mr. Bucket, Whitney Balmer as Grandma Josephine, Craig Williams as Grandpa Joe, Kirstyn Scholin as Grandma Georgina, Jake Kalinoski as Grandpa George, Roberta Erickson as Phineous Troat, David Erickson as Augustus Gloop, Alyson Flick as Mrs. Gloop, Rebecca Houske as Veruca Salt, Nathan Hruby as Mr. Salt, Kaylee Koop as Violet Beauregarde, Haley Olson as Mrs. Beauregarde, Logan Hjelseth as Mike Teavee, Ana Lovejoy as Ms. Teavee, Emily Jones as Matilda, Brittany Alby as Jamie, Brianna Safranski as Oompa Loompa 1, Stacy Kasinger as Oompa Loompa 2, Paige Thune as Oompa Loompa 3, Jade Trudeau as Oompa Loompa 4, Harley Alby as Oompa Loompa 5, Reese Vedbraaten as Sophie and Wonka Kids and Cooks; and Maiah Benter-Collette as Dani and Wonka Kids/Cooks; Joy Feragen as Alphie, CharLee Mathieu as Billie; Tori Felzien as Katie; and Cody Bannert, [illegible], Kali Renwick, Sara Gilster and Brittany Johnson as Oompa Loompa/candy kids.

The prop managers are Brianna Safranski and CharLee Mathieu. Costumes and make-up were provided by Allissa Wagner and Kylie Kraft. The student director was Kayla Redd.
